HOOVER PRAISES WORK OF LIBERAL ARTS COLLEGES

'SEED BEDS OF LEADERSHIP'

Asserts It Is Through Them Each State Must Maintain Ample Cultural Opportunities for Youth.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Himself the graduate of what once was one of the small schools, President Hoover tonight praised their efforts in helping to educate the nation.

He spoke over the radio in an education week program devoted to small liberal arts colleges, which he described as the "seed beds" of the nation's leadership.

From the White House, the man who once was "Bert" Hoover, Leland Stanford '95, said of the 600 smaller colleges:

"It is through them that each state and section must maintain ample cultural opportunities for the youth within reasonable distance from their homes and in circumstances fitted to the needs of each community and its people."

Hoover's alma mater, which had but a few hundred enrolled when he was graduated, now has about 4000 students.

On the Same Program.

On the same program with the President were Dr. C. R. Mann, director of the American Council on Education; Robert L. Kelly, executive secretary of the Association of American Colleges Council of Church Boards of Education; Dr. A. N. Ward, president of Western Maryland College and chairman of the Liberal Arts College Movement, and John H. Finley of the New York Times. Dr. Mann and Mr. Hoover spoke from Washington, the rest from New York.

The President spoke as follows:

"I am glad to express appreciation of the service of the Liberal Arts College, that is the small college. I do this the more freely because of the more than 600 such institutions in our land. Most of them have little, if any, endowment or state support. In these times of trends toward larger units, the difficulties of the unsupported small colleges multiply, which make their successful operations less hopeful, and, in many cases, a desperate struggle.

"The important place which these institutions hold in our system of education renders their support of the utmost importance. Whatever be the magnificent services of the larger and highly specialized universities, the Liberal Arts College places an emphasis upon personal contacts of teacher and student which render them a vital part of our educational system.

"A primary purpose of education is a product of high character and noble ideals, which regard moral and spiritual qualities superior to mere material things, without which any purely economic system would collapse.

"Throughout our history these colleges have been and are now the seed beds of leadership. They have contributed a large part to the presence in our land of nearly 2,000,000 college-trained men and women. Theirs is a great honor roll of men and women in our nation. The finest traditions of our country are rooted in their associations and their inspiration.

Little of Dramatic Element.

"The disadvantage of the small college is obvious. The dramatic element in education does not play a great part in its activities. It must remain content with the character of service it renders to the individual man and woman and to the public weal. In the last analysis the chief service to higher education in our country must rest not alone with the few highly endowed universities, but, in large degree, with the more than 600 smaller colleges for whose future welfare I am now speaking.

"It is through them that each state and section must maintain ample cultural opportunities for the youth within reasonable distance from their homes and in circumstances fitted to the needs of each community and its people.

"That service for the youth is a guarantee of equality of cultural opportunity and a bulwark for the spiritual life of the generation in which our children will have to live, a service which I sincerely commend."

SAYS OFFICIAL BANKED MILLION IN TWO YEARS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Evidence that Timothy J. Crowe, president of the Sanitary District Board in 1927 and 1928, and two former sanitary district employes, one of them a relative of Crowe, deposited more than $2,500,000 in their bank accounts is in the possession of First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, it was learned today. This information was obtained from the prosecutor's office as a result of the filing on Friday of the bill of particulars outlining for the first time the scope of the evidence which the prosecution expects to prove against the indicted sanitary district trustees, former trustees and officers.

Northup declined to discuss the bank account information in his possession, but from other sources it was learned that the bank accounts will be a chief part of the evidence. It is charged that $6,490,000 was squandered and grafted from the taxpayers.

Crowe handled $1,000,000 through four different bank accounts which he carried. Most of this money was deposited in large cash amounts.

Donald Joyce, son-in-law of Crowe and former superintendent of motor equipment, made more than $500,000 deposits in one bank account in two years. He is not under indictment, but is expected to be called as a State witness. He is now a deputy bailiff of the Municipal Court.

Martin Edelstein, who was in charge of the real estate department of the district during the Crowe regime, deposited more than $1,000,000 in his bank account. He is one of the nine defendants in the case.

Northup said that Crowe carried four separate bank accounts, in addition to one for his wife. He refused to give out the details of the accounts, saying he would produce his proof in court when the trial is started Dec. 1.

POLICEMAN KILLS ROBBER

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 14.—A policeman hidden in the rear of a chain grocery store tonight shot and killed a man, who, he said, attempted to hold up the manager. The man slain was about 30 years old.

He was killed by Detective Sergeant John Golden who had been assigned to the store because of several recent robberies in stores of the same chain. A charge from Golden's shotgun entered the man's head.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Nov. 15 (Sunday)—A Mukden dispatch to the newspaper Nichi Nichi today said a 10-day truce had been arranged between Japanese authorities and the Chinese Gen. Mah Chan-shan pending the completion of repairs to the Nonni River bridge in Manchuria.

The repairs to the bridge had had been practically completed, the dispatch said.

The truce followed negotiations between the two Japanese representatives at Tsitsihar, Consul Shimizu and Maj. Hayashi, and the Manchurian General. It was agreed upon after the Japanese had presented five conditions, which Gen. Shigeru Honjo, Japanese commander in Manchuria, said the Chinese would have to fulfill before Japanese troops would be withdrawn from the Nonni River area.

Lieut.-Col. James G. McIlroy, United States military attache here, has been authorized to accompany the military attaches of Great Britain, France and Russia on an observation tour of Manchuria. He will leave with the other members of the party Nov. 19. They have been invited by the Japanese Government to remain in Manchuria as long as they think necessary. All the officers who will make the inspection are now attending the Japanese war games. Their Manchurian trip, it was stated, had no connection with rumors that a plan to compose the conflict by means of a committee of neutral observers was under consideration by the League of Nations.

Optimism was expressed here that Japan's spokesmen will be able to convince the Council of the League, which meets in Paris Monday, that the Japanese activity in Manchuria is justified. The Japanese advocates will inform the League that the Tokio Government exhausted every peaceful means of settling the dispute with China before taking military action to protect lives and property.

U. S. Officials Hopeful Paris Conference Will Find Way Out.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—American officials tonight based their hope for an answer to the Manchurian problem in Monday's League of Nations council meeting at Paris. The American Government has no formula to submit to the council. It thinks, however, that discussion of the situation will clear the way to consideration of the basic problems.

Japan's conciliatory attitude was expressed to the State Department today by Ambassador Debuchi. He said the Japanese had taken no offensive measures at the Nonni bridgehead and would not press for Tsitsihar. He gave warning, however, that they would make every effort to repulse any Chinese attempts to drive them from that position.

The Japanese attitude is that outbreaks of further fighting depend on the moves of Chinese Gen. Mah Chan-shan. Japanese contingents in the vicinity totaled 2000, the Ambassador said, against more than 20,000 Chinese.

The Ambassador said he was sure there were no Russian troops in Northern Manchuria. He declined to discuss reports that Russia was gathering supplies along the Siberian-Manchurian border.

An optimistic prediction that the Tientsin situation would be cleared up soon was received at the State Department from American Consul General Frank P. Lockhart.

Russia Reminds Japan of Pledge to Guard Soviet Interests.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Nov. 14.—The Soviet Government notified the Japanese Government tonight of reports that the Japanese military command was preparing to cut the Chinese Eastern Railway near Tsitsihar and reminded Japan of its assurances that the interests of Soviet Russia would be protected in the Manchurian conflict with China.

Thus Russia took the initiative for the first time in setting forth its position regarding developments in Manchuria.

The report of the oral declaration made by Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff to Japanese Ambassador Koki Hirota, made public for the first time the fact that such assurances had been given the Soviet Foreign Minister by the Japanese Ambassador.

"The Soviet Government considers that these assurances remain in force now and shall not be broken," the Foreign Minister added.

Russia also protested against

PROHIBITION AGENTS PUT ON MOVIE SHOW IN FEDERAL COURT

Eight-Reeler Has Defendant in Star Part, but He Didn't Know About It.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 14.—Prohibition agents put on a movie show in Federal Court today. The eight-reel film thrown on a screen in the darkened courtroom starred Joe Pasano. It was a surprise to Pasano, who is on trial on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.

Federal agents testifed the pictures were taken secretly in preparing evidence against Pasano and others alleged to have been involved in the operations of a wholesale liquor ring here.

Pasano was shown in association with some of the defendants now in prison. Activities around a house, the alleged headquarters of the ring, were filmed from a wooded tract 350 feet away. Shots also were taken of a liquor seizure on a farm allegedly used by the ring.

TED HUSING, BROADCASTER HARVARD BARRED, APOLOGIZES

Meant Merely to Be Vivid, He Explains in Referring to Football Play as "Putrid."

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 14.—Ted Husing, Columbia Broadcasting Co. sports announcer, who yesterday was barred by Harvard athletic authorities from attending any more games at Cambridge in his official capacity because he termed the play of Capt. Barry Wood "putrid" in last Saturday's game with Dartmouth, today issued this statement:

"Last Saturday I did say that Barry Wood's play was putrid. I have since explained that I used this adjective in a comparative sense because I had seen Wood do so much better. I was striving to be interesting and vivid.

"I had no idea I was going to offend certain people. I certainly had no intention to do so. It has since developed that my word did offend some people.

"I cannot recall the word from the air. I can only say as an individual that since it has caused offense, I regret I used it. I am sorry, regardless of the justice or injustice of Harvard's action.

"As a sports announcer, I can only say that, if I and my fellow announcers are to serve the public, we must not be unduly constrained by deference to either side in the sports we cover."

Was Wife of Late Speaker of House of Delegates, Who "Put the Lights on the Water Tower."

Mrs. Caroline Lehmann, widow of Julius Lehmann, North St. Louis politician, died yesterday of the infirmities of age at her home, 3900 Vest avenue. She was 83. She is survived by two sons, Charles and Julius, and two daughters, Mrs. Julia Hertweck and Mrs. Josephine Scully.

The funeral will be held at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday from Suedmeyer's chapel, 3934 North Twentieth street, to Holy Name Catholic Church, with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

The late Julius Lehmann was a member and for a time speaker of the House of Delegates, and was long noted as the man who "put the lights on the water tower."

AGREEMENT TO CURTAIL WORLD OUTPUT OF COPPER REPORTED

Newspaper Says Producers in Conference See No Other Way to Stabilize Industry.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The American says world copper producers, in conference here, have agreed to curtail world output as the only means of bringing about stabilization of the industry.

It says announcement of the agreement will be made next week, although final details have not yet been worked out.

The paper says opposition of the Katanga interests of Belgium to plans of other copper interests have been overcome, although it was hinted the final agreement may show some concession to the Belgian interests.

PIONEER FLYER DIES IN CRASH

Body and Plane Wreckage Found at Richmond, Va.

By the Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 14.—Wayne R. Smith, 34 years old, war veteran and Richmond aviation pioneer, crashed to his death today in a plane he had built.

Smith, a bridge engineer for the State Department of Highways, was known in Richmond as the man who 15 years ago built the city's first airplane. Since that time he had been associated with local aviation companies as an instructor. His plane today was found wrecked on the old abandoned Charles Flying Field. No one could be found who had witnessed the accident.

SHIP SEIZED FOR LANDING CARGO OF RESCUED LIQUOR

14 SAILORS TAKEN OFF DISABLED BOAT

Contraband Removed in Storm Alleged to Have Been Unloaded at Arlyn's Pier in New York.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. — A rescue at sea led to the seizure today of the American freighter Arlyn on a charge that the officers and crew violated Federal laws by landing 4000 cases of liquor and 14 sailors in New York, after taking them off a water-logged British liquor boat.

The $1,000,000 freighter, the Arlyn, was on its way from New York to Florida last February when it picked up a distress signal off Cape Hatteras. The Arlyn went to the rescue and found a disabled liquor runner flying a British flag.

Federal officers charge the ship took aboard the crew, stood by until the weather abated, and then transferred the liquor boat's $500,000 cargo to the Arlyn.

Because the Arlyn was in the coastal service, it was not required to stop at quarantine when it reached New York, but went directly to its pier near Thirty-sixth street. There, authorities charge, it put the British sailors ashore in violation of the immigration and customs laws, and unloading the liquor in violation of the prohibition laws.

Treasury Department Informed.

The first information of what had happened came to the Treasury Department when disgruntled members of the Arlyn crew, after being discharged, wrote a letter to Washington stating each member of the Arlyn crew had received $20 for helping put the liquor runners and their cargo ashore.

When the Arlyn came into quarantine last Monday customs guards went aboard and an investigation was begun. The master and crew were questioned for days by special agents of the Treasury Department. Then seizure of the freighter was ordered by Collector of the Port Philip Elting.

The crew was allowed to bring the Arlyn to dock, so its cargo of sugar from Cuba could be unloaded, and then all 35 of them were detained by Federal authorities. When the sugar has been unloaded the ship will be searched to ascertain whether any liquor has been brought in on this trip.

Ship Built 12 Years Ago.

The Arlyn, a 300-foot ship of 3304 gross tons, was built at Gloucester City, N. J., in 1919 at a cost of $1,000,000. It has accommodations for a few passengers, but generally restricts its service to carrying freight.

While authorities were engaged in the Arlyn case coast guard patrol boats made their third large seizure of the week. The scallop trawler Lucretia was off Jones Inlet, Long Island, with a cargo of 400 cases of champagne, brandy and whisky valued at $25,000.

Three men on board the trawler were arrested after coast guardsmen fired a one pounder across the bow and the vessel had come to a quick stop.

HUNDREDS OF AFRICANS DEAD IN FIGHT OVER THEFT OF PIG

Bodies in Heaps Under Burned Huts After Tribal Clash in Portuguese Guinea.

By the Associated Press.

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 14.—The theft of a pig started a conflict between two tribes at Bissa, Portuguese Guinea, in which hundreds of natives have been killed, dispatches received here say. Bodies of victims were found in heaps under burned native huts.

Rhode Island Turkey for Hoover

By the Associated Press.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 14.—The White House Thanksgiving table is to be supplied with a Rhode Island turkey. Robert E. Steere of Chepachet has selected the presidential gobbler from his flock and from the White House has come word that it will be accepted. The gobbler will weigh about 20 pounds dressed, Steere stated. For many years preceding his death, Horace Vose of Westerly yearly furnished the White House's Thanksgiving turkey.

E. B. M'LEAN HAS NEW WIFE, SEEKS BINDING DIVORCE

Washington Post Publisher Ready to Go Around World to Obtain Decree, He Says in Paris.

AMERICAN BRIDE WITH HIM THERE

—(Copyright, 1931.)

PARIS, Nov. 14.—Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, society figure and sportsman, whose first wife, Evalyn Walsh McLean, obtained an injunction to restrain him from pushing proceedings in a Mexican court to obtain a divorce, said tonight in an interview that he would travel around the world if necessary, to get a divorce that will be binding. His reason, he says, is that he already has married again.

His bride, whom he stated he married in Mexico, is the former Rose Douras Van Cleve, of Long Island, New York. He referred to her as Mrs. McLean, and she is staying with him at the Hotel Crillon under that name.

Because the first Mrs. McLean got an injunction in the District of Columbia Supreme Court, the publisher went to Riga to try again, Latvian divorce laws being the most lenient in Europe. But the latest snag is the fact that his first wife has been keeping abreast of his moves and apparently intends to get injunctions just as rapidly as he applies for divorce. She already has applied for an injunction against his Latvian divorce, when and if granted.

"If my first wife is able to have the Latvian divorce prevented through the American courts, I don't know at the moment what other remedy is left me," McLean said, somewhat bitterly, "but I will go anywhere I can to get legal freedom."

Since he returned to Paris McLean has been ill of influenza.

"I want you to quote me when I say that I will go to any limit to get freedom," he said. "I have married Rose Douras Van Cleve and will do anything to have that marriage legally recognized in the American courts."

'BUNNY' AUSTIN WEDS MOTION PICTURE ACTRESS IN LONDON

Romance of England's Tennis Champion Began When Phyllis Konstam Beat Him in Game.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—H. W. (Bunny) Austin, England's No. 1 tennis player, and Miss Phyllis Konstam, a movie actress, were married today at Hampstead Parish church in the presence of half the tennis stars in the country.

Betty Nuthall was there with C. H. Kingsley, F. J. Perry and G. P. Hughes, members of the Davis Cup team with Austin. John Olliff, England's covered courts champion, was best man.

Outside the church there was a big crowd, eager for a glimpse of one of the most popular figures in the British sports world.

The bride wore a satin gown with a veil of old lace.

This romance began in midocean when Miss Konstam defeated the Davis Cup player in a game of deck tennis aboard the Berengaria two years ago.

CROWN PRINCE DIRECTS RESCUE WHEN SCHOOLHOUSE FALLS

Four Killed, 13 Hurt in Accident at Naples; 100 Taken Out Uninjured.

By the Associated Press.

NAPLES, Nov. 14. — Italy's Crown Prince took personal charge today of police called out to rescue 100 school children trapped by the collapse of a building. Four persons were killed, two of them children, and 13 were injured.

PASSERBY SEES HOLDUP, ROBBER SEIZED DOWNTOWN

Candy Store at 305 North Seventh Street Raided Second Time in 11 Months.

A passer-by who last night saw Mrs. Adele Stephens, manager of Mrs. Stover's Bungalow, a candy store at 305 North Seventh street, standing with her hands in the air while a man was taking money from the cash register, summoned a policeman who caught the robber and recovered $57.75 which he had taken.

The officer, Probationary Patrolman Rowland Pollman, was at Seventh and Locust streets, half a block away, when informed of the holdup. He ran to the candy store arriving in time to meet the holdup man coming out. The robber was carrying an unloaded pistol.

The prisoner described himself as Morton Davidson, 19 years old, of Buffalo, N. Y., and said he escaped last Monday from the Illinois State Hospital for the Insane, where he was serving one to 20 years for a holdup in Chicago.

Davidson said at Police Headquarters he had been convicted in New York of burglary, but paroled after eight months, and later was sentenced to three years in prison in Ohio, but was paroled.

Policeman Notified.

Officer Pollman was notified of the robbery by Theodore Grimm, 4550 Laclede avenue who passed the store about 9:30 o'clock.

The robbery was the second at the candy store. Last Christmas morning two men and a young woman took $718 in a holdup. The woman, Lila M. Davis, who said she participated unwillingly, and one of the men, Randall Smith, were caught and sentenced to five and 15 years in the penitentiary respectively. The other man, whom the Davis woman named, still is being sought.

Louis Lite, proprietor of a grocery at 3062 Sheridan avenue, reported to police he fired nine shots at two Negroes who fled from his store after taking $35 in a holdup. None of the bullets took effect, he said.

Grocery Held Up.

Abe Shaftal, proprietor of a grocery at 835 North Eighth street, a customer and four clerks, two of them young women, were held up last night by four robbers who fled with $409.

Three of the robbers, armed with revolvers, entered the store and made those in it stand against a wall while they looted the cash register. A fourth man remained in an automobile which waited at the curb.

L. S. Schwartz, grocer, at 1400 Missouri avenue, three clerks and two customers were held up by two armed robbers. They fled with $70 taken from the cash register.

William West, proprietor of a grocery at 2292 Chouteau avenue, was robbed of $260 and 20 payroll checks when he alighted from his automobile in front of his home, 1216 Armstrong avenue, at 9:35 p. m. Two men stepped up behind West and while one held a weapon to his neck, the other took the money.

NOTE FOUND ON RICHARDS NAMED 3 HELD IN KIDNAPING

Investigators Said to Have Spent Five Hours in Deciphering Memorandum Taken From Lawyer Agent in Berg Abduction.

CIRCUIT ATTORNEY TELLS OF INQUIRY

Declines to Give Further Details Pending Presentation of Case to Grand Jury—Attorney Freed on $40,000 Bond.

When Paul A. Richards, attorney and self-declared agent of the kidnapers of Alexander Berg, was arrested last Wednesday morning two hours after Berg had returned to his home in the Park Plaza Hotel, he had in his pocket a ready-made clew that started the police toward a quick solution of the crime.

The clew was disfigured or almost illegible memoranda involving three men now named with Richards in warrants charging kidnaping for ransom, punishable by a maximum sentence of death by hanging.

In a statement yesterday afternoon following the release of Richards on $40,000 bond, Circuit Attorney Miller disclosed the origin of the investigation resulting in the arrest of the three men, but added that no further disclosure of evidence in the case would be made for the time being.

Nevertheless, it is understood that Miller's assistant, Joseph A. Lennon, and policemen assigned to the case, worked on the memoranda for more than five hours before they had deciphered enough to make the arrests.

Text of Statement.

The Circuit Attorney's statement follows:

"On Monday, Nov. 9, the Police Department and Circuit Attorney's office came into possession of certain information involving Paul Richards in the holding of Alex Berg for ransom prior to Mr. Berg's release on Nov. 10.

"Within two hours after Mr. Berg's release a general order was broadcast from the Police Department for the arrest of Paul Richards, and Richards was arrested within two hours after the release of Mr. Berg.

"At the time of Mr. Richards' arrest he had in his possession certain memoranda. These memoranda were studied carefully immediately after his arrest.

"On the morning of Nov. 11, Assistant Circuit Attorney Joseph A. Lennon, working in conjunction with the Chief of Police, Col. Joseph A. Gerk, Chief of Detectives Kaiser and other members of the Secret Service Bureau of the Police Department assigned to the investigation of the Berg kidnaping, were able to decipher the memoranda found on Mr. Richards at the time of his arrest, and ordered the arrest of George Peak, Curtis Medlock, Charles Tucker and several others.

Issuance of Charges.

"After these arrests the Police Department and the Circuit Attorney's office continued their investigation resulting in the obtaining of further evidence, which evidence was passed from the Police Department to the Circuit Attorney's office and upon which evidence the Circuit Attorney's office on Friday, Nov. 13, issued informations against Paul Richards, George Peak, Curtis Medlock and Charles Tucker for the offense of kidnaping for ransom.

"This evidence will be presented to the grand jury, beginning Nov. 17, 1931, and until such time as all the available evidence is presented to the grand jury for the purpose of securing indictments, the nature and character of this evidence, due to the fact that it is to be presented to the grand jury, will not be disclosed.

"The Police Department and the Circuit Attorney's office are continuing this investigation so that all persons having any part in the case may be apprehended and prosecuted if the evidence warrants."

Yesterday afternoon Berg went to police headquarters, accompanied by his wife and Chief of Detectives Kaiser, to view the prison-

GRANDI TO AVOID NEW YORK, GOING DIRECT TO CAPITAL

THE CONTE GRANDE SLOWED BY STORMS

Italian Foreign Minister Bringing 5-Point Program With Full Authority From Mussolini.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Without putting a foot on New York soil, Foreign Minister Dino Grandi will go direct from his ship to Washington Monday to begin his conversations with President Hoover. He will be taken from the liner on which he is now nearing New York at Quarantine and will entrain for the capital from New Jersey.

Maj. William F. Deegan, chairman of the Mayor's Reception Committee, announced he had received a telephone message from the State Department that a change in plans was necessary because of the expected lateness of the Foreign Minister's arrival.

The Conte Grande, which is bringing Grandi, his wife and six Italian experts to this country, originally was scheduled to dock at 9 a. m. Monday. First, a typical New York welcome was considered, with bands, a parade and showers of ticker tape.

Plans for the reception were altered when it was stated Grandi wished to begin his discussions of world problems with the President as soon as possible. Arrangements were made to transfer the Foreign Minister speedily from a New York pier to his train. Demonstrations were announced by anti-Fascisti leaders, but detectives were assigned to the entourage of the distinguished visitor and Mayor Walker said: "I don't want anyone to think for a brief moment that any disturbance will be tolerated."

Still later the ship was delayed by storms and at noon today docking time was posted as 2 p. m. Monday. That brought the announcement of the cancellation of even the modest welcome that had been arranged. This afternoon the Lloyd Sabaudo Line said the liner was picking up speed and would be in by 1 p. m. Monday at the latest, and even earlier if good weather continued.

The first formal message of welcome to Grandi was dispatched by radio today by Secretary of State Stimson. He told the Italian Minister "the nation is prepared to welcome you as its honored guest." Grandi will spend several days in New York after visiting Washington and will be received by Mayor Walker then.

Grandi is coming with a five-point program for discussion, and with the full backing of Premier Mussolini. World economic co-operation, disarmament by a fair method, maintenance of the gold standard, peace treaty reservation and war debts and reparations will be the chief subjects of the international conference.

Anti-Fascits at Capital Plan to Meet Monday.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Anti-Fascist leaders here today called a meeting for Monday to protest against the American Government's reception to Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy.

Representatives of committees formed in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, in opposition to the Italian statesman's visit, will attend. The meeting was called by Warren C. Montross, Washington representative of the International Committee for Anti-Fascist Protest.

The committee today established headquarters in a local hotel for the duration of Signor Grandi's the duration of Grandi's visit to Washington.

The committee has adopted the name of "The International Committee for Anti-Fascist Protest." A list of its leaders made public by Warren C. Montross, Washington representative, includes Dr. Charles Fama, Carlo Tresca, Mary Tucker, Norman Thomas, Giralmo Valenti and A. J. Muste, all of New York, and Elizabeth Gilman of Baltimore and Charles Edward Russell of Washington.

Grandi will be met at quarantine by Ambassador de Martino of Italy, State Department and Embassy officials and Commissioner Deegan of New York City. The party will be welcomed in Jersey City by Undersecretary Castle of the State Department. On his arrival in Washington late Monday Grandi will be welcomed at Union Station by Secretary and Mrs. Stimson, Lawrence Richey, one of President Hoover's secretaries, the Chief Executive's military and naval aids and high ranking civilian and service officials. Customary military honors, including a guard of honor, will be accorded at Union Station.

From there the Minister and his wife will go to Secretary Stimson's home, Woodley, where they will stay Monday and Tuesday nights.

The Minister's stay in Washington, which will last until late Thursday night, when he will leave for New York, includes the customary formal calls upon President Hoover, Vice President Curtis, Chief Justice Hughes and Secretary Stimson. The Minister will confer with President Hoover between dinners in his honor at the White House and by the Secretary and Ambassador de Martino, luncheons as the guest of Secretary Mellon and Undersecretary Castle and receptions in the afternoons. Unlike the program of any other distinguished visitor, two conferences with newspaper men were formally scheduled for the stay in Washington, in addition to a reception by the overseas writers.

The Minister's visit to New York Friday will be brief. The official reception will be concluded by 1:15 p. m. Then he will go to Philadelphia to remain until Saturday morning when he will go to Baltimore where he will be the guest of the American Ambassador to Italy and Mrs. J. W. Garrett. On Monday, Nov. 23, the party will return to New York to spend five days before sailing on the Augustus for Italy.

New State Highway Patrolmen Salute Their Colors

WORLD PEACE FOUNDATION EXPLAINS NAVAL FIGURES

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Nov. 14.—The World Peace Foundation, which was criticised on Nov. 1 by Charles F. Adams, Secretary of the Navy, for disseminating allegedly inaccurate information concerning the respective naval expenditures of the United States and Great Britain, today explained its interpretation of the figures involved and said it was seeking additional information. The statement was issued under the signature of Raymond T. Rich, director.

The foundation said it had relied for the comparison contained in its statement of Sept. 20 on particulars furnished by the two Governments to the Secretary-General of the League of Nations for use in the work of the forthcoming general disarmament conference.

The aggregate expenditure for the navy of each country was determined by an addition of the total expenditure for naval forces, plus a statement of the amount outstanding at the end of the fiscal year of block credits voted in respect of expenditures for more than one year, plus the amount outstanding in respect of purchases on credit or deferred payment, the league said.

The result "showed the United States had expended and assigned for use in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931, $310,527,000 more than the British Navy enjoyed in the fiscal year ending March 15, 1930."

Missouri's New Highway Patrol Graduated From Training School

Nine Get First Assignment to Football Game at Columbia—Corps to Take to Roads Nov. 23.

Imbued with a corps spirit, crammed with knowledge from an intensive training course and attired in bright uniforms, Missouri's new State highway patrol was graduated here yesterday and assigned to its first active service.

Nine of the troopers were assigned to a task at once. They hurried from police headquarters to Columbia, Mo., in the afternoon, to direct traffic at the Missouri-Oklahoma football game. Trooper Booth, who used to be a Columbia traffic policeman, had charge of the detail. The other 40 patrolmen, the acting assistant superintendent and the five captains went to their homes for a week's furlough.

The patrol will assemble at Jefferson City about Nov. 23 and go out on the highways at once. Meanwhile, Supt. Lewis Ellis of Bethany, who formerly was Gov. Caulfield's secretary, is preparing the assignment of his force among six divisions to be set up in the State. His office will be in the State Capitol. A United States marine during the World War, he is the only member of the force not uniformed.

Twenty-seven of the 55 men under Ellis went to college and all but three of them are high-school graduates. For the last six weeks the troopers have been going to school again, at St. Louis police headquarters, learning everything from the motor vehicle laws and finger printing to rudimentary accounting and first aid to the injured. They were quartered at the Downtown Y. M. C. A. at State expense.

To Be Increased to 115.

The law creating the patrol was enacted by the Legislature last spring, as a result of endeavors of the Automobile Club of Missouri, and became effective nine weeks ago. When larger appropriations are provided the number of troopers will be increased to 115 and the captains to 10, and there will be an assistant superintendent. The Governor appoints the superintendent, but administrative supervision is vested in the State Highway Commission, which generally has been free from political influences.

For the troopers, 15 motorcycles and 30 black Ford roadsters have been provided, and each of the officers has a car. The patrolmen in general will use automobiles on gravel roads and motorcycles on pavement. Exact pay has not been fixed, but the maximum is $150 a month for troopers and $200 for captains. They will have to provide their own housing, will not be assigned to sections where they have lived and must be available for duty at all hours.

Charged with the primary duty of enforcing motor vehicle and kindred laws on the 7940 miles of State highways, the patrol has been schooled in courtesy and the exercise of good judgment. Its policy will be to warn minor offenders and make arrests only when necessary. Fast driving will not be cause for arrests, unless it also is reckless, Ellis has said. Missouri has no definite speed limit. When arrests are made for traffic offenses, Ellis told the Post-Dispatch yesterday, effort will be made to provide immediate trial but the troopers will issue ticket summonses to court, to avoid inconveniences, where the character of the offender and the offense justify.

Uniforms in Sky Blue.

The uniforms of the patrol are bound to attract much attention. Visored caps of light blue, shirts of dark blue, black ties, blouses of sky blue, dark blue riding breeches, striped in a lighter shade, and high black laced boots make up the troopers' uniforms. They are armed with .38-caliber revolvers, carried in holsters outside the blouses on black leather Sam Browne belts. The officers wear similar uniforms, except that their shirts are white, their boots are tan and on their shoulders are the military insignia of their rank in gold braid. Later, short overcoats of a design to be picked will be furnished.

Military discipline will be used in the patrol and the bearing of the men yesterday showed how it had been instilled in six short weeks. The force went through a precise drill before guests in the police gymnasium, to start the graduation program. This was followed by a military inspection by Gov. Caulfield, Supt. Ellis, Chief of Police Gerk of St. Louis, C. D. Matthews of Sikeston, chairman of the State Highway Commission, and Roy F. Britton, president of the Automobile Club of Missouri.

Gold-fringed silk flags of the United States and Missouri were presented to the patrol by Britton, on behalf of the club. Britton congratulated the force on its personnel and predicted that it would become a model for the country. Ellis, crediting the club for its part in establishing and training the patrol, said the patrol typified the spirit of the club.

Capt. Singleton Presides.

Capt. Seth Singleton, head of the St. Louis police school, who directed the training, presided. The patrol expressed its appreciation of his help when Trooper Cushman presented him with a billfold. Mrs. Frank V. Hammar, chairman of the St. Louis Chapter of the American Red Cross, presented the men with cards showing they had completed the Red Cross first-aid course.

Chief Gerk counseled the patrol to cultivate initiative, obedience to orders and the ability to smile at all times.

Gov. Caulfield, expressing pride in the patrol as an accomplishment of his administration, said to the troopers and officers: "Your organization is a logical and necessary development of our great highway system. Without you it has became a menace, with men, women and children being killed. Every farmer in Missouri, before you are on the road six months will wonder how we got along without you. Behind you is the great State of Missouri. As long as you are proceeding along the line of duty, back of you are the National Guard and all the people of the State. I selected a man that was nearest to me and in whom I had the greatest confidence for your superintendent. You are only the beginning of a great law enforcement body."

Lewis M. Means of Fayette, a Major of the 138th Infantry, National Guard, is executive officer of the patrol, with the courtesy title and insignia of Major and the temporary rank of Captain. The other Captains are: Schuyler S. French of Webster Groves, a former movie manager here and an army reserve officer; William J. Baxter of Kansas City, a First Lieutenant of the 110th Engineers, National Guard; Lewis E. Eslick of Springfield, a Captain of the 203d Anti-Aircraft Regiment, National Guard; Albert D. Sheppard of Doniphan, a Captain of the 140th Infantry, National Guard, and Thomas L. Leigh of Kingston, an army reserve Captain.

SMOOT INDORSES HOME LOAN PLAN HOOVER OFFERS

Steagall, Democrat, Alabama, Says Discount Proposal Has Possibilities of Service.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—President Hoover's proposal for a system of home loan discount banks was indorsed today by Smoot (Rep.), Utah, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. "I heartily approve the recommendation," he said.

Representative Steagall (Dem.), Alabama, thought Mr. Hoover's proposal would be considered sympathetically by the House Banking Committee in the coming Congress. The Alabaman probably will become chairman of that committee in the event the Democrats organize the House. "Any sound plan that enlarges credit facilities at this time and that will absorb non-liquid assets is desired," Steagall said. "The President's suggestion has possibilities of constructive service."

Steagall said he would sponsor a proposal to increase the capital stock of the Federal land banks by $60,000,000 as suggested by President Hoover in his recent conference with congressional leaders. He opposed amendments to the Federal reserve act to use the system's facilities for non-liquid discounts, declaring it was designed primarily to aid commercial banking.

Representative Michener (Rep.), Michigan, a member of the last House Judiciary Committee, advocated legislation for a revision of the Federal bankruptcy laws. The purpose of the changes, he said, would be to permit administration of estates of bankrupts for the benefit of creditors. Under the present laws, he said, only a small part of the assets of bankrupts went to creditors.

12 Home Loan Discount Banks.

The status of the individual borrower will remain much the same under the Hoover plan. It will mean simply that loan associations, recently restricted in credit capacity, will have abundant funds at their disposal.

The additional credit that would be set up under the plan would reach at least $1,800,000,000 on the basis of Hoover's estimates. The plan which provides for the formation of 12 home loan discount banks in the 12 Federal Reserve districts is aimed to relieve frozen credit and promote employment.

Its outstanding expected consequence is that the building association will be able to liquidate assets now frozen.

While arguments are heard here as to the pressing necessity for additional homes at this time, the fact that building and loan associations are restricted in their ability to lend goes unchallenged. Officials of these associations in Washington declare the system, as a whole, has loaned to capacity.

Aid to Small Banks.

With exhaustion of their own cash resources, they are compelled, like individuals, to go to the banks for additional funds. But their paper, the only collateral they have to offer, is not eligible for rediscounting at the Federal Reserve central banks. President Hoover has made it clear he does not propose a dumping ground for unsound paper. The suggested system would be decentralized, in the Federal Reserve districts, under a central governing board to be set up in Washington. As a result, applications for loans will be acted upon by persons familiar with local conditions.

Some see an incalculable aid to banks, particularly small depositories, in the plan. The country, they say, is experiencing an unusual increased demand for credit, not from sources calling for funds for new enterprises and for the expansion of business, but from timid people who are demanding repayment of their money. The plan is seen as an aid to these banks, providing collateral which could be converted into cash through the medium of the new discount banks.

It Will Thaw Out Frozen Realty Credits, Chicago Expert Thinks.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14. — Herbert U. Nelson, executive director of the United States Building & Loan League, today said President Hoover's home building credit plan "will stabilize the real estate market and thaw out frozen real estate credits. For a generation, we have needed some mechanism by which home building credit could flow from one section of the country to the other, where needed—this is it. The proposed home loan banks will give home financing institutions the same facilities commercial banks now enjoy under the Federal Reserve system and thus prevent failures. It will aid in developing longer term credit for home buyers, which has long been needed."

W. C. Potter, New York, Calls Plan Helpful in Emergency.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—William C. Potter, president of the Guaranty Trust Co., issued a brief statement today on Mr. Hoover's proposed home loan banks. He said: "The plan will undoubtedly be helpful in the present emergency, and will constitute a very valuable instrumentality in the future, providing it continues to be operated in a careful manner and that the ratio of capital is carefully watched with respect to liabilities."

FIRE STATION BURNS DOWN

Laddies Fight Way In but Only Succeed in Getting Hose.

By the Associated Press.

GREYBULL, Wyo., Nov. 14.—The fire station burned today while the fire laddies outside fought to get in.

Fire broke out in the garage where the city fire trucks were housed. Blocked by the flames the best the firemen could do was to break in and get some of the hose, which they used to play upon the entrance until they could get the trucks out. The loss was estimated at between $50,000 and $75,000. Fourteen automobiles were destroyed.

Stabs His Wife's Bridge Partner.

By the Associated Press.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 14.—Angered because his wife was defeating him at bridge last night, police said Lewis C. Bryam threatened her and then stabbed Michael C. Wilcoxson, her partner, who interfered. Wilcoxson wounded twice, once near the heart, was recovering today in a hospital.

STOCKHOLDERS FIGHT OVER RKO FINANCES

Lawyers for Committee Say Plan Is $5 Assessment Against Shares.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The new plan just announced by the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation for financing itself and avoiding a threatened receivership was discussed today by stockholders who have been summoned to a meeting at Baltimore on Dec. 10.

According to a statement issued by the law firm of Emerson & Sperling, attorneys for a shareholders' committee, a fight is in prospect at the coming Baltimore session. The financing plan submitted to stockholders calls on them to relinquish three-fourths of their shares in return for which they will be entitled to subscribe for $11,600,000 of 6 per cent debentures and 1,740,000 shares of common stock. The Radio Corporation is underwriting the plan and has agreed to take all debentures not subscribed by other stockholders. The Radio Corporation is the heaviest holder of the present shares.

The plan provides that each present holder of Class A shares will be entitled, for each share, to buy for $5, and accrued interest, a certificate representing $5 principal amount of debentures and three-quarters of a share of new common stock.

"It appears to us," the Emerson & Sperling statement sets forth, "that the plan is an involuntary assessment of $5 a share on Class A stock, with an alternative to stockholders of losing three-quarters of their equity in the company. It also appears that the Radio Corporation of America, under the plan, has been privileged to acquire three-fourths of the stock of a company which reported $127,414,881 in assets on Sept. 30 of this year for $11,600,000, if the stockholders do not pay this assessment."

The attorneys added that their clients had requested them to obtain further information regarding the plan, but that no action would be taken until the corporation had made plain just where the control of Class A stock lay.

ROBBERS ARRESTED FIGHTING; BOTH GO TO PENITENTIARY

Sentenced on Day of Their Arrest in Kansas City After One Confesses.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 14—Robert Martindale, 29-year-old unemployed steeplejack, holding his 17 months' old son, was sentenced to serve 10 years in the penitentiary today a few hours after he had confessed a series of robberies, including that of the Elms Hotel at Excelsior Springs. Perryman Dodge, 28, confessed Elms Hotel robber, cried with Martindale's wife, and a few minutes later received a similar sentence for his participation in two robberies here.

The two men were arrested today when a fight in which they engaged attracted police. Mrs. Irene Lasater, 24, and Jack Alsup, 29, were arrested later, implicated, police said, by the confessions of the two men.

NEXT COMMUNITY FUND TOTAL TO BE GIVEN TOMORROW

Workers Will Announce Week-End Subscriptions at Noon Meeting at Hotel Statler.

COUNTY TO MAKE ITS FIRST REPORT

Pledging of One Per Cent of Salaries by Some Groups of Employes Swells Contributions.

Workers in the campaign of the Community Fund and Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment will meet tomorrow noon at Hotel Statler to report contributions obtained over the week-end. Wit hthe drive scheduled to end Thursday, pledges so far reported total $1,200,283, a little more than one-third of the $3,000,000 goal. Solicitors have made no reports since Friday afternoon.

First reports of St. Louis County contributions are expected tomorrow. Walter V. Scholz, co-chairman of the county division, has said the county is better organized this year than ever before and it is expected to exceed its quota.

One Per Cent of Salaries Sought.

The one thing which could be counted upon to put the campaign over the top, Donald Danforth, chairman of the commercial division, told solicitors at their last meeting, was the policy adopted this year of asking employes to contribute 1 per cent of their annual salaries.

This practice, he said, had resulted in substantial increases. Employes of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. are giving $771 this year against $149 last year and employes of Boatmen's National Bank are giving six times the total of their contributions last year.

Firms whose employes have accepted the one per cent plan include The Industrial Loan Co., St. Louis Contract Purchase Co., Title Guaranty Building Co., and St. Louis Association of Loan Companies.

Subscriptions Doubled.

Firms whose employes have made subscriptions at least double those they gave last year include General Material Co., First National Bank, North St. Louis Trust Co. Northwestern Trust Co., St. Louis Council, Boy Scouts of America, Busy Bee Candy Co., and Bond Stores, Inc.

All employes of Brown Shoe Co. have subscribed and their contributions are to be deducted from salary checks. St. Louis Refrigerating & Cold Storage Co. has agreed to contribute $2 for each dollar given by an employe.

Members of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra have pledged $714 this year, an increase of $418 above what they gave last year. Employes of the Provident Association have subscribed $2513, an increase of $797 over last year's total.

Benefit performances will be given next Saturday in more than 70 motion picture theaters in St. Louis and the vicinty, the proceeds to go to the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment. Fred Wehrenberg, president of the Motion Picture Theater Owners' Association, said all expenses would be met by the theaters, and the committee would receive the gross receipts. There will be matinees at the neighborhood theaters and midnight performances at the first run houses.

Gifts of $1000 or More.

Contributions of $1000 or more so far reported include:

$20,000—Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Howard

$10,000—Mrs. Sarah L. G. Wilson.

$6000—Daniel N. Kirby.

$15,000 LUMBER YARD FIRE

Damage estimated at $15,000 was caused to finished lumber at the J. K. Gruner Lumber Co., 508 South Boyle avenue, by fire yesterday afternoon.

The fire, of undetermined origin, was discovered by a passerby, who notified employes in the company office. The blaze was confined to a storage shed through quick work by firemen.

NOTE ON RICHARDS NAMED THREE MEN HELD IN KIDNAPING

ers held in connection with the kidnaping. Berg was unable to identify any of them.

"I never did get a good look at them," he said. "In the flat they stayed behind me almost always, and when they did go in front of me, they wore hoods with eyeholes in them, over their heads. They served me from behind and told me, when I wanted anything, to look straight ahead and ask for it. They even wore rubber gloves, and I couldn't tell what their hands looked like."

Berg saw the men in the police shadow box, where they were unable to see him, or to know whether anyone was watching them. The prisoners talked to detectives and after they left Berg said he was unable to identify any of their voices.

What State Will Charge.

The parts in the kidnaping to be charged by the State to three of the four defendants have become evident with developments before and since the issuance of the kidnaping warrants.

Attorney Richards will be charged, as told before with negotiating for the release of the wealthy fur dealer on ransom, and with arranging for Berg's release on the promise of Berg's attorney, Morris G. Levinson, that $50,000 ransom would be paid on the following day. This promise could not have been fulfilled, even if Levinson had been so minded, because on the next day Richards was in a cell at Police Headquarters and acceptance of the money would have been an out-and-out admission of guilt.

George Peak, 43-year-old paroled life-term convict and eldest of the three men arrested as a result of the information found in Richards' pocket, is expected to be named as the "finger man"—the one who pointed out Berg to the kidnapers.

Curtis Medlock, 22, a clerk, with a previously good record, will be named by the State as the man who rented the furnished flat at 5084A Easton avenue where Berg was held prisoner for four days, and a nearby garage where the kidnapers kept their car.

Charles Tucker, 30, the fourth defendant, has yet to be charged publicly with a specific part in the kidnaping, although it is regarded as a foregone conclusion the police and Circuit Attorney intend to attempt definitely to show he played a part in the abduction.

More of Peak's Career.

Peak, it was learned yesterday, was formerly an employe of Albert Wittich & Co., 109 North First street, dealers of raw furs and disinfectants. The Wittich store is a block and a half from the Hill Bros. Fur Co., at 300 North First street, of which Berg is president. This fact becomes significant in the light of the statement of Richards to Levinson that the kidnapers' "finger man" was someone "very close" to Berg.

Peak was convicted of the murder of a Negro liquor dealer in a holdup in St. Louis in 1919 and was sentenced to life imprisonment. He served in Jefferson City penitentiary from 1921 to 1928, when he was paroled. The parole, conditioned on good behavior, would have terminated within the next three weeks.

Medlock, who resides with his parents and family at 2701 North Ninth street, was identified by Michael Kramer, proprietor of an upholstering shop at 5084 Easton avenue, as the man who rented the upstairs furnished flat at that address on Nov. 1. The identification was confirmed by Michael Joseph, Kramer's 16-year-old son and assistant.

Tucker Served Larceny Term.

Tucker, the man whose alleged part in the kidnaping has not been described, has a juvenile police record. He was sentenced to six months at Bellefontaine Farms in 1915 for grand larceny.

Richards arranged for bond through his attorney, Verne Lacy, and was released at noon yesterday, after the four sureties who signed it had been approved by Judge Butler in Court of Criminal Correction. The signers of the bond and the amounts for which they qualified were: Leo Adams, 5072 Alcott avenue, $16,500; John von der Hayden, 2227A Gravois avenue, $25,000; George Dominick, a professional bondsman, $62,000; W. J. Dietrich, 2816 North Spring avenue, also a professional bondsman, $25,000. Adams and Von der Hayden are not professional bondsmen.

Before his bond was signed Richards appeared before Judge Butler and entered a plea of not guilty to the kidnaping charge. He declined to discuss the case with reporters and left the Municipal Courts Building immediately after the bond was accepted, in company with Attorney Lacy.

HOMICIDE VERDICT IN CASE OF MAN SLAIN IN AUTO

County Officers Consider Chief Clew to Killing of Frank Modica, 24, Is Rouge Puff.

A verdict of homicide at the hands of persons unknown was returned by a Coroner's jury in the case of Frank Modica, 5325 Bischoff avenue, who was found beaten and shot to death in his automobile on a little-traveled road in Deer Creek Village yesterday morning.

Modica, who was 24 years old and divorced, had been shot in the left shoulder at close range, the bullet traveling downward to below the armpit. The top of his skull had been beaten in and hair and blood were found on the inside of the car top, indicating Modica was struck several times.

County investigators consider the principal clew to the motive for the killing is a rouge puff found on the right running board of Modica's new Ford coupe. They also are tracing ownership of a .32-caliber revolver found on an embankment 20 feet from the car.

Behind Wheel When Slain.

From the position of Modica's body in the car, which was found standing in the middle of Litzinger road, 200 yards east of Lindbergh boulevard, officers deduce he was sitting behind the wheel when he was slain, and toppled across the seat to the right side. The right door of the car was open, as though a companion might have alighted from there when Modica was attacked.

Modica, according to relatives who identified his body, formerly lived at 5040 Shaw avenue, and operated a restaurant on Market street. However, they said, he has not worked for several months and has been living with his father at the Bischoff avenue address since his divorce.

On his left thigh was the mark of an injury, not yet completely healed, that a Coroner's physician said resembled a bullet wound. Both shins also indicated recent injury.

Bills for Corn Sugar.

In the automobile were two bills from the Anheuser-Busch Co., each for "33 sacks of Anheuser-Busch chipped corn sugar," and a receipt stating that one "Joe Bommarito" had paid the Standard Sales Co., $27 for yeast.

Police records show that Modica was arrested for investigation six times in the last two years, last being taken into custody on May 10. At that time he was driving a Ford with West Virginia license plates and explained, according to a police report, that "the car was the property of his brother, Mack, who is doing time in Charleston, W. Va., for violation of the dry law."

STATE TO GET $17,438 MORE FROM HENRY M. MEIER ESTATE

Rebate From Federal Tax Permits Missouri to Be Beneficiary; Total Holdings $437,204.

The State of Missouri will receive an additional $17,438.99 as inheritance tax from the estate of Henry M. Meier by reason of an 80 per cent rebate from the Federal tax. The Government permits the State to be the beneficiary of the rebate, which with an original tax of $7092.62 already paid will make the state tax total $24,531.61. Mr. Meier, who died March 10, 1930, left an estate valued by the inheritance tax appraiser at $437,204. His widow, Mrs. Emily L. Meier, and a son, Duncan I. Meier, were the principal beneficiaries under his will, with Mrs. Meier and the St. Louis Union Trust Co. named as executors.

He was a former vice president of the Simmons Hardware Co., and was one of the founders of the St. Louis Country Club.

However, Miss Mande Tait Falls Short of Gaining Official Mark at Detroit.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 14.—Miss Maude Irving Tait of Springfield, Mass., society girl flyer, today sent her Gee Bee monoplane roaring over a measured course at the Wayne County Airport at an average speed of 214.9 miles an hour, faster than any woman flyer ever before has piloted a plane, but failed of a new record by just seven-tenths of a mile an hour.

To set a record Miss Tait needed an average speed of five miles an hour faster than the record made by Miss Ruth Nichols, 210.6 miles an hour. In one of her four dashes over the 1.8 miles course favored by a tail wind, Miss Tait attained a speed slightly more than 220 miles an hour. Against the wind, however, her time dropped to 206 miles an hour.

A slight mishap to her plane and adverse weather conditions frustrated a second attempt late this afternoon and caused postponement until tomorrow or Monday of any further attempts. As Miss Tait was about to take off, she turned too sharply in a strong cross-wind which lifted the tail of the ship and caused the propeller to whip the ground. Both ends of the propeller were bent. A new propeller was installed, but it did not function satisfactorily.

SUES FRANCIS BRO. & CO. FOR JUDGMENT OF $36,077

W. M. Vandeventer of East St. Louis Says Brokerage Account Balance Was Never Paid.

Suit for judgment of $38,077 against Francis Bro. & Co., investment brokers, was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Wilton M. Vandeventer, 239 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis. The amount, it s alleged, is due on a brokerage account.

According to the petition Vandeventer ordered his trading account closed in October, 1929, and the brokers thereafter sold his holdings and sent him a statement showing a credit of $35,434.34, payable on demand. It is set forth the plaintiff permitted the balance to remain in his account until March, 1930, when he asked for payment. The amount sued for represents the balance plus interest. Members of the firm could not be reached.

MRS. H. W. BOND LEFT $51,000

Daughters Get Estate of Former Health Commissioner's Widow.

Mrs. Isabelle S. Bond, who died March 29, left an estate valued at $51,000, as shown in an inventory filed in Probate Court yesterday. The assets include 65 shares of stock in the St. Louis Union Trust Co., with a market value of approximately $26,000; cash amounting to $4856, chattels valued at $7233 and realty at 17 Vandeventer place assessed at $12,960.

The stock is under pledge as collateral security, the inventory shows. Mrs. Bond, who was the widow of Dr. H. Wheeler Bond, former Health Commissioner, left her estate in trust for the benefit of her daughters, Mrs. Isabell Sibley and Miss Mary Scudder Bond. Miss Bond and the St. Louis-Union Trust Co. were appointed trustees.

COLLINSVILLE BOY KILLED WHEN HUNTING

Mathew Pigford, 15, Victim of Accident Near Home of Parents.

Matthew Pigford, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pigford, who live on Peters Station road near Collinsville, Ill., was killed instantly yesterday when his shotgun was discharged accidentally as he was hunting rabbits two miles northwest of his home.

The boy was with his brother, John, 12 years old, and two other youths. None of them saw the accident, but in some manner the gun was discharged, the load striking Matthew in the head.

An inquest will be held in Collinsville today. Funeral services will be Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Collinsville Baptist Church. Besides his parents three sisters and the brother survive.

BELLEVILLE POSTOFFICE CLERK ARRESTED ON THEFT CHARGE

William F. Schmitz Admits He Took $300 From Letters In Last Year.

William F. Schmitz, clerk in the Postoffice at Belleville, was arrested last night on a charge of robbing the mails. He is said to have admitted having taken about $300 from letters during the past year.

He was arrested after Postoffice inspectors had traced decoy letters. He is held in St. Clair County jail and will be arraigned tomorrow in Federal court.

WOMAN, 79, FOUND DEAD; GAS BURNER ON STOVE OPEN

Neighbors of Miss May Zengler Force Entrance When They Detect Odor.

Miss Mary Zengler, 79 years old, 2713 Blair avenue, was found dead at her home yesterday morning by neighbors who detected an odor of gas and forced an entrance into the place.

A gas burner on a stove was open but unlighted. Residents of the same house said they had smelled a slight odor of gas at midnight Friday.

Rockefeller Postpones Trip.

By the Associated Press.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 14.—John D. Rockefeller Sr. decided tonight to postpone until Tuesday his departure for his winter home in Florida. He had planned to leave today. Although it could not be learned at the Pocantico estate of the aged millionaire what caused the change in plans, it was said definitely that Rockefeller was in the best of health.

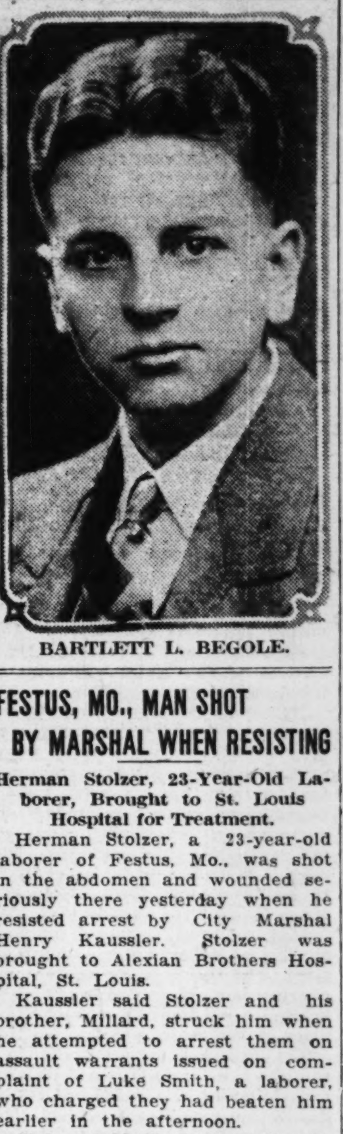
Student Found Dead



BARTLETT L. BEGOLE.

FESTUS, MO., MAN SHOT BY MARSHAL WHEN RESISTING

Herman Stolzer, 23-Year-Old Laborer, Brought to St. Louis Hospital for Treatment.

Herman Stolzer, a 23-year-old laborer of Festus, Mo., was shot in the abdomen and wounded seriously there yesterday when he resisted arrest by City Marshal Henry Kaussler. Stolzer was brought to Alexian Brothers Hospital, St. Louis.

Kaussler said Stolzer and his brother, Millard, struck him when he attempted to arrest them on assault warrants issued on complaint of Luke Smith, a laborer, who charged they had beaten him earlier in the afternoon.

Stolzer told St. Louis police he knocked the Marshal down when the officer failed to produce the warrant.

DIES OF INJURIES SUFFERED WHEN MOTOR CYCLE SKIDDED

Albert Meier, 33, Belleville Truck Driver, Was Riding on Wet Dirt on Route 13.

Albert Meier, 33 years old, a truck driver of Belleville, died yesterday of internal injuries suffered Tuesday when his motor cycle skidded on wet dirt on Route 13 south of Belleville. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Louise Meier, and a sister.

The funeral will be at 2 p. m. Monday from the Lebanon Avenue funeral parlors to Walnut Hill Cemetery.

DEATH OF STUDENT LAID TO AUTO FUMES

Body of Bartlett L. Begole Found in Car in Closed Garage.

The body of Bartlett L. Begole, 2[illegible] years old, a Washington University student, was found in a closed garage in the rear of his home, 1329 Temple place, yesterday morning. Death apparently was caused by carbon monoxide poisoning.

The body was in the driver's seat of the family sedan when found by the student's father, Joshua F. Begole. The ignition was turned on, although the engine of the automobile was not running. There was gasoline in the tank, and the left side of the hood was raised.

Begole told police his son had complained of fatigue Friday evening, but departed in the car, explaining that he was going to the home of a fellow engineering student to study. Begole assisted his son in starting the automobile, because of trouble with the battery. He expressed the belief that, on returning home, the youth remained in the garage to tinker with the car, and was overcome.

An inquest will be held tomorrow.

FAILS AGAIN IN SMALL CRAFT TO SAIL TO ARGENTINA

Manuel Cruze Picked Up by Steamer After 23-Foot Boat Is Found in Distress.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 14.—Manuel Cruze's second attempt to sail home to Argentina in his 23-foot sailboat "Olga II" ended today 170 miles southeast of Nantucket, when his craft's rudder was broken and its mast was swept overboard. A radio received here tonight from the Norwegian motorshop Belpamela said the 37-year-old Spaniard and his vessel had been picked up in distress and were being taken to Halifax, where the Belpamela is due next Tuesday.

Cruze sailed from Popham Beach last Monday. His cargo consisted of provisions contributed by friends and an asthmatic phonograph with a single record, "The Maine Stein Song." On an earlier attempt in the Olga I, Cruze was rescued by the steamship Somerset just as his craft was foundering off North Carolina.

Man Overcome by Gas Dies.

Phillip Wagner, 64-year-old laborer, who was found unconscious Thursday near an open gas jet in his room at 3358 South Broadway, died yesterday at City Hospital. A nephew who found him said he knew of no reason for him to end his life.

MRS. JUDD'S PARENTS VISIT HER IN CELL

Mother Urges Confessed Slayer of Two Women in Phoenix, Ariz., to Tell Truth.

By the Associated Press.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 14.—Emerging from the county jail after spending more than two hours with her daughter, Winnie Ruth Judd, Mrs. H. J. McKinnell of Indiana said today she had pleaded with Mrs. Judd to "tell the truth" concerning the killing of Mrs. Agnes Anne Leroi and Miss Hedvig Samuelson and the sending of their bodies to Los Angeles in trunks. Mrs. Judd has admitted the killing, declaring it was in self-defense.

"No matter what happens, she must tell everything truthfully," said the mother.

The Rev. H. J. McKinnell visited his daughter also, leaving the cell to confer with Herman Lewkowitz, Mrs. Judd's counsel.

The aged pair, who came here from their home in Darlington, Ind., to be near Mrs. Judd, were accompanied to the jail by the Rev. W. C. Reynolds, pastor of the Free Methodist Church of Glendale, a Phoenix suburb, at whose home they are guests.

"We are so glad to see her," McKinnell said, "and she was so glad to see us. She is not herself. I don't believe anyone knows all about this matter."

Sheriff McFadden said he would permit Mrs. Judd's mother to visit her daily.

The parents, who made the trip to Phoenix with the aid of funds raised by their church congregation in Darlington, plan to be present in the court room next Monday when Mrs. Judd is arraigned and makes her plea.

GARNER AND HARRISON TALK ABOUT TAXES AND TARIFF

Democrats Agree That If Rates Are Increased Larger Incomes Must Carry Load.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The Democratic revenue legislative program was discussed today by Representative Garner of Texas and Senator Harrison of Mississippi.

Tariff and taxes are the dominating problems confronting the Democrats along with prospective control of the House, where this legislation must originate.

Harrison, ranking Democrat on the Senate Finance Committee, is on record against increased taxes at this session, and for "rational" tariff readjustment. Garner, House Democratic leader has already undertaken an exhaustive study of tax legislation and had led his friends to think that he is prepared to sponsor some form of higher taxes to meet the Treasury deficit.

Harrison and Garner reached agreement today on one point at least. If there is going to be tax revision, they concurred that it should be done by raising the rates on the larger incomes, on the estate tax and by restoration of the gift tax. Both frowned on any suggestion of a general sales tax and on proposals for revival of some war-time "nuisances" taxes.

COLUMBUS HAILE OF M.-K.-T. DIES; BURIAL IN VIRGINIA

Ex-President of Railroad Succumbs at 71 After General Breakdown — In Poor Health Six Months.

Columbus Haile, president retired of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad, and a railroad man for 51 years, died from the effects of a general breakdown yesterday noon in his apartment at the Kings-Way Hotel, Kingshighway and West Pine boulevard. He was 71 years old. For about six months he had been in poor health and for the last few weeks he had not been at his office.

Resigning as president of the road on Oct. 7, 1930, because of his age, Mr. Haile was given the title of "president retired" and kept an office in an advisory capacity at the line's headquarters in the Railway Exchange Building. He was regarded as a good business getter even in retirement.

The funeral will be at Staunton, Va., Mr. Haile's boyhood home. The body will leave for there on a Big Four train at noon today. Mr. Haile is survived by his widow, who was Miss Tempe Perry of Palestine, Tex.; a son, Columbus Jr., general freight agent for the Katy, with offices here, and a daughter, Mrs. Granville Curry, wife of a Washington lawyer. Mr. and Mrs. Haile were married on Dec. 25, 1883.

Born in 1860 in Alabama.

Mr. Haile was born on Sept. 8, 1860, at Carlowville, Ala., the son of another Columbus Haile. The family moved to a plantation near Staunton and Mr. Haile was educated at Staunton Male Academy, Hampden-Sydney College in Virginia, and the University of Virginia. His first job was at the age of 19, when he became a country schoolteacher for $25 a month.

Texas and railroading offered better opportunities than Virginia and teaching, he concluded, and a year later, before he was old enough to start voting the Democratic ticket, he became a clerk for the Houston & Texas Central Railway, in 1880. Then began his lifelong interest in a prosaic but vital phase of railroad operation—rates and rate-making. He was convinced that therein lay the sound foundation of the roads, and he left the more glamorous aspects to others.

He became an expert on rates and traffic problems, and since 1907 was recognized as an authority on these subjects in the Southwest. At the same time, he built up a broad acquaintance among the people of the Southwestern states, whose patronage aided the road.

In 1881 Mr. Haile went to the International & Great Northern Railroad for four years, after which he spent four years with the Texas Traffic Association. He became assistant general freight agent of the Katy in 1889, general freight agent two years later, freight traffic manager in 1896 and traffic manager in 1898. Then, in 1907, he was given the additional title of vice president as his duties broadened. There was an interruption in Mr. Haile's 42 years' service with the Katy during the wartime Federal Railroad Administration, when he was traffic manager of the Katy and Frisco Railway lines north of the Red River.

M.-K.-T. President in 1926.

Elected to the presidency on Dec. 20, 1926, Mr. Haile followed the policy of a former president, Charles E. Schaff, who had headed the road's rejuvenation. This policy was one of concentrated development rather than territorial expansion. However, Mr. Haile followed no fixed rules for railroading, but drew upon his experience to solve problems as they arose. He continued as a director of the road after his retirement. Michael H. Cahill, chairman of the board, succeeded Mr. Haile as president, retaining the other office also.

TEN-DAY TRUCE IN MANCHURIA IS REPORTED IN TOKIO

continued Japanese allegations of Soviet assistance to warring Chinese in Manchuria. It was "with a sense of extreme regret," that the Soviet Government was obliged to note that Japanese military circles continued to spread "absolutely unfounded rumors about Soviet assistance to this or that Chinese general," the Commissar said. Particular exception was taken to a statement reported to have been issued by a Japanese representative at Mukden on Tuesday that reinforcements had been moved from Blagovestchensk. He called the Japanese Government's attention "to this unscrupulous anti-Soviet campaign systematically conducted in certain military circles in Manchuria to complicate relations between Japan and Soviet Russia."

Foreign Commissar Litvinoff reminded the Japanese Ambassador of his previous assurances.

"I have the more reason to remind you of this," he added, "as information is available that the Japanese command are preparing to cross the Chinese Eastern Railway in the region of Tsitsihar, which would paralyze the railway and cause material loss to Soviet Russia."

Rumor Former Boy Emperor Will Be Enthroned in Manchuria.

By the Associated Press.

PEIPING, Nov. 14.—Hsuan Tung, the former boy emperor who has been living in Peiping under the name Henry Pu-yi, will be proclaimed Emperor of Manchuria at Mukden tomorrow, Chinese authorities declare today. It was said, that at the same time announcement would be made of the Ministry selected to help him rule.

For several years the former Emperor, now 25 years old, has lived in Mukden under Japanese protection. Reports yesterday that he was bound for Dairen, Manchuria, on a steamship and that the Japanese intended to put him on the throne were described as "premature." Chinese have charged that Japan's Manchurian policy called for the elevation of the former Emperor and that he would be the puppet of the Tokio Government.

Fears of impending disturbances here tonight caused the streets to be deserted except for the police who, with fixed bayonets, challenged passersby.

Another Row Over Search of Neutral Zone in Tientsin.

By the Associated Press.

TIENTSIN, China, Nov. 14.—Another conflict between Chinese and Japanese authorities developed today when an attempt was made to carry on a joint search of the neutral zone between the Japanese concession and the city, where the Chinese believed fugitive rioters were hiding. No gunmen were discovered, but three Chinese policemen, who disappeared at the height of the rioting several days ago and hid in terror, were found.

Dawes in Paris in Preparation for League Conference.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—Indications that the United States is playing a strong part behind the scenes in effecting peace in Manchuria were seen today in the activity of Charles G. Dawes, United States Ambassador to Great Britain, who came here at the direction of President Hoover to act as observer at the Council of the League of Nations.

Dawes conferred this morning with Foreign Minister Aristide Briand who, as chairman of the Council, is in direct charge of the peace negotiations.

Tomorrow noon he will talk with Dr. Alfred Sze, China's delegate to the League of Nations.

Close contact, it is learned, is maintained by Dawes, the American embassy and Washington.

Although there were no indications tonight what steps the Council may take when it meets Monday, observers were hopeful something definite might develop by Tuesday at latest.

One suggestion was that a scheme might be worked out under which the Japanese troops would withdraw to their treaty zone while an international group shared with China the responsibility for protecting Japanese lives and property in the evacuated area.

It was learned that just before the League representatives started tonight from Geneva both the Chinees and Japanese delivered warnings that new armed clashes were threatened along the Nonni River and at Tientsin.

The Japanese note said the troops of Gen. Hanjo, Japan's Manchurian commander, and the army of Gen. Mah Chan-shan, defending Tsitsihar, were so near together that a major engagement was imminent.

The Chinese General is receiving thousands of letters from all parts of China urging him to begin hostilities at once, the Japanese communication says, adding that this is a dangerous factor.

An Exposition of Dining Room Furniture

TWELVE COMPLETE DINING ENSEMBLES ARRANGED IN APPROPRIATE SETTINGS IN MODEL ROOMS ON OUR FOURTH FLOOR (INTERIOR DECORATING DEPARTMENT)

THANKSGIVING and Dining Rooms, Lammert's and Fine Furniture, they are proverbially associated, one with the other. So what could be more appropriate as we approach Thanksgiving Day than for Lammert's to feature an exposition of Fine Furniture for Dining Rooms. Our Interior Decorating Artists have arranged twelve different dining room settings in twelve different model rooms on our fourth floor. Almost the entire history of furniture is written in this display from Elizabethan—about 1558—to the ultra modern, 1931. The furniture, the wall decorations, the floor coverings, and even the ornaments are a unit in expressing the individuality of each definite style. These rooms are here for your guidance—as a source of inspiration, if you will.

There are still thousands today who appreciate and desire Fine Furniture and whose ears have been deafened by the clamor of price appeal. We extend to these thousands a cordial invitation to visit Lammert's and view these rooms. Quality is traditional with us, and those who place quality above everything else will be delighted to see how, through our totally different methods of merchandising, we have provided quality furniture within the reach of even the more modest budget.

Good taste is not a question of price nor can it be measured in terms of money. There are certain time honored principles of design and treatment that are to be followed in producing the dining room set to sell for $250.00 as well as the one selling for $2,050.00. The range of choice in these twelve settings, both in style and price, is extremely wide, allowing for the fullest exercise of individual preference. These rooms will be open from eight-thirty to five-thirty p. m. every day until further notice.

Beautiful 10-Piece Early English Suite
Walnut veneers enhanced by burl walnut overlays and imported marqueterie inlays distinguish this stately Early English Suite. The 10 pieces with large and impressive Court Cupboard.... $395

The New Style Trend
IS TYPIFIED BY THESE TWELVE ENSEMBLES ARRANGED BY OUR INTERIOR DECORATORS

ENGLISH 18TH CENTURY

FRENCH 18TH CENTURY
The furniture is in satinwood and pearwood, hand painted with mural decorations. The theme is a soft shade of green. The walls are stippled and paneled. Traces of Louis XV and Louis XVI styles reveal themselves in the various pieces.

A CONTEMPORARY STYLE

THE BEIDERMEIER ERA
A revival of a style that flourished in Germany early in the 19th century, Beidermeier is simply a German interpretation of French Empire. Today it is enjoying a popularity that is at its zenith. The wallpaper is in a modern motif.

THE BEIDERMEIER INFLUENCE
This room has a cubed pattern of silver wallpaper with woodwork done in silver. The furniture is a compact design in French walnut with that inevitable Beidermeier influence at once apparent. New York, London, and Paris have "gone Beidermeier."

THE GEORGIAN ROOM
Scenic wallpaper giving an effect of stately palms gently stirring under a tropical breeze, frames this sumptuous Georgian furniture. If you have an English home, you will revel in this reproduction of England's "golden age."

THE SHERATON ROOM
This furniture was designed by our own staff after the manner of Sheraton. The walls in the Adam style are tinted a soft green blending perfectly with the rich red reflected from the flawlessly finished mahogany furniture.

THE FRENCH PROVINCIAL
Knotted pine boards stained a nut brown form the background for this French Provincial setting. Those hearty seafaring peasants of Normandy and Brittany have given us a style that is at once popular but which has not as yet been "done to death."

THE ELIZABETHAN ROOM
Sumptuous luxury is the impression created as you enter this Early English setting. The walls of white plaster, palm finished, contrast effectively with the dark carved oak of the furniture. The oriental rug is a genuine Lavere Kirman, an exact reproduction of a priceless specimen in the Albert Museum in London.

EARLY COLONIAL ROOM
Unpretentious, almost severe with its bright spick and span maple furniture with high ladderback chairs and rush seats. The Welsh cupboard gives us an excuse to display typical pieces of pewter and old china. The wall decoration has a fishing smack motif repeated again and again.

THE CHIPPENDALE ROOM
England's greatest cabinet maker of the Georgian Era contributes his influence in a large and impressive furniture group in mahogany. The sideboard is surmounted by a large convex antique gold mirror and the wallpaper is a toile forming an ideal background.

THE DUNCAN PHYFE ROOM
Furniture in a mellow mahogany inlaid with pearwood and tulipwood is the center of interest with green and gold wall decorations. An oil painting and an antique gold framed mirror complements the scheme. Duncan Phyfe furniture is enjoying a renaissance that has placed it at the peak of popularity in American favor.

SUES ELECTRICAL UNIONS, CLAIMING $50,000 DAMAGE

L. T. Barrett, Contractor, Includes Four Ousted Trades Associations in Conspiracy Charge.

Allegations of conspiracy in restraint of trade in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law and the Clayton act are contained in a $50,000 suit for damages filed in Federal Court yesterday by Leo T. Barrett, an electrical contractor, against the international and local electrical unions and four electrical trades associations ousted from Missouri by the State Supreme Court for anti-trust violations.

Barrett is suing under section 7 of the Sherman act, which makes mandatory the assesment of treble damages plus court costs and attorneys' fees in the event of a verdict for the plaintiff. The defendants named in the petition include Orville E. Jennings, international union vice president, with headquarters here; Chester H. Chapline, a contractor; Frank H. Haskins, an attorney; Roy J. Adams, H. H. Broach, international union president; Henry P. Koenig, business agent for Local No. 1, Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and others.

Ousted Associations Named.

Barrett, who has his place of business at 2340 Olive street, calls attention to the ouster from the State last April of the four electrical trades associations for violations of the antitrust laws. The organizations were: Electrical Employers' Association, Electrical Approval Bureau, Electric Listing Bureau and the Electrical Protective Association. All officers and directors of these associations, as well as the officers and trustees of the international and local electrical unions, are named as defendants.

Barrett states that prior to the acts of the defendants of which he complains, he had built up a lucrative business in interstate commerce and accepted contracts for electrical work in states contiguous to Missouri, and that his business has been injured by the alleged "conspiracy to five prices of electrical figures and installation."

The petition staes that Barrett, while a member of the Electrical Listing Bureau, was compelled to add 33 1-3 per cent for profit, plus a 3 per cent fee on all contracts he received. The plaintiff also relates that, as a member of the Electrical Protective Association, he was required to pay 35 cents an hour for compulsory insurance for each union wireman in his employ. These and the other two trades associations were chartered ostensibly for legal and valid purposes, Barrett states, but, the suit alleges, "the Circuit Court of St. Louis was imposed upon, and these associations were from their inception fraudulent."

Alleges Costs Were Swelled.

In this connection the suit contains the allegation that the purpose of the Electrical Approval Bureau "was to enable inspectors of this bureau to compel the employes of this plaintiff and other contractors to prolong their work as long as possible, adding unnecessary cost of labor to contracts."

Barrett charges that competitive bidding on electrical installation was eliminated and that the low figures were given to favored contractors by officers of the Listing Bureau. When he violated the rule against competitive bidding and obtained a contract for electrical installation at the Simmons Public School, 4300 St. Louis avenue, all union wiremen were withdrawn from his shop, Barrett states in his suit. He complains that he was forced to abandon the contract, explaining to the School Board that his bid had been too low and that he could not furnish a surety bond, whereas, as a matter of fact, he "could have made a substantial profit had he been permitted to do the work."

In conclusion, Barrett states that, although he has no controversy with union labor over wages or rules, he is prevented from hiring union wiremen either in St. Louis or elsewhere, with resultant injury to his business.

George P. Burleigh, attorney for Barrett, points out that, if his client's charges are sustained, they could be made the basis for criminal action carrying maximum penalties of a year in jail and a fine of $5000 upon conviction.

CAMPAIGN TO GET PLEDGES FOR DRY LAW PLANNED HERE

Prohibition Followers to Be Classified by Parties; Public Speaking Programs.

Proponents of prohibition will be classified as Republicans, Democrats or Independents in a campaign, beginning Dec. 1, to obtain pledges to support the eighteenth amendment. The campaign will be in conjunction with the visit here of the Allied Campaigners, comprising one of four units of the Allied Forces for Prohibition.

The campaigners will hold public speaking programs on Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 at Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington boulevards, and on Dec. 2 at Hotel Statler. The Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling, president of the International Christian Endeavor Societies, will head the speakers. Arthur T. Morey is in charge of local arrangements.

CLOSED BANK LENT $1,688,000 TO OFFICERS

Revelation Made in Case of Chicago Chain as Gangster Is Held for Questioning.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Edward (Spike) O'Donnell, beer runner and "public enemy," was arrested for creating a disturbance on a street corner today and held to tell Judge Michael Feinberg's court hearing about his financial dealings with one of John Bain's 12 community banks, which failed last June with $13,000,000 in deposits.

O'Donnell is said to have had $30,000 on deposit in one of the banks—and to have collected it after the bank closed. The gangster frightened officers of the bank into paying him, according to the report.

Judge Feinberg has mentioned O'Donnell during his hearing into alleged hidden assets of the Bain banks, questioning witnesses about the gangster's account. Police said they expected to serve him with a subpena tonight or tomorrow ordering him to appear at Monday's session of the hearing.

O'Donnell told police the two men with whom he was quarreling when he was arrested, Barney Solomon, 24 years old, and Julius Horwitz, 25, were trying to "shake him down." They were taken to jail with the gangster. In O'Donnell's pockets police found $690 in cash.

An auditor's report was made public showing that $1,688,515 was lent to officers and directors of the West Englewood Trust & Savings Bank, one of the Bain banks. The capital structure of the bank was $1,499,009, the auditor's report said. Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers said he would present the auditor's report Monday to the grand jury investigating the Bain banks.

Irwin T. Gilruth, receiver of the banks, said he has been able to recover only about $77,000 from the loans to the officers, leaving more than $1,600,000 still due.

John Bain, head of the chain, borrowed $282,030 according to the auditor's report, and other loans were made to Edward C. Barry, vice president of the bank, and W. Merle Fisher, cashier. It was disclosed today that Dr. Walter Buhlig, Bain's physician, had been ordered to appear before the grand jury Monday to tell of the banker's physical condition. Bain is in a hospital recovering from an operation.

MINE ROBBERY FRUSTRATED; THREE NEGROES CAPTURED

Highway Patrolman Blocks Road With Auto Near O'Fallon, Ill., and Makes Arrests.

Three Negroes, identified as those who attempted to rob Ralph Green, a clerk for the St. Ellen coal mine near O'Fallon, Ill., shortly before noon yesterday, were captured four miles from the mine by an Illinois Highway Patrolman whom Green called by telephone.

The robbery was frustrated by a woman customer, Mrs. Lucy Stoddard, 2753 Cherokee street, St. Louis, who ran out when the Negroes drew revolvers. The robbers attempted to pursue her and Green locked the door, preventing their re-entry. Mrs. Stoddard left in her own automobile.

State Patrolman August Manns of French Village, on the outskirts of East St. Louis, parked his automobile across the road leading away from O'Fallon and stopped the Negroes when they arrived in their sedan. All were armed but offered no resistance and denied they knew about an attempted hold-up. Green later identified them.

They said they were James Smith, 28 years old; William Benjamin, 24, and Eddie Scott, 26, all living in St. Louis. Police say the sedan they used was stolen in St. Louis.

FOR HOSPITAL UNIFICATION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—A study is being made for President Hoover of the possibilities of unifying all governmental hospital activities under the Veterans' administration.

He was represented as feeling that a considerable saving could be made if hospitals now operated by the War, Navy and Interior Departments could be transferred to the Veterans administration.

DOES NOT WANT SLAYER OF HER SON EXECUTED

Victim's Mother Thinks E. H. B. Allen Should Be Punished, However.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—Members of the family of Francis A. Donaldson III, shot to death Monday night by Edwin H. B. Allen, seek no vengeance. Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Donaldson Jr., parents of the slain youth, say they believe Allen should be punished but not by death.

"Taking the life of Edwin Allen would not bring back my son to me," Mrs. Donaldson is quoted as saying. "But he ought to be punished sufficiently so he can never forget the awful thing he has done."

Allen was held by a Coroner's jury in Montgomery County yesterday on a charge of murder in the first degree.

His father, Horace Allen, has asserted the youth's sister, Rose E. W. Allen, 18, had been wronged by young Donaldson.

Francis A. Donaldson Jr. answered the father's charge with a denunciation of the senior Allen and condemned him for attacking his daughter's reputation.

Close on the heels of her husband's statement, Mrs. Donaldson is quoted as saying Horace Allen objected to the marriage of her son to Miss Allen "through a misunderstanding."

She added that the impression had been corrected, that Horace Allen had sent an apology to her and she thought objections to the marriage of her son and Miss Allen had been removed.

"I understood the girl's two brothers knew they planned to be married," she said. "I certainly never heard of a refusal of consent to the marriage on the part of my husband."

At the home of Henry G. Pearce, where Miss Allen and her father have been staying, it was announced that they had been reconciled for the first time this week. The elder Allen was ill following a nervous breakdown from the strain of the week's events. His daughter is said to have gone to his bedside to console him.

Edwin Allen will not be tried until February probably.

NYE FINDS U. S. ELECTIONS SINKING TO LEVEL OF AUCTION

In Speech at Cleveland He Warns Greedy Interests Are Buying Parties.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 14—Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota said today that political corruption in the high places of Government is bringing the Nation's elections to the level of an auction.

The chairman of the Senate Investigating Committee, addressing the City Club, denounced "greedy interests that are buying political parties and candidates."

Unless the American people, he said, stamp out the corrupt practices of these interests they need not expect from their Government those things they should have in time of financial depression. He painted a sordid picture of corruption his committee uncovered in four states—Illinois, Nebraska, Tennessee and Delaware.

Senator Nye did not bring Bishop Cannon's name into his speech. At one point in his talk he said:

MAN FOUND SHOT TO DEATH IN LOT IN FAIRMOUNT CITY

Evidence That Struggle Preceded Killing of Leo Garcia on East Side.

Leo Garcia, 40 years old, a Mexican laborer, was found shot to death in a vacant lot near his home in Fairmont City, a suburb of East St. Louis, yesterday.

The body bore bullet wounds in the head, neck and shoulder, and a cut on the face. There was evidence that a struggle preceded the killing. Police are looking for a relative of Garcia.

DENTAL SOCIETY JUBILEE

St. Louis Body to Observe 75th Anniversary Dec. 7-9.

The St. Louis Dental Society will celebrate its seventy-fifth anniversary with a Diamond Jubilee meeting at Hotel Jefferson Dec. 7-9. More than 2000 dentists from all over the United States are expected to attend, according to Dr. O. W. Brandhorst, president.

The program will include addresses by outstanding dental authorities and discussions on dental health. There will be several scientific exhibits, one tracing the progress of dentistry and showing the devices used many years ago.

Railway Men Reject Pay Cut.

By the Associated Press.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 14.—Continued opposition by Canadian railway unions to proposed wage reductions was promised today, Frank R. Hall, union vice president, said. A wage cut of 10 per cent, proposed by the Canadian Pacific Railway, was refused by the 6000 members of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers and Express Employes who would be affected. The company is expected to apply for a conciliation board to consider the matter.

NEW RELIEF STATION FOR HOMELESS MEN

Opened to Help Care for 500 Per Cent Increase Registered in October.

A branch office of the Bureau for Homeless Men which will care for the younger unemployed men, for St. Louis resident of long standing and for the overflow from the main office of the bureau will be opened at 2032 Locust street tomorrow.

The main office of the bureau is at 200 North Fourteenth street where, during October, 3036 homeless men were cared for, an increase of 2561, or about 500 per cent, over the number for October of last year when 475 were cared for.

During the summer, the bureau operated the Municipal Lodging House, which is normally closed in the summer and which is operated by the city during the winter. Continued operation through the summer this year was made necessary by the unemployment emergency. The city resumed operation on Nov. 1.

Working in co-operation with the lodging house, the bureau furnishes homeless men with emergency care, consisting of a bed, meals, medical attention and vaccination. A man may stay at the lodging house for three days. If he desires to stay longer he is turned over to the bureau which investigates his case and determines whether continued care is necessary. For those homeless men who have rooms elsewhere the bureau provides meals and for those who have meals furnished elsewhere the bureau provides rooms. It helps to locate relatives, arranges for aid from private sources and arranges for transportation of applicants to friends or relatives who will give aid.

Among the 3036 men cared for in October, according to Walter R. Hoy, executive secretary of the bureau, were hundreds of comparatively young men who had recently become dependent as a result of continued unemployment.

"These men," Hoy said, "require attention which cannot be given at the lodging house. Most of them should not be pulled up from their surroundings, taken away from their relatives and friends and put in a lodging house with hundreds of other men.

"For these newly dependent men, especially the younger ones, the bureau provides rooms in working men's hotels, in private homes or with friends or relatives. It is to care for these young men and for St. Louis residents rather than transients that the branch office will be operated. The resident man is more likely to need meals, clothing and medical attention than he is to need lodging. The branch office will specialize in looking after these needs. Last winter 89 per cent of the men who applied for help at the branch office were residents of St. Louis."

WIFE OF SIDNEY U. BUSCH GRANTED DIVORCE AT CLAYTON

She Is Awarded Custody of Two Sons and $200 a Month for Their Support.

Mrs. Marie Frances Busch, 329 Westgate avenue, University City, obtained a divorce yesterday at Clayton from Sidney U. Busch, president of the Busch Corporation, dealers in railway supplies, on the ground of general indignities.

Circuit Judge Mueller awarded her custody of two sons, 14 and 13 years old, and $200 a month for their support. Busch did not contest the suit. He has offices in the Railway Exchange Building. They were married in 1915 and separated two months ago.

German Coal Men in U. S.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Dr. Franz Fischer, director of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute, and Dr. Ernst Brandi, chairman of the board of the Mining Commission of the Ruhr, arrived on the steamer New York today to attend the third international coal conference in Pittsburg Monday. The liner was a day late because of storms.

GERMAN ARMY USED TO AID UNEMPLOYED

Handles Supplies for Them—Special Concessions for the Jobless.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—Germany is mobilizing her armed forces to assist her unemployed through the winter months.

Two days weekly mounted trumpeters cover the city advising inhabitants that army supply brigade wagons are ready to collect anything the householder wishes to give in the way of food, fuel or clothing to the unemployed.

Coupled with the military effort, German railroads are carrying shipments to the unemployed free of charge. The two organizations co-operate to see there are no distribution hitches between the donors and recipients of the goods.

With more than 4,000,000 unemployed, the nation is making intensive efforts to minimize the suffering during the winter months.

Orders have been issued whereby the unemployed will receive potatoes, bread and fuel at one-third less than ordinary prices.

Then too, when a man goes on the unemployment lists, he automatically receives the equivalent of a 40 per cent reduction in his rent. The landlord ordinarily pays that amount of the rent to the Government as a special tax which is waived when a tenant is without employment.

These concessions are supplemented by the dole which ranges up to $6.75 a week to men with families.

Large groups of the unemployed, moreover, have developed a system of barter among themselves. Some months ago vacant plots were made available to the unemployed for garden purposes. Those favored with a surplus of produce preserved it and figured out their needs for the winter. Any balance was available for barter.

BULK OF $200,000 WALTKE ESTATE TO GO TO CHARITY

Will Follows Stipulation of Father; Two Sisters Get $50,000 Each.

The estate of Louis A. Waltke, estimated to exceed $200,000, is to go to charity, as directed by his father, Louis H. Waltke, 5521 Waterman avenue. First will be deducted specific bequests totaling $100,000 to his sisters, the will filed yesterday for probate provides.

Mr. Waltke, president of the Waltke Investment Co., former head of the soap manufacturing firm of William Waltke & Co., and an active layman of the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran Church, died Oct. 15. He resided at the Embassy apartments.

The will, dated Jan. 10, 1928, and filed by Theodore Rassieur, attorney for the estate, included a $50,000 bequest to his former wife, Miss Lavina Higgins, provided she had not remarried. Miss Higgins, who obtained an uncontested divorce in 1918 after she and an attorney were arrested in a Poplar Bluff hotel, has, however, been married to her fourth husband, Gary Spencer of New York.

Mr. Waltke bequeathed $50,000 each to his sisters, Mrs. Anna Heitner, 5521 Waterman, and Mrs. John J. Nimock of New York. His father and two brothers, Richard H. and Herbert W. Waltke, qualified as executors.

$100,000 DAIRY FIRE FOLLOWS PRICE CUT

Plainfield, (Ill.) Man Asks for Inquiry After Loss of 45 Cows.

By the Associated Press.

AURORA, Ill., Nov. 14. — Isaac Lantz, who operates a large dairy near Plainfield, Ill., asked the State Fire Marshal today to investigate the burning of his barn and several other buildings last nght. The damage was estimated by Lantz at $100,000, and he said he thought the blaze, which destroyed 45 cows and four horses, was started by enemies.

Lantz withdrew from the association of dairymen who supply the Aurora territory, last April. Since then he has been involved in litigation over his license to sell milk in the city. When the city refused him a license, he obtained a writ of mandamus. Recently, however, after a new inspection, Lantz was granted a license and he withdrew his suit.

Two days ago Lantz announced a 1-cent cut in the retail price of milk in Aurora. He began selling milk at 12 cents a quart, compared with 13 cents charged by other companies.

3 Horses, 13 Cows Burned to Death in Dairy Fire.

PANA, Ill., Nov. 14.—Three horses and 13 Jersey cows were burned to death early today when fire destroyed the dairy barn of Vora Ledbetter, four miles west of Pana and a half-mile south of Rosamond, with loss estimated at $10,000.

Sheriff Charles Weineke is investigating the origin of the fire. Ledbetter is reported to have been threatened since farmers voted a milk strike against a St. Louis milk company.

He awakened about 2 a. m. to find the large dairy barn in flames. Numbers of farmers and residents of Rosamond hurried to the scene, but the fire had gained too much headway to permit saving the livestock.

With the barn were destroyed Ledbetter's entire dairy herd, farm implements, harness, his automobile and farm truck, and a large quantity of feed.

Injunctions against violence in the milk strike, covering the three Federal districts adjacent to St. Louis have been issued by Judge Davis at St. Louis, Judge Wham at East St. Louis and Judge FitzHenry at Springfield.

CALLS ON NATIONAL GRANGE TO RALLY ROUND THE TARIFF

Hyde's Aid Fears Attack on Marketing Act; Gov. La Follette Criticises Administration.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 14.—R. W. Dunlap, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, today called on the National Grange to rally to the support of the advantages gained for agriculture. Dunlap said he thought an effort would be made to repeal the agricultural marketing act and amend the tariff and that farm organizations should unite to withstand such actions.

"You may not agree," he said, "but I want to say that we have the best agricultural tariff that has ever been on the statute books. There will be a desperate effort on the part of the city interests to get their food cheap. There will be an efofrt to abolish the Tariff Commission. In my opinion, the way to administer the tariff is through the commission."

Gov. Philip La Follette told the convention that America must effect a redistribution of wealth before complete recovery from the depression could be expected. He quoted figures purporting to show that 504 individuals in the United States earned yearly a total income equal to that of 4,000,000 farmers. The Governor said that "the question to be settled is not what the President thinks, but what we think."

"I for one do not believe the President is the source of all wisdom," he said. "If this country is to remain a republic there is no one man who is the sole receptacle of all wisdom. There are many prominent persons, including the President, woh believe if you take a dollar out of the Federal Treasury to aid the present crisis it is a dole and must be sugared. To take it out of local funds is a tax on property. If taken out of the Federal Treasury it means that the Federal Government will have to raise it by income and inheritance taxes."

BULLETIN BOARD FOR 'DATES'

Persons Who Are "Stood Up" May Leave Messages.

By the Associated Press.

HANOVER, Germany, Nov. 14.—Missing a date is no longer a tragic circumstance here, thanks to a solicitous City Council.

A large bulletin board has been erected in Rathenau Square, a popular meeting place at the junction of eight streets, for the convenience of those who get "stood up." When the person arriving first gets tired of waiting for the friend who doesn't show up, he or she can write on the board exactly when and where she or he is to be found, and depart in peace. Every day the board is crammed with messages.

Illinois Hotel Men for Dry Repeal.

By the Associated Press.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Nov. 14.—The Illinois Hotel Association and Hotel Greeters adopted resolutions today urging the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the distribution of liquor under Government supervision.

GOVERNOR SPEAKS AT BOY SCOUT SHOW

Emphasizes Importance of Work of Training Youth in Citizenship.

The importance of the Boy Scout movement in training boys in citizenship, character and manhood was emphasized by Gov. Caulfield in an address at the third and last presentation of the Merit Badge Show at The Arena last night. The address, given in the Little Theater, was broadcast to all parts of the east exhibition building to several thousand Boy Scouts, their families and friends.

"The boys of today are the men of tomorrow," the Governor said. "In a very short time the responsibilities of citizenship will fall upon their shoulders and they must take charge of our Government, not only as citizens but as officers."

"That is why the Boy Scout movement is so important. The value of this training cannot be overestimated. More than 4,500,000 boys have gone through the great crucible of citizenship called the Boy Scouts of America and it has been said that there is no record of any boy affiliated with the movement being confined in a penitentiary or corrective.

"I would remind these boys that while much has been done in the world, much remains to be done. America has grown to be mighty but our land is still in its infancy. Each generation must do its part. If our citjzens are to solve the problems of the future, they must be trained for the job and must bring to the task a spirit of unselfish consecration and a love of mankind.

"In the Boy Scouts you are getting that training, you are imbibing that spirit, you are learning the joy of service, you are approximating the brotherhood of man. The Boy Scouts of America have earned the grateful appreciation of parents and of all those who believe in and love boys."

To Talk on Disarmament.

Mrs. Franklin B. Miller of Webster Groves, chairman of the International Relations Committee of the Eighth District, Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, will address the Kirkwood League of Women Voters on international disarmament at Grace Church parish house, Taylor and Washington avenues, Kirkwood, at luncheon tomorrow.

PROSECUTOR STILL UNWILLING TO BARTER WITH WINKLER

Lincoln (Neb.) Official, However, Says He "Will Not Prosecute an Innocent Man."

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—County Attorney Max Towle of Lincoln, Neb., came out of a three-hour conference today concerning Gus Winkler's offer to barter $600,0000 in bonds stolen from a Lincoln bank for his freedom with the announcement that he had not changed his mind about refusing to "bargain with a criminal." "But," he added, "I will not prosecute an innocent man."

Towle referred to his mission to Buffalo to check on Winkler's "airtight alibi," that he was there at the time of the robbery of the Lincoln National Bank and Trust Co. a year ago. "If we find Winkler innocent," he said, "I will nolle prosse the charges against him."

He stopped in Chicago to confer with Sergt. Roy Steffens, assigned to the Secret Six, which approved the bargain, and Emory J. Smith, attorney for the Lincoln bank, but said "nothing had been done" at the conferences. He said he would leave Chicago possibly next Wednesday for Buffalo with Sergt. Steffens.

LONGEST ARCH BRIDGE IS OPENED TO TRAFFIC

Length of Roadway Is Mile and Two-Thirds Between Staten Island and Bayonne, N. J.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Golden shears snipping a bright ribbon added a new bridge today to the engineering marvels of the metropolis.

Arching the flood between Staten Island and Bayonne, N. J., it is a $16,000,000 single arch structure, longest of its kind in the world.

Top-hatted officials representing New York and New Jersey, several municipalities and the engineering profession were on the list of notables invited to the dedication ceremony this afternoon.

The golden shears employed in throwing the bridge open are to be sent to Sydney, Australia, where they will be used next spring in dedicating an arch bridge in Sydney Harbor, second largest of its kind in the world. Then one blade of the scissors will be kept as a memento in Sydney and the other sent back here.

From Sydney, where the bridge builders had claimed their structure would be longer than the one opened today, came the following cable as the exercises began: "You win by five feet."

The bridge has been under construction since 1929. It was supervised by O. H. Ammann, chief engineer of the port authority, who also bossed the job on the recently opened George Washington suspension structure over the Hudson.

The crown of the bridge is 327 feet above the water, and the clearance 150 feet at midspan. From plaza to plaza, the length is about a mile and two-thirds. It is a toll bridge, with four traffic lanes having a capacity of about 5000 vehicles an hour.

CONSERVATIVE FOR PRESIDENT LEADING IN ARGENTINA

Less Than One-tenth of the Votes Cast in Election a Week Ago Are Tabulated.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 14.—Augustin P. Justo, conservative, today was leading Lisandro de la Torre, nominee of a Leftist coalition, approximately 3 to 2 in the counting of ballots cast in Argentina's presidential election a week ago. Less than one-tenth of the votes have been tabulated.

Justo was ahead in five of the seven provinces reported thus far, but tabulation of the electoral votes showed he was leading by only 87 to 85, partially due to a constitutional provision dividing electoral votes between majority and minority parties. The country's total electoral vote is 376.

DRIVER BURNED TO DEATH WHEN TRUCK HITS BRIDGE

Three Others With Him Injured in Accident in Dense Fog Near Butler, Mo.

By the Associated Press.

BUTLER, Mo., Nov. 14.—Charles J. Ryal was burned to death near Butler today in an automobile accident and three others were hurt.

The injured: Mrs. Ryal, severe burns and bruises; Lawrence Ryal, son, broken leg; Mrs. J. H. Wiggin, fractured skull.

Ryal, driving a truck in a dense fog, ran into the side of a bridge. Fire Chief Kersey of Butler recovered the body from the blazing truck and found the other victims of the accident unconscious along the highway. They were taken to a Butler hospital.

CLEW IN QUICKLIME KILLING

Suitcase of Woman's Clothing Found Near Where Body Was.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—A water-soaked suitcase containing woman's clothing was discovered late today a short distance from the shallow grave in McHenry County in which was found several days ago the body of the young woman.

Authorities hoped the clothing would provide a clew to the mystery surrounding the identity of the woman. The suitcase was found in a ditch along a highway, less than a mile from the grave, in which the body was found, packed with quicklime and wrapped in oilcloth. A motorist discovered the clothing.

Surgeon-General a Grandfather.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Surgeon-General Hugh S. Cumming of the Public Health Service and Senator John B. Kendrick of Wyoming today celebrated the birth of their joint grandchild. It's a boy—born here yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Manville Kendrick of Sheridan, Wyo. The son of the Surgeon-General's daughter, Diana, is his first grandchild, and Senator Kendrick's second.

Soybeans Grading High.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 14.—Illinois soybeans are grading out higher this year than usual, in spite of the fact that a considerable amount of foreign matter is being found in some lots, th eIllinois Agricultural Association reports. Four cars of No. 1 U. S. grade beans have been handled by the Soybean Marketing Association, according to Wilbur H. Coultas, manager, who asserted this is unusual in view of the fact that the association did not receive a single car of No. 1 beans last year.

THE BRIDGE FORUM

By Shepard Barclay

Bridge Editor of the New York Herald Tribune

Here is a new kind of bridge feature—a column that will add to the enjoyment of beginner and expert alike, and help to develop more skillful play.

"The Bridge Forum" is the only bridge feature which covers every phase of the game—the news, the humor, the psychology, the sidelights, as well as authoritative information on bidding and play.

Shepard Barclay has earned the title "The Authority on Authorities" because of his impartial familiarity with the systems of all contract experts. His sparkling writing makes his column the sort that can be enjoyed without hard study.

CANNON CHARGES HE WAS INDICTED BY CATHOLIC JURY

Southern Methodist Bishop Avers Check-Up Shows 12 of 23 Investigators of That Faith.

SAYS HIS WITNESSES WERE NOT CALLED

In Letter He Intimates That What He Calls the 'Romish Hierarchy' Is Trying to Destroy Him.

By the Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 14.—Bishop James Cannon Jr., alleging that Roman Catholics had a majority representation on the Washington Grand Jury that indicted him for violation of the Federal corrupt practices act, says it is "difficult for the average man to believe" this an accident.

The Southern Methodist Bishop's views were expressed in a letter to the Richmond Times-Dispatch replying to an article by Thomas Lomax Hunter, columnist for the paper.

"By a check up twice made by reliable persons it appears that 12 of the 23 members of this particular grand jury are Roman Catholics," Bishop Cannon said. "If it be true, and believe it to be, it explains why the three witnesses I insisted should be called and who knew all the facts in the case were not called by this grand jury. When the District Attorney failed to summon these three witnesses, I knew that he wanted to secure an indictment regardless of the facts."

Bishop Cannon's letter, which alleged that the District Attorney and the foreman of the grand jury are both Roman Catholics, reviewed his recent statement from Atlanta protesting because the District Attorney did not call the three witnesses.

"I state positively that the Roman Catholic Church press has attacked me ever since the Asheville convention in 1928 and within the past 30 days some of their papers have been exceedingly vicious in their editorial comment," Bishop Cannon said.

Telling of receipt of abusive letters which he attributed to Catholic sources, the Bishop said:

"In my Episcopal labors for 13 years I have been brought in close touch with Roman Catholic methods and work in Mexico, Cuba, South America and the Belgian Congo, and while I have some Roman Catholic friends for whom I have a very high regard personally, yet when the Romish hierarchy determines to punish or destroy the influence of a man who has helped to defeat their pet candidate, Alfred Emmanuel Smith, the three years of continued attack, added to my former experience in other lands, have taught me that I must be exceedingly watchful and vigilant at every turn, or the Romish hierarchy will by one instrumentality or another accomplish its purpose."

Georgia Pastor Suspended After Criticising Cannon.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 14.—The Rev. Rembert G. Smith of Sparta, Ga., who severely criticized Bishop James Cannon Jr. for his activity in the 1928 presidential campaign, was suspended from the ministry today for one year on secret charges by an ecclesiastical jury of the North Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Twelve of the 13 members of the trial committee signed a report saying he had been found guilty of "gross imprudence and highly unministerial conduct."

Suspension of the Rev. Mr. Smith was made over protest of his church at Sparta. Yesterday 110 members telegraphed the conference protesting against his trial and repeating the request that he be sent back there.

The Sparta church also sent a memorial to the conference criticising activities of "bishops, ministers, church boards and church organs in politics" and requested the resignation of Bishop Cannon.

The presiding officer, Bishop John Moore of Dallas, Tex., relinquished the chair to a visiting bishop, W. F. McMurry of Missouri. Bishop McMurry, at the conclusion of the trial last night, ordered the secretary to close and seal the records in the case.

4 PLEAD GUILTY OF MURDER

Youths Get 21 to 40 Years for Holdup Slaying.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Four youths, all under 21, were sentenced to long terms in the penitentiary today for the slaying of Oscar Ericson, ice cream salesman, last June. All pleaded guilty.

Joseph Bielecki, 20 years old, who confessed to firing the fatal shot when Ericson resisted a holdup, was sentenced to 40 years. Robert Verwey, 19, who accompanied Bielecki in the holdup, was sentenced to 35 years. Edward Smith, 18, and Stanley Sroka, 20, received 21 years each. They remained in an automobile a block away while Bielecki and Verwey went to rob Ericson.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

HERE'S DISTANCE: "Between Seven and Eight Thousand Miles!"

[ANOTHER UNSOLICITED, SPONTANEOUS TESTIMONIAL]

MANY OWNERS revel in the remarkable distance-getting ability of the Atwater Kent. This letter is typical of hundreds:

"Nothing can equal the Atwater Kent. I am an officer on a steamship. Recently, when crossing to the Solomon Islands, I received programs clearly from Salt Lake City and Chicago, between seven and eight thousand miles away."
—From Mr. T. A. N.

What a radio, the new Atwater Kent—with power to reach out and get the programs, however distant they are, right down the channel of the one station you're after—with Automatic Volume Control to hold reception at one gorgeous, uniform level—with Atwater Kent Antenna Adjuster, which prevents hiss and tube noise—and the Golden Voice, the tone no other radio has ever duplicated.

She and Chauffeur Prevent Holdup; Latter Wounded By Highwaymen's Fire.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—A debutante's well-aimed kick to a highwayman's face helped a chauffeur to save three daughters of socially prominent families from the bullets of three men who attempted to halt the girls' automobile early today.

The attack occurred on the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vaux, "Flatland Farms," near Ambler, a suburb. The girls are Mary Vaux, 17 years old, her sister, Ruth 18 and Mary Ingersoll, their cousin.

Their chauffeur, Stanley Morash, 30, was shot in the left arm as he hurled two of the robbers from the running board by stepping on the accelerator and swerving the car at the same time.

Miss Ingersoll kicked one of the robbers in the face as he opened the rear door of the car and started to enter. When the car started forward he was thrown to the road, the door striking him as he fell.

As the chauffeur drove the car away a number of bullets were fired, one of them going through the top directly over the head of Mary Vaux. An account of the attack was given by mothers of the girls. Mrs. Vaux said her daughters were too unnerved to discuss the incident.

Mother Praises Chauffeur.

"It was only the marvelous courage and presence of mind of Morash that saved the girls," she said. "My daughter, Mary, was sitting in front with Morash and the other two girls were in the back seat.

"As they entered the drive to the estate the chauffeur slowed up and went into low gear. The three men leaped from the bushes along the roadway and jumped on the running board, at the same time shouting 'stick 'em up.'

"One of the robbers on either side opened the front and rear door of the car and demanded that everyone step out. It was then that Morash threw the car into second gear, he stepped on the gas.

"The car plunged down a steep grade and he swerved quickly as it started ahead, throwing the men from the running board.

Steady Fire of Bullets.

DEBUTANTE'S KICK HELPS ROUT ROBBERS

She and Chauffeur Prevent Holdup; Latter Wounded By Highwaymen's Fire.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—A debutante's well-aimed kick to a highwayman's face helped a chauffeur to save three daughters of socially prominent families from the bullets of three men who attempted to halt the girls' automobile early today.

The attack occurred on the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vaux, "Flatland Farms," near Ambler, a suburb. The girls are Mary Vaux, 17 years old, her sister, Ruth 18 and Mary Ingersoll, their cousin.

Their chauffeur, Stanley Morash, 30, was shot in the left arm as he hurled two of the robbers from the running board by stepping on the accelerator and swerving the car at the same time.

Miss Ingersoll kicked one of the robbers in the face as he opened the rear door of the car and started to enter. When the car started forward he was thrown to the road, the door striking him as he fell.

As the chauffeur drove the car away a number of bullets were fired, one of them going through the top directly over the head of Mary Vaux. An account of the attack was given by mothers of the girls. Mrs. Vaux said her daughters were too unnerved to discuss the incident.

Mother Praises Chauffeur.

"It was only the marvelous courage and presence of mind of Morash that saved the girls," she said. "My daughter, Mary, was sitting in front with Morash and the other two girls were in the back seat.

"As they entered the drive to the estate the chauffeur slowed up and went into low gear. The three men leaped from the bushes along the roadway and jumped on the running board, at the same time shouting 'stick 'em up.'

"One of the robbers on either side opened the front and rear door of the car and demanded that everyone step out. It was then that Morash threw the car into second gear, he stepped on the gas.

"The car plunged down a steep grade and he swerved quickly as it started ahead, throwing the men from the running board.

Steady Fire of Bullets.

"One of the men on the left side was tossed off and as he fell he shot Morash in the left arm. A second shot went through the roof of the car, almost striking my daughter's head. She fell to the floor and was screaming for help when the man fired. For several minutes after they had been thrown off they kept up a constant fire which terrorized the girls and has resulted in illness brought on by hysteria. We heard the shots from our house and I noted the time was exactly 2 a. m."

Mrs. Edward Ingersoll of Pennlynn, mother of Mary Ingersoll, said the assailants apparently had been studying the movements of the members of the two families. The chauffeur is employed by the Ingersoll family. The girls were returning from a dinner party.

ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY TREATY BEING DRAWN UP

Canada and U. S. Representatives Meet in Washington Seeking to Reach Agreement.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Canada and the United States advanced today toward a treaty to make the great St. Lawrence waterway a reality.

Minister Herridge of Canada laid before Secretary Stimson his Government's ideas. At his request, the details were withheld pending a formal pronouncement tomorrow. This will probably be a joint statement.

The two nations are in agreement that the proposal to provide a seaway from the Atlantic to the Great Lakes and a huge waterpower development should be carried through.

Today's meeting was the first of a series in which a treaty will be drafted. The Minister was accompanied by Hanford MacNider, American Minister to Ottawa, and Hume Wrong of the Canadian legation. They were joined in Stimson's office by James Grafton Rogers, Assistant Secretary of State, and John Hickerson, in charge of Canadian affairs.

The United States has already indicated to Canada its willingness to recede from a demand to construct one dam in the international section of the waterway. Canada desires two dams, mainly for purposes of "safety." The estimated cost of the one-dam development is $220,000,000, while that of a two-dam development is $280,000,000.

The distribution of power, means of financing the project and a decision on one or two dams are the principal points to be settled.

No Liquor at Baltimore Fox Hunt.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 14.—The board of governors of the Howard County Hunt have decided "it shall be a misdemeanor penalized by suspension to drink liquor while hunting." Hot coffee and cider will be served before the hounds go out to the fox hunt tomorrow.

VISCOUNT SHIBUSAWA'S VISIT TO U. S. RECALLED

"Grand Old Man of Business" Responsible for Cherry Trees in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The death of Viscount Shibusawa recalls to but a few that Japan's "grand old man of business" was, incidentally, responsible for the Japanese cherry trees whose blooms annually bring thousands of visitors to Potomac drive in Washington.

Shibusawa traveled the breadth of the United States in 1909, when, as the head of a large commercial commission, he visited every industry in which there was Far Eastern interest.

During a conversation in the club car of an elaborate train, which was called "The Million-Dollar Special," the subject of the Japanese cherry tree came up for discussion.

It was then Shibusawa told the legend which attributed to the cherry blossom the power to determine whether there could be war between his country and another country to which the cherry had been transplanted. If the cherry continued to bloom pink, the legend runs, there never could be trouble between the two countries. But if the natural pink turned to white, as he said was often the case, extraordinary steps would have to be taken to keep peace between the two countries.

He learned then that a gift of cherry trees to Mrs. Roosevelt the year before had been destroyed upon arrival in this country because of the discovery of a blight. He thought that too bad and called some of his associates together. From the train on that day was started the movement which brought another and larger contribution of cherry trees to Mrs. Taft, who had continued the interest of her predecessor, as first lady of the land, in the beautifying of what is now Potomac drive.

Prince Ito, who, with Shibusawa, is credited with a study of the monetary system of this country and the adaption of many of its features from the plan first created by the Nippon empire after its awakenment to Western ideas, died during that 1909 pilgrimage. An Associated Press reporter took the news to Shibusawa at a stop at Springfield, Mass. The effect was immediate. Tears rolled down his cheeks, but he could not speak.

An hour later he dictated in Japanese for translation a beautiful tribute. Amazement was expressed by some that the usual stoicism of a Japanese could be broken. Shibusawa's secretary, who had known his employer for years, also was surprised, but explained: "For him new depths of sorrow are plumbed."

HEARING OF SOUTHERN PACIFIC DEAL FOR COTTON BELT ENDS

Missouri Pacific Opposes Proposal, Which I. C. C. Takes Under Advisement.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Opposition to creation of an entrance into the St. Louis market by the Southern Pacific Railroad was voiced today by the Van Sweringen interests, E. J. White, representign the Missouri Pacific, argued to the Interstate Commerce Commission that it should stick to its consolidation plan in the Southwest and refuse to permit the Southern Pacific to acpuire the St. Louis Southwestern.

White said this was inconsistent with attempts of the Van Sweringens to have the plan amended as to Eastern railroads. The Van Sweringens control the Missouri Pacific as well as a group of Eastern railroads.

The commission was hearing closing arguments on the application of the Southern Pacific for permission to acquire complete control of the St. Louis Southwestern, also known as the Cotton Belt. The Southern Pacific owns outright 35 per cent of the stock and has options on enough to make its holdings 86 per cent. It is seeking approval of purchases of the optioned stock.

The commission took the case under consideration and an opinion is expected in a month or two.

ENRIGHT AND MILLER CLEARED

Dinner at the White House.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—President and Mrs. Hoover entertained 20 guests, mostly Republican Congressmen and their wives, at dinner tonight at the White House. Among those present were Congressmen Parker of New York, Chairman of the last Interstate Commerce Committee; Johnson of Washington, Chairman of the last Immigration Committee; Wood of Indiana, Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, and Ramseyer of Iowa. Commissioner Humphrey of the Federal Trade Commission was one of the non-Congressional guests.

CULBERTSON BRIDGE SYSTEM BEATEN IN TOURNAMENT PLAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Two teams using the forcing system of contract bridge, with variations, tonight definitely eliminated exponents of the Culbertson and Vanderbilt systems in slams and finesse for the Vanderbilt bridge tournament cup. With four rounds of the final six in the competition completed, the teams headed by Ely Culbertson and Harold S. Vanderbilt had lost their chances for the championship.

The Cavendish Club team, with four matches won and none lost, led the four teams as the last two rounds were started. The Knickerbocker Whist Club team, with three matches won and one lost, remains their only possible competitor for the trophy. Both quartets used the forcing system with personal variations of the players.

The Knickerbocker team, known as the "four horsemen," included Oswald Jacoby, whom Sidney S. Lenz has chosen as his partner in the forthcoming 150-rubber pair match with Ely Culbertson, exponent of a system of play opposed to that termed the "official" system, and Mrs. Culbertson. Jacoby's partners were P. Hal Simms, Willard Karn and David Burnstine.

Round Table Supper Club.

A series of discussions entitled "Is Life Merely a Blundering Experiment?" will start Tuesday evening at the Downtown Y. M. C. A., under the auspices of the Round Table Supper Club. Meetings will be held each Tuesday.

Immigration to U. S. Cut Down.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—An alien who is allowed to come into this country nowadays is fortunate to get in at all. Only 8 per cent of those eligible for admission under quotas received immigration visas during September. The figures issued by the State Department, showed 1213 visas as compared with 14,383 quota numbers available in 21 countries.

WHEN the snowclad mountains of Spitzbergen disappeared below the horizon and the Nautilus headed for the pack ice on Aug. 19, we knew that the season was too far advanced for a trans-Arctic journey. We hoped, however, that we should be able to cover some of the few hundred miles which separated us from the North Pole and rhaps attain a higher latitude than had previously been reached by any vessel under r own power, although personally I reded such an accomplishment as being of minor importance.

From my point of view the main object of this year's expedition was to accumulate experience which could serve as a solid foundaion for future work. ceanographic observations, comprising minations of deep sea temperatures and ection of water samples by means of which hoped to learn more about the currents the character of the waters of the deep r basin, had never been undertaken unimilar conditions.

e were not to work from the deck of a ship with the line over the side, but from a compartment with the line running through a hole in the bottom of the ship.

In this compartment the air could be compressed until the inside pressure balanced the outside pressure of the water and then through a trap door the line with our precious instruments could be lowered.

Simon Lake, who invented this compartment, had assured me that it could be operated without difficulty and that a person could work there for hours without discomfort. My first experience was, however, uncomfortable.

When the air pressure was being increased I watched our master diver, Frank Crilley, who was attending to the valves. I saw him working his jaws to keep the inner ear open and prevent pressure on the ear drums.

Observations Under Pressure.

I tried to follow his example and chewed and swallowed frantically but the pressure on my ears became more and more painful. Crilley saw my plight and tried to give advice but I heard nothing because of the noise of the inrushing air.

Crilley held his hand over his nose and made signs but I failed to understand and at last I had to shout to him to close the valve because I could no longer endure the pain in my ears. Crilley turned off the air and told me to hold my nose, keep my mouth shut and try to blow. Success!

Turning around I saw Sir Hubert Wilkins and Commander Danenhower smiling at me. They were used to rapid changes of pressure, Wilkins from his experiences as an aviator and Danenhower from his frequent work in the diving compartment.

A few minutes later the trap door was opened and I looked down through the water. I had feared that the amount of light penetrating through the ice and the water would be too small to allow us to see our instrument when they were being lowered and raised.

If they did not come in sight before they emerged from the water they would probably run into the block before the winch could be stopped and be damaged or lost.

My fear was dispelled the moment the trap door was dropped. I looked down through clear pale blue water in which delicate forms of medusae and tiny shrimp were drifting in a slow current.

Finding Ocean Mile Deep.

Our bottom sampler, a long steel tube which was to descend with great speed and bring up a core of bottom deposits in its glass lining, was lowered and could be clearly seen 60 feet below the surface. The steel wire looked like a silver ribbon, which gradually faded and disappeared in the blue of the water.

The depth to the bottom was more than one mile. An hour and a half later our bottom sampler came again in sight, bringing up a core of mud 17 inches long—the first bottom sample from the polar basin!

Next day we took a series of water samples and water temperatures from different depths. Afterward the remaining wire on the

No. 31-RUSSIA IN TRANSITION

By Raymond P. Brandt.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Oct.

AN influential Congressman on the boat to Europe was astounded to learn that there were only 2,250,000 Communists among Russia's 160,000,000 people. He said he thought at least a majority of the citizens belong to the Communist party.

"Then less than 2 per cent of the people dictate to the other 98 per cent?" he inquired.

"It is not even 2 per cent," he was told. "The real dictation is by the Politbureau of the Communist party, a body of nine men, who in turn are dominated by Joseph Stalin, secretary-general of the party.

"But what is the percentage which really governs the United States," he was asked. "Is it two per cent, or about 2,000,000 people?"

"Oh, no," he replied. "It is much less than that."

"You know politics," he was reminded. "How many men actually run a presidential convention?"

"You can count them on the fingers of your hand," the Congressman said with finality.

Dictatorship Is Real.

Communist leaders admit that Russia is today under a dictatorship, a dictatorship of the proletariat exercised through the Communist party. They claim, and it is easily understandable if one considers their methods, that they could increase the party membership to 50,000,000 persons within six months.

"We don't do it," one Communist said, "because so many persons would be unwieldly. We want only the cream."

The ordinary Russian is not shocked at this dictatorship and the absence of the so-called civil liberties—freedom of speech and press, freedom of political association, and guaranties against arbitrary arrests and seizures. They have been accustomed to dictatorships for five centuries. American correspondents stationed in Moscow say that visiting American capitalists apparently are not impressed by the lack of individual freedom. Only the foreign liberals, they say, cannot understand why the people do not rise in revolt. Even such ardent radicals as Emma Goldman find conditions intolerable.

Sherwood Eddy, a sympathetic observer of the Russian experiment, quotes a high ranking Soviet official as saying to him: "People do not believe what they will, but what they are told. And we propose to tell them!"

This quotation, however, does not express all of the Communist idea. The Communists do not propose to let anyone else tell the people what to believe. The party has control of all propaganda agencies, the press, the schools, the theater, the cinemas, the magazines, the books and the associations. Moreover, it maintains a constant espionage over the lines of communications—the mail, the telegraph, the telephone—and the contacts Russians have among themselves or with foreigners.

Martyr or Traitor.

The old Bolsheviks were past masters of revolutionary tactics and knew every trick of underground conspiracy. Once they came into power they knew exactly what steps would effectively check counter-revolutionary activities. They avoided the mistakes of the Czar's police and the spying Okrana by establishing the all-powerful and terrifying Che-Ka, which was succeeded by the present Gay-Pay-Oo. There is no opposition party in Russia today, and even dissenters within the party, like Trotsky, soon find that opposition to the party caucus is the unforgiveable sin.

One of the most interesting paradoxes in Russia is the bitter propaganda issued by the party relating to political prisoners in other countries. Many political offenders are serving long sentences in Soviet prisons for what Westerners would consider minor acts. And it is not known how many political offenders have been executed, although the number is reported to be large. Communist and Socialist political prisoners in other countries are martyrs, according to the Russian press. Social democrats and liberals in Russian prisons are traitors and traducers.

A visitor in Russia who does not have access to foreign newspapers cannot learn what is going on in the outside world. The controlled Soviet press prints very little foreign news, and that very little is almost invariably biassed in favor of Communism or against capitalism. The writer has had the newspapers translated every day while in Russia and found that they rarely contain more than a thousand words of foreign news. The provincial newspapers often go for several editions without more than 100 words of foreign dispatches. All the newspapers follow the leadership of Izvestia, the organ of the Central Government, and Pravda, the organ of the Communist party.

Censorship of Press.

Russian magazines likewise are edited for local consumption. As for books, no Russian would think of writing a political treatise or even a short story or novel that did not conform to the Soviet pattern.

The same censorship is rigidly applied to religious literature. Only the atheistical press is permitted in Russia. The Church is deprived of the right of propaganda. The writer has received a letter from an evangelical organization in St. Louis asking him to act as agent in the placing of religious advertisements in the Soviet newspapers. The organization was willing to pay for the printing of the attacks on atheism. Not only is it impossible to have such advertisements inserted in a newspaper; the mere printing of the advertisement as a handbill would subject the author and printer to imprisonment.

The result of this censorship is that the Russian have a completely distorted idea of the rest of the world. If permitted they will argue for hours with foreigners about Sacco and Vanzetti, the Scottsboro case, Tom Mooney and the American political prisoners. They deny that it is possible for American workmen to be happy, under a capitalistic system, just as Westerners argue that it is impossible for the Russian workmen to be contented with the Soviet dictatorship. The Russian view of the Western world closely resembles the distorted picture that England and America got about Russia from 1918 to 1922, when most of the Russian news came through propaganda channels in Riga and Helsingfors. The Russian people are not to blame for their ignorance. The responsibility rests higher up.

Capitalism vs. Marxism.

The Soviet leaders insist that their censorship is no more drastic than capitalistic censorship. They believe with Marx that capital is a social as well as an economic force, that it dominates the life of the "exploited" down to the smallest detail, and that when a non-Communist speaks of freedom he has in mind no other person than the bourgeois, the middle class owner of property. Like Marx they declare that capitalism is based on force and that it would defend its property against human rights by violence whenever necessary.

The man who is in charge of the force which knows how to silence political dissenters in Russia, Commissar of War Vorosholov.

They, of course, can cite the use of militia during American strikes, the hiring of private guards by coal operators and the dispersing of socialistic and communistic meetings by the armed police. If they were versed in the affairs of Washington, they could point out that Major-General Amos A. Fries, when chief of the Chemical Warfare Service, tried to have a biology teacher in a Washington high school fired because the teacher had the temerity to write a definition of Socialism in a magazine competition.

The leaders also insist that the capitalistic power dominates elections, the courts, the church and the press. Last year the writer argued with a Russian Communist and British Communist over the Russian plan for workers' pensions. The writer insisted that if he were willing to accept a Russian standard of living he could save enough from his salary to retire in 10 years. The Britisher tried to clinch his arguments for the Russian system by saying: "Of course, you American newspaper men get very large salaries. The capitalistic system cannot afford to have discontented writers any more than it can afford to have discontented policemen or soldiers." The Communists unflatteringly refused to admit that the writer might be able to get a larger salary in another branch of work, and they couldn't believe that his observations in Russia would escape careful editing by a capitalistic editor or publisher.

Popular Newspaper Topics.

The Britisher and the Russian were arguing as honestly as their information permitted. Russian newspaper men and writers are comparatively well paid. It might likewise be argued that the Communist government wants them contented. The Britisher was thinking in terms of English and Continental journalism. The writer could have supplied him with instances of lack of freedom among American writers, but the fact remains that despite occasional lapses there is freedom of the press in the United States.

Since the writer was in Russia in 1922 there has been a shifting of newspaper topics. In the early days when the leaders were consolidating the victory of the revolution the prop-

No Progress Made In Curing World's Ills, Says Marx

By Wilhelm Marx,
Former Chancellor of Germany.
(Copyright, 1931.)

BERLIN, Nov. 14.

IT was announced with joyous pride that none of the now customary ministerial visits had been so well prepared for in advance as the journey of the French Prime Minister Laval to Washington to visit President Hoover. The result was eagerly awaited. For it was hoped that at least one further step would be taken toward the overcoming of the world crisis, which has made itself keenly felt in the development of all civilized countries. But there is little to rejoice at in the conclusion reached by the press of all the countries involved almost without exception. The result of the conference, they declared, was regrettably very meager. Laval had returned home "with very light baggage."

If we ask ourselves what was achieved, the only answer can be that France and America agreed to maintain the gold standard in both countries. The communique issued jointly by the two statesmen declared that "it is our intent to continue the study of methods for the maintenance of the stability of international exchanges." In addition, measures were taken to put a stop to the withdrawals of gold by France from America, which were beginning to make themselves unpleasantly felt also for the dollar. But this is really all that can be recorded in the way of actual positive results.

Concerning the Young Plan.

The French press, to be sure, also counts it as a gain that an extension of the Hoover year, for the present at least, is not contemplated but that on the contrary the Young Plan shall again go into effect on July 1, 1932, unless some other agreement shall in the meantime have been reached. As to this the communique says:

"Insofar as intergovernmental obligations are concerned, we recognize that prior to the expiration of the Hoover year of postponement, some agreement regarding them may be necessary covering the period of business depression, as to the terms and conditions of which, the two governments will make all reservations. The initiative in this matter should be taken at an early date by the European Powers principally concerned within the framework of agreements existing prior to July 1, 1931."

One could perhaps read out of this declaration a return by America to the former attitude of non-intervention in European affairs. But there is no talk of a renewed putting into effect of the Young Plan. It must on the contrary be said that nobody outside of France seriously believes that Germany will be able to resume payments of reparations on July 1, 1932, under the provisions of that

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Woman as the Source of Genius.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I ENJOYED your editorial of Nov. 7, with which you propose to start an argument. There is no doubt that women are capable of doing everything that men can do; they have always done it, though not nearly as well. Probably women could do everything much better than men if they would sacrifice their birthright and begin living according to masculine standards. Several generations of athletic-minded and fame-conscious women could certainly produce a feminine Bill Hallahan or Bill Tilden, or any other Bill whose athletic prowess made her front-page news. But the sacrifice, from the feminine point of view, would be tremendous. Any woman would rather be noted for her beauty than for her brains or skill.

Woman possesses the embryo spark or force, which, when imparted to man, results in superhuman feats of bravery, skill or genius. Sometimes it is passed on to her sons, sometimes she is able to instill the urge in her mate; but every woman possesses it in some degree. True, many are not consciously aware of it. Many waste it or divert it into less worthy channels. Sometimes the man misuses it, or misunderstands its use; or perhaps he is not strong enough to grasp it, and then he becomes disgruntled and thinks he is being hampered or henpecked, which, of course, is often the case.

This embryo spark or urge is present and has been present in the female of every age and race. Sometimes men have feared it and have tried to subjugate it by placing their women low in the social scheme; even making slaves of them, so as to prevent and discourage its force. There have been periods in history when the force has made women supreme for a time. And there has always been evidence of the clash of male and female instincts over it. When the force becomes warped or misdirected, it is partly responsible for our tragedies, mistakes and crimes.

This motive force, then, originates and has its source in woman. Nietzsche calls it "the will to power," Adler says it is "the masculine protest," and Freud, being original, has named it "the libido." None of them tells us specifically where it comes from.

Whatever it is, if you scan history you will find that whenever this force could not be imparted to man, because he was too weak or too ignorant, the force itself has sought expression through woman, sometimes disastrously. Consider any outstanding woman in the world's affairs and you will find that she was unable to infuse a male with the spark or force which she possessed; and, because it happened to be present to an unusual degree, it sought expression through her. It is notorious that the male members of a feminine celebrity's family are always in the background. Frequently they get lost together, as did the unlucky consort of Catherine of Russia. The force has been known to grow so strong in a woman as to cause her to become a man-hater, simply because the struggle to impart it to a male has been painful and futile, and has rendered the male an object of contempt. Weary of Radio Jazz.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I, TOO, would like to add a word of appreciation of the timely letter last Sunday in the Post-Dispatch about the radio nuisance. Our radio is silent most of the time until "Amos and Andy." I would hesitate about getting another radio when this one gives out, unless there is some radical change in programs.

It has long been a puzzle to me why the advertisers seem to cater only to the dance hall with their programs. Most of those who like that stuff do not buy radios or much of anything that is advertised. Between the jazz and the "blahblah" about nothing, there is little choice, so the only good thing about the radio is that we can shut it off.

E. J. LIDHOLM.

Knows the War Racket.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WE had a nice parade Wednesday proclaiming the banishing of war from the world. Now, will you please use your influence to get me a job as a war correspondent in Manchuria?

My qualifications for the position are as follows: First, I am young enough (30 years) and active enough to cover plenty of ground in search of stories. Second, I can write newspaper (also correct) English, as I paid my way through high school by reporting for a daily. Third, I would not make any of the absurd technical mistakes which abound in most war correspondents' reports, as I am a graduate of the R. O. T. C. and a Reserve First Lieutenant in the United States Army. In addition, I am a veteran of three armies and served with the British infantry during the last year of the war to end war. I can tell instantly the difference between a flank attack and a strategic retirement.

I am really serious about this, as, like my 8,000,000 fellow unemployed, I need work, and have given up hope of finding a civilian job before March 4, 1933. I am certainly qualified to handle such a position, and anything you can do toward securing me three Manchurian meals per day will be greatly appreciated.

G. E. MILLER.

THE U. S. AND THE WORLD COURT.

For more than 10 years the question of our adherence to the International Court of Justice, more happily styled the World Court, has been on the Senate's calendar. Politically it has had the support of both major parties. The majority of the Democratic Senators has approved it. Republican sentiment has been divided. The opposition of Republican Senators has its genesis in the fight on the League of Nations. In the rancor of debate, the World Court was derogatively declared a League of Nations court, which was enough to condemn it utterly in the early bitterness of the discussion. But our three post-war Republican Presidents have recommended affirmative action by the Senate on two grounds: first, the merit of the tribunal itself and its capacity for rendering an indispensable world service which only such an agency could perform; second, the fact the organization of such a court is a Republican party policy, sufficiently old to be regarded as a party tradition, dating back, as it does, to the first visionary gropings at The Hague.

Our participation in the World Court was the one item of foreign policy in which President Harding was profoundly concerned and on which he spoke with genuine emotion and, it may be recounted, with the eloquence of earnest conviction. He could not win the Senate. The time for victory had not arrived. Yet his advocacy of the project may be accounted a triumph, because his successor accepted it as an inherited obligation.

Mr. Coolidge met the obligation literally, though not spiritually. He included it in his recommendations, coldly, perfunctorily. He never pressed the fight. He gave the country the impression of doing an unpleasant duty, in which he was not interested.

Mr. Hoover revitalized the issue. He procured action from the Senate, ostensibly favorable, but carrying reservations, one of which, having to do with "advisory opinions," could not, it was believed, be accepted by the Court and, therefore, blasted the resolution and killed the proposal. But Elihu Root, accredited with having written the Court's charter, drafted a formula by which the Court could receive us on the Senate's terms. He provided the machinery for negotiations on any matter of advisory opinion whereby the United States may resign its membership in the Court, in friendliness and without prejudice, in the event an agreement cannot be reached.

Pressure of economic conditions has necessarily absorbed the administration's energy to the exclusion almost of other problems, but on Dec. 16, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has agreed to take up the question of reporting the protocols to the Senate. Meantime, throughout the years of the question's pendency, an immense body of authentic opinion has accumulated in behalf of our adherence to the Court. The legal profession of the country may be said to have registered its approval. On five different occasions, the American Bar Association has formally indorsed the subject. Numerous state bar associations, recently that of Missouri, are similarly on record, as are many city and county associations.

In reporting a few days ago a survey conducted by the American Foundation, John W. Davis said: "I personally know of no state, city, county or local bar association anywhere in the United States whose formal action has resulted in the expression of opposition to the adherence of the United States to the World Court." He added that the associations of New York City, Cleveland, San Francisco, New Orleans, Denver, Chattanooga and Little Rock have declared their belief that "the Senate should complete our entrance into the World Court this winter." This is, of course, informed judgment. Indeed, it is the testimony of expert witnesses, and as such is entitled to, and presumably will have, the Senate's consideration.

The World Court, it may be frankly acknowledged, is no super-creation that will miraculously and immediately divert the stream of events into delightfully smooth and lovely channels. Its influence on human destiny will be of slow, laborious development. Dealing as it is bound often to do with national passions and the inflammatory psychology of war around the corner, it may on occasion find its pronouncements contemptuously repudiated. Its decisions will now and then inevitably offend a litigant's sense of equity. But here is a court, at last, to which the nations may bring their cause and plead for settlement in the name of justice and by the means of civilization. And line by line, page by page, through its solemn functioning, there will be written a code of international law of intellectual and righteous derivation, as contrasted with the mandates of might out of which our so-called international law has largely been forged.

It is a great concept, dedicated to the high mission of constructing a practicable way to peace in the steady light of justice.

AFTER 15 YEARS.

There is an important message for the American people in the tributes which have appeared in the press recently in honor of Mr. Justice Brandeis' seventy-fifth birthday. Those reprinted on this page are typical. Fifteen years ago he was so reviled and vilified by influential persons that his nomination to the Supreme Court by President Wilson created a storm which Mr. McAdoo, then Secretary of the Treasury, describes as overshadowing the news of the World War. The bitter struggle lasted five long months and the arguments against Mr. Justice Brandeis fill a large volume of fine type. Now conservative and liberal alike, citing his unfailing devotion to the interests of the people, acclaim him as one of the greatest of American Judges. Time, vindicating the clear judgment of Woodrow Wilson, once again proclaims the untold good that comes from choosing men of vision for places of leadership.

POWER AND GLORY—AND SOUTHERN COMFORT.

"Power and Glory" is a joyous book that presents a life-sized portrait of Pennsylvania's Pantagruel, the late Boies Penrose. To St. Louisans who recall a miraculous nectar that was served on silver and with ceremonial by the proud proprietor, it should be a treasured volume. For the recipe of Southern Comfort is there revealed, together with the Rabelaisian tale that Penrose could impatiently bolt a bottle of it in a gulp and order another. Our gray legionnaires, native and adopted, who were accounted anything but weaklings in the convivial era, will shake unbelieving heads at that printed feat, remembering, as they do, that the limit of two punctiliously measured portions was the immutable law of the landlord. But if an apocryphal attainment has recaptured and perpetuated the formula of Southern Comfort, Boies Penrose did not live in vain.

GRANDI'S WELCOME.

It would be deplorable should untoward events occur to mar the visit of Dino Grandi, Foreign Minister of Italy, who arrives in this country tomorrow. In fear of anti-Fascist demonstrations, plans for a welcoming reception in New York have been canceled, and the greatest precautions will be taken to safeguard the distinguished visitor, his wife and his entourage. Many Americans have no sympathy with the dictatorial regime in which Grandi has a part. There are numerous persons of Italian descent in this country who have personal grievances against it, and seem prepared to give vehement expression to their disapproval. Yet Grandi comes, not as a delegate of Fascism, but as an envoy of the Italian nation, with which this country has long been on the friendliest terms. Antagonism toward his party and its creed should remain quiescent in face of the fact that his purpose is to forward the cause of international co-operation.

Many observers credit Grandi with a large part in the recent modification of Mussolini's former truculent attitude. Since he took office in 1929, Grandi has been a soothing force in Italy's diplomatic tactics. It is certain he will present numerous policies with which Mr. Hoover and our Government can agree. The one-year armaments holiday, just approved by some 40 nations, was his suggestion. His Government was among the first to accept Mr. Hoover's debt moratorium proposal, unconditionally and immediately. This country's previous official visitor from abroad, Premier Laval of France, presented an unwavering attachment to security, which may prove to be the rock on which the 1932 Geneva conference will go asunder. Grandi's Government has no such view, but actively favors immediate arms reduction. Too, it has expressed itself as favoring war debt cancellation and revision of treaties, policies widely favored in this country as well. It is true that the Italian desire for naval parity with France still persists. Grandi presented his country's view at the London conference, and the resultant deadlock made possible only a three-Power agreement. But Italy's view on general disarmament gives hope for solving this difficulty.

Representing a Government that sees eye-to-eye with our own in so many international matters, Grandi is entitled to the deference and hospitality we customarily give our distinguished guests. An affront to him would be, not merely against Fascism, but against the delegate of a friendly and influential Power.

A CITIZEN'S DUTY.

Many of us are, we believe, sincerely troubled as to just what we ought to do in the present difficult circumstances. The question has been answered—finely and conclusively answered in the address by Rabbi Julius Gordon at the opening of the St. Louis Charities campaign. This address is infinitely more than a statement of the individual's immediate duty. It is a philosophy of life. It is the philosophy of the truly noble life. We reprinted an excerpt from this address on our editorial page yesterday. The whole context is available in pamphlet form at Community Fund Headquarters, 2221 Locust street. Get it, read it, act on it.

PINCHOT'S RELIEF TAX PLANS.

Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania is keenly aware of the need for action in raising funds for unemployment relief. For this purpose, he has presented a program to the Legislature, including three special taxes: on cigarettes, on billboards and an increase in the gasoline levy. No doubt there will be considerable opposition to two of these proposals. Cigarettes already bear a heavy Federal tax, and last year contributed $360,000,000 to the Treasury, almost 9 per cent of the total receipts. Additional levies by the states are viewed as nuisance taxes, imposing an unduly heavy burden. Fourteen states now have these taxes, including such impositions as 4 cents a package in Arkansas and Tennessee and 20 per cent of the retail price in Mississippi. Pennsylvania now has a 3-cent gasoline tax, and in 1929 collections totaled $35,757,000. The motorist, it would seem, already bears a considerable share of the State's expenses, without making the tax 5 cents, as is now proposed.

If car drivers are taxed for using the roads, there is abundant justification for a levy on billboards, which owe their effectiveness to locations on highways built by the State or streets maintained by the cities. Most states with a billboard tax or a license system use it merely to obtain revenue in repayment for the benefits the signboards enjoy. Others seek, however, by a heavy tax, to rid their highways of the signs for impairing natural beauty and creating traffic hazards. This policy, though opposed by the billboard concerns as confiscatory, has been upheld by the United States Supreme Court, which said: "If the city desired to discourage billboards by a high tax, we know of nothing to hinder." (St. Louis Poster Advertising Co. vs City of St. Louis.) The Pennsylvania proposal, for a tax of 3 cents a square foot, does not go this far, and should be a good source of revenue to which the billboard interests can have no valid objection.

HISTORIC HOUSES—HERE AND ELSEWHERE.

Some time ago the Post-Dispatch called attention to the impending destruction of the John James Audubon house in New York, where the pioneer American ornithologist lived when conducting his most important observations of bird life. Subsequently several New York newspapers, including the Evening Post and the Herald Tribune, printed editorials calling for its preservation. So great was the interest created that friends of the old house now announce sufficient money has been raised to repair and move it to a site on which it can be maintained as a shrine for bird lovers. Leadership for and support of such an enterprise in New York stands in marked contrast to the lack of such interest in St. Louis, so notably evidenced by the indifference to the fate of the Eugene Field house. There is only one explanation of the St. Louis attitude. It is part and parcel of the attitude of the city's men of wealth, who, as we said only the other day, have left St. Louis almost as barren of beneficence "as if it were an Indian village."

EARLY BALLOONS.

Tributes to Mr. Justice Brandeis

His seventy-fifth birthday evokes praise from both liberal and conservative journals; New York Herald Tribune says his liberality and loyalty to the Constitution honors the country; the Nation calls him the "outstanding social engineer of liberalism," while Brooklyn Eagle sees President Wilson's choice fully justified by the years.

INLUENCE FAR REACHING.

From the Chicago Daily Tribune.

DURING much of Mr. Brandeis' career as a Justice he was in the minority. Many of his opinions were dissents. Latterly the tide has turned in his direction. The court has swung around to support him, so great has been the intellectual power of the dissenting views which he has put forward. His mind and voice have made their impress over the years. Today if the court enjoys renewed confidence among lawyers and the public it is to no small extent because of the influence which Mr. Justice Brandeis exerted on the thinking of judges and lawyers in his generation.

TIME BEARS OUT HIS WISDOM

From the Nation.

IT IS not surprising the march of events would begin to catch up with Mr. Brandeis' radicalism of 20 years ago, for the truth is that he never was a radical. His social philosophy stems from Jeffersonian democracy and nineteenth century liberalism. He has transmuted the values of these cults into twentieth century liberalism. He has stripped liberty of its eighteenth century "natural rights" incubus and has filled its nineteenth century shell with a content of economic freedom.

To the undramatic problems of the humble citizen, as in the case of the maximum-bread-loaf law, he devotes the same untiring, dispassionate zeal for facts that he expends on the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Mr. Justice Brandeis, on his seventy-fifth birthday, is still, intellectually, the outstanding social engineer of liberalism.

THE NATION HIS DEBTOR.

From the Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

THE tribute of President Hoover to Associate Justice Brandeis on the occasion of the latter's seventy-fifth birthday, was well deserved: "You reflect a heart and mind which have made the nation your debtor."

Such a man does indeed make the nation his debtor. Louis D. Brandeis as a Justice has vindicated the opinion of President Wilson and his earlier admirers as having as keen a legal mind as any lawyer in all America.

From the New York Times.

THE country, and not Mr. Justice Brandeis, is to be congratulated. Of the fallibility of evidence, of the sway of honest prejudice, of errors of judgment and opinion, he had an unusual experience, even before he sat in court. Year by year his stature as a Judge has increased.

He has come to be regarded with general respect and affection such as surrounds his elder brother, Mr. Justice Holmes, his intimate friend, often his companion in dissent, though as strong and independent characters they not infrequently dissent from each other. Mr. Justice Story, Chief Justice White, Chief Justice Hughes, have borne sufficient testimony to the value of dissenting opinions. It is by such opinions involving the guaranteees of the Bill of Rights that Mr. Justice Brandeis has endeared himself to multitudes of citizens. But, like Mr. Justice Holmes, he is no respecter of persons. His eye is single only to what he believes the right interpretation of the Constitution and the law.

In the long series of Judge Brandeis' decisions on matters of labor, of business, of public utilities, there will be many who have to disagree with him here and there. But his logic, his learning, the lucid order of his reasoning, the exactness of his language, his extraordinary penetration of facts, his intellectual energy, have long marked him as one destined to be memorable in the front row of great Judges. To him the Constitution is no iron strait jacket, but a garment that must fit each generation.

A SYMBOL OF JUSTICE.

From the Illinois State Register.

THE people congratulate Justice Brandeis upon his service which so thoroughly symbolizes justice. They must not be unmindful a tribute of devotion must also be paid to President Wilson who was not swerved from the course he believed to be right by those who were armed with prejudice, malice and political expediency.

HONORS HIS COUNTRY

From the New York Herald Tribune.

IN light of the respect with which the country now regards Mr. Justice Brandeis, who has just celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday, it is interesting to recall the misconceptions caused by his appointment to the Supreme Court 15 years ago.

Justice Brandeis has now long been considered one of the outstanding figures on the supreme bench. The country has come to look to him, as to Justice Holmes, for a welcome vigor and courage in the interpretation of the Constitution. He has used his scholarship to achieve a blend of liberality and loyalty which shines forth in such opinions as that with which he condemned the famous wire tapping decision. "If," he said then, "the Government becomes a lawbreaker, it breeds contempt for law; it invites every man to become a law unto himself; it invites anarchy."

We know that we are echoing a nationwide sentiment in expressing the hope that Mr. Justice Brandeis will long be spared to honor his court and his country.

RESTORER OF FAITH.

From the Cleveland Press.

TRIBUTE has seldom been so overwhelmingly justified. In recent years when there has been less "just pride" in the high court, the presence there and the work of Justice Brandeis has restored faith in it. He said once, "Instead of amending the Constitution, I would amend men's economic and social ideals." That is what he is slowly accomplishing.

SUBJECTED TO SLANDEROUS ATTACKS.

From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

THE high standing as a Judge which Mr. Justice Brandeis enjoys, and has long enjoyed, and his reputation for fairness as well as for erudition and wisdom are in striking contrast to the fears entertained by many good citizens when he was appointed to the Supreme Court. Among those opposing confirmation were William Howard Taft, Elihu Root, President Lowell of Harvard and several former presidents of the American Bar Association. The attack on his record was little short if not at all short of slander. Massachusetts, in which he practiced law for nearly a generation, joins with special satisfaction in the acclaim.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.

DOWN the stone-flagged corridors of the State Department each morning these days may be seen at different hours two men making their way to the office of Secretary of State Stimson.

One is short, almost chubby. His face is wreathed in a bland smile as he touches his hat in greeting to those he passes. The other is slight, bespectacled and serious. Katsuji Debuchi, Japanese Ambassador to Washington, and Yung Kwai, charge d'affaires of the Chinese Legation, are at the department for their daily conferences on the Manchurian crisis.

THE diplomatic representatives in Washington of Japan and China do not encounter each other on their daily visi to the State Department. Ambassador Debuchi, because of his higher rank, goes straight to the Secretary. Yung Kwai, of lesser rank, goes first to the head of the Division of Far Eastern Affairs. Both are veterans of their respective countries' diplomatic service.

Yung Kwai is Washington's oldest resident diplomat in point of service. The old Manchu dynasty ruled China when he first came down from Yale to become a translator in the legation. In the absence of the Chinese Minister, Yung Kwai now presides over the legation.

Debuchi is a career man in Japan's foreign service. He is looked upon in his country as a foremost authority on Chinese affairs. He was attached to the Japanese embassy here early in his career, as a secretary.

DURING the Washington arms conference, in the Harding administration, Debuchi returned with the rank of counselor and acted as press liaison man for the Japanese delegation. Then his Government made him Vice Minister for Foreign Affairs in Tokio. In October, 1928, he again returned to Washington, this time to present his credentials to President Coolidge as the Mikado's Ambassador.

A golf addict of the first water, Debuchi has been forced by the flare-up in Manchuria to abandon everything for work at the present. Cables from Tokio and conferences at the State Department occupy most of h time.

ARMOR PLATE PATRIOTS.

From the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette.

SENATOR CAPPER, in commenting upon the dispute between President Hoover and W. H. Gardiner, president of the Navy League, makes this acute point:

"It should be understood and remembered that the Navy League includes in its membership those who sell steel, and other commercially interested in the profits fro armament building. These have a selfi interest, and have apparently allowed selfish interest to override their own l ty to their country and their own re for truth. The country should be gra to President Hoover for having torn of Navy League's mask, and showing it up fo the greedy commercial organization that it is—seeking to make excessive profits from the Government for steel and shipbuilding companies under the plea of super-patriotism."

drum had to be cleared because in the original spooling it had not been reeled on smoothly.

We had to pay out the entire length—about four miles—and for more than three hours Wilkins was lying on his back under the winch clearing the wire as it passed out.

Water had splashed in through the trap door because on that day we were lying outside of the pack ice and the ship was pitching in the swell.

The water accumulated under the winch and Wilkins stayed in a cold bath, determined to finish his task.

Finally he crawled out and stretched his aching limbs: "Now it is clear." It was.

Later the winch worked like a clock under Wilkins' conscientious supervision and we obtained a number of bottom samples and water samples from various depths down to two miles.

I had expected temperatures around freezing when working in the diving compartment because the temperature of the water was a few degrees below freezing and I had thought that the handling of the wet instruments coming out of the icy water would be very unpleasant and would make the fingers stiff and numb. Nothing of that kind happened.

On the contrary, the diving compartment proved to be the most comfortable room on the Nautilus. The air temperature rose to about 50 degrees Fahrenheit, while it used to stay between 30 and 40 degrees Fahrenheit in the living quarters.

The handling of the cold instruments with wet hands did not matter because we were in a closed room and protected from the chilly winds blowing on deck. Except in the tropics oceanographic observations and collection of organisms from the sea cannot be undertaken under more pleasant conditions.

Our next step was to study the chemical properties of the sea water and to carry out a number of analyses. Our laboratory was not spacious and on the first day I felt strongly inclined to agree with Mr. Soule, of the Department of Terrestrial Magnetism, Carnegie Institute of Washington, who called it "a marvel of inconvenience."

One-third of the space in the laboratory was taken up by the big ice-drill and the wireless set, the remaining two-thirds served as living and sleeping quarters for five persons, store room for scientific instruments, general office for the expedition's commander and the scientists and reception and consultation room for doctor and dentist. Dr. Villinger.

Soule solved the problem of finding a convenient place for his water analyses by establishing himself in the air lock, separating the diving compartment from the laboratory. There he found abundance of space because the air lock was about of the size of the pantry in a modern two-room apartment.

This arrangement also had the advantage that when he moved, Dr. Villinger and I got more room for our simultaneous water analyses in the laboratory.

Mr. Soule had charge of the soundings, with the sonic depth finder, also of our magnetic work. Unfortunately he got only one opportunity to carry out magnetic observations on the ice, because the ice with which we battled was generally in too rapid motion for his measurements. From the work of earlier expeditions we know that such observations can be undertaken on the ice when well within the pack and the experiences from this summer are, therefore, not discouraging when considering the possibilities of the future.

Dr. Villinger, besides being physician had charge of the gravity work. He had to act as a contortionist to make his readings and carry out adjustments, but in spite of the difficulties caused by the limited space he obtained a series of successful runs under less favorable conditions than those which can be expected in the inner parts of the pack ice.

Summing up, I do not hesitate to state that this summer's expedition has shown us that the scientific program which was outlined can be carried out to the last detail and that the conditions in several respects are better than anticipated when planning the program.

During this summer's expedition Sir Hubert Wilkins has succeeded in laying a solid foundation for future work and make fruitful use of the experience acquired under trying conditions.

Even the observations made during the trials in the ice will give results of interest to various branches of science.

Already we can answer a question which has remained open since 1894, when Fridtjof Nansen took the first samples of the deep water in the polar basin—the question as to the origin of the deep water. Nansen's instruments were not as accurate as those of today, and, therefore, he was unable to arrive at definite conclusions.

We can now state that the deep water of the polar basin is formed in the northern part of the Norwegian Sea (Greenland Sea), between Spitzbergen and Greenland, and is a mixture of the typical bottom water of the Norwegian Sea and the Atlantic water, which is arried to this region by the northrn branches of the Gulf Stream.

This mixed water, in which the ottom water of the Norwegian Sea orms the dominating constituent, ws into the polar basin over the rwegian Sea. The further hisy of the deep water can probly be elucidated by observations hich can be made on a transrctic journey in a submarine.

Liberty One Thing Not to Be Found in All of Russia

aganda was almost entirely political. The people were constantly told that there was danger of foreign invasions, of monarchistic or "White" revolutions, of goods embargoes. Now the news is mostly economic and the Government is using all mediums to get wholehearted support for the present Five-Year Plan and its successors. There still are long editorials about possible foreign invasions, possible embargoes and foreign subsidies to sabotageours, but the emphasis is laid on increasing Russian production.

To increase efficiency and production the leaders permitted freedom of expression in a limited field. They have invited the workmen to participate in a campaign of self-criticism in which workers could criticise their working conditions and minor officials. Political issues are still tabooed topics, but a worker can write to his newspaper that the factory manager is a drunkard, is showing favoritism or is otherwise inefficient. If no newspaper is printed in that locality, the worker can write his complaint on the wall newspaper in the factory or at the state or collective farm meeting places. Criticism of party policies or ranking Government officials is not allowed. The printed communications are not signed and they are often investigated by the Gay-Pay-Oo. This bit of freedom, however, was not granted them from any desire to make the people more contented. It was a move to increase production.

Russians Not Resentful.

Only a small class of Russians, the intelligentsia, are affected by the governmental censorship of ideas. The vast majority of Russians accept it as a matter of course. There was little democracy or democratic expression before the revolution. In the old Duma one elector was chosen by 230 gentry, one by 60,000 peasants and one by 125,000 workmen. Now, under controlled elections, the workmen have four times the representation as the peasants and the gentry are "declassed." There is no vocal complaint from the peasants and those who remain of the gentry dare not say anything.

The question naturally arises: How successful will the bolsheviks be in their purpose to tell the people what to believe? Two Russian aspects of this question are important. First, despite the censorship the dictatorship is making the country literate. An ignorant and backward people are being taught to read and write and think about governmental, economic and cultural problems. At present the scope is limited. If the Government continues its course to the right, or zig-zags in that direction, the masses will be in a stronger position to demand a democracy—if that is what the masses want. Second, the enduring effect of censorship and propaganda is problematical, especially if directed at what have historically been considered fundamental human aspirations.

The same question was put to a Russian Liberal last year. "I can only say," he replied, "that under the Czar we were told from childhood that monarchy was the only form of government. It was drilled into us in school and in the universities. We read it in our newspaper and the clergy assured us it was so. What effect did that propaganda have in 1917? Almost all the intelligentsia were revodutionists of one sort or another."

plan. Despite all the good will which Germany has manifested repeatedly and most plainly in the last year, not only through repeated statements, but also and even more strikingly by unprecedented economies and by bleeding herself white by payments—evidences of good faith which even non-Germans cannot honestly deny—the country is simply no longer in a position to continue these vast and senseless payments. And if it should continue them, this would be a misfortune for the whole world.

Prime Cause of Crisis.

France seems still unwilling to realize that the unprecedented world crisis now menacing almost all countries is due above all to the gigantic outflow of gold from Germany without any return. And for France, too, the unhealthful piling up of great quantities of gold in her strongboxes can in the long run only do damage, even though its glitter still dazzles the eye. She does not see and will not see the monstrous menace of Bolshevism that endangers Europe's civilization, and which, at long last, will also directly threaten France if Germany, the strongest bulwark, be brought to desperation by the never ceasing outward flow of money and thus fall a prey to radicalism.

Does France not see that the ring of nations is closing ever more tightly against her? In her victorious arrogance she has already succeeded in lessening greatly America's and England's feelings of friendship for her. Mussolini also has spoken on this subject in a sufficiently plain language. The number of those who demand a revision of the unholy peace treaty of Versailles, who proclaim with complete conviction the evil effects of the reparation payments—not on Germany alone but on the entire world—is increasing steadily. France, pointing proudly to her gold and her armaments, is gradually becoming isolated in the world, surrounded by nations which, in her stubborness and short-sightedness, she has damaged and stirred up.

International Conference.

France believes that if Germany cannot fulfill her reparation obligations, she should take the way out provided by the Young plan. The reference is to the so-called moratorium provided by this plan for the so-called protected annuities of the reparations. The Bank for International Settlements in Basel would then have the right to summon a commission to investigate Germany's ability to pay. Germany has earlier expressed the liveliest misgivings against this procedure, misgivings which other countries involved have also recognized as thoroughly justified.

Much more urgent for Germany is the looming expiration of the so-called "freezing" consortium, which protects her until February, 1932, against withdrawals of short-term credits. Here a conference is necessary in any case.

But quite apart from this, the countries of Europe, unless Mr. Hoover's political wisdom finds a better way, will eventually have to come together in an international conference for the mutual improving of their situation. For, in the last analysis, France also has a great interest in a general understanding, since she herself cherishes great hopes of a partial cancellation of her indebtedness to America. If the American newspapers are right in reporting that Laval has the intention of summoning in the near future a conference to study the problem of reparations and debts, this is to be welcomed most heartily.

What Laval Did Not Do.

If we glance here briefly at the things which Laval did not succeed in accomplishing in his negotiations in America, we see that the chief of these is the remission of debts, which was confidently looked for. But there is no mention of this in the joint communique. Nor is there any mention of a guarantee of France's security by America. This is an aim to which France clings with absolute fanaticism.

But instead of seeking and winning actual security by trying to gain Germany's confidence, which would be gladly granted if there were the least trace of an understanding and a meeting half way on France's part, she conjures up the spectre of a menacing danger from the fully disarmed opponent. The fortifications which France is erecting from Belfort to the sea cost her seven billion francs. They will be worthless before they are finished because of the steady perfecting of the technique of warfare.

France possesses nine modern great battleships, Germany six utterly antiquated armored ships. France has 16 protected cruisers, Germany has eight. France has 83 torpedo boats, Germany 32. France can march 69,000 soldiers across every 10-kilometer stretch of Germany's border, but Germany can send only 243 men to oppose them.

French Cry for Security.

But still France calls for security. We hope that the Economic Commission of the two countries, appointed as a result of Laval's visit to Berlin, will also clear up this monstrous delusion which she cherishes.

It is hardly open to doubt that the disappearance of a prospect of cancellation of debts would also do away with the prospect of any honest disarmament on the part of the victorious countries. One can look forward only with the greatest anxiety to the proceedings of the Disarmament Commission in the coming spring. The menace of the Polish corridor was discussed in America, but nothing was cleared up.

And this is the balance of the Washington negotiations. Must the distress of the peoples in the coming winter reach incalculable proportions before certain nations realize what the welfare of humanity demands? The negotiations in Washington, unfortunately, contributed very little to solving this fateful problem.

UNITARIANS ON TAXATION

Report That They Asked That Church Be No Longer Exempt Was Erroneous.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—A dispatch on Oct. 23, stating that the American Unitarian Association had approved resolutions proposing that church property be no longer exempt from municipal, state or national taxation, was erroneous. A resolution favoring taxation of church property was offered, but instead of being approved, it was referred to a special commitee of five, to be appointed by the president of the association, to report at the next biennial conference. The Associated Press is glad to make this correction.

$3,000,000 Fruit Ship Launched.

By the Associated Press.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Nov. 14.—The steamship Chiriqui, new $3,000,000 vessel built for the United Fruit Co., was launched today. Mrs. H. H. Robson, wife of the general manager of the marine department of the fruit company, was sponsor. The boilers of the vessel were fired prior to its launching, and smoke curled from the funnels as the ship glided down the ways.

KINSEY DEFENDS ASPHALT MIXER

Public Service Chief at Hearing in Suit Denies Taxpayers' Interests Are Damaged.

Trial of the suit of two taxpayers attacking the validity of the city's new requirement for use of a patented rotary mixer in laying asphalt paving will be resumed tomorrow before Circuit Judge Hartmann. The hearing began Thursday and expert witnesses have been called by both sides. The Trinidad Asphalt Manufacturing Co., which has the contract to pave Kingshighway Northwest, between West Florissant avenue and Hall's Ferry road, with rotary mixed asphalt, is named as co-defendant and is represented at the trial by Edward W. Foristel.

Several witnesses who are experienced in the asphalt business testified for the plaintiffs that there was no difference in the product of the rotary mixer and that of the pug mill type, which is excluded under the specifications. Both have given satisfactory results, they said. It is alleged in the petition that the pavements produced by the rotary were not superior to other types; further it is alleged that the requirement for the rotary increased the cost to the taxpayer by preventing full and free competition.

Says Improvement Was Object.

E. R. Kinsey, president of the Board of Public Service, testified that the requirement was decided on after a public meeting attended by contractors and other persons interested at which the mater was fully discussed. It was the concensus of opinion, he told the Court, that the city could improve the character of asphalt paving by specifying the rotary method. "We were specifying a mixture," he declared, "which we found was satisfactory and would produce better results."

He denied there would be any increase in cost to the taxpayer. "We deliberately put our estimates," he said, "under the bid prices that prevailed prior to the specification. The bids were all under the estimate. So the cost is less and, if it develops the taxpayers' interests are being jeopardized, the board has the power to change the specifications."

Alleges Free Competition.

According to Kinsey there is free competition in the bidding, and any contractor who obtains a paving contract can purchase the rotary mixed product from asphalt companies which use that process. There are two such asphalt plants in the city. The contractor is required to pay a royalty of 25 cents a ton to the owner of the patent. The rotary mixer was patented in 1923 by Samuel E. Finley of Atlanta, Ga.

During the pendency of the suit work on the Kingshighway Northwest project is tied up under a temporary restraining order issued by Judge Hartmann. David Baron and William B. Kinealy represent the petitioners, with Philip C. Wise, attorney for certain asphalt interests, in attendance at the trial. Oliver Senti, Associate City Counselor, represents the Board of Publice Service.

POLISH ANTI-SEMITIC RIOTS

Disorders Reported in Several Cities; Many Persons Hurt.

By the Associated Press.

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 14.—The anti-Semitic movement is spreading rapidly and in various cities public meetings have been held against the Jews. In Goma a dozen persons were injured in riots. Police at Sosnowicz dispersed a parade of 3000 and in Nowogrodek students attacked Jewish pedestrians.

In Cracow, where the trouble started, Jewish shops have been picketed and cafe windows smashed. Four thousand university students took part in a demonstration at Lemberg.

SHELDON MEMORIAL CONCERTS

First of Ethical Society's Series of Three to Be Given Thursday.

The first of a series of three chamber music concerts being promoted by the Ethical Society of St. Louis will be given next Thursday evening at the Sheldon Memorial auditorium. The program will be devoted to the works of Robert Schumann.

A string quartet composed of Joseph Faerber, Francis Jones, Herbert van den Burg and Max Steindel will play Schumann's quartet, Opus 41, and also, with the assistance of Mrs. David Kriegshaber, play the piano quintette. Mrs. Helen Traubel Carpenter will sing a group of Schumann's songs.

Cleveland Trims Pay Roll.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 14.—To avoid a deficit in its municipal operating budget, Cleveland is going to put many of its employes on a five-day week basis, approximately equivalent to a 16 per cent wage cut. Service Director R. H. Davis announced today 450 employes of the garbage collection and reduction department would take two days off each week, beginning next week.

$107,000 INHERITANCE TAX SUIT ARGUED IN U. S. COURT

Estate of J. M. Jarvie, New Jersey, Resists Missouri's Attempt to Collect.

Following short oral arguments, which are to be supplemented by the filing of briefs, an application for a preliminary interlocutory injunction by trustees of the estate of James M. Jarvie, railroad magnate who died in New Jersey in June, 1929, to enjoin officials of the State of Missouri from collecting an inheritance tax amounting to $107,204 on his stock holdings in the Missouri Pacific and Frisco railroads and the Kansas City Public Service Co., was submitted yesterday to a three-judge Federal court composed of District Judges Faris and Davis and Circuit Judge Kimbrough Stone.

Counsel for the trustees of the estate contended that the tax assessment by Missouri officials after the payment to the State of New Jersey of an inheritance tax of $1,662,573 constituted double taxation in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution. They cited a recent ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States to support their contention.

The State contends that under the statutes the State retains control of stock issued by corporations created under the State laws and that the transfer of such shares to persons outside the boundaries of the State in no way affects that control.

Will Discuss City Planning.

E. M. VAN CLEVE TO GET LESLIE DANA MEDAL

Award for Work in Preventing Blindness to Be Made Here Friday.

The award of the 1931 Leslie Dana gold medal to Edward M. Van Cleve of New York, in recognition of 25 years' outstanding work in the prevention of blindness, was announced yesterday by the St. Louis Society for the Blind.

The medal will be formally presented at a dinner at 7 p. m. Friday at Missouri School for the Blind, 3815 Magnolia avenue. Van Cleve will speak, under provisions of the Jacob Lampert Lecture Fund, on "The Prevention of Blindness and its Social Aspect."

Van Cleve was a pioneer in the formation of the National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness, has been a leader for many years in every form of activity for the aid of the blind and the prevention of blindness, and is principal of the New York Institute for the Blind, which will celebrate its hundredth anniversary next year. He was technical adviser in the design of its new $400,000 lower school, as well as building committee executive.

Van Cleve was born in Ohio in 1867, and educated in Ohio Wesleyan University. He was superintendent of schools in four Ohio communities before his appointment as superintendent of the Ohio State School for the blind in 1907, and, as president of the Ohio State Commission for the Blind, became interested in the prevention of blindness.

An active organizer of the National Committee in 1915 under the sponsorship of the Russell Sage Foundation, Van Cleve became the first managing director of the organization which has grown into the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

To him was credited in large measure the success of the World Conference on Work for the Blind called in New York last spring by President Hoover, and attended by delegates from 36 nations. Van Cleve was a member of the committees on organization and personnel and program, and represented the United States at a preliminary meeting in Hamburg, Germany.

He was chairman of the committee which formulated the constitution of the American Foundation for the Blind, has held every office in the American Association of Instructors for the Blind, is a trustee of the American Printing House for the Blind, Louisville, Ky., and for years he has been a member of the American Association of Workers for the Blind.

HEARING SET ON ABANDONING 52 MILES OF RAILROAD

St. Louis & Hannibal Asserts Bus and Truck Competition Make Operation Unprofitable.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 14.—The application of the St. Louis & Hannibal Railroad Co. for authority to abandon 52.6 miles of its line, between Bowling Green, Mo., and Gilmore, St. Charles County, was set today for hearing on Dec. 8, at Bowling Green, by the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The line, owned by John Ringling, the circus proprietor, extends from Hannibal to Gilmore, connecting with the Wabash Railway, 42 miles west of St. Louis. The line began operations in 1882 and was reorganized in 1917, after being sold under foreclosure.

The company contends operating losses necessitates its abandonment. Competition of busses and freight trucks reduced the road's revenues and caused losses, it asserts.

PROPONENTS WANT RULING ON BIBLE IN SCHOOLS

Tell United States Supreme Court There Is a "Strong Atheist Movement.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—George I. Clithero of Seattle and a group of citizens from other points in Washington State informed the Supreme Court today that a "strong atheist movement is now making a drive in suits and otherwise to drive the Bible entirely out of the public schools."

In a petition for rehearing they declared the Court should have passed on the merits of the law excluding the reading and teaching of the Bible in the State's public schools instead of dismissing an appeal for want of jurisdiction.

"The present widespread lawlessness," the petition said, "is due largely, according to most writers, to lack of Bible reading and teaching." It added that 80 per cent of the children in the State "have no Bible principles of Christianity at home or elsewhere, and hundreds are falling into the hands of the criminal law based on Bible laws."

The Supreme Court passed on the validity of laws prohibiting the teaching of German and other foreign languages in public or private schools, holding them invalid, the petition asserted, adding that it was much more important to determine whether the Bible is to be excluded from the public schools.

YOUNG HAWTHORNE AND HIS 'PIN SOCIETY'

Document of 'Conglomeration' Now Is Treasure That Collectors Seek.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—A hundred and eleven years ago a boy and his sister in Salem, Mass., solemnly affixed their signatures to a very important little document and "conglomerated" themselves into a pin society. The document went on view today and in a few days an auctioneer will bring hammer down while collectors bid.

Nathaniel Hawthorne and his sister, Louisa, though, were not thinking in terms of money when they drew up their document. They were interested in pins. If one of them lost at battledore or shuttlecock, he or she paid so many pins into the treasury.

The pin society, thus enriched, lent its capital to members of the household at the interest of one pin a day for every 10.

Nathaniel was advocate with title of "Honorable." Louisa was second pin counter with title of "Accurate." Lesser members—there weren't any—were enjoined to salute them by compressing their noses between the thumb and finger of the right hand and trumpeting to the tune of "Hail, Our Chiefs."

The manuscript at present is the property of Miss Rebecca B. Manning and will be sold along with rare sporting books and first editions from the library of the late Gifford A. Cochran and many other collectors' items.

The pin society was formed on June 10, 1820. Interest waned, and on Aug. 25, 1821, a grand distribution of pins was effected and the society disbanded. The regulations and proceedings of the society form a manuscript volume which is signed nine times by Nathaniel and five times by Louisa.

Also in the sale will be the constitution of the Potato Club, a secret literary society consisting of Hawthorne and five other students at Bowdoin College. The title is indicated by the picture of a pot, a dash, a figure 8, another dash and a cipher.

If, in the event a member failed to read an original poem or dissertation at a weekly meeting of the club, he was to pay a fine of a peck of potatoes.

His wife was among the first to guess that collectors some day would open purses wide for anything connected with Hawthorne. She wrote to his folks, and the letter itself is a prized item in the sale, that "the day willl come when there will be a pilgrimage for the thread of a shirt which Nathaniel wore in babyhood, for the truly great are known and acqnowledged at last."

DISCOVERED HAIR RESTORER WHILE TREATING OBESITY CASE

Illinois Doctor to Continue Experiments on 50 Volunteers at Chicago Hospital.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 14.—The fullest development of the treatment for baldness, discovered by Dr. J. L. Bengtson of Maywood, Ill., will be undertaken by the Research and Educational Hospital at Chicago, operated by the medical school of the University of Illinois, and the Department of Public Welfare.

Dr. Bengtson has returned to the staff so he may devote all of his time to perfecting the new treatment.

Out of 100 persons who offered themselves as subjects for Dr. Bengtson's further experimentation 50 have been accepted. Each will be given injections of the pituitary gland extract that Dr. Bengtson found efficacious.

Dr. Bengtson's discovery was made while treating a woman patient for obesity.

Two Children Killed in Crash.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 14. — Two children on the way to a birthday party in a taxicab were killed when the cab collided with an automobile. James Backes, 7 years old, and his sister, Shirley Mae, 5, were thrown from the cab and caught under the wreckage. Mary Elizabeth Backes, 10, was seriously inpured, while the unlicensed cab driver, Charles Smith, was uninjured. He was arrested. Fred Hassler, driver of the other car, was unhurt.

Here's New Vick Plan for Better "Control-of-Colds"

Made Possible by New Vick Product Based on New Idea for Prevention of Colds.

St. Louis druggists authorized to sell new product on trial to Vicks VapoRub users and refund price if Vick Plan does not reduce family's yearly "Colds-Tax."

Mothers are guardians of the family health and directors of the family budget. It is the mothers who have the worry of colds and their cost. And it is the mothers who especially appreciate the new Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home—just announced by the makers of Vicks VapoRub.

This Plan is made possible by a new preparation, Vicks Nose & Throat Drops, based on a new idea in "preventing" colds. It is a companion product to Vicks VapoRub, the modern method of "treating" colds. That is, they aid and supplement each other.

1.—Before a Cold Starts.

Use Vicks Drops—just a few drops up each nostril—whenever you have been exposed to anything which your own experience tells you is apt to be followed by a cold—contact with others, having fresh colds, crowds, stuffy, ill-ventilated rooms, public places—a night on the Pullman or a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes in temperature, wet or cold—inhaling smoke, dust, gases—excesses in living, such as overeating, smoking or drinking—after a hard day, when you are over tired.

In short, don't wait for that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages. Then you are not "catching cold"—you have already caught one.

2.—After a Cold Starts.

At night massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub—now available in "stainless form," if you prefer. Spread on thickly and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bedclothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising may be inhaled freely all night long. During the day, use Vicks Drops every few hours—any time, any place.

This gives you a full 24-hour treatment and without the risk of too much internal "dosing," which so often upsets the digestion—especially of children. Both these Vick products are external. They can be used freely and as often as needed without the slightest harmful effect.

Trial Offer to Vick Users.

You have Vicks VapoRub. Now, get a bottle of Vicks Nose Drops. Use it with VapoRub as directed in the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home. If you are not satisfied that it actually reduces your high cost of colds this winter, your druggist is authorized to refund your money.

STONE LAYING FOR NEW GIVENS HALL AT WASHINGTON U.

Donor of $300,000 Building for School of Architecture Makes Brief Expression of Pleasure.

The corner stone of Givens Hall, which will house the School of Architecture of Washington University, was laid yesterday morning with a brief speaking ceremony. The impressive $300,000 building of gray stone is expected to be ready for occupancy next September.

One of the addresses was by Joseph G. Givens, retired architect and contractor, whose unexpected gift of $850,000 to the university a year ago made the structure possible. His contribution provided also endowments for maintenance of this building and of the university and a nucleus for a fund for architectural scholarships.

The building, to be called Joseph W. and Kate Abbey Givens Hall, in memory of the donor's parents, is at the southeastern corner of the university campus on Forsythe boulevard, west of Skinker boulevard. It matches the nearby School of Fine Arts, the gift of the late W. K. Bixby, and eventually the two buildings will be linked by a museum of fine arts, the university hopes. The elder Givens erected the university's former buildings at Seventeenth street and Washington avenue. Jamieson & Spearl are the architects of Givens Hall.

Givens Expresses Pleasure.

Among the spectators yesterday were many of the 108 students of the school of architecture. Givens' address was a brief expression of pleasure. His wife placed the corner stone. The principal address was made by Louis La Beaume, architect, chairman of the university's Advisory Committee on Fine Arts and president of the City Art Museum. He said, in part:

"We in St. Louis who have watched with pride the growth of this great institution have had many occasions to felicitate the board of directors, the faculty, the student body and our fellow citizens on the sure and steady expansion of the prestige of Washington University. We have noted the strengthening of faculty after faculty, the erection of building after building, the enrichment of opportunity, both in the field of scholarship and spiritual inspiration, and in the physical conveniences and improved paraphernalia of the students' workshops which have characterized the progress of this great university.

"This building will be called the school of architecture, and I know that the term architecture may connote in the minds of many some close affinity with the science of engineering. Architecture and engineering are, however, not at all the same thing. Science is man's effort to unravel the riddle of physical forces, to weigh and measure the relationship of physical elements, to estimate by pure reason the association between cause and effect. Art is man's effort to relate himself with the world of his environment, both spiritual and physical. We do not think of art as concerned with quantity, with size, weight, depth, height, distance or time. Art has to do with quality, with some finer or inner symptom of substance. Art results from the interposition of a human personality between an object or an idea contemplated and the conscious core of that personality.

Architecture Oldest Art.

"Of all the arts in the human curriculum, the art of architecture is perhaps the oldest, the most far reaching, the most ubiquitous. None of us can escape its implications or its influence for good or ill. We may be deaf to music, blind to poetry or painting, oblivious to sculpture, but we cannot shut our eyes to the architecture around us. We are confronted by the work of the architects, noble or ignoble, at every turn. We live and die in buildings, work in them, worship in them, feel the esthetic impact of them when we look out of our windows or venture abroad in the streets."

To the architectural students, La Beaume said:

"The day of slavish copying, of servile imitation, is drawing to a close. You are confronted by a new and everchanging world, and your art must reflect the conditions which created it. Technique is important in your art as in all the arts, but mere technique is vanity and flippancy.

"The formal school of architecture is young in this country. Almost none existed a generation ago, but today schools of architecture flourish in connection with all of our great colleges and universities. More and more the importance of the arts is being recognized, nad American advance in the field of architecture has already been tremendous. This school has made an enviable record in the 30 years since its founding. Here in its new home its possibilities are limitless.

Visions Proposed Museum.

"Some day ere long we may hope to see the architects, the painters and the sculptors joined together in a happy con-fraternity, meeting and refreshing their spirits in a great museum which will connect this building and the Bixby School of Fine Arts. This museum, lake a library, will enable you to commune with the great spirits of the past. They will respect you and you will respect yourselves more if you do not ape them."

Prof. Gabriel Ferrand of the school of architecture praised the facilities of the new building. Chancellor Throop of the university presided, and the invocation and benediction were delivered by the Rev. Karl Morgan Block of the Episcopal Church of St. Michael and St. George.

SUPERDREADNOUGHTS, representing a brand new class in the fighting world, will be launched Friday, Nov. 27, at New York, when Primo Carnera and Vittorio Campolo, totaling about one-quarter of a ton of meat and bone, will engage in battle.

This fight will be the first of an elimination series to determine who's who in the class which was recently created by William Muldoon, the octogenarian member of the New York State Athletic Commission. In declaring Carnera too big to meet the ordinary-sized heavyweights, Muldoon announced that the big fellows would be grouped and must battle among themselves. Campolo, it is said, will scale around 240 pounds and Carnera will weigh more than 260 pounds.

Others eligible to this class are Jose Santa, 240; Ace Clarke, 240-pound Negro; George Godfrey, another cullud pusson, weight 250 pounds, and one or two others.

WHETHER the segregation of these heavies into one group proves helpful or not, it is certain that sooner or later Mr. Muldoon's endeavor to prevent the mastodons from meeting the normal heavies will be defeated. timately fans will want to find out whether the good little heavyweight is good enough to beat the champion dreadnought. No world title could be clinched otherwise.

Incidentally, Illinois has no idea of preventing matches between the dreadnoughts and the mere battle cruisers of the ring. The State Athletic Commission has approved a fight between Carnera and "Kingfish" Levinsky, who weighs just around 200 pounds, scheduled for next Thursday.

This fight leads nowhere, but may prove a sort of battle between a hornet and a bull. It is another match which indicates that Carnera's backers are not aid of having their meal-ticket's reputation mussed up. There is no credit to be gained by Carnera from this fight and probably no considerable amount of money will be forthcoming.

Missouri scoring—Touchdown, Bittner; point after touchdown, Gill (place kick).

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 14.—Gwinn Henry's Missouri Tigers, taking advantage of two costly fumbles, scored a touchdown within the first two minutes of play to defeat the Oklahoma Sooners, 7 to 0, here this afternoon, before a home-coming crowd estimated at 8000.

Missouri won the game when George Stuber, Tiger quarterback, threw a 15-yard pass over the goal line to the Missouri captain, Frank Bittner. Percy Gill added the seventh point with a place kick.

But after Missouri went into the lead, it was a fighting and at times dangerous Oklahoma eleven that carried the battle. In the final period, the Sooners unleashed a furious aerial attack which threw a scare into the Missourians, and nearly resulted in a tie.

Fumbles Costly.

The first costly Oklahoma fumble paved the way for the Missouri touchdown, and the second halted a Sooner attack after Capt. Guy Warren had taken the ball to the Missouri one-foot line late in the final period.

With the victory, the Tigers passed up the Sooners in the Big Six Conference race, capturing fourth place in taking their first conference game of the season.

Ab Walker, Sooner quarterback, fumbled Karl Johanningmeier's opening kick-off on the Oklahoma 25-yard line, and Bittner recovered for Missouri. After Johanningmeier lost two yards, Stuber made first down on two plays, but the Sooner forward wall held on three attempted Missouri attempts to pierce it, and then Stuber tossed to Bittner for the touchdown hardly before the players had warmed up.

But the Sooners were not disheartened. They fought back yard for yard, for during most of the remainder of the battle, the ball was in Missouri territory. Time and again, the Tigers had to rely upon Gill's long punts to get out of danger.

Tiger Coach in Hospital.

Statistics show Missouri had a slight advantage on line plays, gaining 167 yards to 136 for the Sooners. The Oklahoma aerial attack, however, netted them 94 yards on six completed passes out of 18 attempts, while Missouri gained 30 yards on two successful tries in four attempts. Both teams made nine first downs.

The Tigers were without the services of their coach. Gwinn

ard struck quickly against Holy Cross' strong eleven and then settled back to protect that advantage and win, 7-0. Southern Methodist, outstanding contender for the southwest conference championship, was hard pressed to beat Baylor, 6—0.

There were two big upsets on the Eastern front. Dartmouth walloped Cornell's previously undefeated outfit, 14-0, as the Morton-McCall passing combination tallied twice, and Carnegie ruined Temple's unbeaten record with a 19-13 victory. The Pitt Panthers' aerial attack demoralized Army and the Cadets suffered their worst beating in years, 26-0.

Northwestern Able To Beat Indiana Only by Kick After Touchdown

By the Associated Press.

EVANSTON, Nov. 14.—Northwestern's gridiron machine, rolling toward undisputed championship of the Western Conference, was almost stalled today, but managed to grind out a slender one-point victory over Indiana's scrapping Hoosiers.

The score, 7 to 6, indicates just how big a scare the Wildcats suffered before a crowd of 19,000 spectators, who shuddered for nearly three periods at the prospect of a 6-0 Indiana triumph.

The Hoosiers, battling like mad men, fought the great Wildcat line off its feet from the start and through two periods and part of another, were considerably the better. Their touchdown was the result of a dazzling 51-yard run by a Negro substitute halfback, Jesse Babb of Fort Wayne, Ind. Babb streaked over Northwestern's left end and on until he was knocked out of bounds at the Wildcat four-yard line.

The period ended a moment later, but Bob Jones, Indiana's fullback went over for a touchdown as the second period opened. Vic Dauer, Hoosier quarterback, attempted to place kick the extra point, but the ball struck an upright and bounded back into the field for a heart-breaking failure.

Northwestern began to pick up speed in the third quarter and a fumble, recovered by Fencl, gave the Wildcats their opportunity. With the ball on Indiana's 22-yard line, Reb Russell, playing his first game in five weeks, with help from Rentner and Engebretsen, walloped his way to a touchdown. George Potter, Wildcat quarterback, stepped up with Marvil holding the ball and sent it between the posts for the extra point and victory.

It was Northwestern's fourth straight "Big Ten" triumph and left only Iowa to be conquered at Iowa City next week in its path to the undisputed title.

Northwestern had been figured to defeat Indiana by as big a margin as it chose, but the Hoosiers again threatened to upset the Wildcats as they did in 1927-28-29.

Northwestern made four first downs to the Hoosiers' three. Indiana gained 120 yards from scrimmage, one more than Northwestern, and bottled up the Wildcat passing attack. Northwestern completed one pass out of 12 for a six-yard gain, while three of Indiana's four aerials were intercepted. Jones, who did Indiana's kicking, gave a great account of himself against Ollie Olson and Potter. He averaged 40 yards on 16 attempts, while the Northwestern pair had a mean of 41 yards in 18 boots.

NEBRASKA PUTS KANSAS AGGIES OUT OF THE RACE

By the Associated Press.

MANHATTAN, Kan., Nov. 14.—A 70-yard dash by Lewis Brown, 160-pound substitute quarterback, to a touchdown, gave the University of Nebraska a 6 to 3 victory over Kansas State here today and erased the Aggies' last chance to be co-champion of the Big Six conference.

Cronkhite's kick from the 28-yard line gave the Aggies their score.

The victory makes the Cornhuskers odds-on favorites to clinch the Big Six title. They need only to win from Iowa State in their final game next Saturday.

It was the Huskers' fourth conference victory. They have been defeated only in nonconference competition, by Northwestern.

NOTRE DAME BEATS NAVY, 20-0; ALL SCORING IN SECOND PERIOD

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE Md., Nov. 14.—The Navy's football ship, tossed about uncertainty in its campaign so far this season, ran afoul the Notre Dame hurricane here today and floundered on the rocks of a 20-to-0 defeat.

The green-shirted raiders of South Bend smashed over the Navy goal three times in the second period, but after that a stubborn Middy defense halted the fast-running backs and played the powerful line on almost even terms to stop every scoring threat.

The Middies, in holding the high-scoring outfit carrying on for Notre Dame to three touchdowns, surprised those who had expected the gold-helmeted steam roller to smother them under an avalanche of scoring.

Even at that the 20 points scored by the Ramblers did not indicate the real difference between the two teams in everything but stubbornness of defense. Not one first down did the Navy register, while the South Benders were counting 14.

And Then the Fun Began.

Not until the second period did Notre Dame get the scoring range. Then it came quick and fast. Schwartz started it. An exchange of kicks gave Notre Dame the ball on the Navy 33-yard line. The one and only Marchmont shot a lateral pass to Banas, who raced 10 yards and then he shot through

Pittsburg Panthers Crush Army 26 to 0; 62,000 Witness Battle

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 14.—A swirling ground fog that stuck to the gridiron and enshrouded the big municipal stadium here today proved a perfect screen for the passing attack of Coach Jock Sutherland's Pittsburg Panthers as they took to the air to hand a strong Army eleven its worst defeat of the season.

When the final gun sounded and 62,000 spectators were able to relax from the tiring task of peering through the fog, the scoreboard read: Pitt 26, Army 0.

There was never a doubt of the outcome, so completely did the Panthers dominate the situation. Their rip-tearing backs, Heller and Reider, tore gaping holes through the Army ramparts all afternoon, and their aerial raids demoralized the Cadets' defense, such as it was. Never once did the future Generals penetrate Pittsburg territory.

Using the forward pass with rare proficiency, the Panthers pegged through and over the West Pointers for all four of their touchdowns and rolled up a total of 302 yards by that route. The winners collected 16 first downs, against three for the Cadets.

Although they marched down to Army's five-yard line in the opening period, the Panthers did not score until the second. Then they struck with startling swiftness. Collins, regular right end, who never before threw a pass for Pitt in a regular game, went back far in his own territory, as if to kick. It was third down, and Army's secondary deployed properly. But instead of punting, Collins drew back and heaved a pass down the middle. Stecker, Army safety, made a desperate attempt to knock it down, but it slipped over his fingers and nestled in Reider's arms some 45 yards from the Cadets' goal line. He dodged another Army back and sprinted across without even a close pursuer.

The winners' three additional touchdowns were entirely superfluous. Heller scored the next one in the third period, when he took a lateral from Reider and jogged 12 yards across. Cutri, substitute quarterback, caught a short toss from Heller behind the line of scrimmage and weaved 40 yards through a broken field for the third. The last one came with minutes left to play, when Heller completed a pass to Sebastian, another substitute, for 24 yards. Sebastian took it almost on the goal line. McMurdo gave the Panthers two extra points with place kicks.

Today's decisive victory stamped Pitt as one of the East's strongest grid machines. Its only loss this season was to Notre Dame.

Williams Beats Amherst; Keeps "Little 3" Title

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Nov. 14.—Working smoothly behind a powerful offensive line, the Williams' backfield crashed through a tenacious Amherst defensive for four touchdowns here today to win their fourth successive "Little Three" championship. The score was 33 to 7, a field goal and a safety adding to the Williams' total.

Amherst barely avoided a shutout in the last two minutes of play when a one-yard line plunge netted a touchdown.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Kansas University's corn-fed Jayhawkers were too big, too strong, too fast and too smart for the Bears of Washington University yesterday afternoon. Coach Al Sharpe's gallant band of class room athletes fought courageously against the powerful underdogs of the Big Six Conference at Francis Field. It was Home Coming day and although not many of the old grads "came home" there were 3000 friends in the stands and the Bears tried, oh, so hard, to give the crowd something to cheer about. But it was a losing fight they fought and the Jayhawkers pounded them, mauled them, tricked them and defeated them, 28 to 0.

Only stubborn gameness enabled the Bears to hold the Jayhawkers to four touchdowns. They were outweighed 15 or 20 pounds to the man in the line and the broad-shouldered dashing Kansas ball carriers made the Washington backfield look at times like a quartet of jockeys.

Even when Washington flesh wearied and Coach Sharpe had to send in replacements as a matter of necessity, the Bears fought on. During a late stretch of the game three light quarterbacks—Tyrell, Hardin and Cochrane, were in the Bear backfield. But even then the ripping corn-fed bruisers were unable to chalk up the touchdowns that their physical superiority would have justified.

Bears Make 4 First Downs.

In one quarter—the third—the Bears actually outplayed the Jayhawkers, but despite that short period of supremacy the Jayhawkers had all the better of the contest. Try as they did, the Bears could register only four first downs, while the Jayhawkers cracked the line, skirted the ends and tossed forward passes to make the lineman's chain slither along the sideline 16 times.

Coach Sharpe has been handicapped all year by the lack of experienced gridiron warriors. Sophomores who should be still learning the fundamentals in scrimmage and from the bench, have been forced into the Bear lineup as regulars. And it was this inexperience that made the Bears easy victims as the Jayhawkers scored their first touchdown.

Shortly after the struggle start-

The games were played at the Public Schools Stadium before a crowd of 6000.

The West Enders held a 7 to 0 lead at the end of the first half by virtue of Gene Handley's end-around run in the first quarter for 30 yards and a touchdown. Leslie Post added the extra point by placekicking. Judging by the work of the Soldan line, which put up a splendid defense all afternoon, the handicap should have been enough for Soldan to protect and to coast to victory., but the North Siders had other ideas.

Beaumont Upsets the Works.

In the third quarter Charley Droke sent one of his long punts to Paul Braudrick, who caught the ball all right, but he took two steps and dropped it, Melville Taylor recovering for Beaumont on Soldan's 25-yard line. The North Siders used three plays to move up nine yards and then Droke slipped around left end for the remaining distance to the goal line. Billy Wells dropped back to kick the extra point, but Harry Bennett was given the ball and he plunged the three yards to tie the score.

Again in the same period. Bob Minkey fumbled on his 38-yard line and Beaumont was put in position for its second score as Wells fell on the ball. Ed Minges called for a pass on the first play and Droke responded with a perfect 34-yard toss to Wells, who ran the remaining four yards for the score.

From a standpoint of yardage gained and the number of first downs, Beaumont easily deserved the victory because the North Siders had nine first downs to Soldan's two. The defeat was the first for the West Enders this season and their record in the league now is two victories and one defeat.

Field Day for Roosevelt.

Central found it impossible to stop the Roosevelt avalanche and as a result the Rough Riders had a field day. The first four touchdowns were called by turn and the regular members of the Roosevelt backfield scored in rotation, with Jack Connors and Al Shannon going over in the first period and Don Root, Gus Beiser and Shannon again in the second to make the total 31 at the half. The only extra point of the seven touchdowns was made by Beiser, who plunged through the line.

The Rough Riders became wearied from their constant running and scored once in each of the last two quarters, Beiser taking the ball over in the third and Carl Wood receiving a pass from Root in the fourth period.

Central made only one first down, while Roosevelt made 16.

The championship of the league will depend upon the outcome of the game between Roosevelt and Soldan next Saturday. Should Soldan win, each school will be given half a leg on the Yale Bowl, but if the Rough Riders are victorious, the trophy will be retired permanently from competition.

The standings of the schools:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Roosevelt	3	0	1.000
Soldan	2	1	.667
Cleveland	1	2	.333
Beaumont	1	2	.333
Central	1	3	.250

ed, the Bears showed their grit. Elmer Schaake, Carney Smith and Lee Page punched the Bear line and skirted the ends until the ball was within a few feet of the Washington goal line. But the Bears braced and held and recovered the ball on downs.

Page Scores.

Frederickson had to punt from behind his goal line and his kick rolled out of bounds on the Washington 32-yard line. Schaake circled right end for eight yards. Kansas had been gaining easily around the wings and on the next play Page bluffed to pass the ball to Schaake for another circling run and the inexperienced Bears broke to protect the wings. It was a spinner play, and Page, finding a hole in the middle of the line that would have accommodated a couple of milk wagons, dashed 24 yards for a touchdown, and placekicked the extra point.

Smith, Schaake and Page did most of the ground gaining against the Bears and accounted for all of the scoring. Page twice crossed the Washington line and kicked four extra points after touchdowns and Schaake and Smith each went over the line once.

Forward passes figured prominently in the second Kansas touchdown. Late in the first quarter the Jayhawkers started a drive after receiving a punt on their 40-yard line. Schaake made four, Smith added three and Page made it first down on the Bears' 47-yard line. The Bears were trying to plug the holes in the line, and a pass, Page to Gridley, caught them unawares and was good for 21 yards. Page bit off a yard and Smith added three as the quarter ended.

On the second play of the second quarter Smith passed to Schaake and the dashing 176-pound ball carrier, looking 15 pounds heavier than that figure, romped over the line for a touchdown.

Page, 195 energetic pounds of corn-fed bone and muscle, intercepted a pass and ran to Washington's 34-yard line a few minutes later and after a line play and a penalty put the ball on the Bears' 25-yard line, Page broke through right tackle, reversed his field and outran several Washington players to add another touchdown.

It looked like the contest was going to be a disgraceful rout for the Bears about this time, but they braced, held the enemy through the rest of the half, outplayed them in the third and prevented further scoring until the final period.

Kansas received a punt in midfield before starting the final productive drive. Big Smith made eight yards and enough more to make it first down on the Washington 37-yard line. Smith cracked the line for five more and then Schaake threw a pass to O'Neil who was downed on the 13-yard line. Dependable Smith tore off nine yards and then made it first down about a foot from the goal line. The Bears threw themselves against the Jayhawkers and stopped Page's drive, but the ball then was given to Smith and he plowed through for the fourth and final touchdown of the afternoon and his dependable boot made the score 28 to 0.

Bears Threaten.

Only once did the Bears threaten seriously to cross the Kansas goal line and then were aided by two very lucky breaks. Plaskett fumbled a Washington punt on his 34-yard line and Weaver fell on the ball. A Washington pass then was incomplete, but the officials ruled that the Jawhawkers had interfered with the receiver and the pass was ruled complete, the Bears getting the ball on the Kansas 22-yard line.

Hardin followed with a pass to Tyrell and the little red-headed tyke raced to the Kansas six-yard line before he was buried under a pile of corn-fed tacklers.

There was a plaintive cry from the Washington rooters for a touchdown, but the Bears didn't have the punch. Tyrell hit a mountain of flesh and bone for no gain, a pass was incomplete and then Casini intercepted a Bear pass and the Jayhawkers kicked out of their only danger of the afternoon.

Coaches Praise Players.

"I wish I had a good defensive fullback," Coach Sharpe wished.

"I'm proud of the way the boys played," Line Coach Bullman declared. "Our boys looked like midgets against those big corn-fed babies, but they fought 'em. And they outplayed 'em part of the game. The whole line played well and Erspamer deserves a little extra praise."

"Say, Coach,' 'an Old Grad butted in. "I heard you wishing for a defensive fullback. While you're at it, let me help you and we'll wish for a couple of tough halfbacks and a couple of big, fast tackles."

But there was no wishing for gameness. Nobody can question the gameness of the gallant little band of Washington athletes.

GUNNERS MEET IOWA ELEVEN IN PRO GAME TODAY

They have points, these Des Moines football players who are coming to oppose the Battery A Gunners this afternoon in the pro game at Public Schools Stadium. They have 152 points to their credit in seven games this season, according to information sent ahead, against only three for all opponents.

And while nothing has been sent along tabbing them as a "corn-belt tornado," "avalanche" or "steam roller," they have indicated by their play for the 10 years of organization that Arnold Krull, the coach, knows his football.

Won 70 Games.

According to the "dope," this Des Moines club has won 70 out of 85 starts in its decade of activity in the pro field, has tied opponents in nine other games, and that leaves only six for the defeat column. That's a winning percentage of .824 and a losing mark of only .07. It'll take quite a sharpshooting bunch of Gunners to land on that target.

The weight advantage will be with the Battery A outfit—at the start, anyway. The Des Moines team will average 181, against 185 for the Gunners; Des Moines' line will average 181, against the Gunners' 188, and the visiting backfield will average 177, against 180 for Coach Jimmy Conzelman's aggregation.

Colleges all over Iowa will be represented in the Des Moines starting lineup, and more corn-fed boys will wait around a few minutes on the bench for the call for replacements. "Chuck" Delmege, star end, and Spears, end, are two former Drake players with the club; Hickman, tackle, and Miller, halfback, formerly played with Iowa State, and other players are from Grinnell, Dubuque and Cornell of Cornell, Ia.

Quarterback Kaupp, described as "another Sausseie," is the player from Dubuque. He is the outstanding star of the eleven.

Among the replacements is another Drake player, Seiberling, a back, who tips the beam at 205 pounds.

Gunners Have a "Drake."

The Gunners also will show a Drake player of other years, and a new man in the Battery front, in Bob Wright, a guard. Wright and John Fuhrman, tackle from University of Iowa, are old "friendly enemies" of a number of the Des Moines players, who have high praise for the football the Hawkeyes play.

A third consecutive victory will be the goal of the Gunners in this afternoon's game. They have defeated in succession the Kansas City Cowboys, 24-0, and the Chicago Panthers, 6-0. Their point total is 36, against six for opponents.

Ted Sausseie will try to keep up his average of more than 100 yards a game in ground gained. Sausseie, in the three games played, has gained on successive Sundays, 85 yards, 175 yards and 152 yards.

Kickoff will be at 2:30 o'clock, and the Richard Anderson Post (American Legion) Band will be on hand.

URBANA DEFEATS DANVILLE TEAM, 18-0

By the Associated Press.

URBANA, Ill., Nov. 14.—Urbana High School defeated Danville here today, 18 to 0, and continued to share its record of no Big 12 Conference defeats with Springfield.

The victory left only Champaign in the path of Urbana's title march and the issue will be settled next Thursday when they meet here in a night game.

All Home Games For Sing Sing Football Eleven

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—COACHES who feel that a college senior is just reaching his peak as a football player at the time he is graduated should have Capt. Red Hope among their halfbacks.

Hope captains the Sing Sing eleven, and by the time he graduates he should be the most experienced back in football history. He will be available for the prisoners' eleven for 50 years, his scholarship running that length of time on account of kidnaping.

Sunshine Williams, captain of the Negro eleven within Sing Sing's big walls, is a comparatively minor offender. Now that the elevens are receiving coaching assistance from members of the New York Giants professional team they will meet for the Sing Sing championship later in the season.

Warden E. Lawes is considering permitting the elevens to play outside teams—all home games, however.

80,000 SEE N.Y.U. AND FORDHAM IN SCORELESS TIE

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—While a crowd of 80,000, a record football gathering for New York City, cheered them impartially from the high reaches of Yankee Stadium, New York University and Fordham fought to a scoreless tie today in the annual renewal of their local gridiron rivalry.

The Maroon-clad Fordham players made eight first downs and so did New York. New York gained 178 yards by rushing the ball and Fordham only 129, but the Maroon took the ball 35 yards by passes to none for the Violet and lost only 30 yards on penalties to 55 for N. Y. U.

As the statistics go, so went the play. New York twice got within 15 yards of Fordham's goal but the Maroon several times threatened to carry the ball for touchdowns, although only once getting inside of the Violet 15-yard line.

It was a battle of giant lines, through whom only seven touchdowns had been scored this year, and they fought each other to a standstill.

Jim Tanguay, the Violet fullback and kicker, and Ed Donowski and Joe Zapustas, who divided the same duties for Fordham, never attempted to kick while closer than 15 yards to the line of scrimmage and even then the kicks were constantly rushed.

SUMNER HIGH HOLDS INDIANAPOLIS ELEVEN TO SCORELESS TIE

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 14—Sumner High of St. Louis held Attucks High to a scoreless tie here this afternoon in an interstate Negro football game.

TEXAS AGGIES TRIM RICE INSTITUTE, 7-0

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 14.—The Texas Aggies defeated Rice Institute, 7 to 0, this afternoon.

The Aggies brought a running attack of unsuspected fury to Rice field and all but carried the institute's goal breastworks on three occasions, each time getting within seven yards, or less, from touchdown. Once, A. and M. was two feet away and the Institute line held.

A. and M. finally scored late in the third period with a successful march from the Rice 27-yard line. Spencer, a substitute back, went over and Domingue, another substitute, kicked goal.

CREIGHTON SCORES 8-0 VICTORY OVER GRINNELL

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 14.—A fumble recovered over the Pioneer's goal line and a safety gave Creightonan 8 to 0 victory over Grinnell in a Missouri Valley Conference game here today.

The Blue Jay touchdown was made in the third quarter after Creighton had marched from the Grinnell 45-yard line to the two-yard line. Collins, plunging for the score, was tackled hard and dropped the ball, but Pawol, a teammate, fell upon it for the touchdown. The safety came in the same period when Thomas of Grinnell was downed by Blue Jay tacklers behind the goal line.

ILLINOIS CLINCHES BIG TEN SOCCER TITLE

By the Associated Press.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 14.—Illinois defeated Ohio State at soccer today, 2 to 1, and clinched the Big Ten championship.

The winning goal was scored by Reston in the closing minutes of play. Ader made the first Illini point and English counted for the Buckeyes.

HARVARD HELD TO A TOUCHDOWN BY HOLY CROSS

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 14.—Harvard cashed one of its two scoring chances to register a 7-0 victory over Holy Cross and continue undefeated today before a sell-out crowd of 58,000. The Crimson marched 72 yards, Jack Crickard ploughing over for the touchdown and Capt. Barry Wood drop-kicking the extra point in the first period.

Wood ended another long march by missing a drop-kick for the field goal.

Blocked Kick Helps Columbia Beat Brown, 9-7

By the Associated Press.

PROVIDENCE, R. I. Nov. 14.—A Columbia eleven which was halted at the goal line five times, and held scoreless in the first half, snatched a 9-7 triumph from Brown by the margin of a safety in the final period to score its second major Eastern triumph of the season at Brown Field today.

Not since football was restored at Columbia in 1915 has a Blue and White team won two major games in a year. Today's triumph was set alongside of the conquest of Dartmouth a month ago to make football history at Columbia. It also was Columbia's first conquest out of the four games played with Brown.

It was Tony Matal, red-headed end from Lawrence, Mass., who converted a seeming deadlock at 7-7 in the final quarter into a blazing triumph for the Lions. Matal, whose work conquered Dartmouth a month ago, rushed into Bob Chase, Brown quarter, in the Brown end zone in the last period, and blocked Chase's attempted boot, to give Columbia a safety which proved the winning margin.

An unusual circumstance occasioned the play. Montgomery, Columbia's quarterback, had punted down the field to the Brown five-yard line. Dick Marsan, Bruin safety man, in attempting to ward off Columbia tacklers, kicked the ball on the turf out of bounds, and the referee ruled a loss-of-the-ball penalty on Brown to give Columbia the ball on Brown's five-yard line. The Bruins rebuffed the Lions' stab at the touchdown, and took the ball on downs, setting the stage for the attempted kick by Chase.

The lineups:

CARNEGIE TURNS BACK TEMPLE TEAM, 19-13

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—A rambling squad of Embryo Engineers from Carnegie Tech shattered Temple University's unbeaten 1931 record today with a 19 to 13 triumph.

Temple's unsuccessful fight to overcome a 19 to 0 lead during the latter half had the 20,000 spectators rising to shout themselves hoarse.

With the score 13 to 0 against them at the end of the half, Temple valiantly mixed line and overhead plays and crossed the goal line late in the third period when Driebe hammered the line in three tries for five yards and the necessary distance.

Passes, two doubles and a triple, brought a second marker for Temple shortly after the final period opened.

TEXAS U. UPSETS TEXAS CHRISTIAN

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 14.—Texas Christian University's chances to win the Southwest Conference championship were almost destroyed today when the University of Texas, rated as the under dog, defeated the Christians, 10 to 0.

Southern Methodist University, conqueror of Baylor by 6 to 0, will play the Christians Nov. 28 in the season finale, and needs only a tie to win the championship.

Texas scored a field goal near the middle of the first period when a crushing drive, topped by a 20-yard pass from Koy to Stafford gave them the ball on the Christians' 10-yard stripe. Weaver, a substitute halfback, was rushed in. He place-kicked from the 12-yard line.

Craig, dashing Texas back, was the hero of the drive that netted a Texas touchdown in the third period. After Texas gained the ball on its 40-yard line on an exchange of punts, Craig skimmed through the Christian left tackle to the 14-yard line. Koy carried the ball across.

WRAY'S COLUMN

money to Florida than any other event that could be arranged.

Dempsey's Friends Divided.

THE attempt to get Jack to return to the ring has divided his friends into two camps, one favoring and the other opposing his comeback. The second group believes that history proves that no fighter at Dempsey's age, 36, has a chance to make good in returning to the ring after a long absence. The other group believes that Dempsey's punch is as good as ever and contends that the bouts in which he takes part will be over so quickly he will not have to worry about his legs.

You can take your pick, but before you decide it may be of some advantage to recall what happened to Jim Jeffries at Reno after Jeff had attempted a similar return to title form. That disaster is still remembered. Jeffries, although he outwardly looked good and had great stamina, was "shot" nervously and could not co-ordinate in his boxing. He was battered into helplessness.

White's Comeback a Failure.

CHARLEY WHITE, a great lightweight in his day, gave a pitiful display a few years ago, when he attempted to return to the ring. Benny Leonard isn't getting off first base, in his effort to return to form, and Willie Ritchie, a lightweight champion, was another failure in an attempt to come back.

Dempsey has been on the decline since 1926, and has not fought a real fight since 1928. It seems unlikely that he could make good under the most favorable circumstances against a younger foe of class.

The only thing in Dempsey's favor is that there is no quality to any of the heavyweight division today, and there will certainly be no master craftsman like old Jack Johnson to whittle him to pieces at will.

Who Gets the Credit?

PUG RENTNER of the Northwestern University backfield has a great record this season. To be appreciated, it must be seen in detail. Here it is for his first six games:

Gains from scrimmage, 78 attempts	473 yards
Punts returned, 30 attempts	345 yards
Kickoffs returned, 7 attempts	217 yards
Intercepted passes, 2 attempts	28 yards
Passes caught, 2 attempts	21 yards
Totals, 119 attempts, 1084 yards.

This represents an average gain of 9.1 yards for each effort, which is tantamount to saying that he is good for a first down every time he starts.

Right here we may expect the Chronic Grouch to rise and say: "Well, why give him the credit, when the powerful line and the fine blocking of his interferers made it possible for him to achieve this record?"

Give Old Nick His Due.

BUT that, too, is going too far. There has been a tendency to take away credit from the backfield men and hand it to the line and blocking backs. However, it seems evident from the open field runs, that the shifty back earns most of the credit given him.

For example, on runs from scrimmage, where the back gets a maximum of protection, Rentner gained 475 yards; but on runs and runbacks of all other sorts, punts, kickoffs, intercepted passes and passes from teammates, plays in which the back gets a minimum of help, Rentner gained a far greater total—611 yards, to be exact, in six games.

The difference in power between a Washington University with Sausseie and one without him sufficiently illustrates the real worth of a first-class back.

The linemen and the blockers do their work and earn all the commendation that can be given them. Unfortunately for them, the thousands can see the man with the ball doing his stuff but the hard work of the forwards is usually passed unobserved. For that reason coaches of late years have been stressing the importance of the line as compared to the backs. But a good line with a weak backfield is almost as badly off as a strong backfield with a weak line.

The "No-Contest" Trend.

INSTANCES in which the officials have thrown fighters out of the ring declaring their show "no contest" are becoming more numerous. Most of them happen when the attendance has proved unsatisfactory and the prospect of meager pay for a good beating fails to interest the fighters.

In two of the recent instances, however, there is reason to believe that the result was not due to financial depression so much as to a 100 per cent intention to do as little work as possible for the money. They call it "stalling."

It is worthy of note that two of the offenses were by old offenders, and one of them a champion. Maxie Rosenbloom, light-heavyweight king, and Paul Swiderski are the boys we refer to. Rosenbloom "no-contested" and had his money held up for a waltz with Jimmy Braddock, while Swiderski and his opponent, Joe Sekyra, also were halted in the middle of a dreamy tango and awakened to the sad reality that they had been thrown out of the ring and their money taken away from them.

Gave St. Louis a Taste.

St. Louisans remember the show put on by Swiderski and Rosenbloom in St. Louis.

Occasionally two fighters whose styles are not suited put up a bad-looking fight while really trying. But for the most part when two young men begin to pull and tug and wrestle around the ring, miss wild swings and catch all the gloves that are thrown at them, you can put it down as a "barney."

When two boys really want to fight, they can generally make it clear to the ringsiders. As Jack Dempsey once told this writer: "If two boxers really want to fight there is no reason why any battle should not be over in 10 rounds."

TIGERS WIN FROM OKLAHOMA U., 7-0

Henry who was forced to remain in a hospital where he was reported as slowly improving from a minor operation.

In his absence the Missourians were directed by assistant coaches Jack Crangle and Harry Lansing, who, throughout the week, had conferred with the head mentor, regarding what method of attack to unfold today.

Captain Warren, who was kept out of the starting line-up on account of injuries, was inserted during the third period, and his presence seemed to inspire the Sooner offensive.

Late in the fourth period, the diminutive Oklahoma leader, snatched a pass from Marvin Ellstrom for a gain of 32 yards to place the ball on the Missouri 25-yard stripe. On three plunges, Ernie Massad made first down on the Tiger 14-yard line. Then Warren got loose, and when it appeared he was about to go over for a touchdown, he was forced out of bounds on the Missouri one foot line.

Here the Sooners met a stone wall. On the first Oklahoma line buck, one yard was lost. Massad, however, gained it back, but on the third try, he fumbled, and Missouri's sophomore ace, Charlie Schiele, recovered it on his own two-yard line, and Gill punted out of danger.

It was Oklahoma's final Big Six conference appearance of the season, and today's set-back was its fourth against one victory over Kansas. The Tigers meet the Kansas Jayhawks next Saturday in their final conference engagement of the year. The game was played under ideal weather conditions.

Moberly Beats Principia, 45-7

The Moberly team, which has lost only one game so far this season, plunged through the Principia line for 11 first downs in the first quarter, resulting in three touchdowns by Schilling, Mariot and Dixon.

Tullis of Principia started the first threatening attack against Moberly when he broke away in the third quarter and ran 35 yards before he was downed. A fumble gave Moberly the ball and after a series of line plunges, Schilling ran through left tackle for 65 yards and the fifth Moberly touchdown. Schilling caught a pass in the fourth quarter and again made a long run for this third touchdown.

The lone touchdown for Principia came at the close of the last quarter after line plunges and a penalty had placed the St. Louis team in a scoring position. Tullis went over for the touchdown and later drop-kicked the extra point.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 14.—Tulane's powerful team continued its drive toward national title recognition today by handing the Georgia Bulldogs their first defeat, 20 to 7, before a crowd estimated at 37,000, at Sanford stadium here.

Fist fights were waged along the side lines during a good share of the final period as thousands encroached on the playing field, delaying the finish of the game and giving the police all they could handle.

Don Zimmerman's passing, coupled with the superior kicking and line play of Tulane, proved decisive. Passes led to two Tulane touchdowns. Georgia's only score came on the most sensational play of the game, a 60-yard pass, Homer Key to Buster Mott.

Tennessee Remains In Title Race.

Penn Defeats Georgia Tech By One Point

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FRANKLIN FIELD, PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—A savage, charging Georgia Tech eleven gave a sluggish Penn team an afternoon of fear-thrills here today as they bowed to the Red and Blue, 13 to 12, before an excited gathering of less than 20,000.

Penn took a 13-0 lead in the first 10 minutes on touchdowns by Kellett and Ford and a placement by Gette and then was outplayed the remainder of the game. The of many forwards, McArthur Hart, gave Tech a touchdown near the end of the first period.

At the opening of the fourth quarter, Pat Barron took a Penn punt on his eight-yard line and by a wonderful bit of dodging and change of pace, weaved his way through the entire Penn team for 92 yards and a touchdown.

Theretola, Penn center, blocked the first extra point try by McArthur and Sokolis, a tackle, the second. Goette of Penn made his extra point on the first touchdown by placement kick.

What is believed to be a forward pass record for accuracy was established here today in the first period of today's game. Six passes were attempted and all completed. Penn gained 58 yards on four aerials and Tech completed two for an advance of 28 yards.

NOTRE DAME BEATS NAVY ELEVEN, 20-0

left tackle to the Navy 15-yard line. With perfect interference opening the entire left side of the Middy line, Schwartz dashed through and over the goal standing up.

The second touchdown was the result of a sustained 66-yard drive that started after Devore returned the Navy kickoff to his own 34-yard line. Banas, Schwartz and Murphy ripped the Navy tackles to heds for two straight first downs. Marchy shot a long pass to Murphy, who raced to the Navy 34.

Schwartz poked through the Navy left tackle to the 15-yard line, and then tossed a lateral to Banas, who was thrown on the one-yard stripe. He plunged over on one try, but Murphy's kick for the extra point was blocked.

Penalty Helps Notre Dame.

The final counter came as the direct result of a 15-yard penalty the Navy and a beautiful pass from Millheam to Murphy. The Navy attack could not get under way, and Gordon Chung Hoon, the Navy's Hawaiian backfield star, ot off a poor punt to his own 47-yard line. There the penalty was plastered on the Tars for holding.

Four smashes at the line put Notre Dame in position on the Navy 28-yard line. There Millheam dropped back and faded to his right, side-stepping three would-be tacklers, dodging the last one, he passed 45 yards diagonally across the field to Murphy, who raced the remaining seven yards to the Navy goal.

Two other Notre Dame scoring thrusts were halted by the alert Navy line, when Underwood pounced on Mike Koken's fumble n the 10-yard line and then folwed, a short time later, by his interception of one of Koken's passes on the 15-yard marker.

The sheer power of the Notre Dame line and the speed of the backs was for the most part checked except in that drive for the second touchdown. The big forward wall plowed holes wide enough for the entire backfield to dash through ahead of the ball carriers, who piled up a total of 281 yards in rushing from scrimmage.

Hawaiian Halfback Shines.

Gordon Chung Hoon, the Tars' Hawaiian halfback, was the shining light of the Navy's stand. He held his own in the kicking department with Marchy Schwartz, gained 24 of the Navy's 51 yards, and backed up the line in fine style. "Bullet" Lou Kirn, the Navy's backfield ace, did not get in the game because of an injury.

ST. LOUIS GIRLS HOCKEY ELEVEN BREAKS EVEN

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—After losing to the Chicago team, 3 to 1, today for their second successive defeat in the Midwest Hockey Tournament the St. Louis girls' team turned around and played strongly to win from Milwaukee, 5 to 1, giving them a record of one victory out of three starts in the two days of play.

Mud stopped the St. Louis women in the first game but failed to slow them up in the second in which they scored four times in the first half to their opponents' none.

Miss Childs led the scoring for St. Louis with three goals, two of which she scored quickly in the first half. Miss Pendergast and Miss Gallagher scored the other two.

In the first game the Chicago team scored twice in the first half and again early in the second half. With only a few minutes of play remaining, Miss Boeckmann took the ball from deep in her own territory to within scoring distance when she passed to Miss Pendergast, who shot for the lone St. Louis tally.

Winifred Prendergast, St. Louis girl who starred during the tournament, has been placed on the All-Mid West team which will compete in the national tournament here late this month, it was announced. Delores Boeckmann and Gertrude Webb were named to the second All-Mid West team.

UTAH CONTINUES TO WIN, DEFEATS COLORADO, 32-0

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 14.—Utah University continued its triumphant march toward its fourth consecutive Rocky Mountain Conference football championship by downing a stubborn eleven from the University of Colorado here today, 32 to 0. The Utes tallied all of their points in the first half, Boulder warding off what few scoring threats the Indians made in the last two periods.

From the half on, the visitors played Utah on even terms, except for one scoring threat which the champions uncorked in the final period. This drive was broken up on Colorado's one-yard line.

DARTMOUTH HANDS CORNELL FIRST DEFEAT

By the Associated Press.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 14.—The greatest Cornell team in recent years tumbled from the ranks of the undefeated today as it smashed itself to pieces against an amazing Dartmouth eleven.

Running roughshod over the Green in midfield, piling up 16 first downs to six for Dartmouth, over-eager, impetuous Cornell left just two wide openings and that was all Bill Morton needed. Twice Morton, perhaps the greatest Dartmouth forward passer since the days of the illustrious Swede Oberlander, dropped back, once to Cornell's 20-yard line, once to the 45-yard mark, to rifle his deadly passes into the arms of his running mate, Bill McCall, for the touchdowns that whipped the big Red. 14 to 0, and broke the hearts of Gil Dobie's over-anxious youngsters.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA TROUNCES MONTANA FOOTBALL TEAM, 69-0

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 14.—The Montana Grizzlies were given a 69-to-0 trouncing by the University of Southern California football team here today before 30,000 persons.

Coach Howard Jones used every available Trojan in the massacre which saw 10 crossings of the Northern eleven's goal line in the first three periods of play.

That the score might have been even higher does not give just proof of the fact that Montana fought back and even twice presented something of a sustained attack.

First downs: Maplewood 11, Webster 7.

A fighting crew from Maplewood High defeated the Webster Groves football team, 6—0, in the only County League contest played yesterday, on the Webster field. Although the Statesmen showed a greatly improved brand of football, they were unable to stop the winners' line drives and wide end runs.

Maplewood's single touchdown came early in the final quarter. In the third period, Mark Christman of the visiting team returned a Webster punt from midfield to the 30-yard line. Then after two short passes over the center of the line and two drives put the ball on the two-yard mark, Christman plunged through left tackle for the score. His place kick for the extra point was low.

Early in the opening quarter, Maplewood made a drive from its own 22-yard line to its opponent's 14, but was stopped when Webster held for downs. This march was "all Christman," but in the second period, the Blue and White's fighting little fullback, George Blumer, came into his own and took the ball single-handed in a series of line plunges from midfield to Webster's 12-yard mark, where Henderson intercepted a pass from Christman to stop the rally.

Webster opened a passing attack late in the fourth period, but although several spectacular plays were made, it never was able to threaten the goal line.

In this game Coach Roberts changed his backfield, this fact contributing a great deal to his team's better play. There were two little backs, Joe Ward and Cecil Morey, who looked good, but were soon tired out and had to be replaced by larger men.

Burroughs Wins From Clayton, 26-6

John Burroughs, yesterday afternoon, defeated Clayton High School, 26—6, for the first defeat for the County League school in its new stadium. The Burroughs school, led by Manus Glancy, brother of the coach of that school, took an early lead in the first two quarters, and decisively outplayed Clayton throughout the game. Glancy scored three touchdowns and an extra point in the first half, and added another extra point in the final quarter to make 20 points. He also played a fine defensive game, and made most of Burroughs' gains.

John Burroughs' first score came in the first few minutes of the game, when a poor punt against a strong wind gave it the ball on Clayton's 30-yard line. George Tittman made 25 yards on two end runs, and on the second play, Glancy scored from the one-yard line.

Glancy, after the next kickoff, received a Clayton punt on his 45-yard mark, and raced 55 yards down the field to score. Both extra points failed.

Another punt held back by the wind was received on Clayton's 40-yard line and run back to the 23-yard line by Biggs. From there it was carried to the one-yard mark, from where Glancy again scored. This time he made good the extra point. Clayton came back in the second quarter to get its passing attack clicking, and scored on a 15-yard pass from Oliver to Litzsinger, who ran 15 more yards to score. The extra point fell.

John Burroughs' last score came when Eugene Hahnel intercepted Oliver's pass on Clayton's 20-yard line and ran 20 yards to score. Glancy again place kicked the extra point.

MICHIGAN AND STATE PLAY SCORELESS TIE

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 14.—For the second consecutive year, Michigan State College held the University of Michigan to a scoreless tie today in the twenty-sixth annual game between the two State institutions.

EAST ST. LOUIS HELD TO SAFETY BY ALTON HIGH

Coach Jack Nolen's Orange and Blue Flyers of East St. Louis High School barely eked out a victory over the strong Alton "Hilltoppers" yesterday afternoon in a Southwestern Illinois High School Conference football game by the score of 2 to 0. The lone score of the game came in the first quarter, when Bill Egan, East Side tackle, blocked an Alton punt that went out of the end zone for a safety. The Alton team proved to be more competition than the East St. Louisans had expected and played on par with the East Side eleven throughout the entire game.

This was the fifth straight Southwestern Illinois Conference win for the East St. Louisans and they are now tied with the Belleville Maroons for the topmost position in the conference. Should the East St. Louis eleven and the Belleville team win their conference games next week-end, the championship of the conference will be decided at East St. Louis on Thanksgiving morning. The East St. Louisans travel to Collinsville next Saturday, while the Belleville Maroons entertain the Edwardsville Tigers next Friday.

In yesterday's game the East St. Louisans had opportunities to score on three occasions, but could not push the ball over the goal line as the "Hilltoppers'" line held like a brick wall and on end-run plays the Alton ends sucked the play into the tackles, who stopped the threats each time. The Alton team showed a much improved defense and should they have played at the start of the season as they played yesterday, they would have been the real threat for the conference title.

Collinsville Downs Madison, 18 to 9.

The Collinsville "Kahoks" defeated the Madison High eleven yesterday afternoon in a Southwestern Illinois High School Conference game at Collinsville, 18 to 9. The Collinsville second string men played most of the game and the Collinsville goal line was never threatened only on the one play when the Madison team scored their touchdown. Thermond Parker proved the start of the game, although he only played the first quarter, and in the time he was in action he ran through the Madison team for two touchdowns.

Collinsville's first touchdown came early in the first quarter when Parker got off for a 50-yard run through the entire Madison team and about two minutes later pulled the same play to get Collinsville's second touchdown after running 30 yards. The Madison team scored nine points in the third quarter when they blocked a punt that rolled out for a safety and then pushed the ball over the goal line for a touchdown a few minutes later.

WASHINGTON STATE LOSES TO HUSKIES AFTER 18 VICTORIES

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Nov. 14.—Smothering Washington State College's vaunted aerial attack, the University of Washington Huskies today conquered the Cougars 12 to 0 in a Pacific coast conference football game.

The Washington victory halted an 18-game winning streak by Washington State over Northwest teams and spoiled the Cougar's undisputed claim for their third straight mythical northern division title.

LEAHY VICTOR IN ROLLER SKATING RACE

"Chubby" Leahy won the opening one-mile professional roller-skating race last night at the Palladium and Harold Wise finished first in the mile event for amateurs. Leahy's time was three minutes eight seconds. No time was taken on the amateur race. The order of the first four professionals to finish besides Leahy were Ed Marquardt, Jimmy Hatton and W. C. Watson.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 14.—The Scarlet and Gray Ohio State team earned second place in the Western Football Conference by defeating Wisconsin, 6 to 0, before a homecoming crowd of 35,000 here today.

Aggies Hold Michigan to a Scoreless Tie.

By the Associated Press.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 14.—Fifty thousand wet and shivering spectators today saw Coach James H. (Sleepy) Crowley's small squad from Michigan State College battle through mud and rain to hold the University of Michigan eleven to a scoreless tie for the second time in as many years.

A cold rain that began with the opening whistle and continued until a few minutes before the final gun prevented Michigan from using its effective aerial attack and slowed the efforts of Bob Monnett, State's candidate for high scoring honors in the country.

Abe Eliowitz, State's husky fullback, used his toe to good advantage, punting consistently over the mud-spattered field to keep the ball away from State's goal. Monnett, driving relentlessly at the Michigan line, was a threat in every play.

The slippery ball caused frequent fumbles, and each team was given breaks which brought the dripping spectators to their feet, but uncertain footing wrecked any scoring chances.

Bill Hewitt, Michigan's fullback, was the chief ground gainer, smashing through for three first downs. Michigan gained 123 yards by rushing, while State made 94. Only three forward passes were attempted, one being completed for a nine-yard gain by Michigan.

Jack Heston punted for Michigan, falling a yard short of the 42-yard average set by Eliowitz.

Simmons' Homer Gives All-Stars 6 to 3 Victory

By the Associated Press.

TOSHIYASU OGAWA, Japan, Nov. 14.—A homer by Al Simmons of the Philadelphia Athletics, which pierced the umbrella bleachers in center field was the high spot of a baseball game between the touring United States all stars and all-Japan team today, played in a drizzle before 40,000 fans and won by the Americans, 6 to 3.

Score:

U. S. All Stars	6	8	0
Japan	3	7	1

Batteries: U. S., Cunningham and Cochrane; Japan, Sabro, Miyatake and Masao.

Big Ten Schools To Arrange Charity Games Tomorrow

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.

ATHLETIC directors and football coaches of Western Conference institutions will meet in Chicago tomorrow to draw up a schedule of charity games for Nov. 28.

Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten athletic commissioner, said he expected that $750,000 would be realized to be distributed among the relief funds of the seven states in which are located member institutions. The season, under conference rules, ordinarily would end with next week's contests, but the faculty committee on athletics voted to extend it one week for charity.

Soldier Field, Chicago's gigantic stadium, has been engaged for one of the games, and it is expected that Northwestern, and whichever team the wildcats draw, will play there.

CLOCK TOWER, THE FAVORITE, FINISHES THIRD, MATE SCRATCHED

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 14.—A pair of rank outsiders dominated the running of the $25,000 Riggs Handicap as the Northway Stable's Plucky Play scored a nose victory over A. Bartelstein's Sidney Grant in the final feature of the Pimlico meeting today.

The two leaders circled the field on entering the stretch and then staged a great duel for the purse of $22,950. Five lengths back in third place trailed A. C. Schwartz's Clock Tower, the favorite. A. C. Bostwick's Mate, slated to make an attempt to top the list of the year's leading money winners, was scratched.

Although Plucky Play had taken the measure of Sun Beau twice in the West during the season, he was given little chance to defeat the Riggs' field, which included, in addition to Clock Tower, Mrs. Payne Whitney's St. Brideaux and Walter J. Salmon's Dr. Freeland. As a result the Northway Stable's four-year-old paid $53.60, $22.90 and $8.70 across the board. Sidney Grant returned $28.50 for a $2 place ticket.

Clock Tower, recent conqueror of Mate, set a burning pace from the start of the mile and one-half journey. Dr. Freeland and St. Brideaux were within striking distance, but Plucky Ply and Sidney Grant were far to the rear.

Plucky Play closed with a rush rounding the bend, while Sidney Grant circled the field on the outside. As the leaders set sail for home the pair easily drew away from the others and the decision was close, Sidney Grant just failing to get up. Clock Tower, carrying 121 pounds, eight more than Plucky Play, and 16 more than Sidney Grant, tired rapidly while Dr. Freeland also flattened out in the final furlong.

TWO JOCKEYS TAKEN TO HOSPITAL AFTER SPILL AT PIMLICO

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 14.—Jockeys Willie Nertney and Vincent Roussell were taken to the South Baltimore Hospital here today, the former in a serious condition, following a spill at the Pimlico race track this afternoon.

Nertney, leading rider of the fall season on the Maryland tracks, had the mount on Max Hirsch's Blue Damsel in the third race, and Roussell was up on Sandwrack.

At the clubhouse turn there was considerable crowding and Blue Damsel appeared to run on to the heels of the horse in front of her. Blue Damsel went down and Sand Wrack fell on top of her. Nertney was thrown underneath.

At the hospital physicians said Nertney was in a serious condition from internal injuries. Roussell suffered a broken shoulder and collar bone.

Country Day Loses In Chicago, 11-0

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Playing in a field of mud, St. Louis Country Day was held scoreless here this afternoon, losing, 11—0, to Chicago Latin. The St. Louisans won their home game last year.

The opening half was scoreless. In the second half the Latin eleven recovered a St. Louis fumble and swept down the field to Country Day's 12-yard line, from where Moore, Latin fullback, plunged over on three successive downs for the first touchdown of the game. Moore place-kicked for the extra point.

Late in the same quarter the Latin eleven was held on the Country Day five-yard line, and Wheaton, attempting to kick out on St. Louis' first down, was tackled for a safety behind his own goal line.

In the first part of the fourth quarter, the game became a punting duel between Moore of Chicago Latin and Skinner of Country Day, the ball wavering in midfield but in attempting on their first down on their 35-yard line, an end run, Wheaton fumbled. Late in the game line plunges put the Chicagoans at St. Louis' five-yard line again, and Country Day held. However, when Skinner got a bad pass from center, in attempting to punt out, he was tackled behind his own goal for a second safety.

Good Trading Bait.

BILL KILLEFER would like to land a couple of hard hitters and add a little to his pitching strength and the Brownie manager may have to sacrifice a regular if he wants to interest the other big league clubs in a transaction.

Things are even quieter than usual out at the St. Louis American League offices, and no official confirmation is available, of course, but it is reported that Ralph Kress, the slugging redhead, may be put on the market as bait to attract the attention of managers and owners who have material that might help the Browns.

Naturally the Browns could not confirm the report. It wouldn't do to let it be known that Kress was being offered for trade. If no deal could be arranged the knowledge that the Browns had been trying to send him away might impair the infielder's morale.

But the reports, from John Ignatius Reliable Source, state that Killefer decided he could get along without Red, if he could use him to obtain badly needed batting strength and pitching. Not that Killefer doesn't value Kress. But to interest other owners he has to offer something, so he is willing to take a chance of plugging up the infield gap that Red's departure would create.

Cards' Spring Plans.

SAM BREADON had several offers from prospective training camps, but no ambitious city promised to put a roll of bills on the counter, so the Cardinals will return to Bradenton, Fla., for their 1932 spring training.

"We certainly have had our share of luck after training on the West Coast of Florida," Sam explained. "We have won two pennants and a world series since returning to Bradenton, and both years the club went north in fine physical condition. California looked like a possibility for a time, but it looked like the coast would be crowded with big league clubs and that meant that the gravy would have to be split too many ways."

Manager Street, according to Breadon, plans to follow the training schedule that worked out so well last spring. In 1930, it will be remembered, the Cardinals reported in one squad about March 1. A series with the Athletics started the next week-end and found the Redbirds unprepared for the contests.

"I'll never do this again," Street declared and so last spring the pitchers reported a week ahead of the others and when the regulars arrived in camp they found the hurling staff fit for duty. The result was plenty of batting practice and the Cardinals made a better showing in the early exhibition games. Not that the exhibitions mean anything, but it is natural for athletes to strive to win and when they are not in first-class condition, they are likely to try too hard, with the danger of pulled muscles.

Last year the Cardinals journeyed north slowly after breaking camp at Bradenton and that program undoubtedly will be followed again. In 1930 the team jumped from Florida to St. Louis and the change was too abrupt. That year the Rochester club was in Florida and with practice games possible to the last minute the Cards remained in camp. Last year Rochester was at Greensboro and the Cardinals booked exhibition games on the road to keep them busy after the other big league clubs broke camp.

JIMMY LONDOS AND KAMPFER TO MEET HERE AGAIN, NOV. 25

Negotiations were concluded yesterday by Promoter Tom Packs for a return match between Jimmy Londos, recognized by the National Wrestling Association as world's heavyweight champion, and Hans Kampfer, young German challenger, who claims the world's Greco-Roman grappling title by reason of his triumphs in an international mat tourney at Breslau, Germany, several months ago.

They will wrestle to a finish over the one-fall distance in the main event of a card at The Arena, Wednesday night, Nov. 25.

Londos accepted terms for the bout after Seneca C. Taylor, State Athletic Commissioner, disapproved the promoter's plan to send Kampfer against Ray Steele of Glendale, Cal. Taylor insisted that Londos make good a promise he made the Commissioner two days after his victory over Kampfer last Sept. 30, when the Greek heavyweight agreed to take the German on again within a reasonable period of time.

The coming Arena engagement will afford Kampfer a chance to redeem the only defeat he has sustained in 28 bouts he has had since he launched his American campaign last June. The bout will mark the German's ninth appearance in St. Louis. In local matches prior to his defeat by Londos he defeated Ivan Vacturoff, Don de Laun, Joe "Toots" Mondt, Jim Clinkstock and Rudy Dusek. Since the Londos match he has added Pat O'Shocker and George Zaharias to his list of St. Louis conquests.

Kampfer will start tuning up tomorrow at the National Gymnasium. Londos is scheduled to report here by the end of the week, according to Promoter Packs.

A. A. U. TO CONSIDER 144 RECORD PERFORMANCES

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Applications have been filed with the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States for recognition of the 144 record-breaking performances made by American athletes during the present year. The list will be considered by the delegates when they assemble at the Kansas City Athletic Club on Nov. 15, 16, and 17, for the forty-third annual convention of the union.

Senior Skaters To Try for New 880-Yard Mark

The senior men skaters will attempt to break their 880-yard records in feature races booked for the Winter Garden next week. So far the senior skaters have not equaled one mark in six races while all the juvenile, junior and intermediate boys and the girl racers have set new records every time they have skated this season.

However, the intermediate and junior skaters have skated faster in some cases than the Class B and C seniors. They show the best form and are coming closer to national records all the time.

The program for the week shows the junior and the juvenile boys slated for 5 o'clock Monday and the three classes of girls go on at 10:30 p. m. The senior A, B and C classes and the intermediate boys will furnish the entertainment at 10:30 Wednesday evening.

Points are awarded the first three skaters in each race and the three with the highest total at the end of a series are awarded trophies. There are nine classes of skaters.

The point standing:

Class B senior—Ralph Prinz, unattached, 50; Ted Young, Winter Garden, 30; Harry Degenhart, Winter Garden, 30; Bob McDonald, Winter Garden, 10.

Class C girls—Merle Danon, 50; Nancy Durbrow, 30; Thresa Swetitch, 20; Gertrude Emendorf, 10; Betty Kaull, 10.

PRINCETON SUFFERS ITS SIXTH DEFEAT IN ROW

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 14.—A slashing Washington and Lee eleven brought gloom unprecedented to Old Nassau's campus today by handing the Princeton Tiger its sixth straight defeat. The score was 6 to 0. It was the first time the Generals from Lexington, Va., had triumphed in half a dozen tussles with the Orange and Black.

The score came late in the second period after several Tiger threats had been wrecked on the rocks of the visiting line, or stopped by an aerial attack gone awry. Halfback Wilbur Mattox dashed through tackle eight yards to his forty-seventh, then Fullback Bailey and Mattox split the Tiger line for several short gains. Sawyers ran 13 yards to the 27. After a couple of ineffectual line bucks to the twenty-fourth Mattox looped a nifty pass to Joe Sawyers, left half, who went over unmolested. The Tiger managed to block Mitchell's boot.

WESTMINSTER RESERVES DEFEAT DEAF TEAM, 7-6

FULTON, Mo., Nov. 14.—The Westminster College reserves eked out a 7 to 6 victory here this afternoon over the Missouri School for Deaf eleven, also of Fulton, in the annual homecoming contest for the deaf squad. The Kansas deaf team was to have furnished the attraction but late yesterday canceled because a contagious disease made it impossible for the Olathe eleven to come here.

The game today was hard fought, the lighter deaf eleven playing a wonderful defense. A fumble gave Westminster its opportunity to score in the first quarter and Wright kicked goal. The deaf team came back for a touchdown in the second quarter when Willey of Kansas City, quarterback, got through the Westminster line and ran 70 yards for a touchdown. Try for extra point failed. Twice later Westminster worked the ball to the two-yard line but the deaf boys kept them from crossing the goal line.

Keady Retained as Coach.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 14.—Contract of Tom Keady, Western Reserve University football coach, has been renewed for two more years, Prof. C. M. Finfrock, chairman of the Reserve Athletic Board, announced last night.

CANADIENS AND BRUINS FAVORED IN HOCKEY RACE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.— American fans take their hockey seriously, and are now wagering heavily on the results of the 1931-32 ice season.

"Take the Bruins, for instance," say some. "They stand the best chance to win the Stanley Cup this season. They have not made many changes in their lineup and what team outside of the Canadiens can give them a go?"

"But look at Canadiens," others argue. "They are the greatest money winners of all time. They're not strong as the Bruins, but they can be relied upon in a pinch."

Most of the money is being laid on the Boston sextet and the Frenchmen. In some quarters here can be found backers of the Rangers. The Gotham six is as strong as in any previous season and apparently have playoff hopes. They share honors with the Montreal Maroons as second money choices.

"Hockey is the roughest of all sports," says Eddie Shore, scrappy Bruin defense man.

"I say that as an expert," adds Shore, "for while I do not shine in any of the other games, I've participated in most of them. Football, boxing and wrestling are said to greatly tax one's stamina. I've found that none of them demand such perfect condition as the ice sport.

"The pre-season training grind and the first combats are particularly hard on the young, up-and-coming players. I often feel sorry for this lot, for I've been through the mill.

"The new ice-men are thrown in with cagey and experienced material. They are full of ambition and do not hide the fact. As a result of this the older players are possessed of professional jealousy, with the fear of losing their jobs and in many cases make it hard for the youngsters.

S. M. U. Wins, 6-0 On 66-Yard Run

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 14.—Weldon (Speedy) Mason ran 66 yards to a touchdown in the first two minutes of the Southern Methodist-Baylor football game here today and the run gave the Methodists a 6-to-0 decision and at least a tie for the Southwest Conference championship.

The Methodist back's long run was the feature of an otherwise listless game, in which the winners kept everything under cover except their maroon and blue colors. Undefeated and untied this season, they were rated a two or three touchdown favorite.

The victors have only one more conference game to play—that against Texas Christian at Fort Worth on Nov. 28. The worst they can get in so far as the championship is concerned is a tie.

After his regulars had suddenly leaped to the front, Coach Ray Morrison called most of his regulars to the side line to look on while first and second string reserves held Baylor until the fourth period. Taking no chance, Morrison fired his regulars back into the battle in the last period. They offered a constant scoring possibility, but did not pack the punch.

BOWLING NOTES

Fifty entries have been received for the fourth annual Officers' Club handicap tournament, which will be held at the German House Recreation Dec. 5 and 6. An entry of 500 bowlers is expected for this event. Last year 422 tenpinners competed. The entries represent 40 leagues affiliated with the Greater St. Louis Bowling Association and includes bowlers from St. Louis, Edwardsville, Highland, East St. Louis, Alton and Belleville, Ill., and St. Charles, Mo. Entries close Nov. 28 and should be mailed to Edward Warren, secretary, 314 Clara avenue.

Several openings remain on tonight's squads in the four-game sweepstakes which is being held at the German House alleys. The first squad is scheduled to bowl at 7 o'clock and reservations can be made by calling Prospect 8139.

The Gateways held their lead in the Arway Scratch League by winning the odd game from the Waysides in last week's round of play. Ervin Brunsman led the Gateways with a 643 total which included a 266 game. The Jule Scheskes ran their winning streak to nine straight by taking three games from the Pevelys. The Scheskes were led by Jack Woods, 648, and Buzz Wilson, 607. Budd Schmitt's Charlottes totaled 3025 to win two games from the South Sides. Harry Frederic had 665 and Schmitt 620. In the other matches, the Silver Seals won two from the Dave Browns and the Nulsens won two from the Arways. Schmitt is leading the individuals with a mark of 204. Buzz Wilson is second with 199, H. Blech third with 197 and F. Brynda fourth with 195.

The Kassing team and the Schaefer Delmars, both members of the Major City League, will meet in the first half of a six-game match at the Grand-St. Louis alleys this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The final three games will be rolled on the Delmar alleys the following Sunday. Ray Holmes and Hank Hummers will bowl with the Schaefers while Chris Sottrel and Lowell Jackson will be in the Kassing lineup.

Granite City Wins From C. B. C., 19-0

The Granite City Happy Warriors defeated the Christian Brothers' College eleven yesterday afternoon at Granite City, 19 to 0. The Granite City eleven scored touchdowns in every quarter but the second, and played one of the best games they have played this season.

Two of the Granite City scores came by means of the passing route. The first one, in the first quarter, came after Aufderheide threw a long pass to Henson, who, with perfect interference, ran 35 yards to the goal line. Haack plunged for the extra point.

Granite City came back after the half to score another touchdown after Johannigemeier intercepted a C. B. C. pass and ran 55 yards for the touchdown. On the try for the extra point Haack failed on a line plunge. In the fourth quarter Granite City scored after a march down the field that put the ball on the nine-yard line. Aufderheide plunged over for the touchdown.

The lineups:

GRANITE CITY.	Pos.	C. B. C.
Taylor	L. E.	D. Sullivan
Rupp	L. T.	E. Sullivan

TEXAS FOOTBALL STAR BRIGHT IN STUDIES

SHERMAN, Tex., Nov. 14.—Carl McAdams of Sherman, quarterback on the Texas Tech Matador grid team, is also president of the Tech chapter of the Southern Scholarship Society, which is composed of the highest scholastic ranking 10 per cent of students in the junior and senior classes.

McAdams is a former Sherman High player and is a senior this year at Tech. In addition to holding his high scholastic honor, the Sherman youth has been chosen Texas Tech's ideal male citizen.

KEARNS BALKED IN ATTEMPT TO MATCH FIELDS AND BROUILLARD

By W. J. McGoogan.

Jack Kearns' clever manipulations by which he tried to force a battle with Lou Brouillard, new welterweight champion, for his man, Jackie Fields, former title holder, at Boston, met with a rude setback when the Massachusetts Commission refused to permit the bout because Fields was thrown out of the ring in Boston two years ago during an unsatisfactory contest with Gorilla Jones.

It would seem a rather severe decision to hold such a thing against a fighter for life unless there was a suspicion of fake, which reports from Boston indicate there was not. The bout was merely a bad looking contest and the referee stopped it.

However, Kearns apparently was trying to land a title scrap for Fields with the intention of Fields winning over Brouillard, after which Jackie was to have gone to New York to meet Benny Leonard. That probably would attract a fine gate in Manhattan, but first of all Fields would have to get over the new champion, who seems to be quite a scrapper.

Fine for Callahan.

Meanwhile it appears that Andy Callahan will step into Boston and grab the shot but it won't be for the title, as the agreement stipulates an overweight match.

The welterweight division seems to have too many topnotchers for its own good, with Young Corbett, young Jack Thompson, Fields, Jimmy McLarnin and Brouillard. That would seem to be the division where most of the winter activity may be expected. But the good ones in there dodge one another. All except King Tut, who has not recuperated sufficiently from his appendicitis operation for a severe campaign.

Billy Petrolle has never won a championship, although he has rated at the top in the lightweight and in the welterweight classes, as well as in the junior welter. However, he is expected to get a chance in January against Tony Canzoneri. The Chicago Stadium is seeking to match the pair, and such a bout should be a thriller.

Ray Miller, Detroit southpaw, has won nine of his last 13 bouts by knockouts. He is being handled by Joe Gould out of New York now.

The Oregon Boxing Commission has ordered the top price for seats at Portland shows reduced to $1.50. The promoters may charge any price they care to up to $1.50.

BEN CHAPMAN'S LEGS NOW HIS FORTUNE

NEW YORK Nov. 14.—A beautiful pair of legs have been the meal ticket of many Follies girl, and a pair of legs, strongly built, but hardly beautiful, is the main reason why Ben Chapman of the Yankees is being cited for a material rise in salary next season.

A rookie in the spring, Chapman became a sensation by base-stealing. He came close to equaling Ty Cobb's mark during the 1931 season, and proved to be one of the greatest of drawing cards.

"Most ballplayers," said a member of the Yankee squad after Chapman had hung up a total of 61 stolen bases during the year, "have to be all-around men to be successful in the big time. They have to have experience, skill and batting ability. Ben made up for those lacks by using his keen brain, his daring and his whirling legs, and now he's a top-sergeant in balldom."

Regular league play will be resumed in the St. Louis Soccer League at Sportsman's Park this afternoon. In the opener, at 1:45 o'clock, the Ben Millers tackle the Stix, Baer & Fullers, while the second contest brings together the Andersons and Kavanaughs. The Millers and Anderson are tied for the lead with four points each, while the other two clubs have two.

The Ben Millers are likely to run into plenty of opposition in the match with the Stix eleven. Jack Dwyer and Jimmy Burke, owners of the team, have made several moves to strengthen the eleven since the start of the campaign. As a result, Willie McLean, a forward, and Bob Gregg, fullback, formerly of the Bricklayers of Chicago, will line up with the club. McLean made his debut here two weeks ago and made a fine impression, while Gregg's only appearance was in an exhibition match with the Muny All-Stars, Armistice day.

Gregg to Play.

With Gregg aiding Jimmy Nolan, a fine defensive player at fullback, Manager Lehman will be able to use Hebberger at halfback. If forward Hart has recovered from an injured ankle, McLean will likely play outside left, his regular position, instead of working at the inside. As the club shapes up at present, it has a fine attack as well as a good defense.

McLean and Gregg, who are acquainted with the American, as well as the British style of play, should help to improve the caliber of soccer in the local circuit. McLean came to this country in 1923, after playing with Clydebank in the Scottish League. Before coming to St. Louis, he played with the Pullmans, Canadians and Bricklayers in Chicago. McLean is 25 years of age. Gregg, who is 29, did not come to this country until 1926, after playing with Kilmarnock, a Scottish eleven. Before joining the Bricklayers, he starred with the New Bedford and Providence clubs in the American Soccer League, the major circuit in the East.

Willie Foley, manager of the Millers, will show a changed lineup. Raphael Tracy, a mighty fine halfback, will make his appearance at center forward, with Joe Diaz at center halfback and Art Claeys playing left half. The move which places Tracy at a forward position will be watched with keen interest.

Doyle Gets Chance.

For the Andersons, Doyle, a recruit, will replace the veteran Al McHenry, who has been playing professional soccer for something like 19 seasons. With the Kavanaughs, Sullivan will be at outside right in place of the suspended Bud Grennon, while Bochnicek is down to supplant Phelan at inside left.

Len Zarschel will referee both matches. No. Tommy Thomas, the East Side official, has not resigned or been "fired." He is suffering from a bad leg and President Winton Barker wants him to be fully recovered before again sending him into a contest. Ollie Fink and Joe McCarthy will serve as linesmen.

Eddie Hart, a member of the Stix eleven, will be the first athlete to collect as a result of his connection with the Soccer Players' Protective Association. Hart this week will receive a check for $3, representing one visit to the doctor, the result of an injured ankle.

Kroner Rolls 288 Game.

Ed Kroner, rolling with the Richards at the Century alleys, missed getting his second perfect game Friday night when he started with 10 straight strikes, but in the roll-off he crossed to the "Brooklyn" side for an eight-pin count and a 288 score. His other games were 226 and 211, giving him a grand total of 725.

Taphorn, of the Schweigler Sodas, led the individuals in the Gravois Recreation Handicap League, rolling a 660 series. Neidel rolled 644, Rothweiler 631 and Ötzenberger 623. The Schweiglers paced the teams with a 3028 total and won two games from the Harsticks. Other results were: Zeis Five 2, Hoells 1; Gravois 3, Banners 0; Sunnfreeze 3, Kaltees 0; Abelns 2, Dauers 1; Idalees 2, Rollings -; Rogers 2, Witters 1; Mopacs 2, Nicks 1.

MILLERS TO OPPOSE STIX TEAM IN PRO SOCCER LEAGUE PLAY

KEARNS BALKED IN ATTEMPT TO MATCH FIELDS AND BROUILLARD

By W. J. McGoogan.

Jack Kearns' clever manipulations by which he tried to force a battle with Lou Brouillard, new welterweight champion, for his man, Jackie Fields, former title holder, at Boston, met with a rude setback when the Massachusetts Commission refused to permit the bout because Fields was thrown out of the ring in Boston two years ago during an unsatisfactory contest with Gorilla Jones.

It would seem a rather severe decision to hold such a thing against a fighter for life unless there was a suspicion of fake, which reports from Boston indicate there was not. The bout was merely a bad looking contest and the referee stopped it.

However, Kearns apparently was trying to land a title scrap for Fields with the intention of Fields winning over Brouillard, after which Jackie was to have gone to New York to meet Benny Leonard. That probably would attract a fine gate in Manhattan, but first of all Fields would have to get over the new champion, who seems to be quite a scrapper.

Fine for Callahan.

Meanwhile it appears that Andy Callahan will step into Boston and grab the shot but it won't be for the title, as the agreement stipulates an overweight match.

The welterweight division seems to have too many topnotchers for its own good, with Young Corbett, young Jack Thompson, Fields, Jimmy McLarnin and Brouillard. That would seem to be the division where most of the winter activity may be expected. But the good ones in there dodge one another. All except King Tut, who has not recuperated sufficiently from his appendicitis operation for a severe campaign.

Billy Petrolle has never won a championship, although he has rated at the top in the lightweight and in the welterweight classes, as well as in the junior welter. However, he is expected to get a chance in January against Tony Canzoneri. The Chicago Stadium is seeking to match the pair, and such a bout should be a thriller.

Ray Miller, Detroit southpaw, has won nine of his last 13 bouts by knockouts. He is being handled by Joe Gould out of New York now.

The Oregon Boxing Commission has ordered the top price for seats at Portland shows reduced to $1.50. The promoters may charge any price they care to up to $1.50.

BEN CHAPMAN'S LEGS NOW HIS FORTUNE

NEW YORK Nov. 14.—A beautiful pair of legs have been the meal ticket of many Follies girl, and a pair of legs, strongly built, but hardly beautiful, is the main reaon why Ben Chapman of the Yankees is being cited for a material rise in salary next season.

A rookie in the spring, Chapman became a sensation by base-stealing. He came close to equaling Ty Cobb's mark during the 1931 season, and proved to be one of the greatest of drawing cards.

"Most ballplayers," said a member of the Yankee squad after Chapman had hung up a total of 61 stolen bases during the year, "have to be all-around men to be successful in the big time. They have to have experience, skill and batting ability. Ben made up for those lacks by using his keen brain, his daring and his whirling legs, and now he's a top-sergeant in balldom."

GOLF
BY W. J. McGOOGAN

If some of the tests of the 1932 golf ball are borne out in actual combat, another and serious ailment will affect golfers next year, when they start to use the ball which is expected to take the place of the present one. The 1932 model, advance indications are, will be 1.68 inches in diameter and 1.62 ounces in weight.

Near Boston a tournament was held recently designed to illustrate how the new ball acts and an account published in a Boston newspaper states "not only is it difficult to get the ball into the air quickly when desired, but players notice that their hands stung badly after a shot which was not executed properly."

Is it not enough to suffer mental anguish when 10 yards are lopped off drives, when the wind carries the ball off direction or a putt rims the cup? Evidently not—now the hands will be stung when the ball is not hit properly.

Not a very encouraging outlook for 1932. Perhaps it would be a good idea to put shock absorbers on the clubs to take away the sting, but even if the result of a poorly hit shot is not felt in the hands, the pocketbook or the mind will continue to suffer.

However, maybe all the fuss of last summer and apparently all that which is coming next season, will finally convince the United States Golf Association that it should have left the golf ball at the dimensions which had proved satisfactory, 1.62 inches in diameter, 1.62 ounces in weight.

On Outside Looking In.

The Nominating Committee of the U. S. G. A. has issued its report as to who should be officers and members of the Executive Committee for 1932, and again there is not one St. Louis man mentionad.

Eight State, sectional or recognized golf associations are represented on the ticket, including the Eastern Association, by Robert M. Cutting of the Hindsdale Golf Club, Chicago; the New York State Association, Buffalo (N. Y.) district; New England Association, Minnesota State Association, Texas, Southern and California Associations. But no representation from the St. Louis or the Missouri Associations.

H. H. Ramsay has again been named president; Cutting and Rodman E. Griscom, vice presidents; Prescott S. Bush, secretary; Charles H. Sabin, treasurer, and Livingston Platt, counsel.

Another Gloomy Dean.

The dean of a school in the East has declared golf a deterrent to education because it is not a "leveler." The dean says the great object of sport is to level the boys and points to the football squad as an example.

"Look at those boys," he said recently, "not one of them knows or cares how much the other is worth. Group athletics is the right leveler.

"Golf is too lazy. And then one boy might have a better mashie than the other fellow and that destroys the thing we're aiming at." Yep, that's the way he wound up.

Why, Dean! Sure, one boy might have a better mashie than the other fellow but there's nothing to guarantee that the boy with the better club can use it half so well as the boy with the inferior implement. There are caddies in the St. Louis district with a brassie, midiron, mashie and niblick who can trim the socks off some of the financial barons who carry big insurance policies on their golf property with their matched sets of woods, matched irons and everything but matched strokes. The kids drive with the brassie, putt with the midiron, and they don't even have a bag in which to carry their sticks. But they know how to use them.

Chick Evans once said that if the average golfer would learn how to use the clubs he has, rather than attempt to correct the faults in his game by purchasing new ones, he would do better. And those who saw Chick break par at Normandie a few years ago with a few clubs know that he is telling the truth.

And as for golf being a lazy game—the educator can hardly be given credit for knowing what he's talking about, for no game which demands that a player walk three or four miles while going through the motions could be called "lazy."

Cliques on the Course.

Unfortunately, golf does seem to promote cliques. Every club member knows that, for nearly all clubs have the foursome which has "played together for 90 years or so" although the individuals of the foursome never play a round with anyone else.

And then there are clubs which stay aloof from the District. This is true in St. Louis, and many interested persons say this is the reason why the District hasn't a voice in the affairs of the game nationally. And it won't have, they maintain, until every club supports the district association with activity as well as money.

AUTO RACING PROGRAM TODAY AT CREVE COEUR

Another of the automobile racing programs at Creve Coeur Speedway which have been drawing good-sized crowds on recent Sunday afternoons, will be held this afternoon, featured by a 25-mile race, billed "for the St. Louis championship." The entry list will be limited to 12 autos in this event.

Nine other events are on the program, including three five-mile races and a 15-mile race for stock cars. Then, too, there will be a five-mile match race between a Ford and a Chevrolet, and a head-on collision between two cars of uncertain age.

Red Campbell of St. Louis who won last Sunday's feature race, will be one of the entries in the 25-mile race. Other drivers widely known on the dirt tracks who will compete include Speed Adams, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Mark Billman of Indianapolis.

Special bus service, starting at noon, will be run to the track from Delmar Loop in University City. The track is reached by auto by way of Olive Street road.

The program will start at 2:30 o'clock.

JOHN BURROUGHS AND WESTERN SPLIT IN "B" AND "C" GAMES

In two ABC League games at Western Military Academy yesterday, the John Burroughs "B" team defeated the Cadets "B" eleven, 13-0, while the Western "C" eleven triumphed over the Burroughs "C" outfit, 6-0. This was the second time these teams had met this season. In their first conflicts both games resulted in scoreless ties.

In the second quarter Carpenter of Burroughs threw a long pass to Harris who was standing near the sidelines, for the first touchdown of the game. Burroughs failed to make the extra point. In the last period Western was forced back to its goal and had to punt. Levy of Burroughs caught the kick on the 40-yard line and ran the ball for the second touchdown. Wiesehan made the extra point on a line buck. This victory places the Burroughs "B" team in undisputed first place in the "B" division of the ABC League. Levy was the outstanding player of the day.

In the "C" contest, Rest of Western scored the only touchdown on a 70-yard run from an off-tackle play.

Four Basketball Veterans Return At East St. Louis

The East St. Louis High School basketball squad has been practicing for the past two weeks in preparation for the Southwestern Conference campaign. The East Siders are now under direction of Coach Jack Sullivan, a former East Side student, who is taking over the duties of conditioning the athletes until the football season ends. Sullivan has about 35 aspirants out for the practices.

The East Side team has four of last year's lettermen back, although only two were on the first five last year. The four lettermen are Capt. Herb Fash, the outstanding center in the conference last year and among the first 10 high scorers of the conference. Eddie "Dutch" Lottman is the other regular. The other two lettermen, Charlie Vaughn and Francis Haider, are forwards.

SPANISH-GERMAN GAME FEATURES PLAY IN "MUNY"

Matches at Carondelet Park and Sherman Park should provide the feature attractions in the Municipal Soccer League, this afternoon. In the Carondelet senior group, first place will be at stake, when the undefeated Spanish club plays the German Sport Club. The Germans are only two points out of the lead and a victory will send the club into a tie for first position.

The Mack team, which has won two matches and tied one, though scoring only two points, will defend its lead in the Sherman Park division, against St. Edwards No. 2. Only one point separates the two clubs.

Harry Ratican has drawn the assignment of handling the Carondelet feature, while William McManus will work at Sherman.

The Russells, formerly the St. Matthews, one of the smoothest working elevens in the circuit, tackle the Snipens at Fairground No. 2. The Spick and Spans and Longos, leaders in Fairground No. 3, rule favorites, while the Clearys, Park Rats and Universals, other pace-setters, face weaker elevens.

One suspension was added during the week, B. A. Stelmach of the Eugene A. C. being set down. J. Moore, another member of the club, who was suspended after the first game, is still on the ineligible list.

The schedule, with the first game in each division starting at 2 o'clock, follows:

FAIRGROUND PARK NO. 3—Grand-Kossuth Business Men vs. Spick & Span; Thomas Stars vs. Longos. Referee—C. Brady.

CARONDELET PARK NO. 2 (Juniors)—Waverlys vs. SS. Mary and Joseph; Harolds vs. Christian Bros.' High. Referee—N. Reidy.

HARRY SHARPE WILL ADDRESS ALUMNI OF TRAINING SCHOOL

Harry S. Sharpe, well-known St. Louis sportsman and associated with boxing for the past 40 years, has been invited to address the Manual Training School Alumni at a dinner to be given at the Lennox Hotel tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock. He will take for his subject "Reminiscences of Boxing, and Heavyweight Champions I Have Known."

Following Mr. Sharpe's talk, members of the alumni will adjourn to Peterson's billiard parlors, 218 North Seventh street, where Charles Peterson, expert trick and fancy-shot billiardist, will stage an exhibition.

Celtics to Play Lansdownes in East Side Soccer

Games in the East St. Louis Municipal League soccer races this afternoon should prove interesting. The four St. Louis teams will be in action. Three of the matches will be played at Jones Park, East St. Louis, while the fourth will be decided in Granite City.

The Dauers, an East Side entry, is leading the first division, while the Celtics, a St. Louis aggregation, is the pace setter in the second division.

The feature contest in the first division will be between the Dauers and the Unions. The Unions are made up of former Fairmount Village players. The feature in the second division will be the Celtic-Landsdowne game. The Celtics will try to keep a clean slate against an experienced team.

The schedule:

FIRST DIVISION.

St. Charles vs. Missourians at Jones Park, Field No. 1, at 2 p. m. Unions vs. Dauers at Jones Park, Field No. 1, at 3:15 p. m.

SECOND DIVISION.

Celtics vs. Landsdownes at Jones Park, Field No. 2, at 2 p. m. United A. C. vs. Granite City at Granite City, at 2:30 p. m.

EDSON AND KADERABEK TO BOX AT S. B. A. C.

Eddie Edson, the National A. A. boxer who scored a surprise victory over Tommy Ryan, junior middleweight champion of the National A. A., in his last start, and Harold "Spider" Kaderabek, who also upset the calculations of fistic fans by defeating Tony Viviano, the Valley flyweight titleholder, are candidates for special engagements on the card Matchmaker Willie Miller is arranging for an amateur boxing tourney to be held at the South Broadway A. C. on Tuesday night, Nov. 24.

Miller announced last night that he is trying to line up a battler of class B rating to send against Edson, a scrapper who had only one engagement in tourney competition prior to his match with Ryan. Kaderabek is ready to take on any Class A contender of his division.

Frank Chervanek, heavyweight ace of the Croatian A. C.; Freddy Willen, South Broadway lightweight, and Morgan Lingenfelter, featherweight pride of the National A. A., are other sturdy ringmen in line for special bouts on the coming program. The prelim events are open to registered amateur boxers of all weight divisions.

ACTIVITIES OF BOY SCOUTS

CUB LEADERSHIP COURSE WILL CLOSE TOMORROW

Fall Training Class to Hold Its Final Meeting in Mullanphy School.

The final meeting of the training course in cub leadership, conducted by the St. Louis Boy Scout Council this fall will be held at Mullanphy School tomorrow evening. S. C. Reaves, cub director of the Council, will be in charge.

The cub leadership course, which was intended for both cub pack leaders and prospective leaders, was started Oct. 5, to train men and older scouts in methods of handling packs. Council rules require at least one leader of each pack to be a graduate of a training course. No charters are granted to new packs until one prospective leader has taken the course.

The seventh meetings of the elementary and advanced courses in Boy Scout leadership will be held at the Michael and Stix schools tomorrow evening. The elementary course will make an afternoon hike to the scoutmasters' lodge on the Meramec River next Saturday.

In Aid of Institute for Deaf.

The monthly social for the benefit of St. Joseph's Institute for the Deaf will be held next Wednesday afternoon at the institution, 901 North Garrison avenue. There will be games and refreshments.

ONLY ONE MORE COURT OF HONOR THIS YEAR

Another Series of Boards of Review Also to Be Held.

Only one more court of honor and one series of Boards of Review will be conducted by the St. Louis Boy Scout Council this year, William Puffer, educational director of the council, said Friday. Both will be held next month.

Courts of honor are held more or less regularly by the council to award merit badges and badges of high rank to scouts who meet the requirements for these honors. At many courts awards are limited to the very highest ranks of Eagle. Eagle Palm, and Life Scout, plus any merit badges needed by a candidate to qualify him for any one of these. Badges of lower rank, such as first-class and Star Scout, and merit badges not needed to qualify a candidate for high rank, are usually awarded at troop courts of honor conducted by individual troops.

The court next month, however, will present all these awards, enabling all council scouts to receive all honors due them before the end of the year, whether their troops hold individual courts or not. The court will be held at the Ben Blewett Junior High School Dec. 28.

Boards of Review are held in each of the council districts, to pass upon all candidates for merit badges and for ranks of first class and higher. Reviews are usually held monthly except in the summer, but none were conducted this month because of the merit badge show.

The reviews next month will be held the week of Dec. 14, one or two districts holding reviews each night from Monday to Thursday. Reviews are ordinarily held as follows: North District, Farragut School; South District, Fanning School; West District, Clark School; Central District, Gallaudet School; Suburban District, Webster Groves High School; Inter-Racial District, Banneker School.

Troop Notes

North District.

Three new officers were appointed at the meeting of Troop 3 of Grace Church last week, as part of a reorganization of the troop. Scout William Dickson Jr. was made Junior Assistant Scoutmaster, Scout Arthur Bourne became Scribe and Scout Fred Pomery, Senior Patrol Leader. A new Scout, Leon Taylor, was admitted to the troop, and it is expected that four others will join within the next few weeks. Troop 3 is meeting on Tuesday evenings.

Eight new Scouts were admitted into Troop 48 of Bryan Hill School in an investiture ceremony conducted by the troop recently. The new members were sufficient to fill out the Flaming Arrow and Eagle patrols. The troop is planning several hikes for this month and December.

South District.

Troop 39 of the Church of Our Redeemer will celebrate its fifth anniversary with a banquet Dec. 4. The troop demonstrated the foundry practice merit badge at the Merit Badge Show.

Troop 66 of the Woodward School re-registered last month with a loss of only one Scout from last year's registration. Scoutmaster John Urquhart is again at the head of the troop.

West District.

A new patrol, the Chickasha, was organized by Troop 17 of First United Presbyterian Church at the regular meeting last week. Scout Robert Hughey is patrol leader, and Scout Jack Crull, assistant. The troop has re-registered for 1932 with a troop committee headed by Chairman J. J. Bonner. The troop held a hike last week, with Committeeman Graham Sillars in charge.

An overnight hike to Committeeman Greditzer's shack on the Meramec River was held by Troop 90 of Temple Shaare Emeth, last Saturday and Sunday. Several tests were passed. The troop demonstrated the swimming merit badge at the Merit Badge show.

Troop 94 of St. Barbara's Church, exhibited the Carpentry merit badge at the Merit Badge show last week. Junior Assistant Scoutmaster Landau was in charge of the demonstration, which was carried out by 16 scouts.

The four patrols of Troop 101, West Park Baptist Church, are working on patrol boxes, which will contain all equipment necessary for interpatrol contests and games during the coming year.

Suburban District.

Pattonville 1, of Baptist Orphans' Home, has already started working to win the honor of leading the suburban district parade at the annual Boy Scout circus next spring. The troop won this honor several years ago, and has come close to repeating every year since. The troop reregistered Nov. 1 with 11 scouts from the home and seven from the town. W. T. Edwards is scoutmaster.

The scouts of Maplewood 4 of Maplewood Evangelical Church, attended the Meridt Badge show as a unit last week.

Belleville Area.

Scouts Emmett Taylor and Wallace Richter passed tests at the regular meeting of Troop 1, Belleville, at Divine Science Church, a week ago Thursday evening. Scoutmaster Walter Spies presided. Scout Blaine Spies has been appointed troop reporter.

A new recruit, Scout Monroe Dehn, was admitted to the Fox patrol of Troop 4, Belleville, at the regular meeting a week ago Friday. The meeting, which was conducted by Junior Assistant Scoutmaster John Sprague, was shortened to permit the troop to hold a Halloween party.

Plans for an interpatrol contest and for a charity football game were made at the meeting of Troop 6, Belleville, at the Humboldt School a week ago Friday. First aid was also practiced. Scout Executive Swofford and Committeemen Bernius and Schmidt were visitors at the meeting. Scout Frank Macke sang several solos. Scout Frederick Stock Jr. is troop reporter.

Plans for a first aid contest were made by Troop 8, Belleville, at a meeting held at the Bunsen School a week ago Friday, under the leadership of Scoutmaster Arthur Schifferdecker. Scout Elliott Schweickert of Troop 7 was a visitor. Scout Homer Weidman was appointed troop reporter. A basketball game was played after the meeting.

Troop 12, Belleville, held a parents' night at St. Paul's Hall, Nov. 5, in celebration of the troop's anniversary. Scout Executive Swofford presented its 1932 charter to the troop. An investiture ceremony was held for two recruits, Scouts Earl Schuster and Theodore Shiermeier. Scoutmaster George Kuhn presided. The Black Hawk Patrol gave a school play. Scout Laverne Beck has been made troop reporter.

Three new patrol names, White Wolf, Blackfeet and Blazing Arrow, were chosen by the Scouts of Troop 27, Marissa, at a meeting held at Marissa Academy Nov. 3. Nineteen Scouts were present. Tests were passed by Scouts Paul Jones, Charles Matthews, Dayle Heil, Harrison Johnson, Gordon McGill and Arthur Krebs. Scout Mathews was chosen troop reporter.

Scout Virgil Leinicke was appointed troop reporter of Troop 14, Belleville, at the troop meeting at Franklin School, Nov. 2. The troop first aid team gave several demonstrations for other Scouts of the troop. Scoutmaster Ruben Kammler closed the meeting with the scoutmaster's benediction.

Miss Alewel Is Married Here To Boston Man

Wedding to Benjamin F. Bristow Draper Jr. Takes Place at Westminster Presbyterian Church.

THE marriage of Miss Margaret Alewel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Alewel, 6145 Lindell boulevard, and Benjamin F. Bristow Draper Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bristow Draper of Boston and Hopedale, Mass., took place last night at the Westminster Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. William Crowe officiating. A reception followed at the Alewel home.

The ceremony was performed in the glow of hundreds of candles which formed a complete arch over the chancel, and dozens of others in triangular brackets attached to the columns at each side. The background was completed by large vases of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums which filled the arch.

The bride was preceded by Miss Susan Bush as maid of honor, and by Miss Betty Rathmann, Miss Al[illegible]n Blanke, Mrs. Willette McCor[illegible]ck Muckerman and Mrs. Quentin Just as bridesmaids. Mary Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noah H. Cooper, was flower girl.

Autumn shades were emphasized in the gowns of the bride's attendants, who wore chiffon velvet, each a different color, shading from golden yellow to deep reddish brown. They were designed Vionnet fashion on princesse lines, fitting the figures to the knees and flaring into short trains. The bodices were sleeveless, and the deep V necklines were finished with knots of velvet. They wore slippers to harmonize with their costumes and carried armfuls of talisman, afterglow and Joanna Hill roses combined with pompom chrysanthemums. The flower girl wore an old-fashioned frock of pale pink taffeta with a short waist and long full skirt trimmed with French blue velvet, and carried a colonial bouquet of flowers combining the two colors. Mrs. Alewel was gowned in wine-colored lace with matching accessories and a corsage of orchids.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white mirrored velvet, fashioned on fitted lines to the knees where fullness was introduced by flared velvet attached in points and sweeping into a five-yard train. The only trimming was a deep yoke of rose point lace covering the upper bodice to the high neck line. There were long tight sleeves. The bridal veil was of tulle arranged to a tulle cap trimmed with orange blossoms and overlaid with a wide rose point lace panel several yards in length. The bride carried a great bouquet of white orchids, lilies of the valley and bovardia.

Eben Draper of Boston was his father's best man, and the ushers included John Barnes, Boston; Richard Perry, Dedham, Mass.; Murray Keeler, Whittinsville, Mass., and Quentin Just, St. Louis.

The autumn tints were repeated in the reception decorations. The receiving line stood before the bay windows of the living room which had been arched with smilax studded with chrysanthemums. Vases of blossoms were used throughout the house and the stairway was garlanded with smilax interspersed with flowers. The table for the bridal party had for its centerpiece a great crystal vase of white roses surrounded by a low arrangement of lilies of the valley and bovardia. This in turn was encircled by eight crystal swans filled with valley lilies.

An autumn garden was achieved in the marquee adjoining the living room. Beds of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums seemed to grow at one side against a background of cedar trees. The walls were paneled in smilax and in each panel was placed a Grecian vase of blue and silver filled with chrysanthemums. A blue ceiling was drawn overhead, and floodlights hidden in the greenery reflected blue light.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Draper Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Eben Draper, uncle and aunt of the bridegroom, Boston; [illegible] Thomas Gannett, Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass., his aunt; Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Lohman, Kew Gardens, L. I., and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Walcher, Chicago, relatives of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Draper will sail next Wednesday for Honolulu on their wedding trip, and will return to spend Christmas with the bride's parents. They will live after Jan. 15 at their new home in Hopedale, Mass., a wedding gift from Mr. and Mrs. Draper Sr.

The bride was educated at Mary Institute and Briarcliff Manor, N. Y. She is an accomplished equestrienne and has participated in many horse shows. Mr. Draper is a grandson of the late Eben S. Draper, former Governor of Massachusetts. He is an alumnus of Harvard, and is a member of the Harvard Club of Boston and the Tennis and Racquet and Brookline Country Clubs.

Arthur Krebs. Scout Mathews was chosen troop reporter.

Scout Virgil Leinicke was appointed troop reporter of Troop 14, Belleville, at the troop meeting at Franklin School, Nov. 2. The troop first aid team gave several demonstrations for other Scouts of the troop. Scoutmaster Ruben Kammler closed the meeting with the scoutmaster's benediction.

Black and White Ball For Capital Debutantes

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.

THE opening debutante ball of the season—the novel Black and White Ball, for which the debs have long been waiting, was held at the Mayflower Hotel, Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. William Laird Dunlop Jr. gave the party for this season's debutantes, but many of last season's debs from this and other cities were present.

The long reception line of girls, to present a striking phase of the modish new evening gowns, should have faced the wall and turned their backs to the guests. Gardenias and orchids were worn at the waist—but in the back. While the fronts of the gowns presented a smooth, unbroken surface, with moderately low necks, the deeply cut backs were dazzingly framed in threads of rhinestones, huge ribbon "bustle" bows and flowers.

The debutantes reached back to grandmother's day for their coiffures, their demure nosegays, their long skirts and tight waists.

Clasping their jeweled vanity cases, filmy chiffon handkerchiefs and sometimes a small hand bouquet to match one on the shoulder they waited for the guests to arrive.

Louise Brooks, granddaughter of Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia, had two narrow crossed straps of rhinestones and a bunch of gardenias at the waistline as a back to her white satin gown. Her close friend, Louise Harrison Gwynn, wore a backless gown of shimmering sequins and white chiffon.

Lecture Tomorrow For Junior League

THE second of the series of Monday morning lectures sponsored by the St. Louis Junior League will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow in the league headquarters, 4914 Maryland avenue. The Rev. Alphonse M. Schwitalla, S. J., dean of the medical school of St. Louis University, will discuss "Some Biological Concepts as Applied to Social Work."

Father Schwitalla is president of the Missouri Social Hygiene Association and of the Catholic Hospital Association of the United States and Canada.

There are 13 lectures in the Junior League series. They are open to the public through subscription.

Princeton to Give Spanish Play Here

SEVENTEENTH century Spain will be portrayed in the musical comedy to be presented at the Odeon in St. Louis Dec. 28 by the Triangle Club of Princeton University. The action of the play, "Spanish Blades," is centered around Seville, and deals with legendary and historical characters. The plot revolves around complications caused by Carmen's love for Don Juan and her neglect of her husband, Alphonse, a sentimental ballad singer. Don Quixote's attempts to solve the problems which arise from the three-cornered love affair provide much of the humor. An inn in Seville furnishes the setting.

The Production Committee, H. T. Tasker, '32, president; M. Dana, '32, vice president, and C. Smith, '32, secretary, have done much research work, especially in the libraries of the Hispanic Society, to make this show technically authentic as well as colorfully impressive.

Studio Guild Tea for Symphony Director

THE Studio Guild of Kirkwood, sponsored by Mrs. John H. Herron and Mrs. A. B. Crowe, is to give a tea Wednesday afternoon at the Guild Building complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. Vladimir Golschmann. Mr. Golschmann is director of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. A program has been arranged by the women's committee of the symphony. The list of hostesses includes, from Kirkwood, Mrs. Charles Brown, Mrs. Walter R. Skinner, Mrs. Julian C. Harvey, Mrs. Davis Biggs, Mrs. E. Berkley Jones, Mrs. Logan Tompkins, Mrs. George Graham, Mrs. Henry W. Worrall, Mrs. John B. Strauch and Mrs. John G. Lonsdale. From Webster Groves there will be Mrs. E. Glion Curtis, Mrs. Carl H. Schlapp and Mrs. James Milne. Mrs. Willard Bartlett, Mrs. Blaksley Collins and Mrs. Hugh McKittrick Jones from St. Louis will also assist in receiving.

Reception for Cliffords.

Cards have been received from Mr. and Mrs. Frank Andrew Clifford and Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Kurrus for a reception to meet Mr. and Ms. Clark McAdams Clifford, the afternoon of Thanksgiving day from 5 to 7 o'clock at Hotel Chase. Before her marriage Oct. 4, Mrs. Clark McAdams Clifford was Miss Margery Pepperell Kimball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Gove Carleton Kimball of Glen Farm, Woburn, Mass.

Mayflower Descendants.

The Missouri Society of Mayflower Descendants will observe "Compact Day" Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock with the annual meeting, to be followed by a tea in the colonial rooms of the Coronado Hotel. Dr. Roland G. Usher will speak on "Social Life of Early Plymouth." This meeting is for members of the society and guests. Officers of several patriotic societies have been invited.

Dinner Dance Is Given for Miss Perkins

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Clarke Entertain for Fiancee of L. C. Stark —Debutante Party for Miss Ball.

SOCIETY'S attention has been divided over this week-end between pre-wedding festivities for a prominent bride-elect, and parties for the debutantes.

Miss Katherine Lemoine Perkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert T. Perkins, 6365 Ellenwood avenue, whose marriage to Lloyd Crow Stark of Louisiana, Mo., will take place Nov. 23, was the guest of honor Friday night at a dinner dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Clarke, 4392 Maryland avenue, at the Bridlespur Hunt Club. Dinner was served in the canvas ballroom addition to the clubhouse, with apple trees, laden with fruit, growing just outside the low brick wall which encircled the room. The dining table, seating about 40 guests, was laid in the form of a hollow square. In its center stood a huge tree, scarlet with ripe apples, reaching almost to the ceiling, and growing apparently from a sunken garden of chrysanthemums which reached up to decorate the table. Singers entertained the guests during the dinner and an orchestra played later for dancing.

This afternoon Mr. and Mrs. George T. Moore, 2361 Tower Grove avenue, will be host and hostess at a small tea complimenting Miss Perkins and her fiance, who is here for a few days. Guests at the party will include a group of friends of the guests of honor; Mr. Stark's mother, Mrs. Clarence McDowell Stark, his brother-in-law and sister Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Unsell and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stark, all of Louisiana. Mr. and Mrs. Moore's daughter, Mrs. Boyle O. Rodes, will assist in serving. Members of the two families will remain for an informal supper party.

The largest party for the debutantes this week-end was a dinner dance given last night at the St. Louis Country Club by Mrs. Henry M. Meier in honor of Miss Marie Pauline Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis Ball of Webster Groves. The decorative note of the party was pink, the debutantes' color, with pink roses and pink candles decorating the dinner table, which was laid in the alcove dining room, and a tall trellis, entwined with smilax and covered with pink blossoms against the wall at the far end.

The debutante, her parents and the hostess received in the lounge of the club, which was adorned with baskets of flowers. Miss Ball was gowned in beige satin with brown flowers at the back, and her guest, Miss Peggy Henderson of Memphis, who motored to St. Louis to attend the party, wore an empire model of egg shell satin adorned with a great bow of red velvet at the waistline. Mrs. Meier was in cream lace and Mrs. Ball in lavender crepe.

Guests at the debutante table were Miss Ann Ferriss, Miss Marjorie Capen, Miss Jaquelin Chapman, Miss Elise White, Miss Helen Hemingway, Miss Eleanor Hoblitzelle, Miss Helen D'Arcy, Miss Mary D. Shipley, Miss Joan Pangman, Miss Caroline Kennard, Miss Betty Brown, Miss Jane Bond, Miss Marion Peters, Miss Frances Cave, Miss Harriette Harvey, Duncan Meier, Charles Claggett, Charles Fox, Robert Burkham, Julian Cale, Dr. Willard Bartlett Jr., Dr. Robert Bartlett, William Adreon Gray, Boyd Ware, Thomas Bond Jr., Robert Mitchell, William and Porter Lincoln, Francis Seward, Thomas Noel, Wallace Tuttle, Trustin B. Boyd II, Jack Campbell, Charles Thompson, Duncan Dobson, Oscar Rexford, Dolph Boettler, Alan Caldwell, Creighton Calfee, Jack Curby, Firmin Desloge, William McChesney, Alex McVoy, Lon O. Hocker Jr., Dabney Waller and Charles Terry.

At a smaller table Mrs. Meier entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ball, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pond Capen, Mr. and Mrs. Guilford Duncan and Duncan Meier.

The St. Louis Country Club will again be the scene of a debutante party when Mr. and Mrs. Howard Benoist, 4931 Pershing avenue, entertain the debutantes and their escorts at a buffet supper tonight for their daughter, Miss Sara Benoist. The guests will be Miss Eleanor Hoblitzelle, Miss Mary Bolland Taussig, Miss Marjorie McKittrick, Miss Anne Tyler, Miss Caroline Simpson, Miss Caro Holmes, Miss Helen Hemingway, Miss Ann Ferriss, Miss Mettie Taylor, Miss Caroline Kennard, Miss Harriette Harvey, Miss Jane Allen Connett, Miss Marion Peters, Miss Mary D. Whitneys to Give Race Meeting for Society

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN HAY WHITNEY, who are at Llangollen at Upperville, Va., will be hosts Tuesday at one of the most notable race meets held there since the Civil War.

Manhattan society folk who journey to Virginia and South Carolina to spend the season at their winter homes will attend the affair. Special trains will leave from New York carrying many Long Island residents from the Meadow Brook, North Shore, Piping Rock and other fashionable sections.

The Whitneys will have a large house party at Llangollen which Mr. Whitney gave to his bride, the former Mary Altemus of Philadelphia, on the occasion of their marriage last September.

The estate now comprises over 100 acres of the finest hunting country, and the ancient Colonial mansion is surrounded by huge stables, garages, a flying field and a racecourse for the training of the young couple's string of horses.

Pinehurst, Hot Springs, White Sulphur Springs, Aiken and Bermuda are some of the Southern spots which call society away from shivering Northern cities during the winter.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Sr., the Countess Laszlo Szechenyi and the Countesses Gladys and Alice Szechenyi, Mr. and Mrs. Alden H. Little, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hornblower, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Field, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Wilmerding and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Nichols are among those at White Sulphur Springs.

Dr. Alphonse Schwitalla, dean of the School of Medicine, St. Louis University, will speak before the College Club of St. Louis at its meeting Tuesday at 3:30 p. m., on "The Civic Value of Social Hygiene." Mrs. Edward C. Brown and Miss Edith Zollsman, members from Washington University, will assist the Hospitality Committee.

The French Study Group will be entertained by Mme. Marthe Baheux Wednesday at 3:15 p. m. She will review "Gandhi, le Jeune Inde" by Romaine Rolland.

The Vocational Opportunity Committee of the club will give a tea for the senior class girls of the St. Louis and St. Louis County high schools at 3:30 p. m. at the College Club Wednesday. Miss Claudia Lide, executive secretary of the Employment Department of the Y. W. C. A., will talk on "A Modern Interpretation of Vocations."

The Dramatic Art Section of the Scottish Rite Woman's Club, Mrs. Guy Randall, chairman, will meet tomorrow instead of Tuesday, as scheduled in the year book. "The Blue Moon," a play by Nellie Burget Miller, will be given. The leader of the day is Mrs. Paul Libby, assisted by Mrs. Rosa Kantorwitz and Mrs. August Henke. The cast includes Mrs. John O. Goldsmith, Miss Elsa Breckenridge, Mrs. E. R. Brown, Dr. Helen F. Gibson and Mrs. H. W. Wiese. During the play several groups of children will be presented by Miss Theodora Boe.

Luncheon will be served at noon, Mrs. W. H. Boyne, Mrs. Fuqua Turner, Mrs. A. L. McGuire, Mrs. A. E. Williams and Miss Emma Deibel serving as hostesses.

The members of the Mother Craft Classes of St. John's Methodist Church and Grace Methodist Church were hostesses to the Mother Craft Classes of the various churches in St. Louis at a pageant and tea given at St. John's Methodist Church, Nov. 9. The pageant was given by the Mother Craft Class of Grace Methodist Church in celebration of its tenth anniversary. It portrayed the work done by the class since it was organized.

After the pageant, tea was served to more than 200 guests in the Mother Craft room of St. John's Methodist Church.

The Friday Club will meet Friday at the home of Mrs. Fred W. Woods, 7358 Pershing avenue, with Mrs. Ernest L. Coffin, assistant hostess. Short stories by Edith Wharton will be discussed by Mrs. Lyle M. Allen and Mrs. L. E. Wilcox will read a paper on the "Life of Mary Roberts Rhinehart." The musical program will be presented by the hostesses, Mrs. Coffin, who will sing, with Mrs. Woods at the piano.

The Kirkwood Study Hour Club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. A. B. Boyer, 520 South Clay avenue. The study leader, Mrs. W. W. Keysor, directed the club in the study of "The Seven Against Thebes," by Aeschylus. The special topic, "The Chorus in Greek Tragedy," was discussed by Mrs. L. P. Wingert. The next meeting will be held Nov. 24, at the home of Mrs. F. P. Tillman, 604 Pearl avenue,

MEN'S WOOL SUITS AND OVERCOATS

$14

Every Suit Overcoat Topcoat or Tuxedo Is Celanese Warp Lined

No, they aren't tailored like $50 garments, but just try to match them at any price nearly so low . . . Handsome new patterns in endless variety—every fabric laboratory examined to pass the "all-wool" test. Styled right, priced right and, above all, made right so as to give you garments you are proud to wear . . . It's a sale that's bound to make popular-priced clothing history in St. Louis. Because this event is for a very limited duration, every sale must be final.

SUITS—SERGES, TWEEDS, CASSIMERES, WORSTEDS, CHEVIOTS. Many of the hidden construction details that mean long wear, such as pre-shrunk pure linen coat fronts, sewing the buttons on with linen threads. 36 to 46 for regulars, shorts, stouts, longs.

TOPCOATS—Measure up to the high standards we've set in the suits. In every respect they're tailored to the same rigid specifications. They're all single breasted—with either plain or half-belted backs. Tweeds, fleeces or cassimeres. 34 to 44 for regulars, shorts, longs.

STORE OPEN 8 A. M. TO 7:30 P. M.
For Your Convenience, This Section Only Will Be Opened From 8 A. M. to 7:30 P. M. Use the 7th and Washington Ave. Entrance

OVERCOATS—All tailored to the same high standards . . . kerseys, meltons, llamas, fleeces, boucles, plaid backs and other fine fabrics; with plenty of plain blues . . . boxcoats and semi-fitted models . . . many half-belted backs. Sizes 34 to 44.

TUXEDOS—All Skinner's satin trimmed . . Celanese warp lining . . beautifully tailored. Regulars and shorts. Sizes 35 to 42.

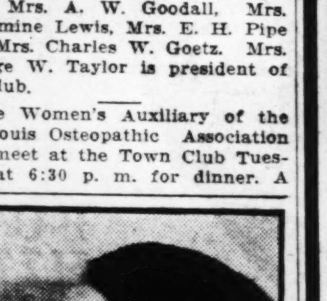
A Proven Germicide

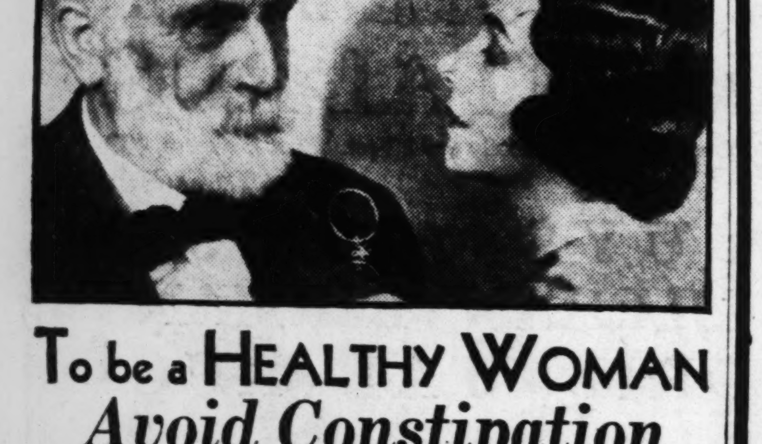
Exhaustive bacteriological tests have proven Lucky Tiger to be a most effective, safe hair treatment.

Lucky Tiger



A product of merit. Commands the largest sale of any like preparation. For beautiful hair and a clean, healthy scalp, use LUCKY TIGER—the effective germicide, delightfully perfumed.

A single application stops that miserable itching, and a single bottle often corrects obstinate irritations.



To be a HEALTHY WOMAN
Avoid Constipation

WHAT should women do to maintain regular elimination? A doctor should know the answer. That is why pure Syrup Pepsin is so good for women. It just suits their delicate organism. It is the prescription of an old family doctor who has treated thousands of women patients, and who made a special study of bowel troubles.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients. It doesn't sicken or weaken you. But its action is thorough. It carries off the improperly digested food and poisonous waste. It does everything you want it to do. It is fine for children, too. They love its taste. Let them have it every time their tongues are coated or their skin is sallow. Give some to keep little bowels active during colds.

When you've a sick headache, can't eat, are bilious or sluggish; and at the times when you are most apt to be constipated, take a little of this famous prescription (all druggists keep it ready in big bottles) and you'll know why Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the favorite laxative of over a million women!

PREVENT A SINUS FLARE-UP THIS EASY SAFE WAY

The least little cold, or change in temperature often swells the turbinate bones in the nose. Then the sinuses get blocked and can't drain properly. That's where the headaches come from. But don't worry. FED-OINTISEPTIC will fix a clogged nose in a hurry. The first application shrinks the swollen turbinates sufficiently to let the air pass by, and starts the healing process of ventilation and drainage so necessary to good health. PREVENT A SINUS FLARE-UP THIS EASY SAFE WAY

The least little cold, or change in temperature often swells the turbinate bones in the nose. Then the sinuses get blocked and can't drain properly. That's where the headaches come from. But don't worry. FED-OINTISEPTIC will fix a clogged nose in a hurry. The first application shrinks the swollen turbinates sufficiently to let the air pass by, and starts the healing process of ventilation and drainage so necessary to good health. Get a trial tube today at your nearest druggist, or write the Ephedrine Company for the introductory package of FED-OINTISEPTIC, by mail, 10c. FED-OINTISEPTIC is a delightful, improved ephedrine nasal jelly, actively antiseptic. So pleasant and safe—even for very young children. Try it today. You'll never be sorry. KIRKWOOD SOCIAL NOTES

MRS. MARSHALL McCARTHY, 512 East Monroe avenue, is expected home this week after several weeks spent at Stockbridge, Mass.

The members of the Kirkwood Garden Club will go to the Park Plaza for luncheon tomorrow following which they will attend the chrysanthemum show at Shaw's Garden.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke P. Fiske, 311 North Woodlawn avenue, motored to Memphis, Tenn., last week for a visit.

The Ladies' Sanctuary Society of St. Peter's Church is sponsoring a card party to be given Monday evening, Nov. 23, at St. Peter's Hall. The proceeds of the party will be used in furnishing a second room in which the school children may play games.

The Little Theater of the Kirkwood Studio Guild will present "Interference" by Roland Pertwee and Harold Dearden, Thursday and Friday evening, Nov. 19 and 20, at 8:15 o'clock in the auditorium of the Guild Bulding, Argonne and Fillmore avenue. Miss Jacquelin Ambler has succeeded Miss Mary Broderick as head of the group.

Miss Anne Robinson, daughter of Mrs. George R. Robinson, 443 East Argonne drive, is planning to visit friends in Tulsa, Ok., during the Thanksgiving holidays.

The annual display meeting of the Needlework Guild will be held Thursday afternoon at the Presbyterian Church, Adams avenue and Kirkwood road.

Mrs. A. Frederick Griffin, 640 Pearl avenue, has returned home from the Jewish Hospital, where she recently underwent a major operation.

Mrs. Louis R. Franz, 334 East Jefferson avenue, will entertain members of her bridge club at luncheon Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Walter Mitchell of Seattle, Wash., is visiting relatives in Kirkwood and St. Louis. During her stay in St. Louis she will be with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Davis of Washington terrace. Before her marriage Mrs. Mitchell was Miss Jennie Sneed.

Miss Margaret Cunningham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard A. Cunningham, 645 North Taylor avenue, has chosen as the date of her marriage to Dr. Ryland M. Ayres Saturday, Dec. 21.

The wedding is to be at the Cunningham home at 8 o'clock. She will have as her matron of honor Mrs. George A. McGregor of Maplewood. A younger sister, Miss Eleanor Cunningham, will serve as bridesmaid. There will be two ribbon bearers, Lucy Ann Rieth and Betty Jean Senkosky.

Dr. Ayres will have as his best man his brother, Samuel P. Ayres of Windsor, Mo.

A number of pre-wedding parties are to be given in honor of Miss Cunningham.

Mrs. John F. Robertson, 212 North Woodlawn avenue, entertained Thursday afternoon at a bridge luncheon.

Mrs. Ida L. Brunner, 336 West Madison avenue, and her daughters, Miss Laura and Miss Frances, will be hostesses at a meeting of the Tuesday Club of Kirkwood, Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. W. S. Fitzroy, Navajo Trail, Osage Hills, will be hostess at a meeting of the Neighborhood Bridge Club Tuesday afternoon at Osage Hills Country Club.

LUTHERAN MISSION FESTIVAL

Annual Affair to Be Held at Niedringhaus Memorial.

The annual festival of the Lutheran City Mission will be held at 3 p. m. today at Niedringhaus Memorial Mission, Cass avenue and Seventh street.

The Lutheran City Mission has been active in St. Louis for 33 years, aiding the needy, and in particular homeless children, in addition to conducting religious services.

WANTS TO SHAKE COLLEGE IDEA OUT OF HIGH SCHOOLS

Philadelphia Educator Says It's Time They Were Made Part of the Elementary System.

DR. EDWIN C. BROOME ADDRESSES TEACHERS

Miss Florence Hale Suggests to Missouri Association That Some Old Methods Are Still Good.

Sweeping changes in the administration of high schools "to get them out of the idea they are colleges" were proposed by Dr. Edwin C. Broome, superintendent of Philadelphia public schools, in an address before a general session of the Missouri State Teachers' Association at Hotel Jefferson yesterday.

Dr. Broome spoke on the same program with Miss Florence Hale, president of the National Education Association, and the meeting was the final one in the four-day convention of the teachers' association which began last Wednesday. The attendance at the convention was more than 10,000.

Among Dr. Broome's suggestions on "how to make the high school a part of the public school system" were proposals to require elementary school experience of all high school principals and teachers and to pay the same salaries for teachers in both schools.

He suggested in addition that interscholastic athletics be eliminated, high school fraternities abolished, high school commencements discontinued, and the freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classifications be destroyed.

"We ought to start preparing high school students for manhood and womanhood rather than for college entrance," Dr. Broome said. "The nearer we can get school to life the nearer we can equip children to be good citizens in the next generation. To that end there should be no marks, grades or formal class promotions, for life is not like that. I have no sympathy for formal things that have to be stepped over just because they are formal. We ought to develop students so that they would be constantly absorbing information."

Miss Hale, who was presented as "the first lady of education in the United States," spoke on "Antiques in Education." She warned the teachers that in advocating progressive methods they should not cease to recognize that many teachings and methods of past generations were greatly effective.

"Wise teachers have always seen material that is worth while in students and have cared enough about it to bring out strength and beauty of character," Miss Hale said. She called attention to old-fashioned discipline, oral reading, mastery of literature and "belief in the eternal verities" as factors of past education that must not be overlooked today.

Students to Speak Over Radio.

Three students at Webster College, Webster Groves, will discuss "The Chinese-Japanese Trouble" at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon over radio station WEW. The students are Miss Mary Zilliken, Miss Rosemary Gottlob and Miss Ann Ryan.

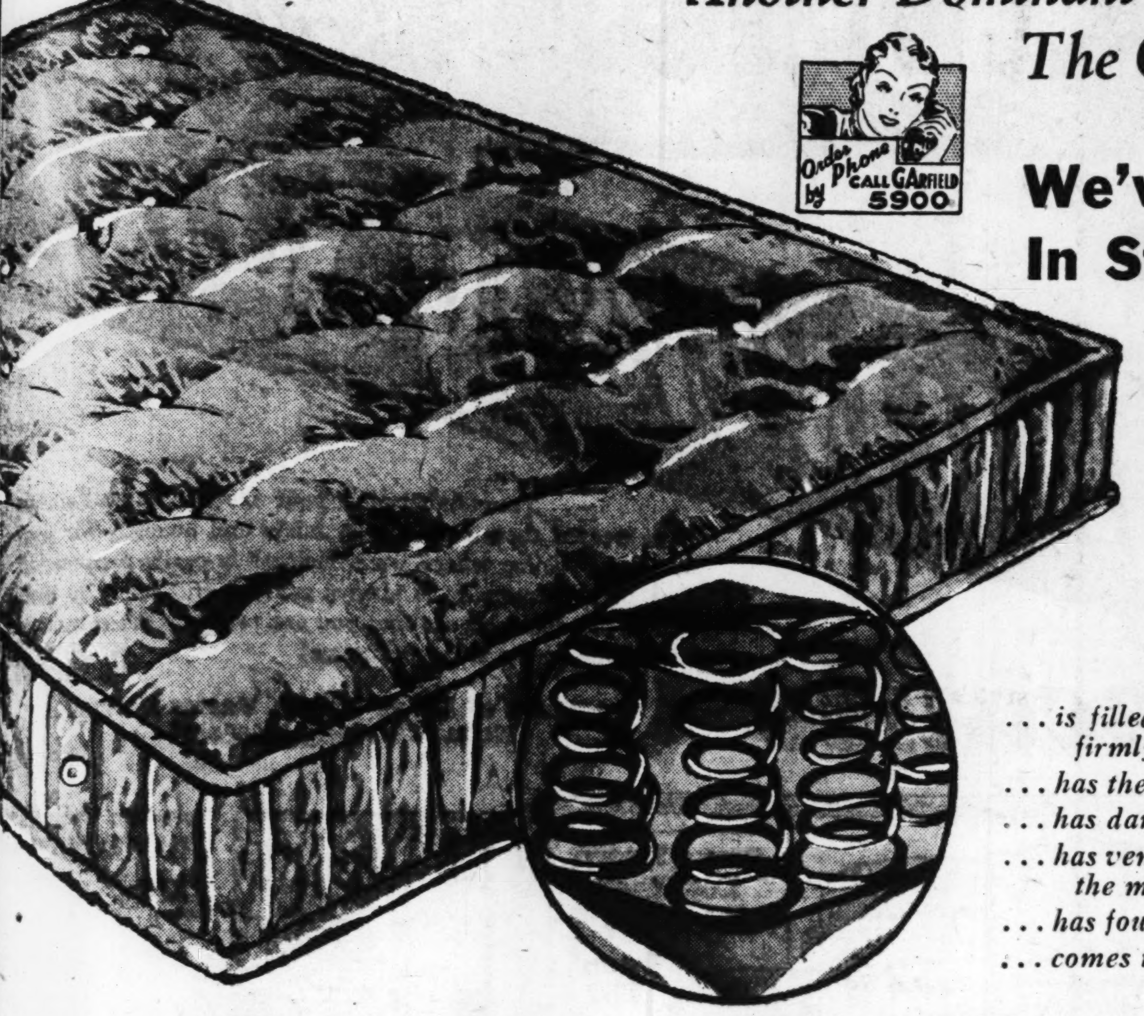
Another Dominant Store Sale That Will Prompt Scores to Ask "How Do They Do It?"
The Only Drawback Is the Limited Quantity... Only 500



We've Yet To See Such Quality In St. Louis at This Low Price

$9.90

☾ Point after point... check over in your mind the outstanding features embodied in these luxurious Mattresses. Below this paragraph we've itemized their value elements. If this advertisement were being written about Mattresses that sold for over twice the startlingly low price of these Mattresses—we doubt whether we'd be justified in praising the higher priced ones in more glowing terms than these at $9.90. That's putting it rather strong ... so come in and make us prove it!

THIS MATTRESS...

- ... is filled with row upon row of soft, resilient springs, firmly locked together to prevent displacement.
- ... has the spring unit inclosed in 30-lb. of soft felt.
- ... has damask pattern ticking in blue, rose, green orchid.
- ... has ventilators which permit the air to circulate through the mattress and keep it buoyant and sanitary.
- ... has four handles which make it easy to turn.
- ... comes to you in factory-sealed sanitary carton.

THIS MATTRESS...

- ... comes in full or twin sizes.
- ... is hand-tufted with buttons, not tufted by machine as are so many of those sold around this price! Hand-tufting prevents the tufts from pulling out easily and thus helps the mattress to hold its shape through long service.
- ... has taped roll edge which not only strengthens the edges but gives a well-tailored appearance.
- ... assures sound, restful sleep and comfort.

NO JURY CONVICTIONS FOR CRIME LAST WEEK

Three Acquittals—Four Pleading Guilty Sent to Penitentiary for Robbery.

No convictions resulted from jury trials in the criminal division of Circuit Court last week. Three defendants were acquitted. They were Jesse Griffin, charged with larceny from the person; Harold Miner, Negro, charged with assault to kill and Cornelius Dabney, Negro, charged with robbery.

Four men who pleaded guilty received penitentiary sentences for robbery. Andrew J. Hendricks, a private in the medical corps at Jefferson Barracks, and Anthony Blackwood, who participated in holding up two filling stations, got 10 years under the Henry law.

Ray Moore got five years for assisting in the holdup of a bakery driver while George E. Henderson got a like sentence for assault with intent to rob. Earl Raney and Dave Schmeidek were paroled as first offenders by Judge Ryan after receiving three-year sentences for assault with intent to rob.

Others who pleaded guilty and their sentences follow: James Monroe, assault, four years; Lawrence Whitmore, assault to kill, two years; Leslie Meyer, embezzlement, two years and paroled; George Dieckmann, petit larceny, six months and paroled; Joseph Hanrath, petit larceny, six months; Orlett Myers, petit larceny, four months; Buford Williams, larceny of motor vehicle, four months; Glenn Jones, disposing of chattel mortgage, six months, and Earnest Williams, carrying a concealed weapon, 90 days.

BOY, 8, SAVES MOTHER'S LIFE

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Nov. 14.—An 8-year-old boy rescued his mother from their burning home here last night and saved her life. She was knocked unconscious by the explosion of an oil stove that scattered fire all over a room.

Her son, Willie Disheroon, struggled out of the house with her limp body. Firemen found them lying in the yard only 15 feet from the burning building. The boy was exhausted and she was still unconscious.

ARCHBISHOP GRATEFUL FOR $350,403 GIFTS

Fund to Be Distributed Through St. Vincent de Paul Society and Others.

Archbishop Glennon last night expressed gratification at the response to his emergency charity appeal and said that the fund of $350,403 would be expended through the St. Vincent de Paul Society and kindred agencies where distress appears greatest, particularly in caring for the sick, the poor and children.

He voiced the expectation that in the relief work there would be cordial co-operation between the Catholic agencies and other charitable organizations and said he hoped the Catholic committees would continue to function to aid in the unemployment situation and to be in readiness in the event of need for further funds.

His expressions were contained in the following letter to the Rev. John J. Butler, secretary of the St. Vincent de Paul Society and director of the emergency appeal:

"I am delighted at the generous response made to the emergency relief fund. Many good results will flow therefrom; a neighbor visits his neighbor on behalf of that other neighbor in distress. All three are benefited, bitterness is removed, social values are created.

"I hope that the various committees will continue to function. They are needed now to help in the unemployment situation. They may be needed later to obtain more funds, for, though the worst is past, or appears to be, it will take a considerable time to restore us to normal conditions.

"Regarding the spending of the fund, I propose with the advice of the executive committee to expend it through:

The St. Vincent de Paul society, kindred agencies, engaged in caring for the sick, the poor, the children, such as clinics, day nurseries, homes, etc. Where distress appears greatest.

"I expect that in this work there will be the cordial co-operation between our society and the various other agencies, notably the Citizens' Relief Committee, Jewish Relief and the various relief agencies sustained by the Community Fund. All these are doing marvelous work and should get in this crisis, that is upon us, the whole-hearted support of all, who can even in a little way aid them.

"To the multitude who, though of moderate means, contributed generously to our fund, I am most grateful, as also to the army of visiting collectors, to the splendid group of volunteers who labored at headquarters, to the group of ladies who campaigned, to the children who prayed, to the institutions who sacrificed, to the reverend clergy, including Father Egan, and the reverend district directors, not forgetting yourself. For all we ask a special benediction in that you have worked so well for God and humanity."

To The Mothers Whose Children Won't Eat

A Simple Way to correct Poor Appetite

NATURE knows best. Never coax a child to eat! Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite. When appetite fails, tongue is coated white, eyes are a bilious yellow, don't give small children a constipating cathartic that drains the system and weakens tender bowels! California syrup of figs is all the "medicine" they require.

The Child's Appetite Will Always Respond

Specialists will tell you that a sluggish appetite almost always means the child has a sluggish colon. Correct this condition called stasis, and see how quickly a listless, drooping boy or girl begins to eat—and gain! The only "medicine" such children need is pure, unadulterated syrup of figs.

California syrup of figs is doing wonderful things for ailing, sickly children all over the United States. Children who get syrup of figs, now and then, soon have the appetite and energy of young animals! They keep well and avoid colds and sluggish spells.

Begin Tonight

Nature never made a finer laxative for children; and they all love the wholesome, fruity flavor of the real California syrup of figs. It's purely vegetable, but every druggist has it all bottled, with directions. Begin with it at once. The very next day, your child will be eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the syrup of figs a few days and you will see the most amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight, and spirits.

A SINGLE "IF"

The promises made by the bottlers of California Syrup of Figs are true—and it will do the same for you—IF it's genuine CALIFORNIA Syrup of Figs. Don't accept any bottle that does not plainly say CALIFORNIA. Every druggist has the genuine.

AKLAND, GRAHAM CORNER IS BOUGHT FOR APARTMENT

2-Family Building Will Be Erected by Del Line Co. at Estimated Cost of $200,000.

EARS-ROEBUCK WINTER ACTIVITY

By Berry Moore

A site at the southeast corner of Oakland and Graham avenues has een purchased by the Del Line Co., f which Sylvester Peterson is resident, for a 42-family apartent building, to cost $200,000. Negotiations were handled by James B. Watkins.

The lot has a frontage of 100 feet on Oakland, with a depth of 200 feet on Graham. It was owned by Joseph Pejchar, who purchased it before the rise in prices on this highway, which forms the south oundary of Forest Park. Excavaon for the proposed building is scheduled to start soon. It will be a three-story fireproof structure.

The apartments will be of four and five room efficiency, with electric refrigeration and will include the newest features in buildings of this type.

Transactions involving apartment buildings on Oakland avenue opposite Forest Park, have been features of the real estate market. These included the Art Hill place partments, at the southeast corner Oakland avenue and Art Hill place, acquired by Sarah Claus, a client of Watkins, for $225,000.

Sale of the northeast corner of Yale and Wise avenues in the Forest Park Subdivision in Richmond Heights, to a client of Watkins, who has building plans, is also announced. The site is opposite St. Mary's Hospital and just south of Clayton road.

Sears-Roebuck Activity.

The Home Construction Division of Sears-Roebuck & Co. is figuring on plans for 35 homes in the St. Louis district, ranging in cost from $4500 to $40,000, with construction contemplated this winter. L. J. Steffens is the division architect.

In this connection, J. B. Keitz, district manager of the construction ivision of Sears-Roebuck, said:

"The building outlook is much brighter now than at any other time during the last two years. Confidence seems somewhat restored, and 1932 should show a larger building activity in the small home field.

"Prices of building materials are now the lowest in years.

"We have more than $1,000,000 in loans, no foreclosures and very few delinquents in this market."

197 Houses in St. Louis District.

Sears Roebuck & Co. have erect 197 houses, ranging in cost from $3500 to $17,500, in St. Louis and in the outlying districts, and in East St. Louis and Belleville, since the establishment of its home construction division, less than three years ago.

Two years ago Sears Roebuck started a finance system under which $100,000,000 was made available for the erection of homes in St. Louis and in 47 other large cities. The plan met with ready response here. The home construction division maintains large offices in the Arcade Building, Eighth and Olive streets.

Negotiations are said to be practically concluded for several apartment buildings in the West End and on the South Side, but announcements are withheld pending final papers. The largest of these volves a building, now nearing completion, in the Moorlands.

PRESIDENT KISSELL BOOSTS ST. LOUIS

Harry S. Kissell, Springfield, O., president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, told real estate men here last week that he could qualify as a booster of St. Louis real estate.

This was said with special reference to a recent occupancy survey, hich showed there were relative fewer vacancies in St. Louis than in many other large cities, according to Isaac A. Hedges, in charge of the real estate interests of Washington University, and a member of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange.

Kissell referred to St. Louis as one of the most substantial cities in its class in the country.

Kissell came to St. Louis in behalf of a plan for the liquidation of frozen real estate mortgages, which he outlined at a dinner meeting Tuesday evening at Hotel Chase, sponsored by the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange. Kissel's plan would create a central bank for discounting mortgages on homes only.

It is of brick, with five rooms, tile, with muralite bath and kitchen, built-in fixtures, vapor heating plant, shower, birch woodwork, hardwood floors, shades, screens, ventilating fan, drapery rods and two-car garage. The work was financed by Laclede Bond and Mortgage Co. with a 15-year loan.

20,000 VIEW DISPLAY OF BUILDING MATERIAL

Exhibit Bureau in Arcade Building Describes Work in Last Two Years.

According to records kept, more than 20,000 persons have examined the building materials and equipment on display at the Building Industries Exhibit Bureau, on the eighth floor of the Arcade Building, since they were put on display in August, 1929.

The purpose of the bureau is to help the prospective builder in the selection of the proper materials as well as to impress upon him the urgent need of the practical advice of an architect.

Among the exhibits now on display are stone, ornamental iron, tile, stucco, brick, asbestos shingles, heating apparatus, insulating materials, ornamental plaster, marble, terrazzo, electric fixtures, sound proofing, store fronts, paving brick, flexotile, hardwood floors in numerous patterns, slate flagging and roofing, hardware, flexwood, ornamental stone, weather-stripping, steel casement windows, telephone conduits, craftex, radiator shields, garden furniture, waterproofing materials, tiles for bathroom, wall tile, monel metal sinks, vitrolite, kitchen cabinets, plumbing fixtures, wood shingles, metal tile roofs, clay tile roofs and millwork such as doors and trims.

The Building Industries Exhibit Bureau is indorsed by the St. Louis Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

EXCHANGE DIRECTORS HAVE ONLY CONTEST

Nominations are complete for the Real Estate Exchange election Tuesday, when a president to serve one year and six directors to serve two years, will be chosen. The election will be held in the organization's quarters on the first floor of the Wainwright Building.

Bernard F. Dickmann, president and treasurer of the Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co., and now president of the Exchange, has been nominated for re-election to that office without opposition, which is equivalent to election.

The seven candidates who are seeking the six places on the Exchange's directorate are Ray R. Dolan, president, John P. Dolan Realty Co.; Clifford E. Drozda, secretary and treasurer, William S. Drozda Realty Co.; Arthur C. Hoehn, vice president, Henry R. Weisels, Co., Inc.; Edward L. Kuhs, president, Edward L. Kuhs Realty Co.; Herman A. O'Rourke, president, H. A. O'Rourke, Inc.; Alfred D. Ruth, president, Julius Haller Realty Co., and Clarence M. Turley. Alex M. Cornwell, president and treasurer of the F. J. Cornwell Real Estate Co., nominated for director, has withdrawn.

Kuhs, Ruth and Turley are seeking re-election as directors, Kuhs now being second vice president and Ruth treasurer of the Exchange. Dolan is a member of the Exchange's committee on industrial development, and Drozda, Hoehn and O'Rourke are members of the entertainment committee. O'Rourke also is chairman of the brokers' division of the Exchange.

Election to these respective offices is by ballot, which must be cast between the hours of 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. on the day of the election.

George F. Heffernan, Christian Brinkop and Edward A. Bokern will serve as inspectors of election. Bokern is a past president of the Exchange and, together with Heffernan and Brinkop, has been serving at the annual elections of the Exchange for many years.

A complimentary buffet luncheon will be served to the active members in the Exchange room on election day.

BUILDING AT 39TH AND CASTLEMAN SOLD

The Edwards Realty Co., of which Edward Lasky is president, has concluded negotiations through the Mullin-Walters Realty Co. for the purchase of the buildings at the southwest corner of Thirty-ninth street and Castleman avenue.

These are two-story structures comprising six stores, two apartments and two offices. Included is a single flat at 3906 Castleman avenue.

The buildings are occupied and will show a good return on the investment.

The purchase was made as a permanent investment. Both parties were represented by the Mullin-Walters Realty Co.

NATIONAL HOME SAVINGS DAY SET BY REAL ESTATE MEN

Aid to Be Given Dec. 1 to Prospective House Owners Whose Problem Is Making of Initial Payment.

The Board of Directors of the National Association of Real Estate Boards deliberated for many hours in Chicago recently on the current problems of America's home-owning families.

The most important action was the resolution approving the creation of a Federal Mortgage Bank for the rediscount of urban residential mortgages. Only two votes were cast against the resolution which was forwarded immediately to President Hoover, who had indicated that such a bank might handle frozen realty credits that are clogging activity, in the business world. Hoover announced late Friday he would ask Congress to set up a dozen home loan discount banks, capitalized at about $150,000,000, but capable of advancing 12 times that amount to institutions dealing in small mortgage loans.

The resolution was the first official action by the Association Board since it authorized a study of the possibilities of the mortgage bank plan at its Baltimore convention last May. A second resolution commended Association President Harry S. Kissell for his work on behalf of the bank plan with the Hoover Committee on Home Building and Home Owning.

The Board studied the matter of the initial payment that is often a problem to the family in the low income group, and set aside Tuesday, Dec. 1, as National Home Savings Day when real estate men and others will seek to aid prospective home owners by providing savings guides. It was suggested that this day might be made an annual event.

The situation of the home owner's facing whatever may be the balance of the depression was considered by the board and a resolution was passed appealing to employers to give preference, when possible, to workers who have acquired their own homes.

The board sought also to widen the market for real estate mortgages. By resolution the attention of fire and casualty companies was called to the fact that the major part of their business is obtained from the realty field, and these companies were urged to invest their funds in real estate mortgages.

Simeon E. Leland outlined a program of 32 possible measures for relief of the real estate tax payer. Prof. Leland has been working, with a staff of assistants, at th University of Chicago, for the last year.

The directors also heard from Andrew L. Moore, Pontiac, Mich., Chairman-elect of the National Property Owners' Division, who stated that "tax action" this year must follow the association's program of making the public tax-conscious of enlisting private property owners in the local real estate boards.

The only new election was that of R. T. Childs, Mineola, Long Island, who was elected to the Board of Directors to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of R. E. Jordan, Houston, Tex. Childs will serve until Jan. 1, 1932.

FINANCIAL MARKETS ARE REACTIONARY AT WEEK END

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Financial markets were reactionary in the week-end dealings today, following the pattern of the last few sessions.

Stocks felt the disturbance created in the rail group by weakness of New York Central, but closed generally above the lows on late short covering, with net losses ranging from a fraction to 4 points in most instances. Wheat steadied after an early setback, only to sag again to a weak finish, off two cents a bushel.

Share trading was active throughout the first hour when New York Central broke 4 points to a new low at 41⅝. The nine months earnings statement was used as an argument by bears and offerings of the stock were rather large. It closed at 42⅛, off 3¼ net. Union Pacific and Norfolk & Western lost slightly more than 4, while Bangor & Aroostook was down 5.

Radio at New Low.

Radio and its subsidiary, Radio-Keith-Orpheum, both established new lows, the former going below 10. Weakness apparently reflected objections to the refinancing plan proposed for R-K-O. Western Union made a poor showing, and was off half a dozen points at the worst. American Telephone, Case, Auburn, Santa Fe, New Haven, Coca Cola and Corn Products lost in the neighborhood of 2, while net losses in U. S. Steel, American Can, National Biscuit and Allied Chemical approximated a point. Metals were firm, apparently in expectation of more favorable news from the copper curtailment conversations. Stock transactions totaled 1,137,975 shares.

President Hoover's plan for a nation-wide system of home loan discount banks was hardly a market influence, although Wall street gave the proposal a favorable reception. Traders probably felt, however, that the effects of such an arrangement, if approved by Congress, could not be realized for some time; furthermore, it had been known that the administration was working on some such scheme.

Steel Trade Improves.

The steel trade appears able to maintain its slow rate of improvement. Youngstown area plants will start next week at 40 per cent of capacity, a rise of 3 points. However, the industry is not allowing itself too much optimism and will probably prefer to keep close step with actual demand rather than to overrun it.

Foreign exchange tended to ease against the dollar, an advance of a cent in sterling being an exception. The yen also was firm, but most continental rates were off.

Wheat sentiment was affected by rainfall in the Southwest, which has been experiencing dry weather. Corn lost ½ to 1 cent net, reflecting weak foreign markets and increased offerings. Cotton traders were influenced by the wheat and stock markets, and futures closed 40 to 55 cents a bale lower.

Developments of Week.

Speculation in grain and silver provided the most spectacular developments of the financial week.

The advances early in the week attracted a large following among professionals and private traders who had been on a slim profit ration for so long that a chance to enjoy a richer diet was eagerly seized. Wall Street has not attempted to minimize the advance in either wheat or silver, although there has been a feeling that the former's move was too rapid.

Prospects of an agreement between France and Germany on the means of approaching the Reich's indebtedness brought closer the inevitable conference or conferences on Germany's capacity to pay.

After Monday's rally, stocks were reactionary over the rest of the week, although the market was dull.

25 Low Priced STOCKS

FINANCIAL NOTES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Snmms Petroleum Co., under its offer to purchase from stockholders a maximum of 100,000 shares of stock at $6 a share, which expired Nov. 13, acquired upwards of 85 per cent of the amount of 85,000 shares. Stockholders under the offer were allowed to sell to the company 12½ per cent of their holdings. The company, under the terms of the offer, may now make up the deficiency through purchases in the open market of the required shares at an average price of $6 a share, exclusive of commissions.

Stocks of refined lead at U. S. refineries at the end of October amounted to 139,796 tons, compared with 132,804 at the end of September and 84,775 at the end of October 1930, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reports.

The total value of building permits issued in 215 cities in October was $76,965,597, a decline of 3.3 per cent from September and 39.2 per cent less than during the corresponding month last year, Bradstreet's reports. The value of anticipated building stands about one-fifth of that in the high month, Feb. 1924, the survey says, and explains that this estimate is based on the fact that Bradstreet's building permit index for October, 1931, stands at 32.5, compared with 160.5 for February, 1924. Between September and October thcer is normally a 2.4 per cent seasonal rise.

For the first time this year manufacturers are calling for large quantities of leather and other types of belting to replace worn-out equipment. Oone belting manufacturer said that sales for October exceeded the average monthly level for the first time since the summer of 1929.

The New York Hide Exchange reports that preliminary estimates place shoe production during the month of October at 25,000,000 pairs, against 27,731,000 pairs for October last year. The total output during the first 10 months of the current year, including the preliminary estimate for last month, was 277,461,000 pairs, against 268,090,000 pairs during the corresponding period last yea

COTTON CLOSES DOWN AFTER RALLIES FROM DECLINE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Rallies from an opening decline in cotton today were followed by renewed weakness under some Southern selling and liquidation.

January contracts, after selling off to 6.45c early, rallied to 6.54c or within a point of yesterday's closing quotation, but later broke to 6.44c and closed at 6.46c. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 8 to 11 points.

The opening was steady 6 to 9 points lower under Southern selling and liquidation inspired by the lower Liverpool cables and the easier tone of the stock market. Brokers thought by some to be acting for co-operative interests were among the sellers and prices worked gradually off to 6.33c for December, and 6.61c for March or about 10 to 12 points net lower on the general list. Offerings then tapered off to some extent and losses were just about recovered on a renewal of trade or investment buying and week-end covering. December advanced to 6.45c and March to 6.71c on this demand but selling became more active again in the late trading and closing quotations were within a point or two of the lowest for the day.

No special news factors were particularly commented upon in connection with the decline, but it was pointed out by some of the local brokers that rather a reactionary tone had been in evidence for the past two or three days, and the selling this morning was probably encouraged by the action of the grain and stock markets. The steadiness of silver had a sustaining influence and there was rumor that the early break had brought in some investment buying through commission house as well as a rather better trade demand.

The report of the Census Bureau showing domestic consumption during October of 462,023 bales, compared with 463,704 in September and 443,284 in October, 1920, was not generally mention in connection with the action of the immediate market.

Liverpool cable said that Bombay buying had been supplied by liquidation and hedging in that market, but reported a fair business in cotton cloths for the Manchester outlets generally. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 204,000 bales against 105,000 last year.

COTTON CONSUMPTION IN OCTOBER OVER YEAR AGO

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Cotton consumption for October was reported today by the Census Bureau to have been slightly larger than in October last year but a bit under September this year.

Exports for the month were more than a million bales for the first time since October last year. Europe took less than during the same month a year ago, but Japan bought 216,255 bales as compared with 92,884 bales in October last year.

Cotton consumed during October was reported by the Census Bureau to have been 462,025 bales of lint and 61,243 of linters, compared with 463,704 of lint and 63,866 of linters in September this year and 443,284 of lint and 66,165 of linters in October last year.

Cotton on hand Oct. 31 was held as follows:

In consuming establishments, 1,115,793 bales of lint and 197,821 of linters, compared with 775,523 and 202,523 on Sept. 30 this year and 1,354,574 and 211,735 on Oct. 31 last year.

In public storage and at compresses, 9,449,987 bales of lint and 39,878 of linters, compared with 6,296,546 and 38,820 on Sept. 30 this year and 7,474,299 and 71,042 on Oct. 31 last year.

Imports during October totaled 2636 bales, compared with 5426 in September this year and 1747 in October last year.

Exports for October totaled 1,014,180 bales of lint and 9529 of linters, compared with 588,192 and 4331 for September this year and 1,004,120 and 13,875 for October last year.

Cotton spindles active during October numbered 25,188,112, compared with 25,236,916 in September this year and 25,720,504 in October last year.

COPPER AND OTHER METALS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Copper continued to mark time pending the outcome of the conference of world producers. Export demand, which had been active on expectations of a curtailment agreement, tapered off, while domestic buying was restricted at 7 cents for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut Valley. October statistics were not issued at the usual time.

Irregular fluctuations in tin within a narrow range continued to reflect changes in sterling and the London market. Consumer buying is still said to be below the recent rate of consumption.

Lead advanced on a more active demand from both large and small consumers for immediate and nearby delivery. Buying slackened somewhat at the close of the week after users had satisfied their more pressing requirements, but the undertone was steady.

Although buying and inquiry for zinc has been only moderate, the market advanced on restricted offerings promoted partly by expectations of a higher ore market. Excess stocks are said to be chiefly held by larger companies who are reluctant to sell.

Antimony was generally higher promoted by early firmness of silver but later easiness of that metal and reports of larger Chinese shipments accounted for an easier undertone near the close of the week.

PRICE DECLINE CONTINUES IN CHICAGO GRAIN TRAD

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Big speculat holders of wheat relinquished owners today with a rush, and prices crumb wholesale, blotting out virtually half recent rapid gains. Shrinkage in va since Monday amounted to more than cents on wheat, 11 cents on rye, a cents on corn. Rains which in part reli drouth over domestic winter wheat te tory southwest had a disturbing market fluence, together with reported Russ wheat offerings at Liverpool and conf mation that France had agreed one-th of her wheat imports would be obtai from Jugo-Slavia.

Wheat closed unsettled at almost dya's bottom level, 2@2⅜ centslower t yesterday's finish; corn ⅛@1c down; o ½@⅝c off, and provisions at 5c to decline.

In one quarter belief prevailed that supposed leader on the bull side of t wheat market had quit at least temporar as a promoter of higher prices. On other hand, opinions from various sour were expressed after the close that the action had gone too far. Exporters esp cially were represented as waiting ho fully to see what effect today's pr downturns would have on foreign buyi A bearish feature, however, was that only had France agreed one-third of imports would be taken from Jugo-Slav but a rumor that a similar agreement expected between Germany and Jugo-Sla

France's agreement with Jugo-Slavia to wheat dealings exerted a particula disconcerting influence, as it had be assumed France would buy on a gener scale from North America. Meanwh today's overseas purchases from Ca and the United States remained sca 500,000 bushels, and the bulk of it Ca dian. Price rallies made but slight hea way at any time, notwithstanding Arge tine complaints of unwelcome rains harvest regions, and despite talk th drouth was little abated in Westernr Ka sas.

Corn and oats failed to reflect fully th wheat market break. Wet weather ov the corn belt and high prices paid parts of Iowa and Illinois for cash co had a sustaining effect.

Provisions receded with hog values with grains.

FOREIGN CROP NEWS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Russia's fa grain sowings to Nov. 1 were reported the Agriculture Department today as 658,000 acres or 84 per cent of the So iet plan.

October procurings at 52 per cen the monthly plan brought total grain curings 3 4 per cent above the same last year. Total seedings are under per cent o last year's winter sown age.

"With sowings in the chief regions low last year and the lateness of the campaign generally, also consider the large increase planned for wint wheat, it is unlikely that the fall p can be completed," the department was vised.

Other foreign reports estimated Austr lia's wheat crop at 171,000,000 bushe against 212,628,000 last year. Germ wheat production at 150,418,00 bushel against 139,217,000, while win seeding in China was placed below la year's figure.

Japan' rice production was estimat in reports at 17,287,000,000 pounds compared with 21,017,000,000 last year.

ansas Wheat Outlook.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 14.—A reducti of 2,000,000 acres in the area sown wheat in Kansas was estimated today the State Board of Agriculture on basis of reports from 500 bankers. T total was placed at 10,812,000 acres, per cent less than planted last fall.

Condition of the crop was rated at per cent of normal.

Poor condition of the crop due to lac of moisture particularly in the weste third of the State, and the reduced a age points to a "drastic reduction" of 1932 crop compared with the record yie of 233,000,000 bushels this year, board stated.

WHEAT DOWN 10C FROM WEEK'S HIGH ON LOCAL BOARD

Market Loses 2 Cents at Final Session of Period With Rain in Southwest Called a Factor.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Nov. 14.—Further decline in wheat futures at the final session of the week carried prices down 10½@11c under the high of early in week. Saturday's loss were 2@2¼c. Corn finished unchanged to ¼c lower on day.

The immediate influence in the grain market was considered the welcome rains after dry weather in Southwest. Increase in Russian offers at Liverpool recently and efforts by France to limit her imports were other factors. Oversea purchases of North American wheat amounted to only 500,000 bushels. Liverpool closed ⅝@1d lower.

Wheat receipts which were 113,400 compared with 148,400 a week ago and 67,200 a year ago included 21 cars local and 60 through. Corn receipts, which were 40,600 bu compared with 53,200 a week ago and 46,200 a year ago, included 23 cars local and 6 through. Oats receipts, which were 17,600 bu. compared with 11,000 a week ago and 48,400 a year ago, included 5 cars local and three through. Hay receipts were four cars local and none through.

Soft wheat was 3@4½c lower Saturday. The demand was good at the declining prices, however and receipts were cleaned up by local and outside millers. The best premiums on the crop were paid as basis was strong and advanced. No. 1, red sold 2½c over Chicago December on the tables and 3s over from store; No. 2, sold 1¼@2c over. Hard wheat was 3@4c lower but receipts were small. One car of low grade stock sold and basis was equal Chicago December for No. 2. Corn was ½@1½c lower. Demand was good and liberal receipts were all cleaned up. Glucose makers bought mixed, industries yellow, and elevators white. No. 2, new corn was ½c over Chicago December but No. 3 was ¼@½c under. Oats were steady and small receipts were cleaned by elevators and mills. The demand was good.

RANGE OF PRICES.

WHEAT—No. 1 red winter, 60@60½c; No. 2 red winter, 58@59c; No. 2 hard winter, 57c nom.; sample grade hard winter 51¼c.

CORN—Old: No. 2 yellow, 42½c. New: No 2 mixed, 41½c; No. 3 mixed, 41c; No. 2 yellow, 42c; No. 3 yellow, 41@41¼c; No. 1 white, 42c; No. 2 white, 42@43c; No. 3 white, 41c.

OATS—No. 3 white, 27@27¼c.

PRICE DECLINE CONTINUES IN CHICAGO GRAIN TRADE

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Big speculative holders of wheat relinquished ownership today with a rush, and prices crumbled wholesale, blotting out virtually half of recent rapid gains. Shrinkage in values since Monday amounted to more than 12 cents on wheat, 11 cents on rye, and cents on corn. Rains which in part relieved drouth over domestic winter wheat territory southwest had a disturbing market influence, together with reported Russian wheat offerings at Liverpool and confirmation that France had agreed one-third of her wheat imports would be obtained from Jugo-Slavia.

Wheat closed unsettled at almost the day's bottom level, 2@2⅜ cents lower than yesterday's finish; corn ¾@1c down; oats ⅛@⅜c off, and provisions at 5c to 20c decline.

In one quarter belief prevailed that the supposed leader on the bull side of the wheat market had quit at least temporarily as a promoter of higher prices. On the other hand, opinions from various sources were expressed after the close that the reaction had gone too far. Exporters especially were represented as waiting hopefully to see what effect today's price downturns would have on foreign buying. A bearish feature, however, was that not only had France agreed one-third of her imports would be taken from Jugo-Slavia but a rumor that a similar agreement was expected between Germany and Jugo-Slavia.

France's agreement with Jugo-Slavia as to wheat dealings exerted a particularly disconcerting influence, as it had been assumed France would buy on a generous scale from North America. Meanwhile, today's overseas purchases from Canada and the United States remained scant, 500,000 bushels, and the bulk of it Canadian. Price rallies made but slight headway at any time, notwithstanding Argentine complaints of unwelcome rains in harvest regions, and despite talk that drouth was little abated in Western Kansas.

Corn and oats failed to reflect fully the wheat market break. Wet weather over the corn belt and high prices paid in parts of Iowa and Illinois for cash corn had a sustaining effect.

FOREIGN CROP NEWS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Russia's fall grain sowings to Nov. 1 were reported to the Agriculture Department today as 89,658,000 acres or 84 per cent of the Soviet plan.

October procurings at 52 per cent of the monthly plan brought total grain procurings 3 4 per cent above the same time last year. Total seedings are under 90 per cent o last year's winter sown acreage.

"With sowings in the chief regions below last year and the lateness of the sowing campaign generally, also considering the large increase planned for winter wheat, it is unlikely that the fall plan can be completed," the department was advised.

Other foreign reports estimated Australia's wheat crop at 171,000,000 bushels against 212,628,000 last year; German wheat production at 150,418,000 bushels against 139,217,000, while winter wheat seeding in China was placed below last year's figure.

Japan rice production was estimated in reports at 17,287,000,000 pounds as compared with 21,017,000,000 last year.

Kansas Wheat Outlook.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 14.—A reduction of 2,000,000 acres in the area sown to wheat in Kansas was estimated today by the State Board of Agriculture on the basis of reports from 500 bankers. The total was placed at 10,812,000 acres, 16 per cent less than planted last fall.

Condition of the crop was rated at 67 per cent of normal.

Poor condition of the crop due to lack of moisture particularly in the western third of the State, and the reduced acreage points to a "drastic reduction" of 1932 crop compared with the record yield of 233,000,000 bushels this year, the board stated.

CORPORATION REPORTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Middle West Utilities Company and subsidiaries reported for the quarter ended Sept. 30 consolidated profit of $6,412,932 before depreciation, compared with $8,054,008 in the like quarter last year.

Lion Oil Refining Co. reported for the September quarter net loss of $85,071. In the September quarter last year the company reported profit of $227,039 after charges, but before depreciation, depletion and Federal taxes.

Louisiana Oil Refining Corp. and subsidiary for the September quarter had net loss of $462,801 against profit of $29,878 before Federal taxes in the September quarter of 1930.

Vadsco Sales Corp. and subsidiaries for the quarter ended Sept. 30 had net loss of $28,475 compared with profit before Federal taxes of $28,062 in the third quarter last year.

Real Silk Hosiery Mills, Inc., and subsidiaries for the six months ended June 30 reported loss from operations of $172,589. In addition the company reported special profit and loss adjustment of $2,108,494 arising from a policy of writing down certain assets as of June 30, 1931. There were further deductions from surplus amounting to $2,183,965 covering dividends on preferred stock, adjustment of inventories and other sundry deferred charges. For the six months ended June 30, 1930, the company reported profit of $600,619 before Federal taxes.

Callahan Zinc-Lead Co. for the September quarter reported loss of $15,031 before depreciation and depletion, against loss of $21,169 in the September quarter last year.

New York Cottonseed Oil.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Cottonseed oil closed steady; prime summer yellow $4.60; prime crude, $3.62½. Closing bid: Dec., $4.80; Jan., $4.85; March, $4.96; May, $5.02. Sales, 18 contracts.

CURB TRADE QUIET WITH AN EASY TONE

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—An easy tone prevailed in the curb market today, although trading was quiet. Specialties were rather soft, while utilities tended to sag. Oils were slightly heavy. Transactions approximated 160,000 shares.

Pittsburg & Lake Erie, one of the curb's few rail stocks, lost 5 points in sympathy with the downward movement of carrier issues on the big board. New York Steam also fell 5 and A. O. Smith 6⅝, while Mead-Johnson and Great Atlantic & Pacific were down 3½ and 4, respectively, in light offerings. Ford of Canada "B" likewise yielded 4. American Bakeries "A," an inactive, broke nearly 5. Deere and De Forest Radio were about steady.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Total bond sales today on the New York Stock Exchange were $5,013,000, compared with $12,960,000 yesterday, $8,490,000 a week ago and $4,474,000 a year ago. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were $2,653,069,000, compared with $2,473,709,000 a year ago and $2,687,171,000 two years ago.

Total sales for the week amounted to $64,202,000, compared with $56,327,000 corresponding week a year ago.

Quotations on all Liberty bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar. That is, for instance, a sale printed 99—24 means $99 and 24 thirty-seconds of a dollar, and not $99.24.

Following is a complete list of bonds traded in today, giving sales, highest, lowest and closing prices. In sales, 000 omitted.

IRREGULAR DECLINE IN QUIET BOND TRADE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The bond market declined irregularly today in dull trading. Sales on the Stock Exchange aggregated $5,013,000, the smallest total for a short session since Sept. 11, when sales amounted to $4,565,000.

There were a few conspicuous exceptions to the downward trend, the most noticeable of which was an advance ranging from fractions to 2 points in Argentine obligations. Strength appeared sporadically in such loans as Bordeaux 6s, Australian 4½s and 5s and Finnish 7s.

German loans sagged until the last half hour, but reversed their trend then and a number of them closed the day higher. The 5½s of 1965 and the 7s of 1949 were two of the most active bonds of the whole list. The former closed with a net gain of 1 point and although the latter lost about as much they closed above the low of the day.

Japanese loans made varying gains. The 5½s of 1965 and the 6½s of 1954, Oriental Development 5½s and 6s, Tokio Electric Power 6s, Tokio 5½s and Tokio Electric 6s closed higher, although the turnover in several of them was small.

United States Government obligations were dull and divided their net changes about evenly between gains and declines. The total turnover in this group approximated $400,000.

Corporate loans receded irregularly.

Railroad and industrial loans as a rule scored heavier losses than the public utilities. Issues of the New York Central, Missouri Pacific and Southern Pacific were moderately active at fractionally lower levels.

Youngstown to Increase Output.

By the Associated Press.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 14.—Steel mill operations in the Youngstown district will increase next week, for the second consecutive week after a long period of declining activity, it was revealed in operating schedules made public today.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. which has been operating below the district's general average, will resume production with a blast furnace which has been banked, will operate one more open hearth furnace, and start up sheet mills, one seamless pipe unit and a skelp mill.

Other plants report operations will be maintained or slightly improved.

"Earmarked" Gold Decreases.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14. — The daily gold statement of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York today showed a decrease of $2,000,000 in gold earmarked for foreign account. Exports amounted to $260,000 consigned to Peru. There were no imports.

The bank received notice that $560,000 in gold has been received at San Francisco from China.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Rubber futures closed quiet and steady. Dec. 4.50. New contracts—Dec. 4.60; March 4.82; May 4.94.

New York Sugar.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Raw sugar was quieter today and the only business confirmed was 7000 bags of Cuban from store late yesterday at 3.39. There were further offerings at this level today but buyers showed no further interest.

Futures were steady at the outset but weakened later under liquidation and hedge selling, closing at 2 to 4 points net decline. There was a little covering and Cuban support at the outset, but after opening unchanged to 1 point lower prices soon eased off under liquidation and selling by producing interests, promoted by the more liberal offerings in the spot market, and the decline in other commodities. Final prices were at the lowest of the session. Approximate sales 11,100 tons. Dec. closed 1.26, Jan. and March 1.23, May 1.28, July 1.33, Sept. 1.37.

Refined was unchanged at 4.50 for fine granulated but demand was light and limited to nearby requirements, with buyers apparently inclined to limit purchases owing to the unsettled tone of the raw market.

Futures closed easy, 2 to 4 points lower. Approximated sales 11,100 tons. Dec. 1.26c; Jan. 1.23c; March 1.23c; May, 1.28c; July, 1.33; Sept., 1.37c; Oct. 1.38c.

New Southwest District Developing Pleasing Home Atmosphere

Wenzlick Park One of Most Attractive Developments.

Wenzlick Park was one of the first developments in this district to complete its improvements. Many of the streets are already well built up, largely due to the great convenience of its location, being bounded on the east by Hampton Boulevard and the twenty-acre tract recently purchased by the Board of Education for a new grade school, high school and athletic field, on the north by Pernod Avenue which has recently been paved to Kingshighway, on the west by Watson Boulevard and on the south by Chippewa Boulevard, also now open to Kingshighway. Its well paved streets give ready access to the surrounding boulevards but themselves carry little traffic.

Display Home Furnished by Lammert Furniture Co.

Several homes, varying from four to seven rooms, are open for inspection. One of them has been completely furnished by the Lammert Furniture Co., and has caused a great deal of favorable comment. This group is located in the 6400 block on Tholozan Avenue, three blocks north of Chippewa Boulevard.

Reflect Present Low Construction Costs.

Present building costs, which are the lowest in many years, enable the elaborate and convenient homes demanded today to be produced at prices comparable with the far simpler homes of ten years ago. The prices on these homes in Wenzlick Park vary from $7950 to $12,000. They are open from 9:00 A. M. to 9:00 P. M. daily.

Channing Pollock's "House Beautiful" First Show Sponsored by Organization, Comes to the Shubert Tomorrow Night—Orpheum Continues May Robson in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," and Midtown Offers Another Week of "In the Best of Families," While "Dreyfus Case" Stays at the American.

THE first of the plays sponsored by the Drama Association of St. Louis—an organization patterned something along the lines of the New York Theater Guild — Channing Pollock's "The House Beautiful", comes to the Shubert Theater tomorrow night. It was preceded here by Mr. Pollock himself who arrived in St. Louis last Thursday and gave three interesting lectures on the drama in general with a kind word, here and there, for his own opus. This is the only new offering of the week, for the Orpheum continues with May Robson in the hilarious comedy, "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" with Mary Hart's resident company, while the Woodward Stock company at the Midtown brushes aside precedent and offers a second week of "In the Best of Families." The American Theater also goes into a second week with the fine English motion picture, "The Dreyfus Case."

"The House Beautiful" tells the story of Archibald and Jennifer Davis and introduces them to the audience back in 1901 when, as a newly married couple they are buying a home in West Hills, N. J. The play carries on their lives to the present day.

In this drama Mr. Pollock declares he has sought to exalt the ordinary man whose material progress is not marked by the dollar signs, but whose soul and spirit remain clean and steady. The play also enshrines the love and devotion existing between the man and his wife. For 30 years the romance continues despite the comedies and tragedies that beset them and in the end, all their hopes, all their ambitions are realized and they leave the scheme of living this life to the younger generation. The essence of the play is expressed by Jennifer in one speech: "I think life is beautiful and grand and romantic, and maybe it is—all around the very people who think it's ugly and prosy! What's [illegible] about doing your job, and loving your husband and sitting with his hand in yours through the long twilight evenings."

In the cast will be Ethel Intro[illegible]ide, John Griggs, Homer Barton, John C. King, Alma Brock and many others.

AT the Orpheum Theater "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," with May Robson as guest star, enters into its second and final week tonight. The play has attracted large attendance during the past week.

A veteran actress, Miss Robson is now celebrating her forty-eighth year on the stage. "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" is one of those homey type of plays which fits her to perfection.

Other players in the cast include Pierre Watkin, Dorothea Chard, Robert Lynn, Yvonne Stebbins, James Bush, Kenneth Burton and Noel Grady. Bush was brought on from Hollywood by Miss Hart to play the juvenile role.

"The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" will be followed by the Elmer Harris comedy, "A Modern Virgin," and after this engagement Miss Hart herself will star in one of her own productions.

"THE DREYFUS CASE," the talking picture based on the very real history of the trial of Alfred Dreyfus, the French Artillery Captain, has scored a pronounced hit at the American Theater, and will be held over for a second week. The picture is being shown four times daily, with matinees at 1 and 3 o'clock and nights at 7 and 9 o'clock. The final presentations are scheduled for next Saturday.

The picture is historically accurate, and is well directed and played. The role of Dreyfus is portrayed by Cedric Hardwicke, a leading English stage star, with Beatrix Thomson, also a London favorite, appearing as Lucie, the wife of Dreyfus.

THE Woodward Players will present "In the Best of Families," Anita Hart's comedy, another week at the Midtown, beginning with this afternoon's matinee. This will be the first time the Midtown has carried over an attraction into a second week. "Racy" describes the play. A baby is left on the doorstep of a well-known New York family. A note with the baby, written by its mother, says, "I want the baby to be with its father," and this brief communication brings many amusing situations.

Developing A National Theater

By Channing Pollock

I AM 51 years old, and, with good luck, I should have about 14 more years in the theater. I am more in love with my job today than ever. I never take a vacation. A vacation is something you take to get away from what you don't like doing. I like writing for the theater more than anything else in the world. I want to do keener, better, more subtle plays.

There were never any theater people in my family. My father was an editor. My mother was always stage-struck, but there were no actors or dramatists in the Pollock family, and no money for theater tickets lying loose around the house. Yet as long as I remember I wanted to write plays. We were in Prague for a while when I was a child, and there, at the age of 5, I wrote my first play. My father showed it to a professor who smiled sadly and told him that I had better forget all about such things. This learned gentleman has since translated seven of my plays for Czecho-Slovakia.

Training for the theater? Not much. No formal education after the eighth grade. Hustling for a living since I was 14. I fought in a revolution in Central America. I worked as a dockhand in New York City. I often almost starved. Finally, after throwing up a dramatic critic's job in Washington, I landed a place as press agent for a big theater corporation and started to write plays. I had four plays running on Broadway and yet I clung to my job. I had to. The theater was never sure, and I had several persons dependent on me. In those days I wrote fast. I did "In the Bishop's Carriage" in four sittings, one act each Sunday afternoon for a month.

MY first play was a dramatization of "The Pit," by Frank Norris. The book had been a success; the play was, too. I thought I had arrived but I was soon to learn the meaning of a "flop." I have had many, yet some real successes, too, such as "The Little Gray Lady," "Such a Little Queen," "The Sign on the Door" and then "The Fool."

When "The Fool" first opened the critics said: "This is a play for the churches. It will last about two weeks on Broadway." Even the cutrate ticket offices were skeptical and wouldn't buy. I said, "All right, I'm willing to have the churches like my play. Must a thing necessarily be bad drama because it causes decent reactions?" "The Fool" is still being played. It has been produced all over the world. I got a prompt copy recently from Shanghai, China. I figure that over 100,000,000 people have seen it on stage and screen. There were five companies playing it in America at one time. Did that prove it was bad drama? And yet it was badly raked by the critics, who seem to object when I attempt any sort of uplift in the theater.

THIS brings me to what I feel about the theater at present. Why can't people leading commonplace lives be just as dramatic as gangsters and crooks? Isn't there just as great drama in making your income do as in robbing somebody else's safe? In Burns Mantle's list of plays that have run 500 nights and over there isn't one degenerate or crook play. Doesn't that mean anything?

And why, if we really want to fight the rivalry of the movies, don't we see that there is only one way to do it? The theaters will have to be divided into two classes as in Germany. The larger theaters which cater to vast audiences with blatant or moronic plays will inevitably be turned over to the films. Let them. But the others, the smaller ones; let them realize that their audiences will become more and more selective, choice, analytical. And let us recognize also the increasing power of the Little Theater, which will ultimately have its central office and producing theater in New York City. A play tried out there, written especially with Little Theaters in mind, could be booked at once for 500 other little playhouses throughout the United States. They are growing in power, magically. I foresee the time when a New York verdict will no longer make a play or an actor. Emporia, Kan., knows what it wants just as well as New York. Why not have plays coming from all over the country, approved by other audiences than New York's? This would be one way to develop a national drama.

Ruth Chatterton in "Once a Lady," at the Ambassador Theater.

Iturbi in Recital Here Next Friday

The St. Louis recital debut of Jose Iturbi, Spanish pianist, will take place next Friday night at Howard Hall, The Principia, under the auspices of The Principia Concert and Lecture Course.

The Spanish pianist arrived in this country for the first time in October, 1929. Returning October, 1931, for a second American tour, the pianist played 77 concerts from coast to coast, appearing as soloist with the New York Philharmonic Symphony, St. Louis, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philharmonic and San Francisco Orchestras.

St. Elizabeth Academy Play.

The students of St. Elizabeth Academy will present "Cinderella" on Friday, Nov. 20, and Tuesday, Nov. 24, at 8:15 p. m. Preceding the play the high school students will sing two choral numbers.

John C. King, Alma Brock and Homer Barton in "The House Beautiful," at the Shubert.

Symphony Student Concert Thursday

The first of the St. Louis Symphony's Student Concerts will be presented at the Odeon next Thursday, Nov. 19, at 3 p. m., under the auspices of the Women's Committee of the Symphony Society. It is a concert devoted to the exposition of the place of stringed instruments in the orchestral ensemble, which will be explained by Conductor Golschmann in connection with a demonstration of the instruments.

Although primarily designed for young people, the concerts are open also to adults who desire a better understanding of the orchestra and a greater enjoyment of orchestral music. Concertmaster Scipione Guidi and John F. Kiburz solo flutist of the orchestra, have solo roles in the first of the student programs, which ranges from Handel, and Bach to so modern a work as "The Wheel of Omphale," by Camille Saint Saens, which will be presented in its entirety, and to the Polacca from Tschaikowsky's Third Suite.

The complete program follows:

Overture to "Euryanthe" ....Weber
Demonstration of instruments.
Three movements from the Concerto Grosso in G minor, Opp. 6, No. 6 Handel:
Largo e affetuoso.
Allegro.
Allegro.
John F. Kiburz, solo flutist.
Symphonic Poem No. 1, "The Wheel of Omphale" ....Saint-Saens
Melodrama from "Piccolino" .....Guiraud
Scipione Guido, solo violinist.
Polacca from Suite No. 3, Op. 55.

Little Theater Tryouts.

Tryouts for "The Father," by August Strindberg, will be held at the Little Theater of St. Louis, 812 North Union boulevard, Monday and Tuesday evenings. The play will be produced by Neal Caldwell, associate director. Casting for the next production, Galsworthy's "Escape," has been completed and the play is now in rehearsal under the direction of Thomas Wood Stevens.

Roland Hayes Here in December.

Roland Hayes, the best known Negro singer, is to appear in recital at the Odeon on Wednesday, Dec. 2. A group of Negro spirituals will bring to a conclusion a program which offers a cross section of the song literature of the world, from Mozart to contemporary masters, Italian, German, Russian, French and American.

The Week's New Films

—:— By NIE —:—

"ARE THESE OUR CHILDREN," at the St. Louis," is a fine, convincing drama of flaming youth among the drug store cowboy set, a sort of "An American Tragedy" meller which is better entertainment, in many ways, than the Dreiser opus. It is the tale of a good 18-year-old boy who gets tangled up with bad companions of his own age and winds up in the death house at Sing Sing. The story, sordid as it is and lightened only now and then by bits of comedy, is a powerful one and there is never a moment when it does not hold the interest of the spectators who, almost without exception, are in tears at the finish. It is not, however, a preachment and offers no suggestion of what to do about the youngsters who go wrong. Rather it pictures a condition which exists, pictures it well and lets it go at that. The cast of young players, all unknown to fame, is excellent.

A Lady Goes Wrong.

RUTH CHATTERTON has reached the point now where she wants to be considered an emotional actress, and as a result she feels called upon to emote all of the time. In "Once a Lady," at the Ambassador, Ruth carries on her new life work, but gets little or no help from the story which is all about a Russian woman in Paris who marries an English gentleman and fails to come up to British drawing room requirements. Dull and stupid most of the way the plot is a little better than the cast provided for the star's support, but all the good names in Hollywood would not help the affair much.

Svengali Is In Again.

SOMETHING of the same sort of star-desire handicaps "The Mad Genius" at the Missouri for John Barrymore is an actor and, accordingly, has to be provided with a vehicle which will give him a chance to act every minute. In guarding John's interests the play, which Bill Shakspeare—he was a pretty good scenarist, too—once remarked is the thing, has been overlooked although it is a better story than "Once a Lady." Drawn along the lines of a modern Svengali, Mr. Barrymore is fitted with a role of a half-crippled, half mad dance impresario who believes in keeping male hoofers away from the contaminating influence of girl steppers. He succeeds pretty well with Donald Cook although Donald is wildly in love with Marian Marsh but, in the end, another mad genius chops Barry down with an ax and there is nothing to prevent Don and Marian from forming a team to tour the cinema stage show circuit.

A Laugh Riot.

OFF HAND we would venture to say that "Flying High," at the Fox, is the best musical comedy ever shown on the screen. Bert Lahr, playing the same role which he had when this funny contraption was a stage show, keeps the customers laughing from start to finish and gets a lot of assistance from the long and lanky Charlotte Greenwood. The story is a typical musical comedy affair, something about a mechanic who invents a new fangled flying machine, which is enough to hang Lahr's brand of comedy upon. The photography, too, is excellent, some of the dance numbers of the large and attractive chorus being amazingly reproduced so that "Flying High" is easily the best entertainment of the week.

Love and Lariats.

AND for those who like their drammer rough and rugged "Riders of the Purple Sage" at Loew's, can be highly recommended. A regular Zane Grey meller of the wide open spaces it is finely played by the hard riding, two-fisted, two-gunned George O'Brien, who saves the gal of his heart almost single handed. Almost, but not quite, for just when the pair are in the toughest sort of a spot an avalanche steps in, rolls down an Arizona mountain side and wipes out all the bad men in that section of the country.

Thyrsus Society in Annual Play Group

Next Friday and Saturday nights the Thyrsus-Little Theater Dramatic Society of Washington University will present its annual group of one-act plays in January Hall on the University campus. The program will include "The Mayor and the Manicure," a comedy by George Ade; "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals," James Barrie's war-time drama, and Lord Dunsany's "A Night in an Inn."

Many students experienced in campus dramatics are featured in the plays. Robert Shampaine and Vivian Guilford, both former presidents of the club, have leading roles in Dunsany's play; Mary Tuttle, George Lee, Mary Agnes Hawkins, will take part in "The Old Lady"; and Marietta McIntyre and Norville Brasch are featured in the curtain-raiser.

German Comedy Tonight.

"Ne tolle Bolle," a comedy by Rudolf Kneisel, describing present conditions in Berlin in a humorous manner, will be given tonight by the German Theater Stock Company in the German House Auditorium, 2345 Lafayette avenue.

Organ Concert Friday.

Edward Rechlin will appear on the Concordia Seminary Lyceum program in an organ concert Friday evening at the seminary auditorium. The seminary chorus will sing several selections in connection with Mr. Rechlin's concert. Admission is free.

Duane Thompson "In the Best of Families," Midtown.

Eric Linden in "Are These Our Children," St. Louis.

Mechanics of the Movies

Man-made Weather Far Superior to the Real Thing When it Comes to Making a Picture Even in Weather-proof Hollywood—A Sound Library With a Vast Collection of Every Sort Of Noise on Tap for Instant Use in Any Film.

By NIE.

THE movie fans as a rule are not much interested in the mechanics of making pictures. The color of young Doug. Fairbanks' undershirt, the length of Dorothy Mackaill's stockings and little matters of that sort are of the utmost importance to the customers who lay their cash on the line at the cinema cathedral ticket windows but, all the same, how pictures are made—not how the stars are built up—has its moments.

Last summer, out in Hollywood, while they were filming William Powell's recent picture "The Road to Singapore" a bulletin to the company in the Warner studio read:

> If the day is bright we will film the rain sequences. If rainy, the rain sequences will be postponed and the company will go to stage 9 for bungalow interiors.

This called attention to the strange anomaly in the production of pictures which generally makes man-made weather photographically better than the real thing.

The reasons are obvious. Filming a rain sequence requires rain, both on actors and scenery within the camera's angle. But it doesn't require that cameras, lights, microphones or crew experience the downpour. For which the latter gentlemen are duly grateful.

Studio rain is controllable. It rains or stops raining as required by the story and as directed by the director. No real rain storm can be expected to approach that in convenience.

Likewise studio rain can be governed as to volume and direction, and it is not accompanied by thunder and lightning, hail or too much wind.

Real rain can't be harnessed for pictures. So rain won't do for rain sequences and the scenes which demanded it in "The Road to Singapore" had to await clear days.

But the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce will assure any one who asks that in Hollywood one doesn't wait long for fair weather.

AND then there is the matter of sounds for the films. Not the conversation of the actors in the dialogue of the play but the incidental effects which make up a complete library in every large studio. Included in this vast assortment of needful noises are babbling brooks, slowing up and starting trains, the chirps of crickets, the squeak of a policeman's shoes, the breaking of a straw hat. Bernard Brown, chief of one of the studio sound departments, is exceedingly proud of his collection. He has been known to spend months in earnest pursuit of a particular noise not numbered among his "trophies." For years, for example, he had been unsuccessful in securing the weird cry of the coyote. He yearned for this. He had sought it diligently in the mountains and on the desert.

"Finally," he has stated, "I got it—a perfect one—right at home. One of the watchmen heard me complaining that I needed this item for my collection. He told me that at 8 o'clock every morning, when our studio whistle blew, a coyote came out of his lair on our ranch, just across the river. Not only that, but he let go with a real cry. The next day we closed in on him, bright and early, and got a perfect recording."

☼ ☼ ☼ ☼

IT seems that in the old days, when talking pictures were very new, most sounds were faked—manufactured by mechanical means. Nowadays the real thing is used, and no expense is spared in securing it.

Not long ago 20 men, traveling in six automobiles and accompanied by a 10-ton truck, pursued one lone California mocking bird for five nights running—and there were no objections from the Humane Society.

Brown headed this delegation. He was in pursuit of an item for his library—a recording of the mocking bird's song. Mocking birds simply won't sing in captivity so it was necessary to get the songs while it was free. Hence the caravan of hunters armed with their trusty microphones.

After several months trekking through the San Fernando Valley, the songs of many birds were recorded. To Brown's disappointment, however, all were found to be inadequate since the singers of this region boast only a small repertoire. At last the quest turned to Hollywood. Again the long sought was waiting at the door step. They found a bird that furnished 20 distinct song routines, and found it—of all places—in a back yard near the business district.

For more than three hours the notes were recorded. The bird, unconscious of its audience, seemed willing to run through its entire routine of numbers. These were transferred at once to certain sequences of "Penrod and Sam," the Booth Tarkington story which was then in the final stages of production. Also they took their places in the library where they are treasured up with the chirp of a canary, the fog whistle of a battle ship, the noise a letter makes when it is dropped into a corner mail box and, no doubt, the sound of rice pelting upon the velvet cheek of a blushing bride.

Important Players In Chevalier Cast

Jeanette MacDonald, Genevieve Tobin, Charlie Ruggles, Roland Young and Adrienne Ames will appear opposite Maurice Chevalier in his new production, "One Hour With You," which Ernst Lubitsch is supervising.

Early Movie Player Back on 'Home' Lot

Jane Darwell, who made her screen debut in "Brewster's Millions," for the old Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play company in the Hollywood barn that is now surrounded by the Paramount studios, has been signed to support Sylvia Sidney and Gene Raymond in "Ladies of the Big House."

Mummers in "The Mob."

The Mummers, the dramatic club of the Downtown Y. M. C. A., will present John Galsworthy's four-act play, "The Mob," in Christ Church Cathedral auditorium next Friday night. The play is being directed by Rudolph Gaber.

Loretto Players in "Cradle Song."

The Loretto Players of Webster College will repeat G. Martinez Sierra's "The Cradle Song," at their Little Theater in Webster Groves Tuesday night.

St. Louis U. Club Drama.

The St. Louis University Playhouse Club will present on the evenings of December 5, 7 and 9, a full-stage production of Victorien Sardou's famous play "A Scrap of Paper."

NOVELTIES IN DISPLAY OF CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Nearly 50 Hanging Baskets at Shaw's Garden Shown in Bloom.

The aerial section of the Shaw's Garden Chrysanthemum Show opens today. Nearly 50 hanging baskets above the formal Japanese garden in the Display House have reached full bloom. There are the graceful, dazzling white Anna, the sunny Adele Wallner and a selected daisy variety, also yellow and with smaller flowers but more of them, the single pink Cosmos and a newer pink variety with double rows of petals.

And this is novelty week in the show. Chief among the novelties, of course, are the cascade chrysanthemums developed at the garden last year by Floriculturist Kohl, who also is responsible for the design of its major displays.

The experts describe this exhibition as the finest display of cascade chrysanthemums in the country. A month is required to train the flowers to tumble downward in a graceful plume from the base of the plant.

Visitors find them on either side of the entrance, in yellow, bronze, white, lilac and pink, and cascading down the balcony wall, flanked by a semicircular garden of bush "mums." Nearly all the cascades were grown from seeds imported from Japan by the garden last spring, but a featured six-foot plume, dotted with tiny yellow blossoms, is the iriginal Chinese flower from which all the 290 elaborate varieties in the show have been developed in the 2000 years and more that gardeners have cherished the chrysanthemum.

Another new section in the show is devoted to Japanese novelty varieties. These spidery flowers rise on five-foot stems above the lilac Caprice chrysanthemums on each side of the entrance balcony.

GREEK CAVE OF NYMPHS FOUND

Recent Excavations Vindicate Homer's Account of It.

By the Associated Press.

ATHENS, Nov. 14. — Constantine Petalas, Mayor of Ithaca, announces the discovery of the famous "cave of the nymphs," described in Homer's "Odyssey."

The Roman geographer, Strabo, who wrote in the first century, denied the existence of this cave, but it was affirmed by the British traveler, Sir William Gell, who visited Ithaca in 1806. Recent excavations have shown that Homer and Gell were right.

Two Report Wives Missing.

Samuel Greenhill and Albert Drier of 3010 St. Vincent avenue, have asked police to help them find their wives, Mrs. Pauline Greenhill and Mrs. Lillian Drier, who failed to return home after starting to a grocery Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Greenhill, who is 16 years old, and Mrs. Drier, who is 25, had only $2 between them and had been acquainted one week, according to Greenhill.

Part of Fleet of 50 Trucks

Six Federal trucks recently delivered to Famous-Barr Co. by Phil H. Brockman's Federal Truck Co. The bodies were built by the McCabe Powers Co. of St. Louis. Four of the trucks are of ton-and-a-half capacity, while the others are two tn models. Famous-Barr now operate more than 50 Federal trucks.

MUSSOLINI GALLIVANTS ABOUT THE TIBER IN A SPEED BOAT

A Good Pilot at Sea, He Has Tendency to Batter Things Up When Crowded.

By the Associated Press.

ROME.—Mussolini's love for motorboating keeps river police and stewards of Tiber rowing clubs on the jump these days. A good pilot on the open sea, he is sometimes erratic in closer quarters — and there are several scraped landing stages and battered fenders along the Tiber as a result.

When the Fascist chieftain goes for a spin he is followed by a police launch, which is in his wake as he scoots under bridges and roars past the many club landing stages.

The secretary of one of these clubs, composed largely of English and American residents of Rome, got the surprise of his life one morning.

Clad in rowing shorts he was putting a shell into the water when a fast traveling speedster sideswiped the stage.

"What do you think you're doing, driving a horse?" he yelled at the boat's pilot.

And then he had a bad 20 minutes explaining to the policeman that he meant no disrespect to the head of the Government.

SALES EXECUTIVES TO MEET

1000 Expected to Attend Annual Chamber of Commerce Conference.

About 1000 executives are expected to attend the fifth annual Sales Executive Conference at Hotel Jefferson next Friday, according to Dave Hearsh, general chairman.

The discussion topic is "Selling under the New Economic Conditions." Although the conference was organized as a local affair by the Chamber of Commerce Sales Managers' Bureau, business men from Indiana, Iowa, Arkansas and Illinois cities have made reservations.

Foreign License Holders.

Residents of France, Holland, Italy, Germany and England who hold driving licenses in those countries will be granted operating licenses in New York States without the formality of usual road examinations. Upon payment of the proper fee, holders of foreign licenses will be required only to pass the eye test and the oral examination, indicating that they are acquainted with the ordinary traffic measures and signals.

Cadillac's October Sales Larger Than In August, September

J. C. Chick, general sales manager of the Cadillac Motor Car Co., announces that total deliveries of Cadillac and LaSalle cars in October again exceeded the previous month's total by a substantial margin.

Although October is ordinarily considered a weak month in the automobile industry, Cadillac's October sales not only exceeded the September total, but were also 16 per cent ahead of August. Retail deliveries during the month totaled 227 units, an increase of 16 per cent over sales in September. In the last 10-day period, when record of 617 deliveries was set, Cadillac-LaSalle sales, in actual units, compared favorably with those of many medium and low-priced cars.

Packard Uses 14,349 Measuring Gauges

Accuracy in the manufacture of a motor car is maintained through close inspection of parts as they are made. Gauges and other testing devices determine the accuracy with which each operation is carried out. Some of these devices are so finely made that they have to be checked daily against master gauges correct within one millionth of an inch.

In the making of a Packard car, it is learned, there are 14,349 different measuring gauges used in daily production work. For the inspection of threads on bolts and nuts alone there are 1156 different gauges. Among the many thousand special inspection devices used by Packard are some which use radio amplification, photo electric cells and ultra violet rays.

POWERS' TRIAL FOR MURDER OF WIDOW SET FOR DEC. 7

Alleged Slayer of Five Pleads Not Guilty and Will Ask for Change of Venue.

By the Associated Press.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 14. —A plea of not guilty to a charge of murder today opened the fight of Harry F. Powers, 45 years old, of Clarksburg, to escape the gallows for the killing of two women and three children, whose bodies were buried near his garage at Quiet Dell, a village near here.

The date of Powers' trial on the charge of murdering Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke of Worcester, Mass., was set for Dec. 7, but his counsel will seek a change of venue. If this is granted, that date will not be effective.

Powers was calm and indifferent in manner. He was arraigned on only one of the five indictments returned against him by the grand jury earlier this week. The others charge him with murdering Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher and her three children of Park Ridge, Ill.

The disappearance of Mrs. Eicher and her children from Park Ridge brought about the investigation that led to Powers' arrest here late in July while he was engaged in correspondence with a large number of other women.

Dean Mumford Plans Return.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 14.—Dean F. B. Mumford of the Missouri College of Agriculture, now on a European tour, will sail for the United States from Marseilles, France, Jan. 6, arriving in New York City Jan. 19, according to word received here. Mumford, who left here last June to combine a vacation trip with a survey of agricultural conditions in Europe, is now in Rome, but will spend most of the rest of his time before returning in France. He reports that French and Italian farmers are faced with a surplus of wine and grape products.

Burned to Death in Auto.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

RICH HILL, Mo., Nov. 14.—Charles J. Ryal of Joplin, Mo., was burned to death early this morning six miles north of this city on Highway 71, when his car, in a heavy fog, struck the bridge over Possum Creek and burned before he could be rescued. His wife was bruised and burned and his son, Lawrence, suffered a broken leg. Mrs. J. H. Wiggin, also of Joplin, received a skull fracture. The injured were taken to Butler.

Heads Missouri Publishers.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 14.—W. J. Sewall, publisher of the Carthage Press, was elected president of the Missouri Press Association today. He succeeds Frank S. Sosey of the Palmyra Spectator. Other officers elected are Wallace Crossley of the Warrensburg Star-Journal, former Lieutenant-Governor, vice president; Mrs. Maude V. Henderson of the La Plata Home Press, recording secretary; T. Ballard Watters of the Marshfield Mail, treasurer; W. L. Bouchard of the Lead Belt News, Flat River, and Frank Hollman of the Warrenton Banner, were chosen as members of the board of directors.

Used Cars Used in France.

Secondhand cars are never too old to sell in France, and like good old wines, they improve in price with age. When a car becomes too shabby and rickety for one owner, it is sold to another, then another, finally finding its way into the country, where a peasant will use it for hauling crops to market. Prices asked for these near wrecks are astounding. They are just a fraction off the original price, and it takes some dickering before the price can be wrangled down.

Many Women Drivers.

Based on an average of 1.80 drivers for each of the 26,000,000 cars now in operation in the United States, there are about 11,000,000 women drivers today and they own and operate nearly 4,000,000 cars. Thus, nearly 16 per cent of the cars on the road are owned by women.

Safety Drive in Massachusetts.

A new safety campaign for automobiles has begun in Massachusetts. Some 200 inspectors have been assigned to the task of detecting careless and dangerous drivers and check up obviously imperfect equipment, such as broken tail lights, driving with one headlight and cars plainly in dangerous condition and lack of repair.

MAHARAJA of BURDWAN
Presented by the Town Club
Direct From London Round Table Conference, Will Lecture in Jefferson Hotel Gold Room, Thursday at 8:15 P. M.
Tickets, $1.50, Town Club, 1120 Locust Street

IT IS safe to say that many persons will turn to the Want Ads today and carefully scan the Lost and Found Columns to learn whether the articles they have lost are advertised as having been found.

Scores of other persons will compare the various Used Car Lists — in the Automobile Columns — to learn whether the make and model of the car they wish to purchase is advertised at the price they are willing to pay and they will find bargains.

So various groups of persons interested in many different lines of advertising turn to these "want" pages to have their needs filled.

These readers find many more offers in the Post-Dispatch than appear in all of the other St Louis newspapers and many readers go no farther in their search, which accounts for the greater responsiveness of Post-Dispatch "want" advertising.

Automatic Clutch In New Buick Cars For Easy Driving

It Is Power Operated—Free Wheeling and Silent Second Gear—26 Models for 1932.

Twenty-six new Buick straight eight models for 1932 were introduced yesterday and are now on display by dealers in the St. Louis area.

"Wizard control," which combines a new automatic, power-operated clutch with free wheeling and a new silent-second, synchromesh transmission, is possibly the principal one among some 40 new mechanical features on these cars.

A "ride regulator" enables a driver to adjust instantly the degree of stiffness or "softness" of the shock absorbers while driving.

The engines are more powerful and there is also an option of the standard motors or engines with special higher compression heads that give greater speed and power.

The newly designed bodies by Fisher have a distinctly customized appearance with long, flowing lines, graceful radiator front and lamps, fenders, dual horns and hood doors all carrying out the streamlined effect.

Models entirely new in the line are a club sedan, a Victoria traveler coupe, three convertible phaetons, a five-passenger Victoria coupe on 118-inch wheelbase, and a five-passenger Victoria coupe, a convertible coupe roadster and special sedan on 114-inch wheelbase.

How Automatic Clutch Operates.

Buick's automatic clutch is operated by power supplied by the vacuum in the intake manifold, always available when the engine is running. It is controlled by a touch of a foot upon a floor button, making possible smooth gear shifting without use of the clutch pedal, with instantaneous change from free wheeling to conventional control and vice versa.

The conventional clutch pedal is retained, yet need not be used in shifting gears, unless the driver so desires. The control button is near the clutch pedal, and when the foot rests upon it, while the engine is running, the clutch is disengaged for shifting. Likewise, when the button is depressed and the accelerator pedal is released, free wheeling is obtained. The moment the foot is removed from the button, or the accelerator depressed, the clutch will engage, either operation making positive connection with the engine.

The Buick automatic clutch gives all the advantages of free wheeling, with the added security of instantaneous, positive control.

The mechanism consists of a simple vacuum cylinder connected to the intake manifold through a control valve and a selector valve. The control valve, which turns on and shuts off the vacuum, is connected both to the floor board button and to the accelerator pedal. Thus, the moment the accelerator is depressed, regardless of the position of the button, the control valve shuts off the vacuum and positive clutch engagement takes place. The same action is obtained, giving direct hook-up between the engine and rear wheels, the moment the button is released, regardless of the position of the accelerator.

A selector valve, on the transmission, is operated by the movement of the gear shift lever, and controls the speed of clutch engagement, giving mechanical precision to the operation and eliminating slipping or grabbing of the clutch, assuring a smooth pick-up for the speed selected.

Improved Syncro-Mesh.

In improving the syncro-mesh transmission, helical gears have been added. These are accurately ground after hardening, giving a silent second and permitting acceleration up to 40 and more miles per hour before going into high. All shifts are made with a direct thrust of the gear shift lever, doing away with any pause in neutral.

In Buick ride regulation, the shock absorbers are fitted with me-

How Automatic Clutch Operates.

Buick's automatic clutch is operated by power supplied by the vacuum in the intake manifold, always available when the engine is running. It is controlled by a touch of a foot upon a floor button, making possible smooth gear shifting without use of the clutch pedal, with instantaneous change from free wheeling to conventional control and vice versa.

The conventional clutch pedal is retained, yet need not be used in shifting gears, unless the driver so desires. The control button is near the clutch pedal, and when the foot rests upon it, while the engine is running, the clutch is disengaged for shifting. Likewise, when the button is depressed and the accelerator pedal is released, free wheeling is obtained. The moment the foot is removed from the button, or the accelerator depressed, the clutch will engage, either operation making positive connection with the engine.

The Buick automatic clutch gives all the advantages of free wheeling, with the added security of instantaneous, positive control.

The mechanism consists of a simple vacuum cylinder connected to the intake manifold through a control valve and a selector valve. The control valve, which turns on and shuts off the vacuum, is connected both to the floor board button and to the accelerator pedal. Thus, the moment the accelerator is depressed, regardless of the position of the button, the control valve shuts off the vacuum and positive clutch engagement takes place. The same action is obtained, giving direct hook-up between the engine and rear wheels, the moment the button is released, regardless of the position of the accelerator.

A selector valve, on the transmission, is operated by the movement of the gear shift lever, and controls the speed of clutch engagement, giving mechanical precision to the operation and eliminating slipping or grabbing of the clutch, assuring a smooth pick-up for the speed selected.

Improved Syncro-Mesh.

In improving the syncro-mesh transmission, helical gears have been added. These are accurately ground after hardening, giving a silent second and permitting acceleration up to 40 and more miles per hour before going into high. All shifts are made with a direct thrust of the gear shift lever, doing away with any pause in neutral.

In Buick ride regulation, the shock absorbers are fitted with metering valves, which may be adjusted by a slight movement of a lever on the steering column, permitting the driver to regulate the shock absorbers while the car is in motion. A wide range of adjustments can be made. The ride regulator is regular equipment on all models except the 32-56 business coupe and the 32-57 five-passenger sedan, for which it is supplied at extra cost.

The instrument board and instruments are completely new in design and arrangement. The instruments are grouped on the left side of the panel, directly in front of the driver, and are clearly visible at all times. This clear visibility has been made possible by use of a three-spoke steering wheel.

Buick has developed a simple means of altering engines from standard to high compression. This is done by changing the cylinder head gasket and spark plugs, supplied without extra cost. Among the advantages of high compression as offered by Buick are a gain of three miles per hour in speed, increased mileage per gallon, faster acceleration, increase in horsepower and speedier hill-climbing.

A vacuum pump provides power for the windshield wiper. With this pump, which is built in combination with the gasoline pump, the windshield wiper will operate under all conditions, whether the throttle is wide open, partially open or closed, and regardless of car speed. On the 32-50 models this pump is furnished at extra cost.

In the 32-50 series, improvements are more horsepower, provided by 1-16 inch increase in engine bore, installation of the same type brakes as on the larger cars, and improved steering equipment.

Other Details.

The sloping windshield has a rakish tilt, lessening wind resistance and giving a modish appearance, with the customary outside visor omitted in favor of an inside sunshade having universal adjustment front and side, for closed cars. The slender radiator shell has chrome beaded shutters. Fenders are long and racy. Headlamps are streamlined, with fender parking lamps to match. Dual trumpet-shaped horns, synchronized as to tone, are mounted one each side of the hood. The customary slit louvres have been replaced by door-type ventilators, with chrome-plated windsplit handles. The hood catches are concealed. A one-piece metal cover encloses the rear end. There are dual tail lamps, except on Series 32-50 business coupes and standard sedan.

Except on the 32-50 business coupe and standard sedan, five wire or five demountable wood wheels are standard.

New and finer materials are used for upholstery in closed models, consisting of mohairs and whipcords in color to harmonize with body finishes. Open models have genuine leather, in tan, black, and gray-green, piped in contrasting shades, with whipcord optional in convertible models. The limousine offers seven trimming combinations in plush, whipcord, broadcloth and leather.

Closed cars have wood-finished garnish moldings, those in the 32-90 series being genuine walnut wood.

Says Tire 'Softness' Of General Casings Means Winter Safety

The same patented construction that makes General dual balloon tires blowout-proof also makes them skid-safe, says C. K. Matthews of the General Tire Co., 3400 Washington boulevard, distributer.

"This exclusive construction, which provides equal flexibility in all parts of the tire, not only prevents blowouts, but also makes it safe and economical to operate the tire, in winter, with 30 per cent less air pressure than any other tire.

"This makes possible the tire softness which means tire safety, for the wide-spread tread of soft rubber grips and clings to the road surface as no other tire, inflated at ordinary pressure, could, no matter how sharp the tread design.

"General has obtained this equal flexibility throughout the tire by building every one of the cord plies from bead to bead, instead of using several short plies, or breaker-strips, which tend to cause the tire to hinge and break if operated at the low air pressures at which General dual balloons can be driven."

New Anti-Freeze For Cars Introduced Here by Goodrich

Motorists are reminded that it soon will be time for anti-freeze solutions. Goodrich Silvertown, Inc., 2301 Olive street, is introducing this week a new preparation for automobile radiators to prevent freezing of water.

"A new guaranteed formula, merchandised under the name 'Z-32,' is now available," E. R. Kenner, manager here, says. "This solution is a 'one-shot' anti-freeze product and costs less than many solutions now on the market. Z-32 will not evaporate under high temperatures and is not injurious to radiator, hose or metal parts."

Alcohol also is recommended for those who do not prefer a winter's supply at one filling.

"Now is a good time to have the radiator hose connections and water pump inspected. The entire cooling system should be checked for leaks and repaired. Pump packing should be in good condition and the system should be flushed before any anti-freeze solution is injected," Kenner says.

"Another important point to check is the fan belt. Although a loose or broken belt may not be injurious under many winter driving conditions, the same belt often drives the pump and generator and other fundamental factors in trouble-free winter automobile operation."

Chrysler Awarded Third Place in Space Drawing for Shows

For the second consecutive year, Chrysler Sales Corporation has been given third place in the drawing of exhibit space at the New York and Chicago national automobile shows, according to J. W. Frazer, general sales manager.

The rank of motor car manufacturers exhibiting cars at the two national shows is ascertained by, a comparison of the total volume of business done from Sept. 30 to Sept. 30 of each year. The volume is computed on total value of product sold and not on the number of units turned out.

Condition of Tire Treads Big Factor In Safe Winter Driving

Safety in winter driving is dependent to a large extent on the treads of the tires, according to J. F. O'Shaughnessy, general manager of the United States Rubber Co.'s tire division.

"This fact is so generally recognized by experienced motorists that the fall months have become established as the logical time to buy new tires. A deep rugged tread on all four tires is the best insurance against skidding and accidents when traveling on snow, slush and slippery pavements," O'Shaughnessy says.

"Worn, smooth rubber, wet by the water from the highway, makes the tire almost as slippery as the ice or snow itself. The amount of friction between such a tire and the roadway is reduced to a minimum, and the driver runs a hazard that could be avoided by the use of heavy tread tires."

Deflating tires in an effort to get better traction on a slippery surface is an unsafe and expensive substitute for new tires, O'Shaughnessy points out.

J. A. Kinzer Buys Business of National Brake Service Co.

J. A. Kinzer, for the past two and a half years shop superintendent of the National Brake Service Co., 309 South Seventh street, has purchased the business from his former employers and will continue to operate under the firm name. The concern has two buildings and a large service court completely equipped to service all types of brakes for all makes of passenger cars and trucks.

Prior to his connection with the company, which he now owns, Kinzer was employed for five years by several local brake concerns, for three years managing the factory branch of a company specializing in servicing hydraulic brakes.

Kettering to Speak in St. Louis Friday, at C. of C. Luncheon

Charles Kettering, vice president and a director of General Motors Corporation and also director of the General Motors Research Laboratories, will be in St. Louis next Friday to address the annual sales executives' conference to be held in Hotel Jefferson by the Chamber of Commerce Sales Managers' Bureau.

Kettering is the inventor of the Delco starting, lighting and ignition systems for automobiles, which is used all over the world. He also is widely known as the inventor of the Delco-Light farm lighting system, as well as many other innovations in the automobile industry. The ignition system used on Liberty motors was one of his inventions.

Today Kettering is one of the best known engineers and business executives in America. He is an officer of numerous companies and a member of many scientific and engineering organizations. He is treasurer of Ohio State University and one of the trustees of Antioch College.

It is expected that approximately 1000 business executives will hear him address the luncheon session of the conference on "An Engineer's Viewpoint of Present Conditions."

E. R. Shade Takes on Dodge, Plymouth Dealership in City

E. R. Shade, sales and service, located for the past three years at 4647 Page boulevard, has been appointed an authorized dealer in Dodge and Plymouth cars.

Shade is well known in local automotive circles, having been engaged in retail car selling for 16 years. He has been active in the automobile business since 1910.

The present quarters of the company provide a display room 40 by 60 feet and a shop 60 by 80 feet in the rear, accessible by large side and rear driveways.

Chrysler Dealers Increase by More Than 20 Per Cent

An increase in the dealer organization of more than 20 per cent is reported by J. W. Frazer, general sales manager of the Chrysler Sales Corporation.

"In August, 1930, the Chrysler dealer organization numbered approximately 2800 dealers," Frazer's statement said. "Now it consists of more than 3300 dealers, an actual increase of 500 dealers, the majority of whom have enrolled under the Chrysler banner since the first of this year."

Willys-Overland Reports October Sales Show Gains

Sale volume in October of Willys sixes and eights, Willys-Knights and trucks exceeded that of September by 37 per cent and was 92 per cent ahead of October of last year, H. B. Harper, vice president in charge of sales, announces.

The company entered November with unfilled domestic orders greatly in excess of those at the same time last year, representing the largest volume of unfilled orders since June 1, Harper reported.

Drives Graham Car To Victory in Race on Average Speed Basis

A feat of driving skill performed by Jean Vautier, Graham representative at Kenitra, French Morocco, won him first place in the annual Mehedya Beach "rally."

Competitors were required to cover the difficult course, a total of 366 miles, as close as possible to a prescribed average speed of 44 miles an hour, being subject to penalties for passing any of the numerous secret controls ahead of time or later.

Chevrolets Carry Students in Parade

Thirty new Chevrolet passenger cars and two new trucks, supplied by the metropolitan dealers of St. Louis, took part in the homecoming parade at Washington University the past week. Immediately after the mass meeting on the campus, at which Coach Al Sharpe and co-captains, Lewis Vandover and Clifford Wheeler, stirred up some enthusiasm over the football game, the band climbed into the leading truck, the Peppers and Bears, university "pep" organizations, into the other, and several hundred other students and alumni piled into the passenger cars for a tour of the downtown district. Each car was driven by a chauffeur supplied by one of the St. Louis dealers.

Schneider Champion Auto Racer of U. S.

Louis Schneider of Indianapolis is proclaimed 1931 driving champion by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association. He gained this distinction by piloting his racing car to victory in the 1931 Indianapolis 500-mile race and on dirt tracks.

The Contest Board, which is the governing body of organized racing in America, awards its driving championship not for any one spectacular feat by any one particular driver, but for consistency throughout the year.

Fred Frame, who finished second to Schneider in the Indianapolis race, was second in the year's championship standing. The order of the first ten: Schneider, Frame, Ralph Hepburn, Russell Snowberger, James Gleason, Shorty Canton, Ernie Triplett, Lou Moore, Chet Miller and Bill Cummings.

A. J. Rogers Made Marmon Sales Chief

The appointment of A. J. Rogers as vice president in charge of sales of the Marmon Motor Car Co. is announced by G. M. Williams, president. Rogers also has been elected as director.

Marmon will celebrate its thirtieth anniversary in the automobile industry in 1932, and next year also will be the eighty-first since the Marmon institution was organized.

High Tax Affects Gas Sale.

Gasoline consumption in Florida fell off 4,000,000 gallons during the first month the new gasoline tax was in force. The tax—7 cents per gallon—is the highest state levy on motor fuel in the United States.

Marmon Sixteen In Special Body Styles for Salon

Two striking body styles on the Marmon sixteen chassis will be displayed at the New York salon. One is a five-passenger, two-door coupe designed and built by the Hayes Body Corporation. The other is a five-passenger convertible sedan by the LeBaron Detroit Co.

The coupe body was designed by Alexis de Sakhnofsky, well-known as a designer of automobiles both in this country and abroad. One of the outstanding features is the arrangement of the front and rear seats and the extreme width of the door, which permits passengers to enter the rear seat without disturbing the front seat. The rear seat is unusually wide, permitting the seating of three persons. The front seat has movable arm rests.

The convertible sedan was designed by Walter Dorwin Teague and has a new color scheme developed by the LeBaron studios. The upholstery is tailored, green leather shadow striped, and the roof and side walls are in harmony with the seat upholstery and with the green exterior.

Has Keen Memory for Stolen Cars.

The recovery of 212 stolen automobiles in three years is the record of Patrolman Gustave Schalkham of New York City. He received his nickname for his ability to remember and spot license numbers of stolen automobiles.

Here and There on the Air

By J. L. Spencer

MUSIC by Gluck, Haydn, Mozart and Beethoven is programmed by Leopold Stowkowski for the concert by the Philadelphia Symphony Orchetra that will broadcast over the CBS chain, including KMOX, at 7:15 next Saturday night, Nov. 21. The music that he has selected includes the overture to Gluck's opera, "Alceste"; Haydn's Thirteenth Symphony, in G; Mozart's Concerto for Harp and Flute and the overture to his "Don Giovanni," and the Fifth Symphony of Beethoven.

The new dynamic microphone which was used for the first of these Fall-Winter concerts last month, has been installed in the Philadelphia Academy of Music for the Saturday night broadcast. Completion of a new telephone circuit to carry CBS chain programs to KMOX, and use of this new microphone which can handle a range of 20 to 10,000 cycles, should result in unusualy fine reception of the concert. Virtually any orchestral volume variation can be handled by this microphone without necessity for an engineer "toning the climaxes down." The microphone is hung between the sides of the second balcony in the Academy of Music, about four-fifths of the distance from the orchestra to the rear wall.

"Station breaks," the interruptions of radio programs to announce station call letters, probably will be made at half hour intervals after Feb. 1, Martin Codel reports from Washington. An order requiring announcement of call letters every 30 minutes, instead of every 15, will be one of numerous changes in rules of the Federal Radio Commission, Codel says. Broadcasters, and many listeners, complain that 15-minute "breaks" often ruin the effect of programs. DX fans, who tune for distant stations, undoubtedly will resent the change.

Codel also reports that pressure from stations may cause the Commission to change its rule requring definite announcement that a recorded program is a phonograph record of an "electrical transcription made exclusively for broadcasting purposes." One proposal is that announcement of the source of the broadcast be made at the end of a program. This, of course, would greatly please advertisers and station owners who would not feel hurt if listeners believed they were listening to broadcasts from studios instead of by mechanical means.

Ceremonies at the unveiling of a statue of Woodrow Wilson at Richmond, Va., will be broadcast by the WJZ chain at 2:30 Tuesday. WSM and KOA are among stations scheduled.

Chicago hears that the program featuring Olive Palmer and Paul Oliver will be discontinued before the end of the year, thus taking off the air one of the few hour-long broadcasts. Virginia Murphy, who for a while used the stage name of Virginia Rea, has sung for three years as Olive Palmer under an exclusive contract, which was publicly stated to net her $37,500 a year. Recently she had her name legally changed to Olive Palmer. . . . Singin' Sam, whose bass voice is one of the most pleasing yet heard in radio, has signed a contract to broadcast for his present sponsor for two years. He also got a big raise in pay. . . . Kate Smith is reported to be guaranteed an income at the rate of $500,000 a year by a contract with the Paramount-Publix Corporation under which she will open in a New York theater next Friday with the entire stage production built around her. She is to sing four times a day to the movie audiences. But she will continue her broadcasts at 7:30 Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday nights over the CBS chain. . . . The contract for the Personalities broadcasts over the CBS network will expire Nov. 25 when Beatrice Lillie is billed. . . . A lawsuit reveals that the Hotel Shoreham, in Washington, D. C., paid $6250 to have Rudy Vallee appear for one hour at its opening night celebration a year ago. . . . The Moonshine and Honeysuckle sketches that are broadcast over KSD and an NBC chain Sundays are written by Lula Vollmer, widely known as a playwright. The role of Clem is played by Louis Mason, a native Kentuckian. . . . The members of the Gordon String Quartet, which will play over the WJZ chain today, are said to have paid more than $120,000 for their instruments. Jacques Gordon's violin he values at $40,000. Ralph Silverman, second violin, holds his instrument at $25,000, while Paul Robyn's viola is valued at $25,000 and Naum Benditsky's 'cello at $30,000.

In response to an inquiry whether listeners to the Dramatic Musicale broadcasts over KSD and the WEAF chain preferred the present classical music programs or a change to "popular" type music, 33,000 persons wrote letters urging that the classical programs be continued. . . . Serial dramatic broadcasts are to be tried in the Sherlock Holmes Adventures programs three times weekly over NBC chains. "A Study in Scarlet" will be broadcast in four installments, starting this week. Each installment will be broadcast over the WEAF, WJZ and Pacific coast chains. WJZ chain listeners may hear it at 8 o'clock Wednesday night, WEAF chain listeners at 8:30 Thursday night. . . . A miniature Indian opera written for "The Parade of the States" will occupy the first part of the program on KSD at 8:30 tomorrow night. The night's tribute will be to Oklahoma and music from shows in which Will Rogers has appeared is programmed for the second part. . . . "Thrillers," the dramatic series based on World War episodes and written by D. Thomas Curtain, is to return to an NBC chain. . . .

James Wallington, who has been winning praise by his work opposite Eddie Cantor in the Sunday night broadcasts with Rubinoff and his orchestra, is said to be headed for a part in a Broadway show. . . . Fritz Reiner, conductor of the Philadelphia Opera, will lead the Curtis Institute symphony orchestra in a concert over the CBS chain from 3:45 to 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. The orchestra will play the overture to Weber's "Oberon" and two of the Bach preludes and, with Jeanne Behrend, a young pianist, play the Mozart Coronation Concerto. . . . The University of Denver has started a university of the air over KOA. It is planned to broadcast complete college courses and to give credits toward degrees. For the present it will be conducted half an hour weekly in connection with the university's extension courses. . . . The Tournament of Roses football game will be broadcast from Pasadena, Cal., on New Year's day.

Radio Trade Notes

James C. Gordon, Inc., to Move Onto Olive Street.

The firm of James C. Gordon, Inc., local Bosch distributer, is to move within the next week from 1213 Pine street to a new building at 3139 Olive street. This building, which never has been occupied, fronts 40 feet on Olive street and is 100 feet deep and two stories high. So it gives ample space for a large display room, for a Bosch service department and for a department for installing receivers in automobiles.

New Philco Clock Receiver.

A new Philco grandfather clock receiver is announced by the Artophone Corporation, distributer. It has a Colonial walnut cabinet in hand-rubbed finish, a seven-tube superheterodyne chassis and a full dynamic speaker. The dial face is a replica of that of a famous antique hand-painted clock. A feature of the cabinet top is a carved maple scroll.

Portable Public Address System.

A portable public address system which has been used for professional football games in the Public School Stadium was supplied by the Brown Supply Co. It consists of four Wright de Koster horn-type dynamic speakers and a three-stage amplifier using a 27 tube, a 45 tube and two 50 type tubes in push pull. It can be used for either phonograph or voice.

IN MEMORIAM

ALBERS—In loving remembrance of our dear parents, August Albers and Katherine Albers, who departed this life, June 26, 1928, and Nov. 15, 1928:
The echo of their voice, their smile,
Just as they were, are with us all the while.
Sadly missed by
THEIR CHILDREN, GRANDCHILDREN, SISTER AND BROTHER.

BIRCHER—In loving memory of Cornelia Bircher, who departed this life Nov. 13, 1927.
A wonderful mother, woman and aid,
One who was better God never made;
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true,
One in a million—that mother was you.
Just in your judgment, always right;
Honest and liberal, ever upright;
Loved by your friends and all whom you knew
Our wonderful mother—that mother was you.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, SON AND DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.

IN MEMORIAM

BLUEMEL—Louisa E., died one year ago Nov. 18.
Loving and kind in all her ways,
Sincere and true in her heart and mind,
A beautiful memory she left behind.
BLUEMEL-RUH FAMILY.

BUERGER—In remembrance of our darling daughter and sister, Mildred, who departed from this life Nov. 14, 1923.
Nothing but memories since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, FATHER, BROTHERS AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

CUMMINGS (nee Hucker)—Katherine Cummings:
Ten years ago you left us;
God, alone, knows how we miss you.
FATHER, MOTHER, DAUGHTER AND SISTER.

DOYLE—In remembrance of Thomas J. Doyle, who departed this life one year ago Nov. 18, 1930.
Sadly missed by WIFE AND SON.

HERZOG—In sad but loving remembrance of our dear mother, Louisa Herzog, who departed this life one year ago, Nov. 14, 1930.
Peaceful be thy rest, dear Mother;
It is sweet to breathe your name.
In life we loved you dearly—
In death we do the same.
Sadly missed by the
HERZOG FAMILY.
And all who loved her. (c)

KOENIG—In memory of my beloved husband, Matthias Koenig, who departed this life Nov. 19, 1929.
Remembering is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain.
To have, to love, and then part,
Is the greatest sorrow of our heart.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, LILLIE KOENIG.

KRITE—In loving memory of Mrs. Mary Krite, who passed on 10 years ago, on Nov. 17, 1921.
Sadly missed by
HER CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

LANGE—In loving remembrance of Theo. Lange, who departed this life Nov. 15, 1922.
Sadly missed by
PARENTS, BROTHERS, SISTERS.

McLEAN—In loving remembrance of our dear son and brother, Artie J. McLean, who died Nov. 15, 1928. Third Anniversary Mass Nov. 17, 1931, 8 o'clock, Visitation Church.
Three years, full of tears, lonely and blue;
Life is sad, Artie dear, without you.
A loving son and brother, a pal of our heart,
One in a million, you were our life's dearest part.
While death did not sever the broken hearts it left,
We will always remember you, Artie dear, while others may forget.
Though our years may be many or few,
In loving remembrance we will always
Think and pray for you.
Sadly missed by
PARENTS, BROTHERS AND SISTER, McLEAN FAMILY.

MEICHEL—In loving memory of our dear mother, Fredericka Meichel, who departed this life 5 years ago Nov. 20, 1926.
Sadly missed by
SONS, SISTERS AND ALL THOSE WHO LOVED HER. (c)

MUELLER—In loving memory of John H. and Anna Mueller, who passed away Nov. 12, 1929.
Time speeds on, two years have passed
Since death its gloom, its shadow, cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light, and ever will,
Their vacant place there is none to fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For up in heaven we will meet again.
Sadly missed by
GRANDMOTHER RAYMOND, CHARLES MUELLER AND FAMILY.

NESTER—In loving memory of my dear husband, George R. Nester, who departed this life five years ago, Nov. 18, 1926.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

SCRAFTON—In memory of Wm. R. Scrafton, husband, who died Aug. 11, 1931, and Wilson R., son, who died Nov. 14, 1918.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, MOTHER AND BROTHER.

SENN—In loving memory of Raymond Senn, who died Nov. 15, 1929.
There is a link death cannot sever,
Love and remembrance last forever.
Sadly missed by
PARENTS, SISTER AND BROTHER.

WEBER—In loving memory of our dear mother and wife, Othelia K. Weber, passed away Nov. 13, 1930.
A wonderful mother, woman and aid,
One who was better, God never made;
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true;
One in a million, that, mother, was you.
Just in your judgment, always right;
Honest and liberal, ever upright;
Loved by your friends and all whom you knew.
Our wonderful mother, that mother was you.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, JOHN W. WEBER, AND CHILDREN.

A Foreign Photographer "Discovers" St. Louis With His Camera

Brookings Hall, Washington University.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

IT IS the theory of F. W. Radler, a European armed with a camera, that St. Louisans never take time to look at their own city. He found to his astonishment that many of them regard it as an ugly city. They rush off to the Italian lakes or the California coast for beauty, returning only to bemoan the commercial ugliness of their home.

Radler stalked St. Louis from various angles. An experienced photographer, he saw the city from a new perspective. Through the trees of Forest Park, down a long vista, he caught the sudden looming bulk of the Washington University medical buildings, and the result is a photograph that would surprise the average St. Louisan who rushes by to office or home.

As the photographs on this page show, Radler has caught the city in many moods. Sometimes cold and hard, looking down a lead, gray stretch of river towards the Free Bridge, with a gray, cold sky above. That is in striking contrast to the soft Italianate day that prevails in his impressions of Forest Park. There is a photograph looking across a new viaduct that has all the dramatic quality that Missouri's thunderstorms impart to town and country.

For most of his life Radler has been a photographer. First he was an amateur. That was in the small state of Transylvania, before the war a part of Hungary. Radler comes of an old and distinguished family. The ancestral home is at Schaessburg. There, as a young man, Comissar of his province, he took many photographs. It was an unusual hobby then and an expensive one.

The photographs which he has brought with him from Transylvania show that even at that time he did not really belong to the amateur class. From his camera Schaessburg emerges a legendary city, with a charming Graustarkian quality.

The war ruined Radler's family fortune. Transylvania, along with other sections of Hungary, was parceled out to Rumania. Radler's mother came to this country to join relatives in Cincinnati, and in 1925 he followed her there.

There was little time for his hobby, since he was too busy earning his living in a variety of ways—as a tailor, in a bakery. He didn't care for this kind of work, but he was glad to be away from his troubled native land.

In 1927 he came to St. Louis. But it was not until a year ago that he found much leisure to use his camera. In some three years he has come to know St. Louis rather well. Perhaps his success results from his patience. To get just the perspective and just the light that he wants he often waits for days. In the past year he has obtained 20-odd views of the city that to many St. Louisans will be strikingly new. There are other views which he has tried for a long time to get.

Radler has what is essential to an artist, whether in oils or photography—a sense of design. That is why so many of his pictures appear unusual to persons who have lived in St. Louis a lifetime. The photo of Washington University on this page is an example. Three Lombardy poplars form one side of a striking frame.

Radler's work with the camera has at last brought him recognition. His pictures are to be exploited commercially as postal cards. And 12 views have been used on a calendar which is to be sold by the unemployed this winter. An exhibit of Radler's work is to open the art room of the Public Library on November 26.

Of course, Radler is really no longer a foreign photographer. He has decided to make St. Louis his home. He has made application to become a naturalized citizen of the United States.

PERRY, Iowa.

THE funeral of John M. Smith last February was one of the largest and most impressive ever held in Perry. Fellow townsmen crowded the Methodist Church to pay their final respects to a leading citizen, a man who was understood to have made a fortune in business and who had recently been a candidate for Governor of the State. Over the coffin and all about were flowers, great quantities of flowers that invested the solemn scene with gentle beauty. Hearts went out in sympathy to the pathetic figures of Mrs. Smith and her 9-year-old son. Mrs. Smith sobbed aloud through the ceremonies in the church, and at the grave she fainted. And people pondered sadly, as millions had done before, over that mystery of death: the inscrutable impartiality of providence which permits good and able men to die with shocking untimeliness.

As it turned out, however, that was not the mystery in this case. Perry soon learned that the body in the flower-decked coffin was not that of its respected citizen, John M. Smith. The circumstances back of that fact constituted the mystery. Now that it is cleared up in the main, the people who grieved for Smith know he is still alive; but the man who aspired to be Governor of Iowa last year and who made a pretty good race for the office as a Farmer-Labor candidate, is confined as a lunatic. If his sanity is ever re-established he may be prosecuted for trying to defraud insurance companies, for bigamy, for arson and possibly for grave robbing. And his wife is scheduled for trial this month on a charge of aiding him in the insurance fraud.

MEDICAL experts have said Smith suffered from a form of insanity which does not prevent cunning planning and execution of his enterprises, criminal or otherwise. They have said he was insane when he ran for Governor. Certain it is that he provided a difficult problem for officers of the law in his faked death and that he managed to elude capture until ready to surrender.

The "death" took place on the night of February 3. Smith left home early that evening in a truck, ostensibly to call on Nebraska agents for an insecticide which he manufactured. About midnight the truck was found upset and burning beside a road near Dennison, Iowa. The farmer who discovered it got help from a nearby farm and he and his companions extinguished the fire. From behind the steering wheel they took the charred body of a man; legs and arms were missing, and it was supposed they had been consumed. The features of the victim were unrecognizable.

From the license and motor numbers it was established that the truck belonged to John M. Smith of Perry. A watch and keys and several other personal articles found with the body apparently identified the victim as Smith. The truck was beside the road which he

PERRY, Iowa.

THE funeral of John M. Smith last February was one of the largest and most impressive ever held in Perry. Fellow townsmen crowded the Methodist Church to pay their final respects to a leading citizen, a man who was understood to have made a fortune in business and who had recently been a candidate for Governor of the State. Over the coffin and all about were flowers, great quantities of flowers that invested the solemn scene with gentle beauty. Hearts went out in sympathy to the pathetic figures of Mrs. Smith and her 9-year-old son. Mrs. Smith sobbed aloud through the ceremonies in the church, and at the grave she fainted. And people pondered sadly, as millions had done before, over that mystery of death: the inscrutable impartiality of providence which permits good and able men to die with shocking untimeliness.

As it turned out, however, that was not the mystery in this case. Perry soon learned that the body in the flower-decked coffin was not that of its respected citizen, John M. Smith. The circumstances back of that fact constituted the mystery. Now that it is cleared up in the main, the people who grieved for Smith know he is still alive; but the man who aspired to be Governor of Iowa last year and who made a pretty good race for the office as a Farmer-Labor candidate, is confined as a lunatic. If his sanity is ever re-established he may be prosecuted for trying to defraud insurance companies, for bigamy, for arson and possibly for grave robbing. And his wife is scheduled for trial this month on a charge of aiding him in the insurance fraud.

MEDICAL experts have said Smith suffered from a form of insanity which does not prevent cunning planning and execution of his enterprises, criminal or otherwise. They have said he was insane when he ran for Governor. Certain it is that he provided a difficult problem for officers of the law in his faked death and that he managed to elude capture until ready to surrender.

The "death" took place on the night of February 3. Smith left home early that evening in a truck, ostensibly to call on Nebraska agents for an insecticide which he manufactured. About midnight the truck was found upset and burning beside a road near Dennison, Iowa. The farmer who discovered it got help from a nearby farm and he and his companions extinguished the fire. From behind the steering wheel they took the charred body of a man; legs and arms were missing, and it was supposed they had been consumed. The features of the victim were unrecognizable.

From the license and motor numbers it was established that the truck belonged to John M. Smith of Perry. A watch and keys and several other personal articles found with the body apparently identified the victim as Smith. The truck was beside the road which he would take in going to Nebraska.

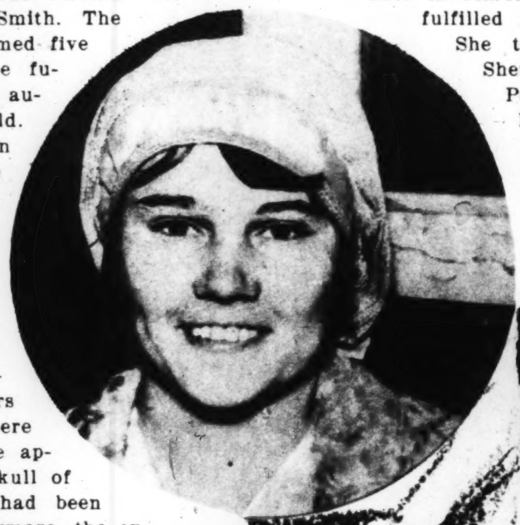
When Mrs. Smith was notified she became hysterical. Later she told of her husband's departure early that night and of his errand, and said he told her he was going to take three barrels of his insecticide with him. As the fluid was said to be inflammable, it was the theory that some had leaked from one of the barrels and had been accidentally ignited, perhaps by a match which Smith had carelessly thrown backward after lighting a cigar.

The undertaker who prepared the body for burial decided it was too badly burned to be embalmed. He didn't make a minute examination of it, although it did seem a bit strange that rigor mortis had set in so quickly.

SOON after the funeral Mrs. Smith applied for the insurance on her husband's life—$60,000 under the provision for double indemnity in case of accidental death. Two of the policies had been taken out about six months previously. She applied for and collected the insurance on the truck.

The life insurance companies set about making sure that John M. Smith was dead. Dark rumors had begun to circulate about the case. People were wondering—occasionally aloud—what had become of the arms and legs of the body that had been found in the burning truck; it seemed very strange that there was no trace even of their bones.

The first important step in the investigation, of course, was to identify the body buried as that of Smith—at least to find out whether the man was really Smith. The body was exhumed five weeks after the funeral, and an autopsy was held. Dental work in the mouth of the dead man did not correspond with that done for Smith, dentists testified. Doctors said Smith's skull had been fractured some years before, but there was no fracture apparent in the skull of the man who had been buried. Furthermore, the examination showed that the body had been embalmed; the stitches were discovered under the arms. Since it had not been embalmed after being taken from the burning truck, it must have received the attention of an undertaker some time before the fire.



Pauline Shaw.

All this made it certain that whoever the dead man was, he was not John M. Smith of Perry. Investigators became convinced that Smith had obtained the body from some medical school or a cemetery, placed it behind the steering wheel of his truck, with his watch and some other belongings, and had set the machine afire, with the purpose of having it mistaken for his and of collecting his insurance through his wife. They thought either the body had been without arms or legs when he obtained it, or he had removed the limbs in order to get it in the driver's seat.

Further inquiry elicited the information that Smith had been requiring salesmen to whom he assigned districts for the sale of his insecticide to deposit $50 each with him as evidence of good faith, the deposit to be returned to them in 60 days. It was said he made at least 150 of such deals and had managed to evade return of the money when salesmen requested it. This information made it appear that Smith's financial affairs might be in such shape as to cause him to resort to desperate measures to get money.

The next step was to find Smith. Mrs. Smith, who was suspected of being a party to the insurance plot, but against whom incriminating evidence was lacking, said she would help in the search for her husband; if she heard from him she would inform officers.

Late in March Mrs. Smith fulfilled her promise. She telephoned to Sheriff Knee of Perry and told him Smith phoned her to meet him that night at a place a few miles from Perry. A trap was set for the missing man, and when an automobile drove up beside Mrs. Smith's car at the appointed spot, deputy sheriffs were waiting in their machine nearby. But before the trap could be sprung the quarry took alarm and sped away. Mrs. Smith and the officers followed. The chase didn't last long. Mrs. Smith's automobile left the road and upset, and presently the officers' car also was wrecked. No one was hurt seriously, but the deputies returned to town without John M. Smith.

A few days after the incident, Mrs. Smith wrote a public letter to her husband, calling on him to return. She said:

"John M. Smith: I am a sick woman, in bed with a nervous breakdown, with a nurse and doctor at my side. Am getting weaker every day. Now you have not done anything that is serious. There may be a trial and a fine, but that is nothing to my life. If you love us you will come back and talk to me while I can talk, before it is too late. I had a wreck to my car that night and I was driving about 60 or 70 miles an hour, and it was all your fault. Now we have nothing to live on. The Pension Department has taken the pension from us. They did not pay the $300 that I paid in funeral expenses, thinking it was for you. So we have nothing. So come back for the love of your wife and son, as we need you now in this time of sickness. Now, I am afraid that if you don't come here within a week I will be in a land where I will suffer no more. So good-by, if I don't see you again."

There was no immediate response to this plea. Smith at the time was occupied with another woman, it later was learned. He appeared in Elgin, Kansas, early in March, and on March 11 married a girl of that town, Miss Pauline Shaw, 21 years old. He used the name of Mac Jay Smith, and said he was a wealthy land owner. Apparently, his identity was not suspected, but his courtship had its difficulties. Mrs. Mae Clayton, foster mother of Miss Shaw, didn't like him — suspected he was engaged in some sort of criminal activity. She pleaded with the girl not to marry him.

But Miss Shaw chose to rely on her own judgment and married Smith. For their wedding trip they drove through Kansas and Oklahoma, where Smith said his land was situated. Late in April Smith and his illegal wife had a quarrel, and he told her he had a legal wife in Iowa. She left him immediately.

Not long afterward, Mrs. Smith learned of her husband's romantic escapade. He got word to her and they met on a road near Fremont, Nebraska, June 19. He told her then of his bigamous marriage, but said, she related, that he did it because he thought it would help shield his identity. He assured his wife that he loved her. "I forgave him," Mrs. Smith told officers, "because I knew he loved me and no one else."

AT THAT meeting, according to the account she gave later, she and her husband decided that he would have to come out of hiding, as she and their son were almost in want. It was decided he would tell authorities he had been struck on the head and abducted the night his truck was found on fire, and remembered little that had happened since.

A few days later a man was found bound and gagged beside a road near Garner, Iowa. He was identified as John M. Smith, missing insecticide manufacturer, and he told an incoherent story of having been kidnaped, kept in a basement and finally thrown from an automobile.

Smith was arrested and taken to Des Moines. There, at the State Bureau of Investigation, he was reunited with his wife and son. Mrs. Smith threw her arms about her husband and kissed him. She urged him to tell more about his disappearance, but he had taken refuge in silence and declined to give further explanations.

Formal charges of defrauding and attempting to defraud insurance companies were placed against Smith, and he was indicted. Mrs. Smith also was indicted as a participant. Miss Shaw soon appeared and identified Smith as the man who had married her. She had seen his picture in a paper after he had been found beside the road.

When Miss Shaw confronted him, Smith merely said, "Hello, Pauline." When she asked him why he had deceived her, he made no answer. A bigamy charge was placed against him at Elgin.

A short time ago Mrs. Smith abandoned her contention that she had taken no part in the plot charged to her husband, and made a confession. She said she knew of his scheme to put a corpse in his truck, set the machine afire and disappear, to make it appear that he had been burned to death.

THEY had planned that she would collect the insurance, and after a year or two they would be reunited and live some place far from Perry. With a nice "stake" provided by the insurance, they would start life anew.

The wife declared that fear of her husband caused her to agree to the plan. She said he threatened to kill her if she didn't help him.

After her release from jail on bond, Mrs. Smith went to work in a canning factory in Perry. She has friends who believe she is a victim of circumstances and who are trying to help her. Before her marriage Mrs. Smith was considered one of the prettiest girls in Perry.

Attorneys for Smith pleaded insanity. His actions since his arrest had been, in general, such as to support this contention. He had apparently failed to recognize friends, sometimes he seemed not to recognize his wife. In conversation he frequently turned erratically from the subject.

Two alienists were selected to make an examination as to Smith's sanity. The alienists gave the opinion that Smith was insane, although capable of employing energy and skill in carrying out both legitimate and criminal activities. They believed Smith was insane when he ran for Governor. They mentioned a head injury he had suffered in a railroad wreck in 1913.

With this testimony before it, a jury not long ago quickly decided that Smith was insane and the court ordered him placed in the men's reformatory at Anamosa, Iowa, as criminally insane, stipulating that if he regained his sanity he should be returned to Dallas County, in which Perry is situated, for trial.

So the Smith disappearance mystery has been cleared up—all but one phase of it. Smith has never disclosed where he got the body which was found in the burning truck. Hospitals, medical schools and undertakers of this region have been canvassed. Cemeteries for miles around Perry have been searched for evidence of a rifled coffin, but without result.

The Plight of the Chicago School Teachers

By M. W. CHILDS

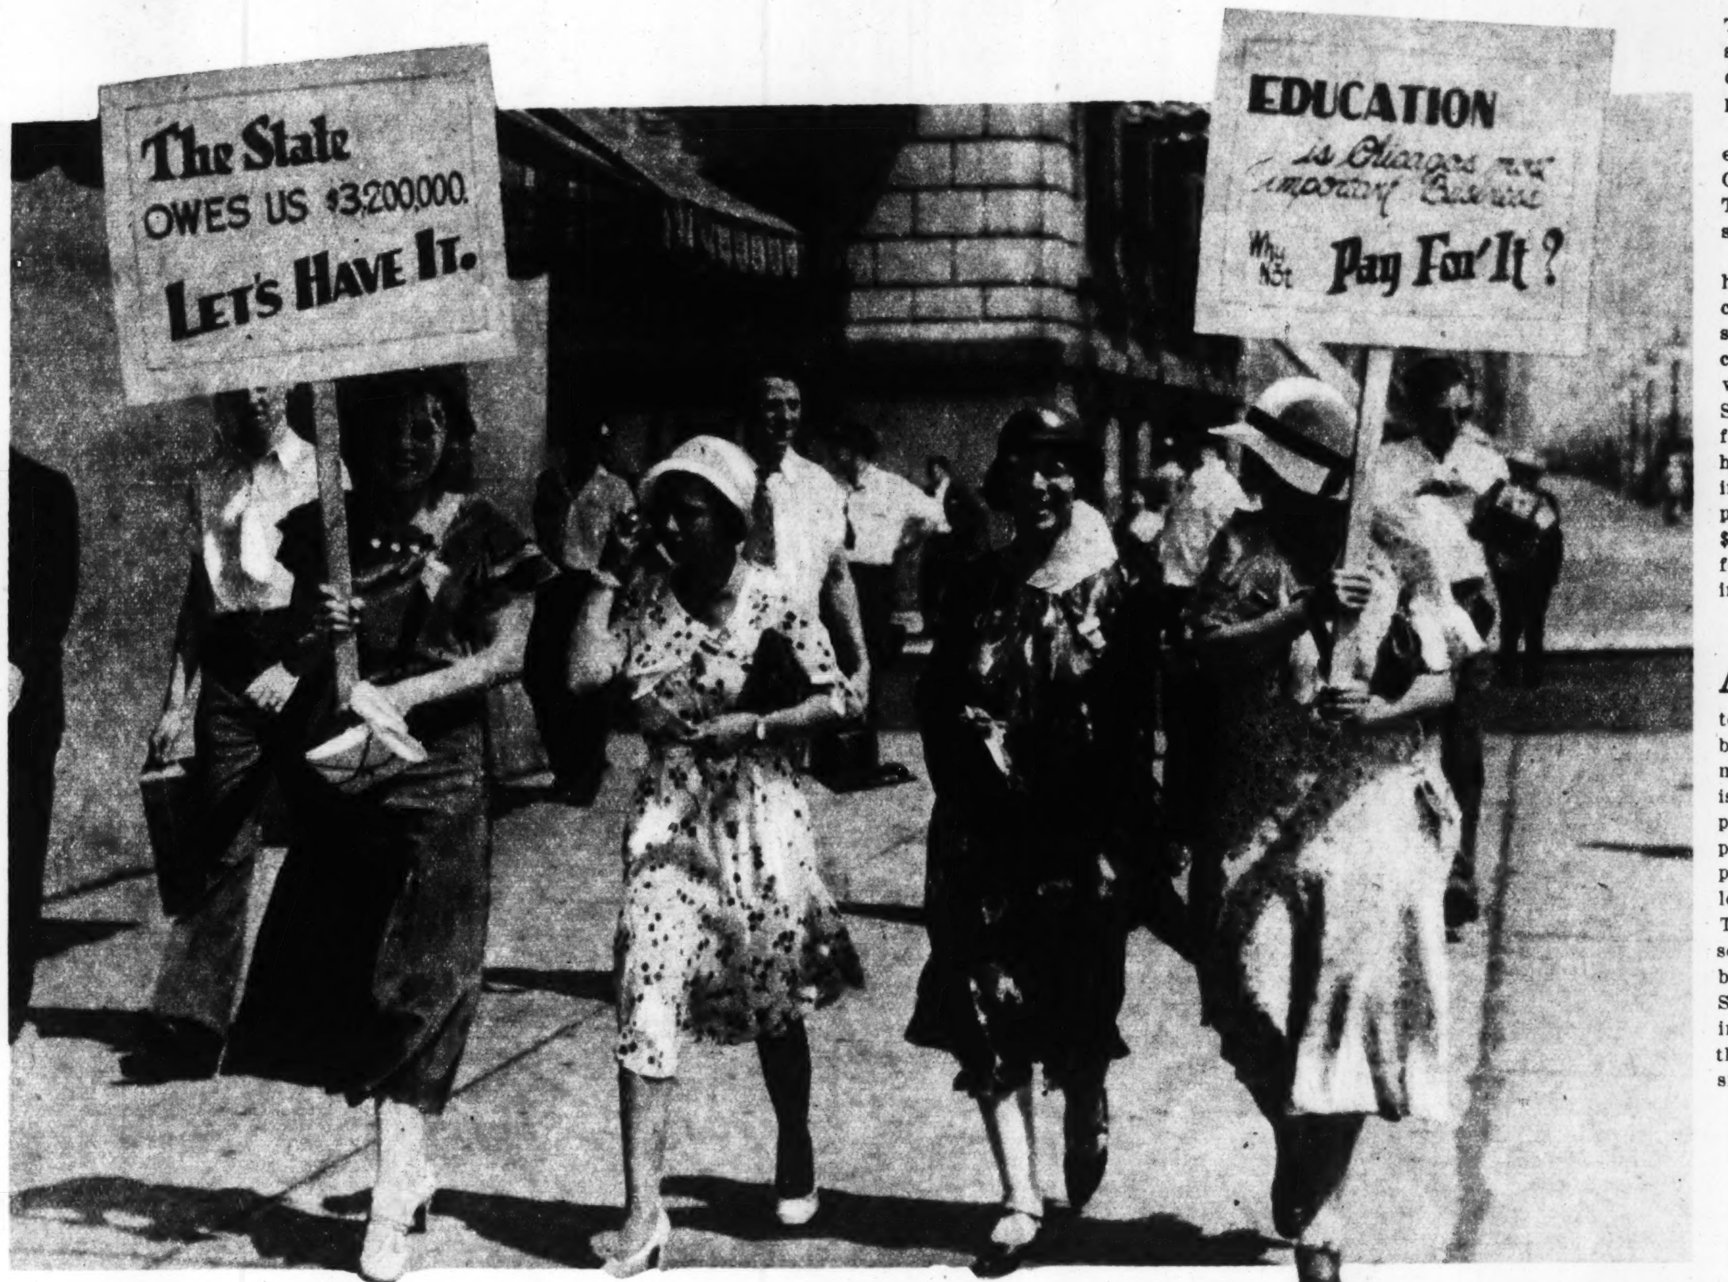
Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff



The State OWES US $3,200,000. LET'S HAVE IT.
EDUCATION is Chicago's most important Business Why Not Pay For It?

Teachers marching with placards appealing to public.

Many Face Starvation and Mutiny Impends as Result of City's Failure to Pay Salaries for Seven Months.

CHICAGO.

IMAGINE 3000 school teachers in a boiling rage. Three thousand school teachers booing a member of the Board of Education. Hurling abrupt questions at him, hissing. The board member has a bodyguard consisting of the Superintendent of Schools and three assistant superintendents, who frown and frown and frown. But the teachers don't care. They behave like a room full of angry children.

It takes a great deal to push a teacher that far. They've been on the side of law and order, of quiet, respectable behavior, for a long time. The public school teachers of Chicago are still on that side—they opposed a strike. But the teachers here haven't been paid for seven months, and seven months is a long time to go without pay. The teachers are saying now that if they don't get most of the balance of their back pay before the first of the year, the schools will inevitably close.

And it won't be because of a teachers' strike. It will be, they say grimly, because it will be a physical impossibility to go on any longer. Recently a kindergarten teacher fainted in her classroom—she had had virtually no food for four days. A manual training teacher, father of three children, collapsed from the strain of worry. In addition to no pay, 50 per cent of the teachers, by conservative estimate, have suffered from bank failures.

Perhaps by the time this appears in print they wil have received a part of the $12,400,000 that is still due them. But it will be almost too late, the leaders say. The money will be tossed into the abyss of debt that has been accumulated, and there will still be the problem of living from day to day.

Everyone concedes that School Board finances are in an awful mess. The board is still dominated to a certain degree by a majority appointed by Big Bill Thompson when he was Mayor. This majority has opposed any action suggested by Mayor Cermak. The bankers form a third faction. It is said that they want to dictate School Board expenditures, that they demand that all graft and extravagance be eliminated before they finance the schools further. These three forces are deadlocked somewhere in the muddle.

The real reason why there is no money goes back much further. In the past 10 years Chicago has endured, with some show of patience, two reassessments of property for taxation purposes. At the conclusion of both there were violent charges and counter charges of graft, favoritism, injustice and misrepresentation. Associations were formed to fight the new property values. Taxpayers banded into leagues, hired publicity agents and organizers.

And long before this there had been appalling graft in connection with the collection of taxes. An example will illustrate. The writer talked to a taxpayer who owns a co-operative apartment, a car, a piano, a radio and various furnishings. His personal property and real estate tax was about $65.

ONE year a young man came to the door, represented himself as connected with the tax bureau and said for $10 he would see that that household would never again be bothered by property taxes. "You're a sucker if you pay taxes," was the young man's argument. It was only $10. It was worth while as an experiment. The young man took the money. Not even so much as a blank form for making the personal property return ever came to that door again.

This is believed to have occurred in thousands of cases, large and small. Then there were the office holders and petty politicians and hangers-on, who, under such a system, naturally paid no tax. Among respectable citizens during the past three or four years there has been literally a tax strike. The final result is that from 35 to 40 per cent of the taxes now due are delinquent.

In April of 1929 the president of the School Board announced that the schools were broke and would have to close. Taxes were not coming in and, therefore, the bankers did not care to buy the tax anticipation warrants which have always been the source of the board's money. That is to say, for example, taxes for 1930 cannot be collected until December 1, 1931, but these taxes are sold to the banks a year or more in advance by means of anticipation warrants. The Chicago banks were loaded with these warrants and the board did not have enough tax money to take them up. In a sense they were frozen loans, just as frozen as a $5000 mortgage on a farm which has shrunk to almost nothing in value. So the schools would have to close.

But this would be a calamity and a disgrace to Chicago, the bankers thought, so they kept them running for a year longer. Then they refused to put out another penny. New York bankers weren't interested in advancing a loan. There was no money for school salaries. The ghost did not walk for the last two weeks in April, and the teachers began to worry. May went by. When vacation came in June, the president of the School Board was still hoping to scare up salaries within a few days, or weeks, from somewhere.

THE hot summer dragged on and there was still no money. Teachers worked at the customary summer school activities through July and August and $250,000 more was added to the debt. September added another $3,600,000 payroll and October another. Early in the fall it appeared that the public was not concerned. Money was found for the city hall employes, in the same plight for a time, and the teachers would go on teaching, content to get their pay some day, perhaps.

The public and the School Board were in for a rude surprise. Those quiet ladies who taught their children were not going to take it calmly on the chin. They already had two organizations, the Chicago Teachers' Federation and the teachers' unions, which consist of several locals, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. They went into action—unfortunately in opposite directions.

A majority, including the union group, demanded that pay certificates—scrip—be issued in lieu of their pay. This was strongly opposed by the Federation, led by Mary Abbe and Margaret Haley. At last the board voted to issue scrip, which the teacher could take if she chose. This decision was reached in July. On October 1. Circuit Judge Finnegan indicated, following a suit brought by the Federation, that he would forbid the issuance of scrip; about 75 per cent of the teachers had taken the school board's paper money. Since then the teachers haven't had the consolation of green engraved slips.

Standing in rear: Edmund J. Barrett, state treasurer, and C. A. Davis, president of Federation of American Teachers; seated: Agnes Clohesy, of the Elementary Teachers' Union; Kate Kranel of Playground Teachers' Union; Governor Emmerson and State Auditor Oscar Nelson, at conference on pay.

While the scrip fell far short of cash as a medium of exchange, many of the teachers think it was better than nothing. It could be used to pay light and gas bills, and in two or three reputable stores, if not more than 30 per cent in change was involved. That is, out of a $10 scrip certificate, $7 must go into purchases and $3 can be returned in change.

But there were few stores that went even this far. Representatives of teacher groups called on all the big State street merchants and pleaded for the validity of scrip. Most of them were evasive. One man frankly told them that his banker had forbidden him to accept more than a negligible amount of the scrip. If he took more than that amount, his banker would no longer carry his loans.

At once scrip speculators sprang up who would give cash for the scrip on the basis of a 20 to 30 per cent discount. But there were not many of these. A great many teachers, however, have become involved during the last six months with loan firms which charge 3½ per cent a month interest. "Easy credit" stores throughout the city encouraged the teachers to buy clothes, either taking scrip at a discount or carrying their accounts with interest. The catch was that prices were high and merchandise inferior.

Credit, and credit alone, has enabled a majority of the teachers to live. The butcher, the baker, the landlord have been put off from month to month, hoping, like the teachers, that the School Board would find some money. In most cases credit now is at an end. The landlord and the grocer can't carry the teachers any longer.

I looked over several thousand questionnaires which the teachers' unions had sent out to all teachers in an effort to determine just how close they were to being dead broke. While no statistics had been taken from these questionnaires, even a brief glance at them showed that for most of them the end is in sight. And, according to Miss Agnes Clohesy, president of the Elementary Teachers' Union, the answers need to be discounted very little for exaggeration.

ONE of the questions asked was: "How much longer do you think you can maintain your present standard of living." "At an end now," several wrote. Others said two weeks, a month, "Not much longer." The questionnaires showed that insurance policies had lapsed, investments had been forfeited and houses surrendered at the loss of years of savings. A number of the questionnaires indicated loss both from bank failure and from bonds which had defaulted.

Another question was: "Have you exhausted all possibilities of borrowing and credit?" Roughly computed, a majority answered "Yes." "What has caused you the most distress during the past six months?" the questionnaire asked. "Losing my investments and therefore all sense of security," was one answer. "Not being able to give any financial aid to my pupils," was another. Worry was a frequent answer. "What sacrifices have you made?" was still another question. No new clothes, less food, walking to school, no amusements, no vacation, cheaper rooms were frequent answers.

The teachers feel an intense bitterness. I saw Miss Evangeline Hursen, principal at her school, 5740 South Michigan avenue, an elementary Negro school. She is tight-lipped and stern.

"They expect us to instill American ideals in the young, but it is difficult to do that when you feel a deep sense of injustice," she said. "How can we help but feel injustice? Money is found for all other employes of the city. The teachers alone can bear the burden. That's the attitude.. For a time it seemed that the public was quite indifferent, but now I believe we have public sentiment on our side.

"I'm fortunate in my school. Seventeen of my 47 teachers are married. Others come from prosperous homes. There are only six or seven who will soon have to fall back upon charity."

Each day numerous children come to her office for help. A small boy, accompanied by his mother, asked for shoes. If he didn't get shoes he couldn't come to school. Until three weeks ago the teachers at Carter School were able to maintain a fund for these appeals. That is now exhausted. Teachers in another school, in the same district but in a much poorer neighborhood, last year gave $4000 to the pupils of the school in food and clothing. They can give nothing this year.

AS THOUGH these were not reasons enough for their bitter mood, there is still another goad to their fury. Supplies for school must be obtained through the supply department of the Board of Education. There is still money in this department. The principal of the school must consult a price book put out by the supply department and order all the supplies allowed with her meager budget there. The board fixes the budget for each school and then makes the principal buy through the supply department. She must pay 89 cents for a bottle of ink, 80 cents each for toy lambs for the kindergarten, 50 cents each for small rubber balls. After many items in the supply book there are no prices. She knows that the same ink can be obtained elsewhere for 25 cents, the balls for 10 cents each, and so on. The teachers can only conclude that the difference between store prices and School Board prices represents graft. They have protested to no avail. The little money that remains must be squandered in this reckless, extravagant way.

There have been meetings all over the city. One of the most dramatic was at Hyde Park High School, when 3000 teachers loosed their wrath against Joseph E. Savage, Thompson appointee to the School Board. Flanked by the superintendents, Savage began by saying: "I have come to talk to you about finances of the immediate future"——. A peppery little woman broke in and said: "May I ask a question? How soon is immediate?" This was the signal for an outburst. There have been similar meetings in all parts of Chicago. The bankers have come in for a great deal of scorn and anger. Most of the teachers to whom I talked were inclined to blame them.

Teachers at a protest meeting in the Nicholas Senn High School on the North Side voted to strike. Many in other districts favored a strike. At a trade union meeting Federation of Labor officials advised the teachers to walk out. "You'll get your pay within a week if you do that," they said.

"But we decided against it," Miss Clohesy says. "That would have put 500,000 children onto the street. For many of these children—I won't say a majority—the school was the only place where they could be warm and where they might be fed. Under those circumstances we could not strike."

INNUMERABLE plans have been put forward during the past months to get even a little money for the teachers. One of the feasible plans so far has been the sale of the more desirable 1930 warrants to private corporations. The School Board hiked the rate from 4 to 6 per cent, and this was sanctioned by the City Council. The Chicago Surface Lines agreed to take $2,250,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants under this plan.

Finally, on the last day of October, the Board of Aldermen and the School Board agreed to the extent of allowing the teachers one month's pay in cash—$3,600,000 out of the $16,000,000 which was then due them. Thus, with city funds a part of the School Board warrants were finally purchased.

Until December 1 there is a balance of $3,300,000 of such warrants which may be sold if buyers are found. If no further cash is obtained for the teachers, the board's debt to them on December 1 will again be $16,000,000, for the November payroll will have been added to the total.

On December 1 collection of taxes for 1930 can be started. If this does not prove too difficult, the teachers should get all their back pay by May 1, according to Charles E. Gilbert, executive secretary of the School Board.

"Of course, we can't tell very much about it," he says. "There is a tax strike on here in Chicago. The voters are in a bad frame of mind. Whether they'll pay up any better than they did before is a question. And if we don't get the taxes then we can't take up the warrants at the banks and we're right where we started from."

Scientific Expedition Now Being Organized to Seek the Treasure Pit That Has Already Cost the Lives of Ten Men.

AS A RESULT of two new chapters written this last summer in the sinister history of Arizona's "Lost Dutchman Mine," an expedition is being organized here for one more concerted and determined effort to find the hidden treasure pit that has cost so many lives.

The expedition will comprise geologists, miners, prospectors, photographers and Indian guides. It will journey from here into the fastnesses of the Superstition Mountains, some 50 miles east, and there it will remain until it has solved some of the mysteries that have been piling up since the early 'seventies, when the Lost Dutchman was first discovered. Its main purpose, of course, is to rediscover this fabulously rich gold deposit, which has remained hidden since the death of Jacob Walz 40 years ago, and which has lured no fewer than 10 men to their deaths. Its secondary purpose is to try to find out what happened to Adolf Ruth, the most recent victim of the Lost Dutchman's lure.

Ruth, a 66-year-old adventurer of Washington, D. C., disappeared in the Superstition Mountains last June and hasn't been heard of since. A prolonged search for him, a search in which airplanes, Indian trailers and even bloodhounds participated, has been given up as hopeless. Airplanes still scout the rugged country around Weaver's Needle from time to time, but it is generally conceded that Ruth is dead and the best his relatives hope for now is some clew as to the manner of his death or some trace that may lead to recovery of his body.

Old-timers of the desert believe the elderly prospector was murdered for the map he carried—a map supposed to reveal the location of the Lost Dutchman. His relatives think he may have been overcome by the heat or died of thirst. But the Mexicans and Indians have other explanations. They whisper of evil spirits that haunt the Superstition Mountains and guard its labyrinthine canyons. It is certain death, they declare, for a man to venture alone among those crags and pinnacles in quest of treasure. Particularly so if he is looking for the Lost Dutchman Mine. And that's what Adolf Ruth was looking for.

Whatever may have been the manner of Ruth's death, there is this much to be said in support of the Indian superstition: He does go down in the records as the tenth person who set out to find the Lost Dutchman and found his doom instead. Some of his predecessors, it has now been disclosed, actually found the mine, only to lose their lives before they could profit from their discovery. Others have died in the quest, after years of unrewarded searching.

One of these was J. R. Holmes of Phoenix, an Arizona pioneer and veteran of the Southwestern Indian wars, who died last June, about the time of Ruth's disappearance. Holmes was one of the oldest and most persistent searchers for the Lost Dutchman, and some say it was disappointment at his failure to find it that was mainly responsible for his death. But whether he may or may not be counted as one of the Lost Dutchman victims, his passing contributed one of the most interesting chapters in the history of the mine and the numerous ill-fated attempts to find it. For on his deathbed Holmes told a story, a story he had kept secret for 40 years while he searched year in and year out for the mine. It was a story that old Jacob Walz, the "Dutchman," had told him when old Jake was on his deathbed in the winter of 1891-2. Organization of the mine-hunting expedition now about to set out was the ultimate result of this double deathbed narrative.

When old Jake lay dying he sent his Negro nurse out for a doctor one day, Holmes related, and on the way past his house she stopped in and asked Holmes if he would go over and sit awhile with the sick man.

HOLMES went over and found Walz in a critical condition, but unusually eager to talk. Holmes sat down to listen to him. Presently Walz reached under the bed, got out a small box and displayed its contents. It contained gold nuggets which Holmes estimated to be worth $5000. Walz told him he got the nuggets, with no trouble at all, from a mine in Superstition Mountain, the principal peak of the Superstition range, and that "there is enough free gold there to make millionaires of 20 men."

Walz then told Holmes the story of how he found the rich vein of gold, and Holmes, on his own deathbed 40 years later, retold it substantially as follows:

It was in the early 'seventies and the country was infested with roving bands of Apache Indians. Walz, a German immigrant, had been employed in the old Silver King Mine, near the present mining town of Superior, Arizona. One day he set out to journey on foot to Fort McDowell and in the course of the journey started to make a short cut across the Superstition range. Near Superstition Mountain he was sighted and pursued by Apaches.

Jacob Walz, it happened, had been in the Apache country long enough to know what to do in such emergencies. He dodged behind rocks, firing a shot now and then, keeping the Indians at a distance and retreating slowly. In this way he held them off until nightfall, when he crept away and escaped. He traveled many miles during the night and shook the savages off entirely, but he found at daybreak he had lost his way among the rocks and cliffs and was facing a slow death from thirst. He started walking in a big circle, hoping to come upon some landmark or trail, and eventually he did find some old tracks which he supposed had been made by Indians. Rather than die of thirst, however, he elected to follow the trail, even if it should lead him into an Indian camp.

But the tracks didn't lead him into an Indian camp. They led him to a mine shaft, where three Mexicans were at work. The Mexicans took him in, gave him food and water and allowed him to inspect their mine. This mine was a sight to see. It was a bonanza, with gold nuggets in fabulous quantities. The spectacle fairly crazed old Jacob Walz and aroused all his prospector's greed. He determined then and there to have that mine for himself. So he repaid the Mexicans for their hospitality by shooting all three to death.

WITH this triple murder was begun a long succession of fatalities. Walz dropped the bodies of his victims in a deep ravine, where their skeletons were subsequently found, and went to Phoenix to outfit himself for working the mine. Common sense dictated that he should take a partner into this enterprise, for the hazards of mining alone in the Indian country were too great. This he was loath to do, but he finally compromised by sending back to Germany for his nearest living relative, a nephew. The nephew came and he and Walz made several secret trips to the mine, bringing back thousands of dollars worth of nuggets. But the greed of Jacob Walz again got the better of him, and he murdered his nephew.

This murder took place at a camp near the present Mormon Flat Dam. Walz buried the youth in a shallow grave and years later, when he was dying, remembered its location so precisely that Holmes was able to go directly to the spot. Holmes found the nephew's skeleton, with a bullet hole in the forehead, and took it to the town of Tempe, Arizona, and presented it to a physician. This physician, Dr. Charles Jones, often exhibited the skull with its neat perforation.

Jacob Walz became a recluse after the murder of his nephew and shunned all human companionship. He lived in constant fear of being followed and never went back to his mine over the same trail twice. Often he was followed, but he invariably led his trailers far away from the mine, in the manner of a mother bird decoying enemies from her nest. At a safe distance from the bonanza, he would then allow his pursuers to find him idly prospecting or trying to wash out gold from the sands of some dry river bed.

But a few men did succeed in following Jacob Walz to his mine. The place was located no less than three times after the German got possession of it. On one occasion two soldiers followed Walz to his diggings without allowing him to discover them until they arrived. They walked up on him one day while he was at work, and he promptly shot them dead.

A prospector named John Phipps also located the mine, but before Walz could shoot him he was killed in a cave-in near Four Peaks, not far away, where he had gone to get his tools with which to work the bonanza's vein.

John Deering was another victim. He back-tracked old Walz after one of his trips, found the mine and took out a bag of nuggets. He hurried back to Silver King to get a partner to help him, but while there he went on a spending spree with his bag of nuggets and was killed in a saloon brawl.

From that time on, Walz redoubled his caution. He removed all surface traces of his shaft, put timbers across the entrance and covered these with rocks and soil to conform to the appearance of the surrounding terrain. Then he took a last pouch of nuggets and made his way back to Phoenix by a long and circuitous route.

Back in Phoenix, he became ill. His old Negro nurse took care of him for many weeks, and then came the day when she ran for help and J. R. Holmes came in to sit at his bedside and hear his story. When he died they buried him in the West Jefferson Street Cemetery, where his grave may still be seen. Holmes, incidentally, was buried in the same cemetery this summer—nearly 40 years later.

During the German's life, people spoke of his mysterious mine as the Dutchman. After his death it was referred to as the Lost Dutchman, and by this name it became famous all over the Southwest. So many tales have been told about it that it has almost become a legend, each locality adapting the story to fit its own purposes. It is not uncommon, therefore, to hear of a Lost Dutchman mine in widely separated parts of Arizona, New Mexico and West Texas. But the real Lost Dutchman, if anybody wants to try to find it, is somewhere near Superstition Mountain. The searcher should go first to the picturesque crag now known as Weaver's Needle. This is the major landmark. From there he will have to get along as best he can, for the directions given by Jacob Walz are a bit vague.

After Walz died, Holmes told his story except for those parts bearing on the mine's location, and then he put in 22 solid years trying to find the shaft himself. But he finally gave it up. Walz had left no map, but had tried to give him verbal instructions enough to lead him to the spot. He had mentioned numerous landmarks, but on trying to follow them Holmes found they had been badly jumbled. He finally decided Walz had followed so many different routes to the mine that he had become confused as to landmarks himself. Holmes expressed the opinion the mine never would be found until the timbers Walz put across the entrance had rotted away, allowing the rocks to cave in. This may mean a pretty long wait, for the Arizona air is dry and timbers don't rot very rapidly. Indeed, cliff dweller ruins are found to contain perfectly preserved timbers estimated to be 2000 years old.

IF THE Walz directions prove unavailing, however, there is still another avenue of approach, and it may be a better one. It goes back to the three Mexicans Jake Walz murdered and flung into the ravine. Those Mexicans were employes of one Don Pedro Peralta, whose family had inherited a large land grant, including Superstition Mountain. And this Mexican family did possess a map. It is not known just what further attempts the family made to send workers to the mine and retrieve their lost treasure after it had been seized by Walz. But it is known that Adolf Ruth, who lost his life this summer, was following a trail charted by this same Mexican family.

Ruth, a former Government employe, had done some work in Mexico, and by some chance had rendered a service to this family. Suddenly he hastened back to Washington, closed up his personal affairs there and announced that he was headed for Arizona. He had a map, he said, showing the location of an enormously rich gold mine in the Superstition Mountains. The Mexican family had given it to him, he said, with the explanation that the laws affecting gold mining and fear of death in those evil Superstition Mountains had discouraged them from using it themselves.

Ruth's friends and relatives laughed at his proposed quest for treasure and tried to dissuade him, but Adolf Ruth was convinced he had the key to the mine's location and would not give in. He outfitted himself and set off into the desert, daring even the intensely hot summer in his impatience. That was last June 15.

Alarmed when he did not return within a reasonable time, friends reported the matter to the Sheriff of Maricopa County. They knew Ruth had taken only a small store of provisions and that water holes are scarce and far apart in the Superstition range. Moreover, Ruth was an

So important is this in graphology, as far as I can judge, that I never attempt an analysis of a signature until I have received an impression of some of the physical appearances of the writer. Usually with my first glance at an autograph there appears such a vision, as I choose to call it for lack of better nomenclature. Such vision is usually fragmentary and is primarily related to the peculiarities of the writer rather than to the fundamental traits. It consequently concerns itself with such expressions as the shape of the mouth, the nature of the smile, the kind of eyes and forehead, the manner of walk or the use of the hands. I remember one man who had the roll of a sailor in his walk, wore glasses and had red hair. One girl was fond of dancing and was constantly humming tunes to herself. Another was 'dippy' on the subject of hats and wore head-dress of a nature and appearance entirely different from those worn by other girls.

elderly man and the June temperature in the sun was already around 120 degrees. Not even hardened prospectors undertake such a trip in hot weather. So the alarm over Ruth's absence was well founded. The Sheriff formed a searching party and went out.

The officers found his first night's camp, but from that point there was no trace. The missing man's son, Dr. Erwin C. Ruth, was summoned from Washington and came to Arizona to direct the search. For weeks the quest continued without success.

L. F. PURNELL and Jack Keenan, two young cowboys who had lived a long time in the vicinity and who knew the region well, made the first extensive search of the mountains. These two had first carried Ruth's provisions to the "entrance" to the mountain climb and were to meet him at an appointed time farther on with more provisions. But he had failed to meet them. They supposed he had gone back.

When nothing was heard of him they made another trip to the appointed place and covered the ground thoroughly between that point and the point where they last saw him. Although they were seasoned trailers who had found lost people before, they were able to find no clew in this case. Adolf Ruth had vanished as if he had evaporated into the air. Later they tried unsuccessfully to follow his trail with bloodhounds. Then Deputy Sheriff Jeff Adams and W. A. Barkley, a cattle rancher, conducted a search, likewise fruitless. Indian guides and trailers and finally airplanes were brought into the search, but all failed.

After weeks of this, Dr. Ruth gave up the search and went back to Washington, convinced that his father was dead. His only hope now is that the expedition now organizing will find some trace of the body.

BRINGING THE MUSEUM to the SCHOOLROOM

Miniature Models of Animal Groups in Their Natural Settings Create a New Student Interest.

NEW YORK.

A NEW system of natural history instruction, described by educational authorities as one of the greatest educational advances in years, is being introduced into New York public schools through the Jonas brothers, noted taxidermists, and the Zoological Art Institute of New York.

This system makes it possible to bring the natural history museum, with all its animal groups, natural settings and background illumination literally into the schoolroom, so that students may settle their natural history problems as such problems arise. It makes use of miniature models exeactly duplicating the larger museum groups. Children may not only see the groups and the setting as well as in the museum, but may also handle the models, examine them at close range and rearrange groupings according to habitat, family size or other characteristics.

After some experimentation in Public School No. 14, teachers have pronounced results little short of marvelous.

Louis Jonas, who spent four years in Africa as an associate of Carl Akeley, celebrated big game hunter, is credited with originating the idea. He and his brother, John, have for many years constructed the animal models for the American Museum of Natural History, the Field Museum, the Philadelphia Museum and other such institutions.

OBSERVING the popularity of museums with children and observing also the difficulty teachers encounter in conducting frequent class visits, the Jonas brothers hit upon the scheme for taking the museum to the school. The miniature models were decided upon in view of the obvious impossibility of supplying life-sized models.

Teachers who have taken part in the experiment at Public School No. 14 are enthusiastic over the innovation. To begin with, they assert, pupils take far more interest in the subject when they can see and even handle specimens mounted as they were when living in their native environment. The models, mostly of metal, are far more lifelike than mere photographs. They are made with great care and skill by the same men who hunted the original specimens. In many cases the miniature models not only duplicate the animal groups of the museum, but also the lighting arrangements and native settings.

AFTER a limited experimental course with the models in their school, the pupils were invited to the Jonas studio and a test was held to determine how far they had advanced in their study of natural history since the use of the models was begun. Not only were they able to identify every specimen with ease, but they pointed out various characteristics and habits of each animal and answered questions that ordinarily would have been beyond the depth of children who had studied the subject only from books.

An interesting psychological result of this form of study was the readiness with which small children overcame their fear of animals. Most children fear animals, especially wild animals, whether the beast is a living one or merely the skin of one mounted on a plaster cast in a museum. After their studies with the miniature models, apparently, this fear disappears, for children who were previously very timid took great delight in climbing over the mounted specimens in the Jonas studio. Some put their heads in the lion's mouth and several insisted on riding the zebra.

In many respects the miniature models are superior to museum specimens for study. Handling the models themselves, the pupils get better acquainted with them.

Lure of the Lost Gold Mine in Superstition Mountains

elderly man and the June temperature in the sun was already around 120 degrees. Not even hardened prospectors undertake such a trip in hot weather. So the alarm over Ruth's absence was well founded. The Sheriff formed a searching party and went out. The officers found his first night's camp, but from that point there was no trace. The missing man's son, Dr. Erwin C. Ruth, was summoned from Washington and came to Arizona to direct the search. For weeks the quest continued without success.

L. F. PURNELL and Jack Keenan, two young cowboys who had lived a long time in the vicinity and who knew the region well, made the first extensive search of the mountains. These two had first carried Ruth's provisions to the "entrance" to the mountain climb and were to meet him at an appointed time farther on with more provisions. But he had failed to meet them. They supposed he had gone back.

When nothing was heard of him they made another trip to the appointed place and covered the ground thoroughly between that point and the point where they last saw him. Although they were seasoned trailers who had found lost people before, they were able to find no clew in this case. Adolf Ruth had vanished as if he had evaporated into the air. Later they tried unsuccessfully to follow his trail with bloodhounds. Then Deputy Sheriff Jeff Adams and W. A. Barkley, a cattle rancher, conducted a search, likewise fruitless. Indian guides and trailers and finally airplanes were brought into the search, but all failed.

After weeks of this, Dr. Ruth gave up the search and went back to Washington, convinced that his father was dead. His only hope now is that the expedition now organizing will find some trace of the body.

The Sheriff and other officers declare Adolf Ruth probably was murdered by thieves who hoped to steal the map he carried. Some suggest that he may have reached the mine itself and was murdered there by someone who had followed him. The murder theory is gaining credence because it seems reasonable to suppose that if Ruth had died of natural causes or as the result of an accident his body and some of his effects would have been found.

PORTRAIT BY MANET

THIS portrait, "The Reader," by Manet, is the seventh of a series of masterpieces which are being prominently displayed at the City Art Museum by Director Meyric Rogers. Each week one of the museum's rarest treasures is placed in a special setting to the left of the entrance. Each masterpiece will be reproduced in the Sunday Magazine of the Post-Dispatch, with an account by museum authorities of its history. The complete series will serve as an excellent guide to the most precious possessions of the city's museum. The story of the portrait follows:

It seems a little strange to us after contemplating the various "isms" of modern art that this soberly toned, quietly composed picture should have been, with other works by the same master, the center of a storm of violent criticism and dissension in the art circles of the 1860's. But conventional as it now appears, it represented a notable departure in painting and Manet, although ably supported by critics like Zola and Duret, found himself frequently excluded from the academic exhibitions. In fact, this very painting was one of a group for which the artist was forced to erect his own wooden exhibition building following the rejection of his work by the Universal Exhibition of 1867. With it were shown "Le Dejeuner sur l'Herbe," "Olympia" and other masterpieces and the exhibit was the most important collection of Manet's work to be assembled until after his death.

In the catalogue of this exhibition the artist stated in part: "M. Manet has always recognized talent wherever it appeared and claims neither to upset an old tradition nor to create a new one. He has always sought to be himself and not someone else. Nowadays the artist does not say: 'Come and see faultless work,' but 'Come and see sincere work.' "

In these words is found an important key to the understanding of "The Reader." Its broad, simple tones, its summary, almost sketchy indications of modeling, are the very personal expressions of an artist who has thrown off the shackles of conventional studio lighting and academic "finish" to present a living personage in natural, unaffected light.

The subject, an elderly, bearded man, is shown in an attitude suggestive of concentration. There is a strong feeling of mobility in the broadly painted face, the color and form of which are accented by contrast with the flat somber grays and gray browns of a summarily rendered coat and background. In both the face and the vigorously drawn hand the effect of daylight on flesh is heightened by modelling with gray shadows. In its living repose, its quiet force and its broad, sure handling "The Reader" represents the mature phase of Manet's work. It was probably executed in the years 1863-65, a period of brilliant creative activity on Manet's part.

HOURTICQ says: "Manet's work seems essentially to be an endeavor to substitute in painting the changing light of day for the artificial, manipulated light of the study." In the struggle against artficiality which this involved, Manet cast out the golden light of the old masters, the warm harmonies handed down from the Venetians, to paint in bold contrasts of black and broad flat grays. To make more complete the break with tradition, he rejected also the lyrical and historical subjects of romanticism and substituted for them the living characters which he found upon the boulevards and in the cafes of the Paris of his own day. And working thus, with free, vibrant strokes he imparted to such pictures as "The Reader" a certain effect of atmosphere and verity of life and movement not before present in painting.

TOY TALKIES

by Walter Quermann

THE HUNT FOR JACK RABBIT.

This is a game that can be played by any child. All that is needed are scissors, paste and some cardboard. The directions for playing "Toy Talkies" are given at the bottom of the game.

THE PLAYERS

BILL BUMBLE BEE—A very tired old man who has worked hard all summer.
MR. AND MRS. MALLARD—Who are on their way to their summer home.

THE PLAY BEGINS

Cold weather is coming and all the wild folk are making preparations for it. Most of the birds have either gone or are going to their winter homes down south. But Bill Bumble Bee is going to stay. He has been collecting honey all summer so he will have something to eat when all the flowers are dead. He is just returning from his last trip after honey as the play begins.

There is a loud buzzing sound. Then Bill Bumble Bee is drawn on the stage.

BILL BUMBLE BEE—Oh, hum, I guess I will finish the rest of the trip on foot. My wings ain't what they used to be, been working them pretty hard all summer. (There is a lot of quack, quack, quacks and Bill Bumble Bee stops—he is in front of the cornfield on the right side of the stage.)

BILL BUMBLE BEE—What's that? (Mr. and Mrs. Mallard come on the stage and pass in front of Bill Bumble Bee, saying quack, quack, quack.)

BILL BUMBLE BEE—Hey! What's your hurry? (Mr. and Mrs. Mallard stop, they are in front of the big tree.)

MR. MALLARD—We must hurry or it will get cold before we get to our winter home.

BILL BUMBLE BEE—Why don't you stay here? You got nice, warm feathers.

MR. MALLARD—Yes, but all the lakes and streams freeze and there will be no water. So how could we swim?

BILL BUMBLE BEE—But your webbed feet ought to make excellent snow shoes.

MR. MALLARD—Yes, but poor ice skates. So we will have to hurry—good-by. (Mr. and Mrs. Mallard leave stage.)

BILL BUMBLE BEE—Good-by.

BILL BUMBLE BEE—Hello, Sherlock.

SHERLOCK—I'm hunting for Jack Rabbit. See him?

BILL BUMBLE BEE—No, I thought you was after Mr. and Mrs. Mallard?

SHERLOCK HOUND—I would be if I had an airplane.

BILL BUMBLE BEE—Ha! ha! Perhaps you should get a motorcycle to hunt Jack Rabbit.

SHERLOCK HOUND—None of your nonsense. (He is drawn off stage.)

BILL BUMBLE BEE—Hey! Have you gone crazy? Sherlock Hound just passed a moment ago. You better go the other way.

JACK RABBIT—Crazy, huh? I'm smart. Instead of Sherlock Hound trailing me, I'm going to trail him. It is more important that I stay in back of him than in front of him. You never heard of a hound backing up?

(Jack Rabbit leaves stage.)

BILL BUMBLE BEE—Don't the fool know that a hound can turn around and come back? Ha! ha! Never heard of a hound backing up? Ha! ha! ha!

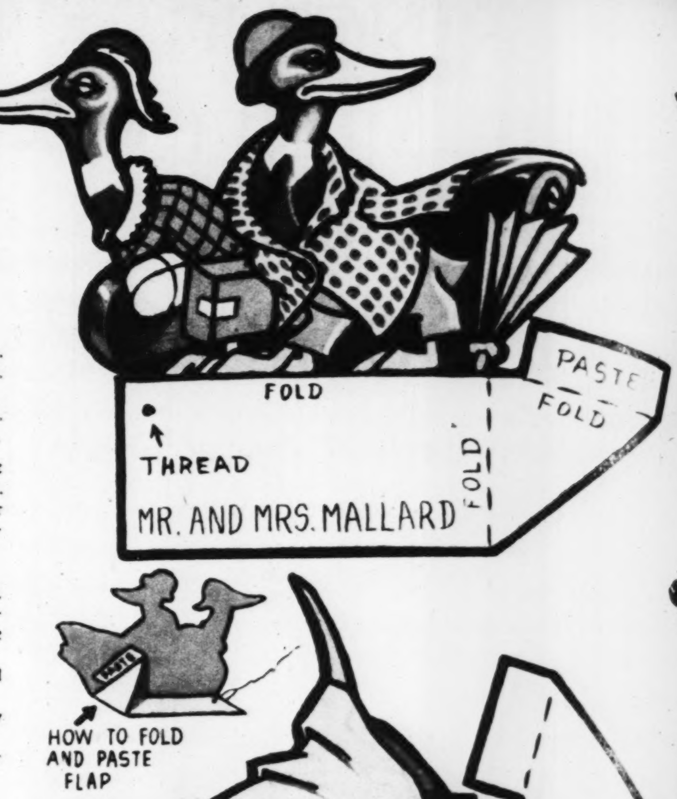
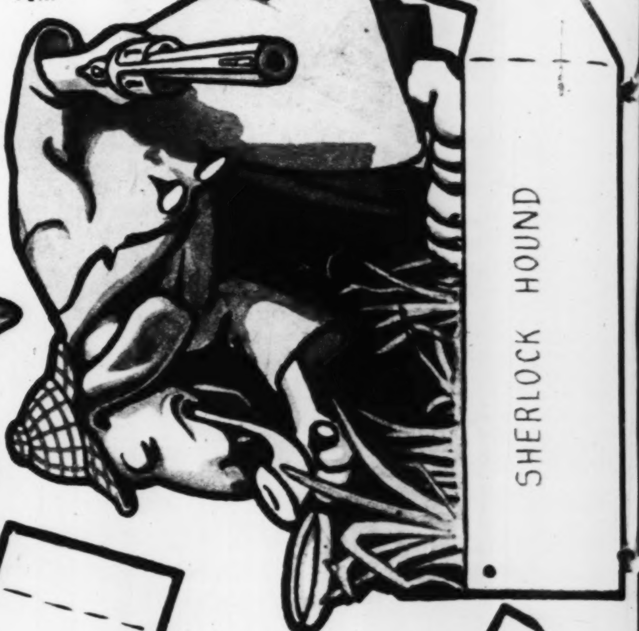
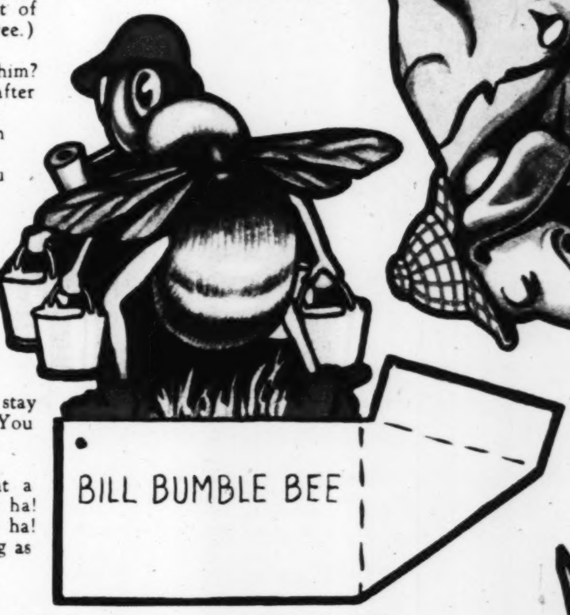
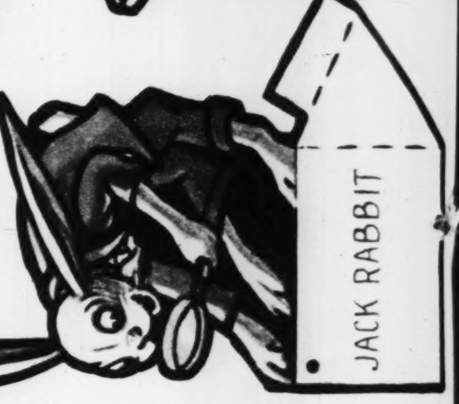
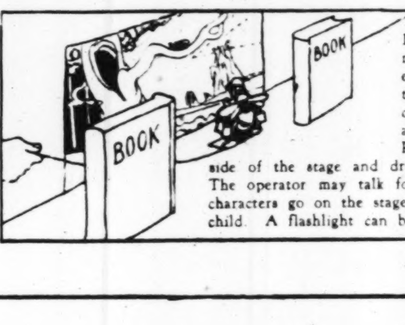
CURTAIN.











DIRECTIONS: Cut out back-drop and pin it on a wall near the floor. Next, take two books and stand them at each end and about 5 inches in front of back-drop. Then take characters, cut them out, and paste them on thin cardboard, folding flap at bottom so they will lean back a little. Attach a piece of thread about 15 inches long. Place the characters back of the book on the right hand side of the stage and draw them on the stage with thread as they are needed. The operator may talk for the characters, changing his or her voice as different characters go on the stage, or each character's part may be spoken by a different child. A flashlight can be used as a spotlight.

MAURICE CHEVALIER.

A different movie star will make his or her appearance in this space every week. Accompanying will be three costumes this particular player wore in various roles he has played on the screen.

Cut out the player and paste on cardboard. Then cut out the costumes. Now dress the star in his proper outfits, being careful to assemble each costume correctly.

This week's star is Maurice Chevalier. The three sets of costumes shown here were worn by him in these roles in the following movies:

Maurice Marny in "Innocents of Paris," Niki in "The Smiling Lieutenant" and Albert in "Playboy of Paris."

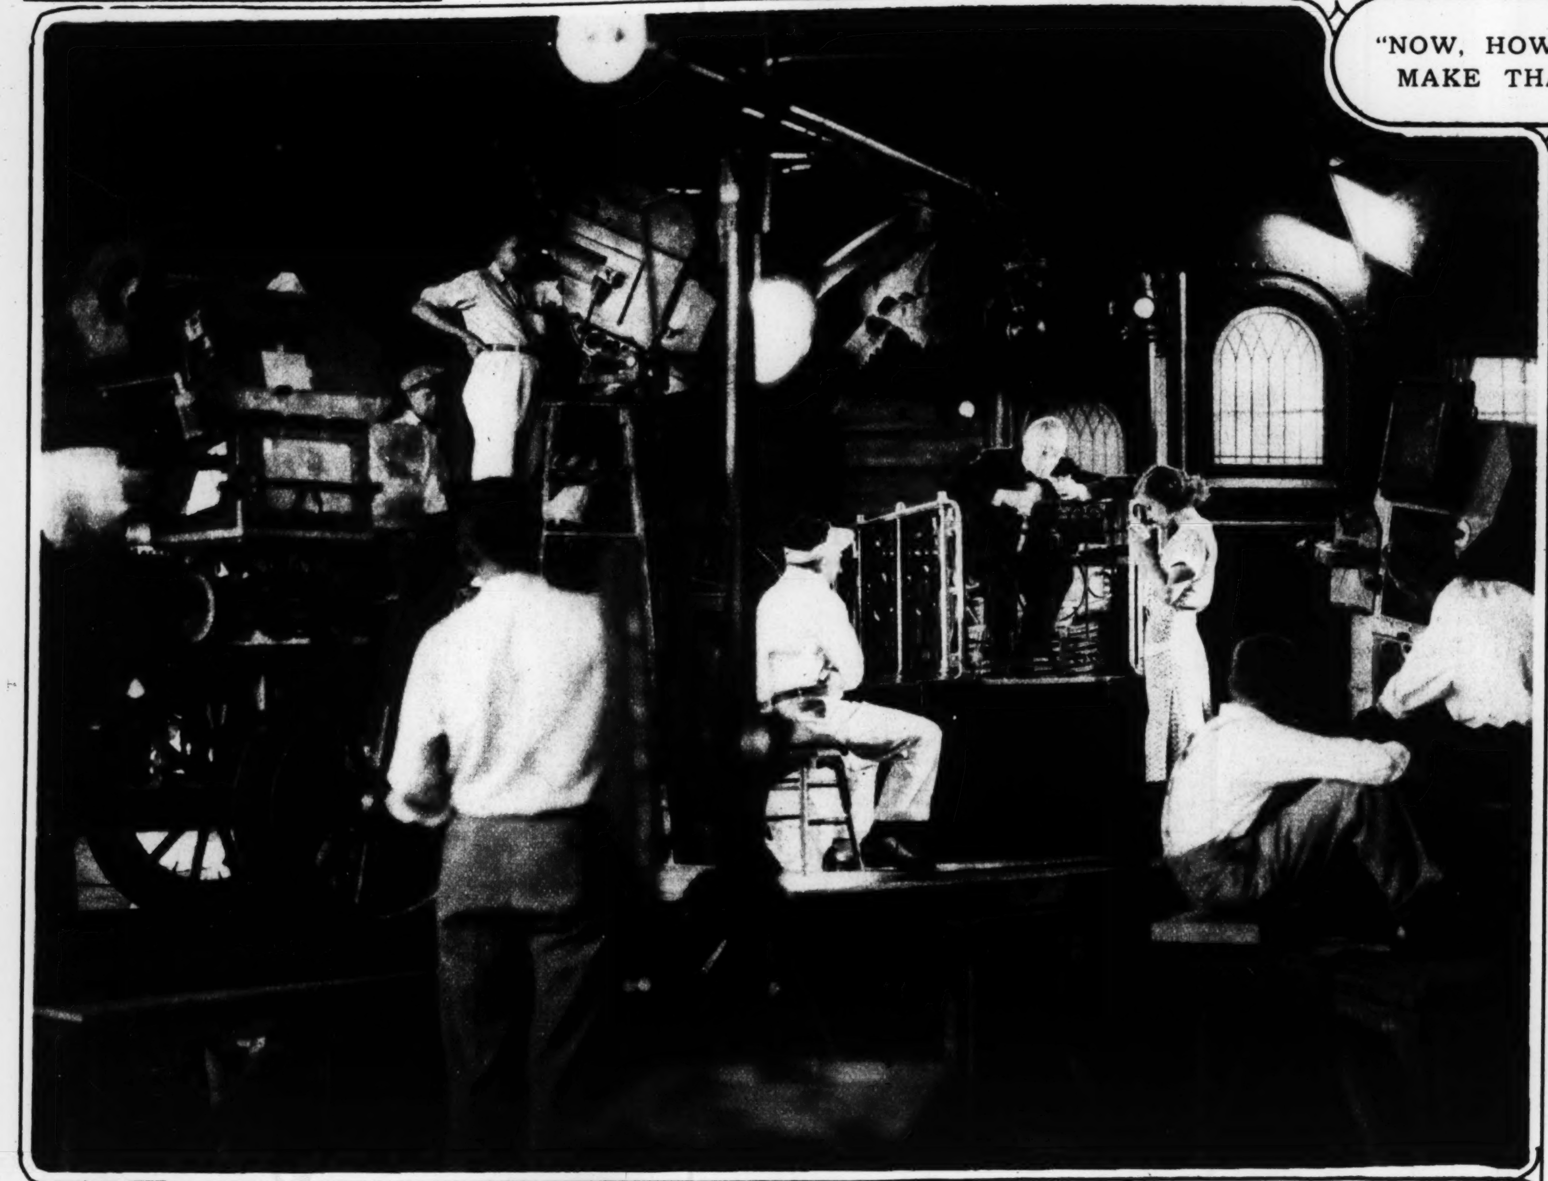
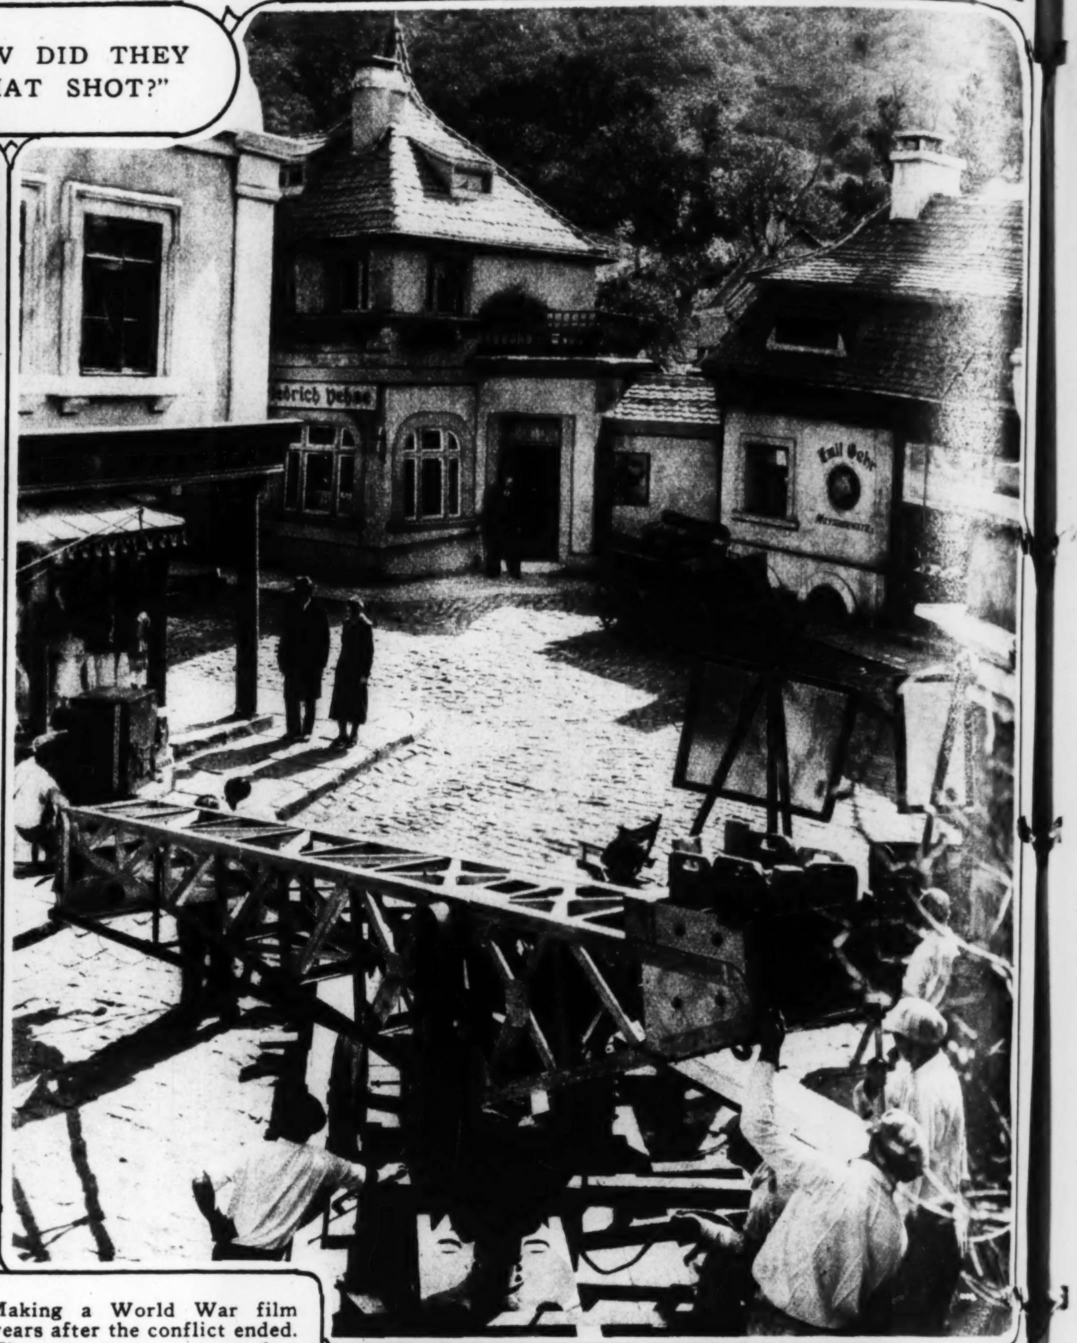
"NOW, HOW DID THEY MAKE THAT SHOT?"



All that the spectators saw on the screen in the movie theater was a man on the rear platform of a Pullman, talking to a girl standing on the track. It wasn't real, however, so far as the setting was concerned. Here is the way the scene was "shot" in the studio.



Making a World War film years after the conflict ended. The street was constructed at the foot of a California hill, to show a German village in the days following the armistice.

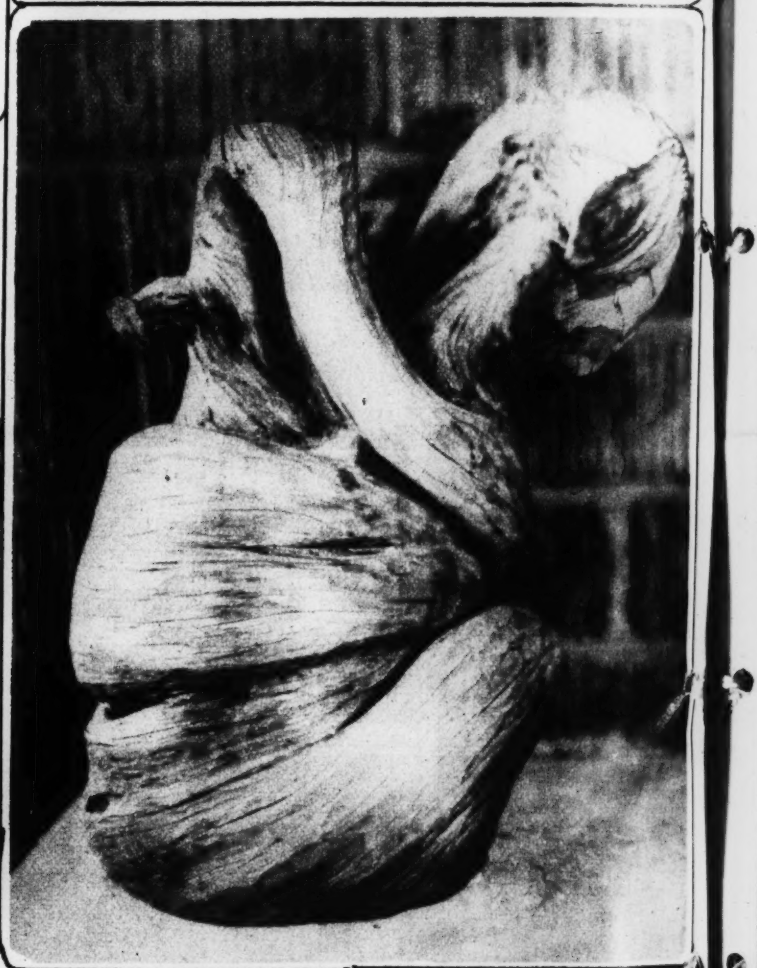
ANOTHER PAIR OF HOLLYWOOD HONEYMOONERS—Dorothy Mackaill and her husband, Neil Albert Miller, former sugar plantation manager, but now a radio singer, photographed just after airplane elopement to Arizona and a quick flight back to Hollywood.



WHAT THE WIND CAN DO TO A TREE TRUNK—Part of a juniper found growing out of a crack of lava ash in Idaho. For many years the wind, blowing mostly in one direction, had exerted its pressure first upon the sapling, then upon the growing tree, always causing it to twist around and around a little more until it was found in this condition by Dr. G. W. Remsburg of Independence, Mo.

THE ELEVATOR'S NOT RUNNING-- GOTTA RUN DOWN-- COME AND HELP ME--- I WANNA RAISE THAT SCAFFOLD--HURRY!
YOU'RE TOO LATE!
OOOOH! TH-THANK GOODNESS I'M SAFE! BUT THERE GOES A BUCKET OF PAINT!
GOLLY, FOLKS, I'M AWFULLY SORRY ABOUT THAT PAINT BUCKET--- BUT, YOU SEE, I ACCIDENTALLY SLIPPED ON THAT SCAFFOLD WHEN I FELL!
OH, ELLA--ARE YOU ALL RIGHT? GOSH I'M SHAKING LIKE A FLIVVER FENDER!
I'M ALL RIGHT, TOMMY!
NO WONDER YOU WERE FRIGHTENED! YOU SAY THE JANITOR TOLD YOU I'D BEEN KILLED?
YEAH! HE SAID HE SAW THE WHOLE THING FROM A WINDOW! I'M GOING UP AND TEACH THAT BIRD NOT TO LIE TO PEOPLE!
NEXT TIME, GET THINGS STRAIGHT! DON'T GO TELLING A FELLOW HIS GIRL'S BEEN KILLED!
I DIDN'T SAY THAT, YOU BIG WHOOZIS! I SAID THAT WHEN THEY WERE RAISING THE SCAFFOLD, YOUR GIRL FRIEND FELL AND KICKED THE BUCKET!

IT SEEMS IMPOSSIBLE THAT OF ALL THE INVITATIONS I SENT OUT THAT AT LEAST ONE OF THE INVITED GUESTS WOULD HAVE SHOWN UP - ARE YOU SURE YOU MAILED THEM?
MAGGIE - PLEASE BELIEVE ME - I MAILED THEM -
HERE'S ONE OF THE INVITATIONS THAT WUZ LEFT OVER - LET'S SEE WHAT IT SAYS - HUH! JUST SAYS TO SHOW UP ON SUNDAY EVENIN'. BUT IT DOESN'T GIVE ANY DATE -
WELL - ITS ALL OVER - SO THE SOONER - MAGGIE AN' I QUIT THINKIN' ABOUT IT THE BETTER -
WELL - THANK GOODNESS - THIS LOCATION IS FINISHED - PUT UP YOUR PROPS AN' LET'S GIT BACK TO THE STUDIO -
I'M GLAD THIS IS THE LAST TIME I'VE GOT TO CARRY THIS LAMP-POST AROUND - WHAT'S ALL THAT? BY GOLLY! LETTERS!
KIN YOU BEAT THAT? SOME GUY MUST'A THOUGHT THAT THIS WUZ A REAL MAIL BOX -
THAT'S RIGHT - PUT 'EM IN A REAL MAIL BOX -
THEY MUST BE IMPORTANT - THEY ALL HAVE SPECIAL DELIVERY STAMPS ON THEM -
JUST THINK - IT WAS A WEEK AGO TO-NIGHT THAT YOU MAILED THOSE INVITATIONS AND WE NEVER HEARD FROM A SOUL -
WELL - LETS FORGIT IT - THERE'S THE DOOR-BELL -
AH - MR. JIGGS! HERE WE ARE -
WE GOT THE SPECIAL DELIVERY LETTERS -
WHAT DO YOU SUPPOSE HE'S DRESSED LIKE THAT FOR?
HE LOOKS AS THOUGH HE DIDN'T EXPECT US -
HURRY - THEY ALL ARRIVED - THAT PROVES I MAILED THE INVITATIONS -
YES - YOU IDIOT DON'T LIE TO ME - I'LL BET YOU JUST MAILED THEM YESTERDAY -
ORDER SOME THINGS FROM THE STORE - TELL THEM TO RUSH IT THIS IS TERRIBLE -
YES - SEND OVER SOME HOT-DOGS - ONIONS - CORNED BEEF - PIG'S FEET - STEWED PRUNES - PEANUTS CRACKERS - POP-CORN GINGER-SNAPS AN' HURRY UP

THEN THE REASON MY DOUGHNUTS WERE SO LIGHT WAS BECAUSE YOU PUT SOMETHING INTO THE DOUGH?
YES— I HAVE INVENTED A GAS WHICH IS ONE MILLION TIMES LIGHTER THAN AIR
I MASHED UP A FEW OF THESE GAS TABLETS AND MIXED THEM INTO YOUR DOUGH— THE HEAT RELEASED THE GAS AND THEY WENT UP TO THE CEILING
THE GAS ISN'T POISON AND IF THE DOUGHNUTS TASTE OKAY WE CAN SELL THE STUFF FOR BAKING-POWDER— TAKE A BITE
POP
HAW! HAW! I GUESS THE BAKING-POWDER IS OUT

I NEED A NEW HAT- SO I HAD THIS ONE SENT ON APPROVAL-
I CAN'T AFFORD IT. MY SALARY HAS BEEN CUT TEN PER CENT
YES, BUT DON'T YOU SEE THAT THIS HAT HAS BEEN REDUCED TWENTY PER CENT-
WAS $10. NOW $8.

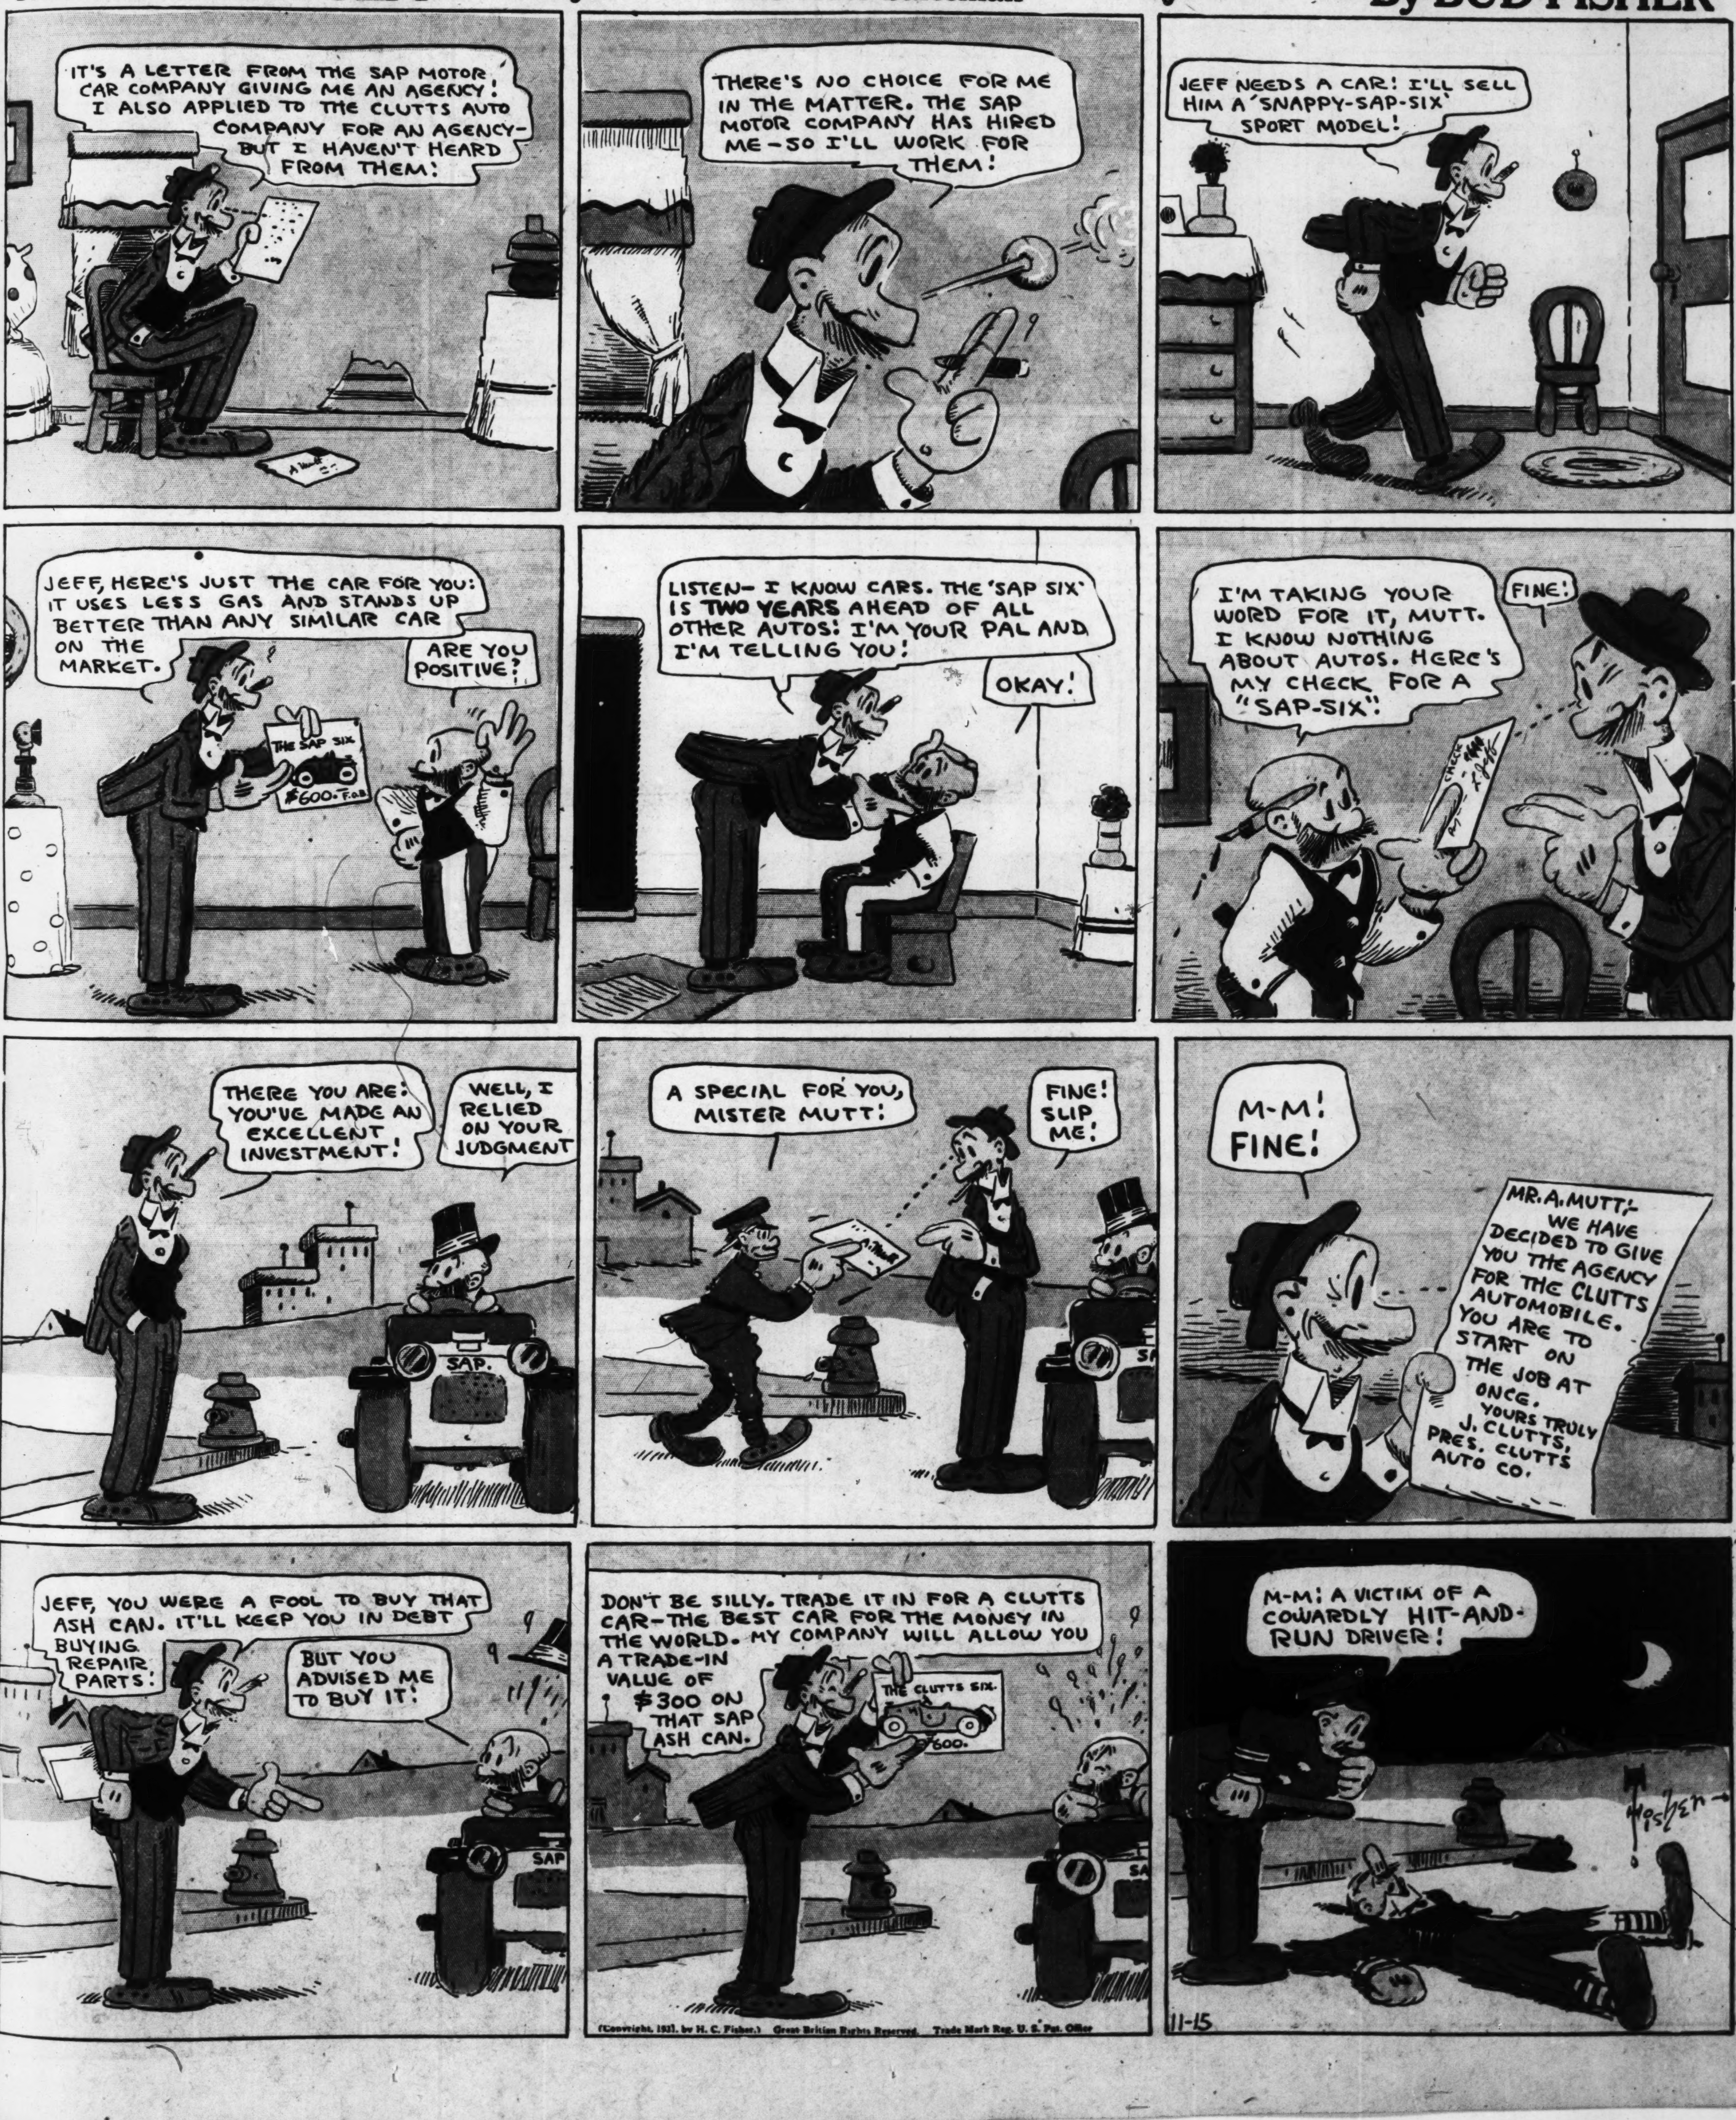
MUTT AND JEFF ◆ The Auto Salesman ◆ By BUD FISHER



IT'S A LETTER FROM THE SAP MOTOR CAR COMPANY GIVING ME AN AGENCY! I ALSO APPLIED TO THE CLUTTS AUTO COMPANY FOR AN AGENCY- BUT I HAVEN'T HEARD FROM THEM!
THERE'S NO CHOICE FOR ME IN THE MATTER. THE SAP MOTOR COMPANY HAS HIRED ME-SO I'LL WORK FOR THEM!
JEFF NEEDS A CAR! I'LL SELL HIM A 'SNAPPY-SAP-SIX' SPORT MODEL!
JEFF, HERE'S JUST THE CAR FOR YOU: IT USES LESS GAS AND STANDS UP BETTER THAN ANY SIMILAR CAR ON THE MARKET.
ARE YOU POSITIVE?
THE SAP SIX
$600. F.O.B.
LISTEN- I KNOW CARS. THE 'SAP SIX' IS TWO YEARS AHEAD OF ALL OTHER AUTOS: I'M YOUR PAL AND I'M TELLING YOU!
OKAY!
I'M TAKING YOUR WORD FOR IT, MUTT. I KNOW NOTHING ABOUT AUTOS. HERE'S MY CHECK FOR A "SAP-SIX".
FINE!
THERE YOU ARE: YOU'VE MADE AN EXCELLENT INVESTMENT!
WELL, I RELIED ON YOUR JUDGMENT
SAP.
A SPECIAL FOR YOU, MISTER MUTT!
FINE! SLIP ME!
M-M! FINE!
MR. A. MUTT;- WE HAVE DECIDED TO GIVE YOU THE AGENCY FOR THE CLUTTS AUTOMOBILE. YOU ARE TO START ON THE JOB AT ONCE. YOURS TRULY J. CLUTTS, PRES. CLUTTS AUTO CO.
JEFF, YOU WERE A FOOL TO BUY THAT ASH CAN. IT'LL KEEP YOU IN DEBT BUYING REPAIR PARTS!
BUT YOU ADVISED ME TO BUY IT!
SAP
DON'T BE SILLY. TRADE IT IN FOR A CLUTTS CAR-THE BEST CAR FOR THE MONEY IN THE WORLD. MY COMPANY WILL ALLOW YOU A TRADE-IN VALUE OF $300 ON THAT SAP ASH CAN.
THE CLUTTS SIX.
M-M! A VICTIM OF A COWARDLY HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER!

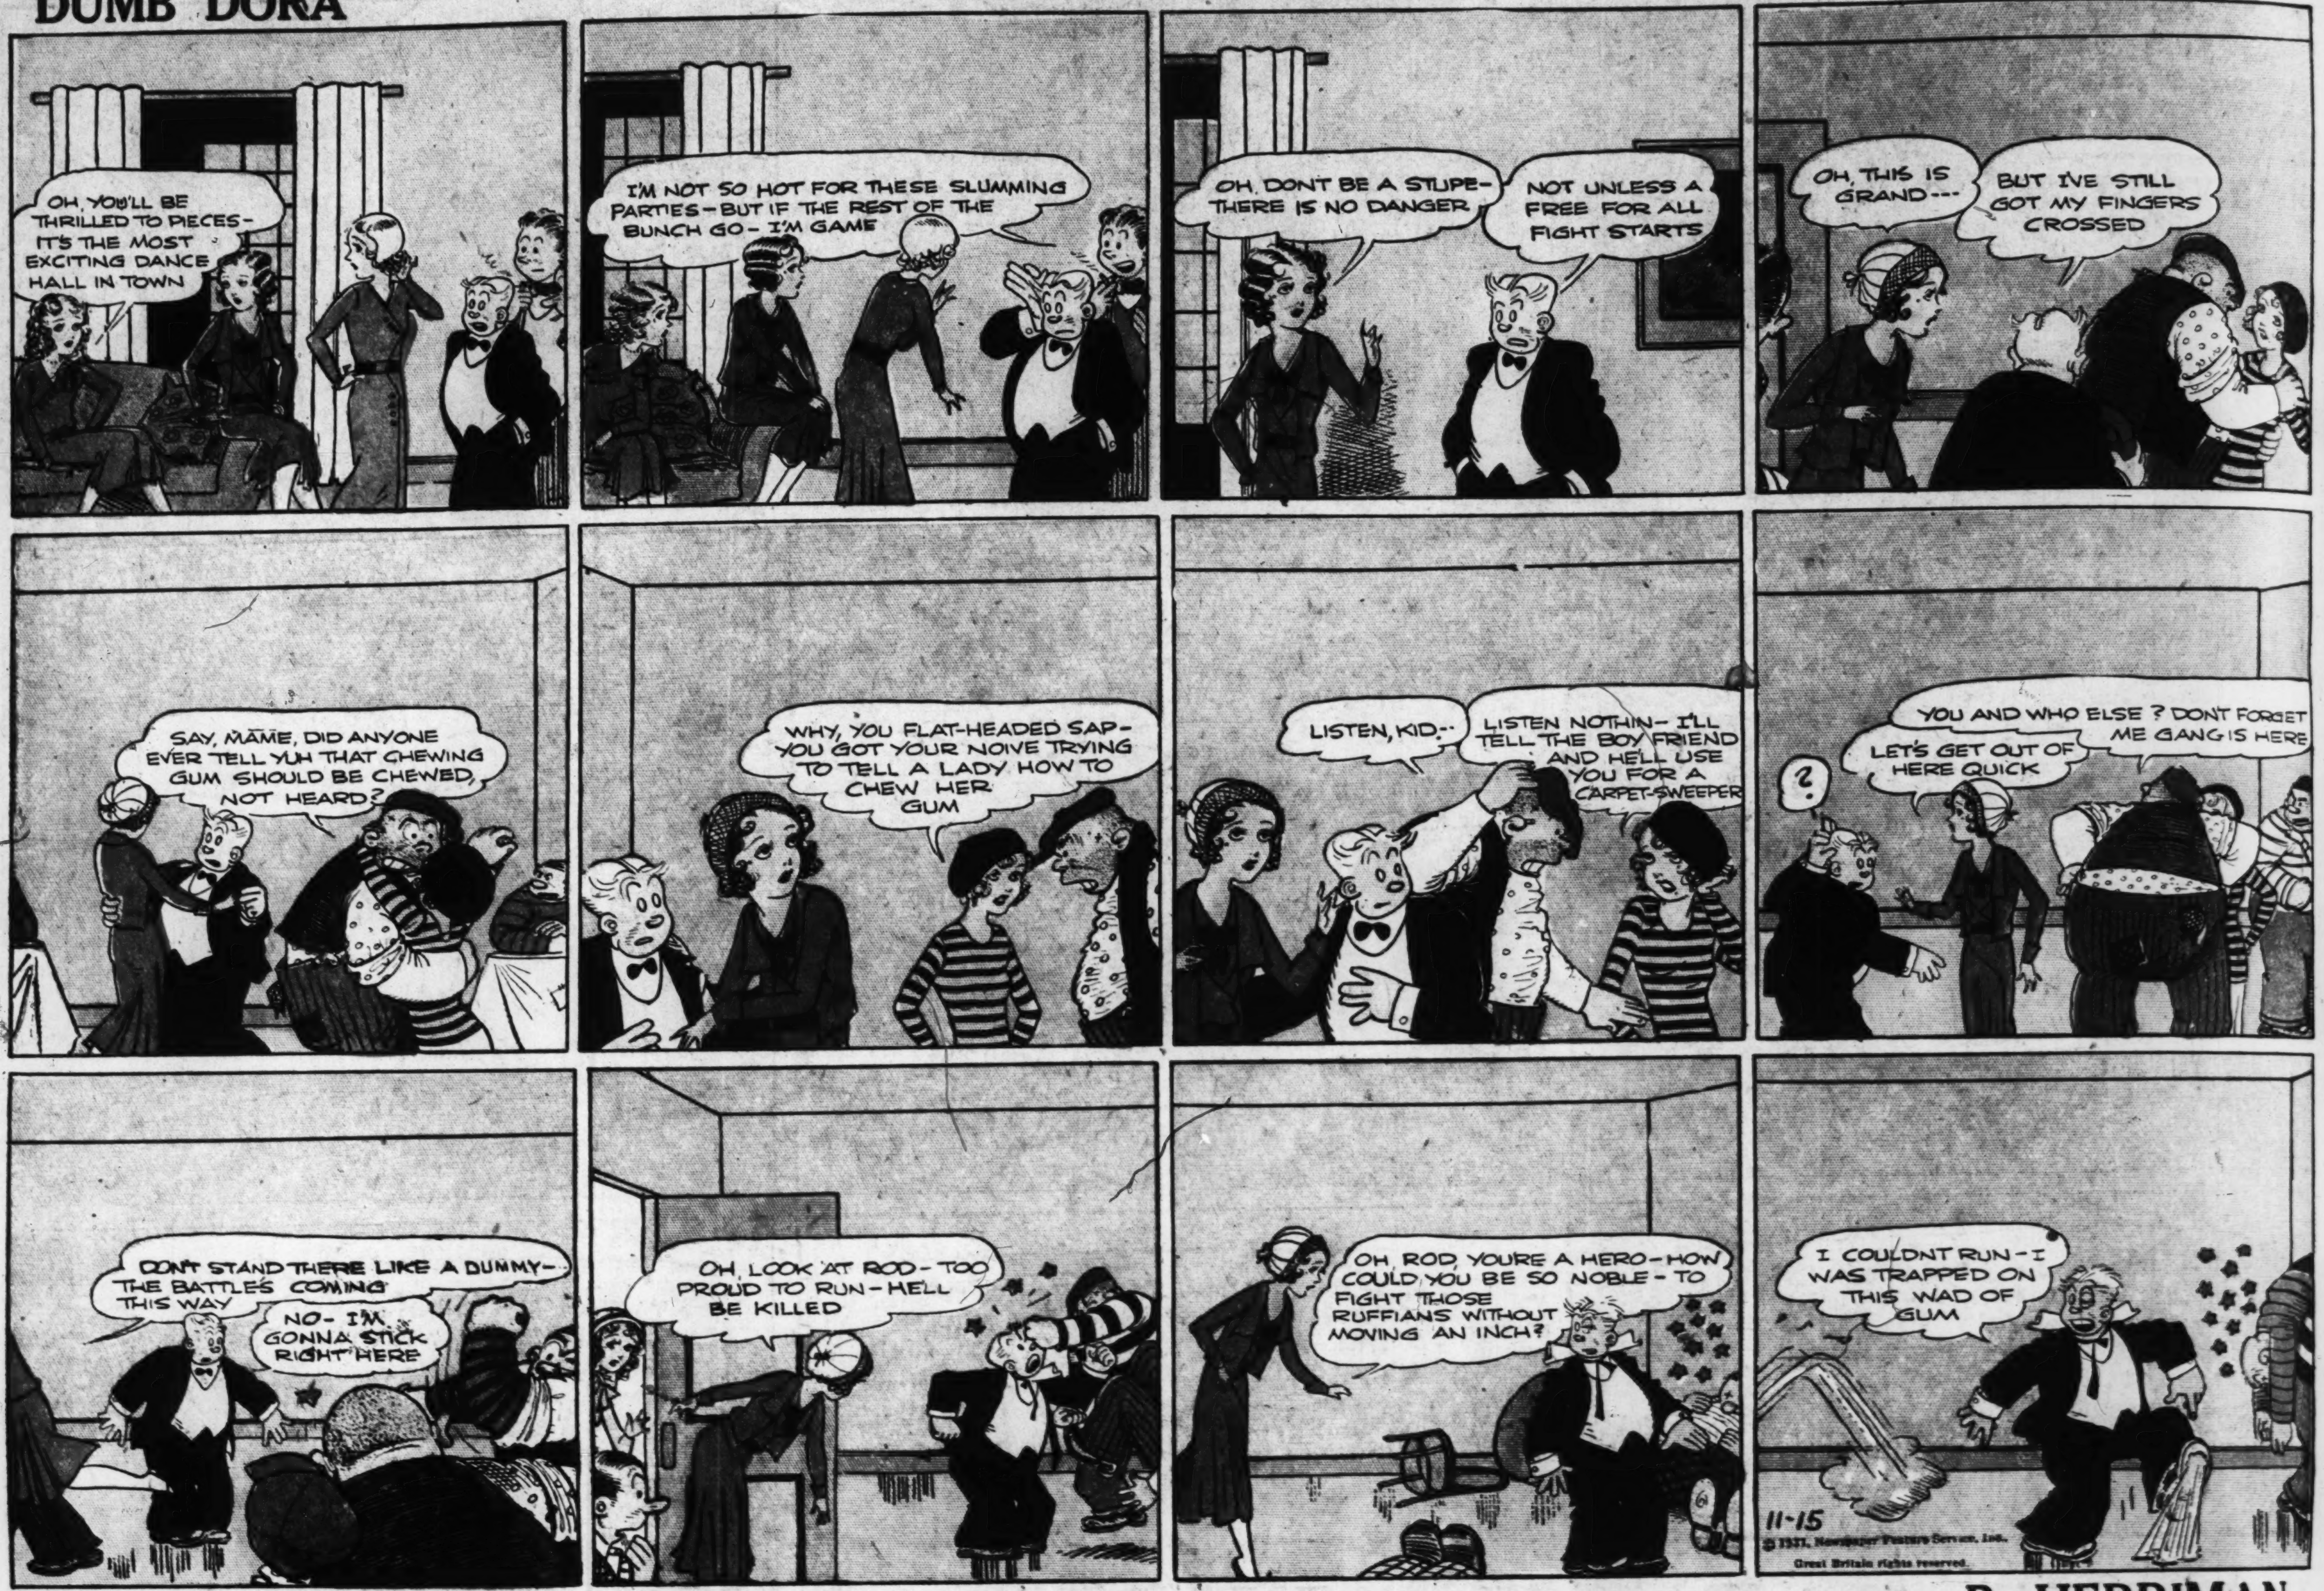
By PAUL FUNG



OH, YOU'LL BE THRILLED TO PIECES– IT'S THE MOST EXCITING DANCE HALL IN TOWN
I'M NOT SO HOT FOR THESE SLUMMING PARTIES–BUT IF THE REST OF THE BUNCH GO– I'M GAME
OH, DONT BE A STUPE– THERE IS NO DANGER
NOT UNLESS A FREE FOR ALL FIGHT STARTS
OH, THIS IS GRAND---
BUT I'VE STILL GOT MY FINGERS CROSSED
SAY, MAME, DID ANYONE EVER TELL YUH THAT CHEWING GUM SHOULD BE CHEWED, NOT HEARD?
WHY, YOU FLAT-HEADED SAP– YOU GOT YOUR NOIVE TRYING TO TELL A LADY HOW TO CHEW HER GUM
LISTEN, KID,--
LISTEN NOTHIN– I'LL TELL THE BOY FRIEND AND HE'LL USE YOU FOR A CARPET-SWEEPER
LET'S GET OUT OF HERE QUICK
DON'T STAND THERE LIKE A DUMMY– THE BATTLE'S COMING THIS WAY
NO– I'M GONNA STICK RIGHT HERE
OH, LOOK AT ROD– TOO PROUD TO RUN–HE'LL BE KILLED
OH, ROD, YOU'RE A HERO–HOW COULD YOU BE SO NOBLE– TO FIGHT THOSE RUFFIANS WITHOUT MOVING AN INCH?
I COULDNT RUN–I WAS TRAPPED ON THIS WAD OF GUM
